Reagan's Tax Shift Blocked

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— A lone Republican and a dozen Democrats blocked by only one vote today Senate passage of a key second half of Gov. Ronald Reagan's $1 billion election-year tax shift program.

Approval by the Senate is tantamount to final passage.

But Democratic leaders told newmen they foresaw no swift break in the impasse, which shaped up as a carbon copy replay of the state budget fight earlier in the month except there is not the same element of urgency.

SINGLE VOTE

Republican Sen. Clark Bradley of San Jose teamed up with 12 Democrats Tuesday night in denying by a single vote passage of the Reagan administration-sponsored bill which distributes property tax relief.

The bill was kept alive, however, by the proponents receiving premission to reconsider the rejection today. The vote actually occurred on a technical provision allowing the program to take immediate effect and not on the bill itself.

But Sen. Robert Lagomarsino, the legislation's Senate sponsor, told newsmen late in the morning that he wouldn't seek further action "until we have the votes or until we're awful sure we don't."

It received 26 favorable to 13 against, one short of the minimum 27 needed for passage. Seven Democrats broke ranks to vote for the bill.

Only seven hours earlier, the Senate voted 23-14 approval to a companion bill in the two-measure package which raises tax relief by shifting more emphasis to business-oriented levies and increases the sales and income taxes. It needed only 21 votes.

"MORAL VICTORY"

Democratic caucus chairman Mervyn Dymally of Los Angeles said rejection of the second bill represented a "moral" victory for Democrats. They had protested the program failed to provide enough relief for low income Californians and did nothing to prevent a threatened $309 million tax increase next year.

Assemblyman William Bagley, R-San Rafael, legislative architect of the proposal, said he foresaw no potential areas for compromise because Democrats hadn't offered to negotiate.

Bradley, who has established a reputation as a conservative and independent Republican, in a floor speech attacked the program's proposed increase in the sales tax from five to a record six cents on the dollar.

Senate Democratic leader George Moscone warned that the massive tax reshuffle would "inevitably" cost Californians a tax increase next year to finance it. He forecast it at $300 million.

Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, Senate manager of the legislation, refused to agree that a tax increase was inevitable next year. He said

CREEK WORK — This is how the first section of Phase 3A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project appeared today as workmen prepared the canal for a layer of gravel. The Army said the gravel must be laid today if the contractor J B and C Co. is to meet the construction schedule.

COUNTY DISAGREES

Chief Insists Project On Schedule

Construction of Phase 3A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project running through the College of Marin is proceeding on schedule despite county claims to the contrary, the project's superintendent said yesterday.

The superintendent, Ronald D. Price of J B and C Co., said the controversial concrete canal will be completed by Oct. 14 and access roads parallelling the creek will be paved by the Oct. 29 deadline.

Price made his comments as rumors continued to circulate among county officials and contractors that the 36-day-old project is already 28 days behind its timetable.

Donald R. Frost, county public works director, last week told the county board of supervisors construction was four weeks behind. The alarmed supervisors immediately fired off a letter of concern to the Army Corps of Engineers, which had contracted with the Scottsdale, Ariz., firm for the $1,333,333 job after the county guaranteed rights-of-way.

Frost said yesterday the contractor is only now beginning the main excavation of a small section of creek bed near the College Avenue bridge, Kentfield. He blamed the delay on the contractor's inexperience in rerouting water from the creek.

Price countered that his company's method of "de-watering" is not commonly usedb y contractors and therefore not widely understood.

"Some of our methods may appear unorthodox to other contractors, but they work," he said. "The method we are using has cut our cost about $100,000."

The Arizona firm bid $500,000 less than any other bidder for the job.

Rather than dry the entire creek by the installation and continued operation of heavy duty pumps, Price said his firm is drying the creek in sections as construction proceeds.

Phase 3A requires that the contractor this year complete the flood control channel from the College Avenue Bridge to a point 600 feet upstream of Laurel Avenue in Kentfield. Next year, a second phase will continue to a point 200 feet downstream from the Ross Post Office.

Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers said county officials charging the contractor with delays "don't know what they are talking about."

"If the contractor begins laying filter blankets (gravel) today, I will consider the contractor to be on schedule," he said.

"What they (county officials) are worried about is whether the contractor's schedule is approved," Roberts said adding that he would approve the schedule when the ditch's gravel base is laid.

"The schedule has check points which I will be checking as work progresses. I'm not going to let it (the project) fall behind," he concluded.

But the Army's optimistic view is not shared by either Dale A. Fleming, College of Ma-

Hawks, Doves Vie In Israel Truce Stand

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli cabinet split between hawks and doves widened today, and the hawkish Gahal Party threatened to leave the government if Israel replies affirmatively to U.S. peace proposals. Premier Golda Meir appealed to the Gahal leaders not to precipitate a government crisis at this critical time.

While various ministers began a series of daylong meetings with the Gahal members of the Knesset (Parliament), the battle along the Suez Canal raged for the 69th consecutive day. There were artillery duels which wounded one Israeli soldier and new Israeli airstrikes against Egypt's canal positions.

Israeli jets also swept across the Jordan River at noon and blasted three Arab guerrilla bases south of Jarash in northern Jordan as reprisal for guerrilla attacks, a spokesman said in Tel Aviv. The bases were 15 to 25 miles inside Jordan.

The rift in the Arab world created by Jordan's and Egypt's acceptance of U.S. proposals for a three-month cease-fire deepened and the Sudan joined Egypt in banning broadcasts by the Arab guerrillas who have vowed there will

Dominican Resident Emerges Pet Victor

By MARY LEYDECKER

A San Rafael insurance man finally cleared official hurdles last night and won a two-year battle to keep a pony and horse at his home in the plush Dominican area. (Other planning commission stories, page 8.)

The San Rafael Planning Commission granted Edward K. Wachsman — who came to last night's meeting accompanied by an entourage including a veterinarian, psychiatrist, a doctor, several long-haired youths and a Great Dane — a permit for the animals for one year.

Wachsman, of 50 Palm Avenue, who admitted at the outset he never rides horses, won the somewhat unexpected victory after a long feud with some of his neighbors and San Rafael officials.

After complaints about odor, noise and flies from the neighbors, Wachsman lost his animal permit in 1968. Although he said he was assured by city officials that if he met certain conditions, he could keep them, he was convicted in Marin Municipal Court in 1969 of keeping the animals without a permit.

Recently, the city council adopted a new ordinance concerning animals, and Wachsman was the first person to apply for a permit from Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

Hotchner turned him down, he said last night, because he felt after interviewing neighbors and looking at the corral, there would still be odor, noise and flies.

A neighbor, James Huckins of 9 Edward Court, said last night that his "family life on the patio had been destroyed" since the advent of the horses next door.

Another neighbor, Howard Baldwin of 15 Edward Court, sadly described the Wachsman's corral as "once an area for garden parties — a lovely place for champagne parties."

That is all gone now, he said, and the only recent time his family had not suffered from flies and horsey smells was this summer when the horses were removed following a court order.

Wachsman's supporters, however, disagreed and said that smells were in the nose of the beholder.

"You have no more right to take away a man's horses than his eucalyptus trees," a psychi-

Boycott On Grapes Halted By Chavez

80 Per Cent Of Growers Sign Up

DELANO (UPI)— Cesar Chavez today ended the nationwide boycott against four-fifths of the California table grape crop with an announcement he had signed 80 per cent of the growers to union contracts.

Chavez held a news conference with 300 of his farm workers present to announce that 7,000 to 10,000 vineyard workers are now covered by contracts with his United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

The boycott against 20 per cent of the state's table grape crop will continue, Chavez said, until all growers have signed.

The new contracts included Giumarra Vineyards, of Kern County, one of the strongest holdouts.

SOME NOT SIGNED

A few growers in Fresno and Tulare counties have not yet signed, Chavez said.

John Giumarra Jr., of Giumarra Vineyards, said the signing brought a "new era" to agriculture. "We are happy, perhaps overjoyed, that peace has come to the valley," he said.

"The eyes of America are on Delano," he said. "If it (unionization) works here, it can work elsewhere. There is a fantastic sense of responsibility on both sides."

The contracts cover a three-year period and the minimum hourly wage ranges from $1.75 to $1.80 with 20 cents a box incentive pay. There are provisions for no strikes, no boycotts and no lockouts.

35 PCT. OF GRAPES

Growers producing 35 per cent of the state's table grapes previously signed contracts with the union and have been selling their produce in boxes carrying the union's black eagle label.

Chavez, a Mexican-American who once was a migrant farm worker himself, stressed nonviolence all through his organizing campaign and fasted for 25 days in 1968 because he feared advocates of violence were gaining the upper hand.

Vineyard workers had been receiving $1.60 an hour for their work, but in a contract Chavez signed in May they were guaranteed $1.75 an hour this year and $1.90 next year, plus an incentive of 25 cents a box.

Novato Vote Bans School Tax Boost

Novato voters who narrowly had voted to abolish home-to-school bus service and place failed to pass an increase in the school tax rate limit last April, yesterday defeated the increase by a 3-to-2 margin.

Final unofficial tally in the voting yesterday was 3,415 no to 2,182 yes.

There were four void ballots among the 5,601 cast in a turnout of 41 per cent of the 13,523 registered voters in the district.

The measure to increase the general purpose tax rate 85 cents per $100 assessed valuation failed in all but one precinct, 4 Summers Avenue which served the Black Point area.

In the April election, voters refused to increase the general purpose tax from $3,481 to $4,341.

In the meantime, the board the $80,000 saved in the general fund.

The district subsequently gained $312,294, some in state funding, some from a larger carryover from 1969-70 than budgeted.

Trustees will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Administration Building to determine which of the programs they have cut will be restored with the added state and local funds.

In addition to transportation, they had cut B-Basketball and varsity wrestling, water polo cross-country running and soccer at the two high schools, and basketball, track and girls athletic association activites at the three junior high schools.

Housing Issue Delays San Marin East Plan

By WAYNE RATLIFF

The Novato City Council, after more than two hours of public discussion centering on low income housing, postponed until Aug. 11 possibly precedent-setting action on a developer's plan for San Marin East. (See other Novato City Council stories, page 22.)

A condition set by the planning commissionfor approval of the project, if upheld by the council, would be the first requirement of a Novato developer to include low and moderate income units in a development.

Standard Growth Properties applied for changes to the San Marin master plan to develop the 150 acres of land on both sides of San Marin Drive, west of Redwood Boulevard.

The developer, planning about 1,000 apartment and townhouse rental units and several business sites, objected to being the first Novato developer required to include 10 per cent low and moderate income units, but several speakers supported the requirement.

"We do not believe that this should be a condition of development; it was not required of other developers. The staff should develop a program — not just make the requirement for one development," said Roger Strawick, representative of the applicant.

Strawick said that preliminary cost estimates per unit were near $3,500 and that Federal Housing Administration officials had told him that they knew of no project under the federal low-income housing program with unit costs above $2,500.

Individuals and representatives of several Marin groups, including the Committee for Adequate Shelter and the Ecumenical Association for Housing, spoke favoring the low income housing — some recommending an increase in the percentage required.

Richard R. Kuhn of 363 San Luis Way, representing Our Lady of Loretto Church's parish council, "If we don't want to put the burden on these people who are developing this project, where do we start? The present 10 per cent requirement seems more than reasonable."

"Let's decide right now how

Supervisors Set Washington Trip For Seashore Promises

All five Marin County supervisors will converge on Washington, D.C., on Aug. 11 to ask federal officials to get off the dime and buy all of Point Reyes National Seashore as promised. (Other supervisors stories, page 5).

Supervisor William A. Gnoss suggested a mass trip to Washington by the five supervisors at yesterday's meeting.

Supervisors were spurred into action by a property owner's demand that his 319 acres be rezoned for a 63-lot subdivision.

Robert D. Marshall Jr., who owns 319 acres on the west side of Tomales Bay north of Tomales Bay State Park, wants to develop his Laird's Landing subdivision, with lots averaging from two to 20 acres each. The property lies between Pierce Point Road and Tomales Bay.

Marshall's attorney, James B. McKenney, asked approval for Laird's Landing tentative map last November and a rezoning in February this year. The county put off action on these requests because federal acquisition appeared imminent.

Yesterday, McKenney pressed for the rezoning, arguing that the owner can wait no longer, especially because of a new government policy in land condem-

New Cambodian Push For Plateau

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A force of 3,000 Cambodian troops guided by a U.S. Air Force spotter plane opened a new offensive today to try to recapture the rain and fog shrouded Kirirom Plateau from Communist forces who sent them reeling backwards Tuesday.

The plateau, 56 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, controls Highway 4 to the sea and its occupation by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces threatens Phnom Penh's imports of oil and other commodities and jeopardizes several important factories vital to Cambodia's war effort.

The attack force was made up of five battalions of government troops including three fresh battalions rushed from Phnom Penh in a convoy of 50 buses and trucks. The force, led by American-trained Khmer mercenaries who once fought in South Vietnam, was moving up the 3,000 foot mountain from near the resort town of Kirirom, 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

As the troops gathered for the assault, a U.S. Air Force Bronco spotter plane and F4 Phantom jets were seen through the clouds above the plateau, apparently on reconnaissance and intelligence missions.

Brig. Gen. Sosthene Fernandez, commander of the 2nd military district, told UPI he had asked for U.S. air support for the assault on the plateau but had had no reply. He said, however, that American aerial reconnaissance had been "very helpful" in planning the attack.

Fernandez estimated there were at least 2,000 Communist troops in the Kirirom area with other elements in the surrounding countryside.

Fernandez said Cambodian casualties in the battle which sent them fleeing from Kirirom were at least 20 killed and 40 wounded, mostly from 120 mortar attacks.

An estimated 1,700 South Vietnamese soldiers who helped Cambodian forces recapture a nearby cement plant on Tuesday were reported 15 miles from the plateau, available for a counterattack if the Cambodians mount one. There was no word of fighting.

'Class Action' Suits Bill A Nixon Defeat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic consumer advocates have dealt the Nixon Administration an initial defeat on a proposal which businessmen fear would make them defendants in court against their own customers.

But the bill, approved by the Senate Commerce Committee Tuesday, still faces imposing roadblocks. Besides the administration, it has roused strong lobbying opposition from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Rental Federation and several individual firms including General Electric Co. and J.C. Penney Co.

The measure would let one customer file a "class action" suit on behalf of everyone gypped by the same shoddy product, phony sales pitch or fraudulent advertisement. If the suit was successful, the judge would award damages or refunds to all affected customers, with the manufacturer or retailer footing the bill.

Panel Urges Sweeping Reforms For Pentagon

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's commission on overhauling the Pentagon has called for sweeping reforms in the military establishment. It wants to put the armed forces under stronger civilian control and cut inefficiency and overstaffing by abolishing 10,000 Pentagon jobs.

The panel's most controversial proposal would strip the Joint Chiefs of Staff of their traditional command of America's fighting men. It would hand this command to a sesparate, high-ranging military staff operating under a civilian deputy defense secretary.

Gilbert W. Fitzhugh, commission chairman, reported the joint chiefs —the top five men in the present military hierarchy — were "less than enthusiastic" about the proposal.

The recommendation would leave the chiefs only the functions spelled out for them by law—advising the President on military matters and supervising their individual military services. The chiefs presently act as the defense secretary's command arm through the secretary's delegation of authority, rather than by law.

"We are not really taking authority away from the military," Fitzhugh told newsmen at a briefing. He said the aim was to decentralize authority for people below the secretary of defense.

"Everybody is going to end up with a smaller area of responsibility if our recommendations are adopted, but they are going to have more responsibility and authority and accountability for the areas they have left," Fitzhugh said.

He urged that the report be adopted "without debating it for months ahead" and said 90 per cent of the measures would not require congressional action. In the long run, he said, they would save money.

Fitzhugh's panel, a non-government group appointed by the President a year ago, also recommended a major shakeup in the Defense Department organization from the office of the secretary of defense down to military field commands.

It proposed unifying the offensive and defensive nuclear services under one command, merging the general warfare elements under a second command and the creation of a third super command to handle logistics for all service branches.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Rescind On Genocide

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday approved a 1949 world treaty against genocide, but then voted to rescind its action because it feared the original narrow vote—6 to 5—would injure the measure's chances on the Senate floor.

The treaty was originally submitted in 1949 by President Harry S Truman, and President Nixon revived the issue this year.

Unmanned Probe

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets today launched an unmanned satellite carrying electronic equipment into earth orbit, the official Tass news agency said.

Tass said the new sputnik, Cosmos 354, was orbiting earth at a maximum distance of 125 miles and a minimum distance of 86 miles, with an inclination angle of 50 degrees.

Tass did not give details of its mission other than to say it was continuing a space exploration program begun in 1962.

Turnpike Dynamite

RIDGEFIELD PARK, N.J. (UPI)—A woman driver found five sticks of dynamite along the New Jersey Turnpike when she stopped to fix her car Monday night. The police here, who reported the discovery when the explosive was turned in Tuesday night, said she had "forgotten" it until then.

An Army demolition team called in to examine the dynamite said there was little chance it could have exploded accidentally.

Paper Pool Bill

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon has signed into law a bill to allow newspapers in danger of financial failure to pool non-editorial operations.

The President's action affected joint newspaper operations in 22 cities, which until now were subject to prosecution under antitrust laws.

Any new polling agreements must be approved in advance by the attorney general, however.

The law permits a newspaper in "probable danger of financial failure" to pool its advertising, circulation, business, printing and other production operations with another paper. However, the papers must maintain separate editorial departments.

Yacht For Jackie

ATHENS (UPI) — Aristotle Onassis' yacht Christina has been described as the world's finest with its 10 guest rooms and marble swimming pool. Yet he promised his wife, Jacqueline, an even better one Tuesday on her 41st birthday.

Onassis presented the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy with an order for "the best yacht in the world to be completed by the same date next year."

It will be called the Jacqueline and will be constructed by the Japanese shipyards.

New Treaty Stage

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet-West German negotiations on a nonaggression treaty moved into a new stage of bargaining in their third day today with the Germans beginning to raise issues not covered in preliminary talks.

The full delegations, led by Foreign Ministers Walter Scheel and Andrei A. Gromyko, engaged in a new round of discussion that Bonn spokesmen said had more precise proposals to deal with than earlier sessions.

To End Strike

LONDON (UPI)—Union delegates representing 47,000 striking longshoremen have voted to end the two weeks' port shutdown, it was announced today.

The announcement was made at the end of a two-and-a-half hour meeting of more than 80 longshoremen's delegates at Transport Union headquarters.

The delegates voted 51-31 to accept a peace package presented by a government-appointed court of inquiry Monday and to end the walkout.

Fails To Agree

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal court jury trying a school teacher accused of slapping Internal Revenue agents failed to agree on a verdict Tuesday and were dismissed.

A new trial was set Sept. 28 for Mrs. Nancy Brewer, 40, who also is charged with failure to pay part of her income taxes.

Mrs. Brewer, a teacher at Lowell High School and the mother of five children, contended in court that the service had erroneously deducted taxes from her paychecks and tried to put a lien on her automobile.

Park Rangers In Fight Trying To Collect Fee

What began as a simple collection of camping fees from a young couple at Tamalpais State Park last night ended in a slugfest pitting two park rangers against 10 to 12 other campers.

Ranger Fred C. Schmidt said today he approached Michael S. Hart, 23, and Chandler Victoria Hannon, 18, of 322½ Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, at about 8 p.m. requesting they pay the Bootjak Camp Ground park fee.

The couple responded they didn't have the money, so were told to vacate their space within an hour, Schmidt said.

An hour later, Schmidt returned with another ranger, Robert Nygren to discover the campers still there.

Ordered to leave, Hart refused and was placed under arrest. Amid a torrent of foul language, the two rangers discovered themselves confronted by about 10 other campers demanding to know the rangers' right to evict the young couple, Schmidt said.

As the arguement heated, Nygren was allegedly struck in the mouth by Hart and a prolonged scuffle ensued allowing Hart and Miss Hannon time to make a hasty getaway in a homemade truck which reportedly lacked license plates and registration.

"I thought we had a riot on our hands," Schmidt commented, adding that he called the sheriff's office for reinforcements.

Hart and the girl were later stopped at a sheriff's road block one half mile south of the Mountain Home Restaurant on Panoramic Highway with the rangers, having evaded the other campers, in pursuit.

Hart was booked into the county jail on suspicion of felony battery on an officer, resisting arrest and failure to pay camping fees.

Miss Hannon was booked for resisting arrest and failure to pay camping fees.

Bail was set at $2,500 for Hart and $1,250 for Miss Hannon. Both remained in jail this morning and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

atrist, Dr. Arnold Knepfer, said, who also implied difficult neighbors, not horses, were the root of the problem.

Wachsman had his wife lead in their enormous Great Dane to demonstrate scars, which he said were a result of a beating. He added that another of his dogs had been poisoned by neighbors.

The commissioners finally agreed, with Alan M. Kay casting the only no vote, to let Wachsman keep the animals which his children and wife ride. The decision, however, is subject to appeal to the city council.

Egyptians Release Jewish Prisoners

PARIS (UPI)—Egypt, after secret negotiations with France, has released 80 Jews held captive since the 1967 War and they have been flown to Paris, political sources said today.

They said the deal was arranged a few weeks ago after French authorities and charitable organizations involved in the diplomatic intervention agreed to maintain complete silence about it and the departing Jews renounced their Egyptian nationality.

French government spokesmen and the Israeli Embassy refused to discuss the report, some details of which were printed in the leftist Paris weekly Le Nouvel Observateur.

Postal Reforms Accord Reached

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House-Senate conference committee reached tentative agreement Wednesday on a postal reform bill that would give the nation's mailmen an 8 per cent pay raise and convert the Post Office into an independent government agency.

The agreement came during the third week of negotiations on the legislation at a time it was believed the committee may have reached an impasse. A final committee vote was expected Thursday.

The pay raise would be retroactive to April 18. The bill also would reduce the time it takes a postal worker to reach top pay from 21 to 8 years.

Hearing Pending For Drug Raid Arrests

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) —The five men arrested in another landmark U. S. drug raid awaited a preliminary hearing Tuesday behind bars—three of them under $1 million bonds.

Some $50 million in cocaine and a C46 airplane were part of the haul late Monday in the raid agents pulled off after 13 days of continuous surveillance at an apartment near Coral Gables' "miracle mile" shopping strip.

MIDEAST

be no letup in their war against Israel.

Al-Fatah, the most powerful of the Arab guerrilla groups, announced it would broadcast from Amman. The Central Committee for Palestinian guerrilla organizations called a two-hour general strike for Thursday in the Jordanian capital to protest the U.S. Mideast proposals.

The crisis between King Hussein and the guerrillas based in his country appeared to be worsening.

The Israeli cabinet met Sunday and was unable to resolve the cabinet crisis. It met again for two hours today but there was no decision.

Political sources said Mrs. Meir was determined when Israel did give its answer it would present a unified front to the world.

Today's cabinet session was declared a meeting of the ministerial Security Committee, thereby placing it under military censorship to prevent leaks of its discussions.

In other Middle East developments today:

— A Jordanian military spokesman said an Israeli patrol crossed the Jordan River in the Tel Al-Sukkar area of the north Jordan Valley around midnight and planted mines on a main road. He said 12 Jordanian civilians including a baby were injured in a mine explosion this morning.

—Diplomatic sources in London said U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring plans to begin his Mideast peace soundings early next month if Israel joins Egypt and Jordan in accepting the U.S. peace formula.

—The London Daily Express said Soviet jets flown by Russian pilots clashed with Israeli fighters last Saturday near the Suez Canal and shot down an American-built Skyhawk.

—The French government formally endorsed U.S. efforts to achieve a negotiated Mideast settlement. The endorsement came at today's cabinet meeting in the Elysee Palace in Paris.

3 Youths Booked As Suspects In Auto Theft

Three San Francisco youths were arrested today after being stopped in a car reported stolen two weeks ago in San Francisco, Larkspur police reported.

Michael Charles Monestier, 19, and Michael Alfonso Avanche, 19, were booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft and possession of stolen property. James Steenport, 16, was booked at juvenile hall on the same complaints.

Police said they stopped the three at 2 a.m. when their 1966 Mustang drove out of a service station which had been closed for four hours.

A check indicated the car was stolen July 14, when it had South Dakota license plates. The California plates they found on the car, police said, belonged to a Pontiac reported stolen Monday in San Francisco.

Monestier and Avanche were held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Fall Breaks Leg Of Bolinas Man

Robert Pipkin, 21, of Bolinas was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a compound fracture of his right leg suffered yesterday in a fall from a cliff.

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said five firemen raised Pipkin to the top of the 300-foot cliff.

Pipkin and two male companions were apparently walking on the beach near Arroyo Honda on the Point Reyes National Seashore around 5 p.m. when he apparently attempted to scale the cliff and failed, falling from a height of 15 feet, Bloom said.

Youth Agency To Rule On Teen Slayer

I-J Special Report

SALINAS — A 17-year-old Monterey County youth today was ordered committed to the California Youth Authority for the murder of a former Petaluma woman May 27.

Michael Rigmaiden, was found guilty Monday in juvenile court of slaying Susan Jameson, 23, a teacher at a Monterey school where Rigmaiden's father was principal.

John Schellhaas, assistant chief probation officer for Monterey County, said today that the length of Rigmaiden's commitment will be decided by the CYA administration.

He said the youth was being held at Monterey County Juvenile Hall awaiting delivery to the CYA northern reception center at Perkins, Sacramento County.

Miss Jameson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doral R. Jameson of 407 Sunnyslope Avenue, Petaluma, was a second-grade teacher at San Benancio Elementary School.

Her body, beaten about the head with a metal wastebasket and showing strangulation marks, was found in the principal's office the morning of May 28.

Young Rigmaiden, who worked as a janitor at the school and who reported finding the body, was arrested on a warrant June 29.

Annexation Of 441 Acres Is Approved

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved annexation of 441 acres south of East Cotati Avenue, including space for public use.

The land owners, Paul Golis and Fred Rohnert, ratified the move on the assurance the council would adopt a policy requiring future large annexations to make similar provision for public facilities.

In the agreement, 70 acres is set aside for a future regional park to be sold to the city at $4,000 per acre. Other sites for neighborhood parks, fire stations and other public facilities would also be sold at the lower price.

The council said the city attorney would prepare the policy for action at the Monday council meeting so the annexation agreement could be formalized.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

PURCHASES — Approved a resolution authorizing the city to purchase vehicles from the state.

EASEMENT — Asked for more information on the request of Pacific Telephone Co. for an easement through the Rohnert Park golf course.

WATER MAIN — Agreed to the request of the Sonoma Campus Co. to defer reimbursement for the water main in the Colegio Vista subdivision until further development.

HOUSING

to implement it; let this be the beginning of a policy," said another resident, Eleanor Wagner of 646 Tamalpais Avenue.

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain expressed general approval of the requirement, saying that low and moderate income housing may be a new requirement for developments in Novato but not in this county.

He expressed reservations about a requirement that the low income units be included in the first four of seven construction phases.

"Wouldn't the housing be more diversified if it were divided among all seven phases?" he asked.

City Planning Director Brian Mattson replied that the provision was also included to allow the planning commission to exercise increased control during construction.

Councilman George A. Quesada said that he felt that action should be delayed pending improved definition of low and moderate income housing and that provision should be made for delineation between requirements for low income housing and moderate income housing.

Differences also existed between the developer and planning commissioner designation of sites for service stations in the master plan stage to insure that sites near the proposed Highway 101 bypass were available for that use and on construction of a portion of San Marin Drive at the entrance to the development.

NAME IN THE NEWS

Adrian W. Smith Ends Civil Service

Adrian W. Smith of Novato, chief of the fuel and heating section, engineer division, of the office of the deputy chief of staff for logistics at the Presidio of San Francisco has retired after 33 years of civil service.

nations. Under the new policy, the government can file condemnation, then pull out if the jury award turns out too high.

McKenney charged that this new policy would leave landowners in an uncertain position even after condemnation proceedings had started.

County supervisors reluctantly denied Marshall's rezoning request and decided to call on Washington officials to get immediate action.

Supervisors asked the county administrator and the county counsel to set up meetings in Washington with Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, and other federal officials on Aug. 11. Supervisors hope to meet with Reps. Don. H. Clausen, R-First District, Calif., William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, Calif.; California Sens. George Murphy and Alan Cranston, and park officials.

Because of the Washington trip, supervisors will bypass their regular Tuesday meeting on Aug. 11. They plan to leave Marin on Aug. 10 and return Aug. 12.

About 20,000 acres of the original 54,000 acres designated for the National Seashore still remain in private ownership.

The $57.5 million needed for the acquisition has been authorized by Congress but the land acquisition is not complete.

Plea Set Today In Auto Theft

Michael Dean Loesch, 18, of San Francisco, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of car theft.

Loesch, who gave his younger brother's name and age when arrested early Monday morning and was first taken to Juvenile Hall, was stopped by the California Highway Patrol on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael for erratic driving.

Officers said the car he was driving had been stolen from a Cotati man. Loesch's case was continued to today for entry of plea.

rin planning director or Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer. Both expressed views that construction is "at least" two or three weeks behind.

Local contractors have also expressed concern over the methods employed in drying the creek bed. Some feel the lack of pump fitted wells along the entire construction site will not permit the creek to dry. They added without a properly dried channel, cement cannot be poured.

Some concluded that heavy winter rains will completely destroy any progress the contractor makes this summer if his concrete is not properly laid.

TAXES

that was a "separate" issue unrelated to tax revision.

Democrats failed in four attempts to amend Reagan's legislation on the floor, including one by Sen. Walter Stiern, D-Bakersfield, to give counties $2 million to pay the administrative costs of processing homeowner tax exemption forms.

Lagomarsino said such an amendment would merely delay passage of the bill another day but gave his tacit approval to including Stiern's amendment in a later bill to repair technical defects. The sales tax hike is proposed to take effect Saturday.

Administration supporters lobbied fellow senators for hours in an unsuccessful attempt to shake loose the one vote that would assure the program's passage. It previously cleared the Assembly but must return to the lower house for concurrence in amendments.

Carpenters Hit PG&E Project

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI) — Carpenters were on strike today against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's nuclear power plant construction project at Diablo Canyon.

Members of Carpenters Local 1632 walked off the job Tuesday due to a dispute with Guy Atkinson Contractors on grounds the firm violated a master labor agreement.

Fritz Drager, a spokesman for PG&E, said the power company was an innocent bystander. "It is one of those things which happen in the normal course of construction," he said.

Third Voltage Cut

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Consolidated Edison Co. cut electrical voltage for the third straight day today as a prolonged spell of steaming hot weather threatened to create more demand for electrical power than the utility could supply.

OBITUARIES

Albert Rathael Dies At 82

Private funeral for Albert Rathael, former Marin resident, was held today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Rathael died Tuesday in a hospital in Redwood City after a brief illness. He was 82.

A native of New York City, he moved to Marin County in 1910 and lived in the county for 40 years. He was proprietor of Rathael's Market in San Anselmo for over 20 years.

He moved to Middletown, Lake County, where he operated Middletown Food Center until his retirement in 1958. He subsequently lived in San Francisco and Redwood City.

Surviving are his son, Ralph A. Rathael of Napa; a daughter, Selma C. Dike of Millbrae, and three grandchildren.

Burial was at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

PAUL D. EMSTRUM

Funeral for Paul David Emstrum, 15, of Castro Valley, son of former Fairfax resident Mary Alice Jenkins Emstrum, will be Thursday at 9 a.m. at Our Lady of Grace Church in Castro Valley.

Paul died Saturday from injuries received that day in an Oakland auto accident.

He is also survived by his maternal grandmother, Lisa S. Jenkins of Fairfax.

Kerkorian New Western Airlines Board Chairman

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Millionaire Kirk Kerkorian has been appointed chairman of the Board of Western Airlines succeeding Terrell Drinkwater who recently resigned.

Drinkwater's seat on the 19-member board was filled by actor Cary Grant, a friend of Kerkorian's.

Kerkorian acquired a major interest in the Los Angeles based airline a year and a half ago. He will not however, become the chief executive of the line. The man who was named president and chief executive last fall, J. Judson Taylor will stay on.

Kerkorian, operates two Las Vegas casinos besides holding control over Western and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc.

Final Decision Pends On Trial For Medina

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI)—A final decision is pending with military officials on whether Capt Ernest L. Medina will be prosecuted in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre of Vietnamese civilians.

Preliminary, grand jury-type hearings for Medina were completed Tuesday. The hearing officer, Col. James H. Mobley, told attorneys he would make his recommendation on the case "as quickly as possible."

Ordinance Hits Bay's Drydock

Warned that if they didn't act the county "might not have a paddle and be up Richardson Bay," the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday passed an emergency ordinance to prevent Sausalito's controversial drydocks from being moved in Marin waters. (Another county board of supervisors story, page 1.)

The warning came from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney who presented the proposed ordinance to the board. He said his action was based on a "rumor from a very reliable source" that J. Christopher Roberts, owner of the drydocks, planned to move them to the vicinity of the heliport near Richardson Bay Bridge.

To thwart Robert's rumored plans, the board adopted the ordinance saying that no one can move or relocate drydocks in the county of Marin without a permit.

Theoretically, Roberts would be given a permit only if he planned to move the docks out the Golden Gate.

Yesterday's action was the latest in a series of legal attempts to get rid of the drydocks. The county has filed several suits and proposed charging rent because the drydocks are on county tideland. Last month, it was suggested they be set afire.

Roberts, a Mill Valley artist, has indicated he will try to make them into a gigantic wooden lotus blossom with stained glass windows for a cultural center if he can get funding and approval.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

BID PROCEDURE — Opposed Assembly Bill 991, which would require the county to call for bids on all projects costing $3,500 or more, instead of the present $10,000 or more.

CREEK ENCROACHMENT — Amended an ordinance to allow public utilities to encroach on lands of the Flood Control District along Corte Madera Creek. The existing ordinance allows only owners of property abutting the creek to get encroachment permits.

WEED ABATEMENT — Ordered weeds abated in 15 days from property at the corner of Camino del Mar and Drake Way in Inverness and on two parcels on Las Gallinas Avenue in San Rafael.

EMPLOYEE SALARY — Set 3:30 p.m. Friday as the time to meet in closed session with Assistant Administrator John F. Barrows to discuss a new contract with the county's 200 safety employees — sheriff's deputies, firemen and communication workers.

WELFARE — Directed Maloney to file for an injunction to stop a state audit of county welfare programs using a new auditing system which, it has been estimated, could cost the county $52,000 in state and federal funds. The audit was to start today.

PERSONNEL — Authorized spending $2,706 to engage eight extra workers in the department of public social services for two months to assist with extra work caused by new state welfare regulations and the rescinding of such.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Donald E. Presco, San Rafael contractor, to the board of building code appeals. He succeeds Victor McKinnon who did not desire reappointment.

AUDITORIUM — Took no action on a request by the Marin Symphony Guild for a formal commitment that a guild concert be the first event in the Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The board directed Thelma Schultz, president of the guild, to present a report to the board on what type of event the guild has planned for the dedication.

WAR MEASURE — Approved, by a 3-1 vote, the wording of a November ballot measure urging the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. military forces from Southeast Asia by June 30, 1971. Supervisor Louis H. Baar was absent and Chairman John F. McInnis voted against the motion.

CLAIM — Rejecred a $100,000 claim by Angelo Morales of 16 Seadrift Landing, Tiburon, for damages allegedly suffered when a boat in which he was riding struck the drydocks in Richardson Bay.

APPEAL — Set for Aug. 11 a hearing on an appeal by the Marin Conservation League of a planning commission decision granting a use permit and plan approval to George Kappas for 35 houseboats at Gate 6½, Richardson Bay.

RICHARDSON BAY — Ordered by 3-to-1 vote, with Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting, that Tom E. Nowell Jr. remove or bury within 15 days rubble illegally placed in Richardson Bay. Arrigoni wanted outright removal and no option to bury.

No Oregon Honor

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon is the only state ever fired upon by a foreign enemy during a war. This occurred early in World War II when a Japanese submarine lobbed a few shells at a beach in northwest Oregon.

DEPUTIES RECOMMEND CURE FOR ANTI-POLICE FEELINGS

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Polk county sheriff's deputies have coined a slogan to combat anti-police sentiment.

The deputies have bumper stickers which read:

"If you don't like police, next time you're in trouble call a hippie."

State Denies $90,000 Plea For Improving Fairgrounds

A request for $90,000 for improvements to the Marin County Civic Center Fairgrounds has been denied by the California Division of Fairs and Expositions.

Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, in advising the board of supervisors of the action yesterday, said plans for the 1971 fair at the Civic Center site are nevertheless proceeding.

The money had been rquested for preliminary improvements, including rest room facilities and underground utilities.

Campanella said after the board meeting that the denial means "we'll revise our plans and try to work the fair around the auditorium building."

"We need the money," he said, "but we'll try to do without it."

Ray Harrington, chief of the division of fairs and expositions in Sacramento, told the Independent-Journal yesterday by telephone that the county's request was denied because Marin's needs were not enough compared to other counties.

He said the division had $2.5 million to allocate to 73 eligible fairs throughout the state, and that other fairs needed it more than Marin.

The division has already given the county $1,176,000 for construction of the auditorium, he added.

Budget Session Is Called Off

A special budget meeting of the Marin County Human Rights Commission, set for tonight, has been called off because the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday asked the commission to thrash out budget matters with County Administrator Bruce.

Anne Smith, commission secretary, said the executive committee of the commission plans to meet with Bruce sometime next week.

The supervisors refused to increase the commission's budget of $35,000 yesterday and asked the group to determine the best use of those funds.

Short Weight Probe

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — The state Department of Agriculture reports its inspectors in one month found 40 per cent of 25,786 retail packaged items checked in Kentucky stores and supermarkets were short-weighted. A crackdown was ordered.

Supervisors Vote 'In Concept' Nod To ABAG's Bay Regional Plan

A Bay Area regional plan developed by the Association of Bay Area Governments won unanimous approval "in concept" by the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday. (For San Anselmo City Council reaction to plan, see page 10.)

On a motion by Michael Wornum, supervisors voted 4 to 0 to "approve the proposed ABAG plan in concept, with hearings consider amendments." Supervisor Louis H. Baar is on vacation.

Before the vote, County Planner Werner Von Gundell told the supervisors that the ABAG plan and Marin's adopted plans have conflicts in detail but not in basic concept.

"I notice here that Highway 1 goes through the middle of Tamalpais Valley," declared Wornum, looking at an overall map accompanying ABAG's regional plan. The overall map of the nine counties indicates highways by dark lines. One of the lines runs from a point near the food of Waldo Grade to Point Reyes Station.

"There was no attempt to establish the right-of-way alignment," explained Chairman John F. McInnis, who is chairman of Abag's regional planning committee, the group that drew up the regional plan.

Dark lines showing highways mark only a general transportation corridor, explained McInnis. "The need to move an x-volume of traffic from one point to the other is connected by a line and nothing more."

"Can our balanced transportation study, when completed, be pumped into this?" asked Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

McInnis said the regional plan is a broad brush approach, with details to be filled in by local authorities. "If there is a conflict between our balanced transportation system and this (ABAG regional plan), my feeling is that our system will prevail."

If this regional plan is approved by the ABAG General Assembly tomorrow night, the next step will be to hold hearings to resolve areas of difference between local plans and the ABAG plan, said McInnis.

"This shows more open space in West Marin than our plan," observed Arrigoni.

Wornum said there will be questions when the plan is refined, but as a general concept, "I think it is a great approach."

"The whole concept of open space to be acquired and released only as needed — I hope they stick to it," said Wornum. "My worry is not whether they'll approve this but whether they'll stick to it."

"It's not up to the region to enforce this," replied McInnis. "The proposal is to urge local governments to enforce this type of thing."

If such a regional plan is to be effective, some infringement on local sovereignty is inevitable, said Wornum.

ABAG's regional plan looks 20 years ahead, to 1990, with a projected doubling in Marin's population, to 408,700. The accompanying map shows urban concentrations around Corte Madera, San Rafael, and Novato, with residential surrounding the city centers.

Major transportation corridors shown, in addition to Highway 101, are: foot of Waldo Grade to Point Reyes Station and north to Sonoma; San Rafael area to Point Reyes Station; Point Reyes Station to Petaluma.

Residential centers are shown along Highway 101 and at Bolinas Stinson Beach, Point Reyes Station, Inverness, Marshall, Dillon Beach, and San Geronimo Valley. Most of the remaining areas in Marin are marked permanent open space, which is defined as one unit per acre or less.

"Employment centers" are also designated in several spots along Highway 101.

A rapid transit system is suggested over or along the Golden Gate Bridge and Richmond-San Rafael Bridge northward to Sonoma. This would be an extension of the BART system either by rail or bus rapid transit.

Drug Center Due Public Hearing

After hearing that the "mere mention" of a proposed drug addiction treatment center had caused "fear and unrest" among neighbors, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night set a public hearing for Aug. 11 on the center. (Another planning commission story, page 1.)

Although Roger Smith, a criminologist who would direct the center, said that the proposed location at 401 First Street is in a "young and hip" neighborhood, those expressing fear and doubt last night were from another age category.

San Rafael undertaker Harry M. Williams, who lives at 430 First Street, flatly said that he didn't "want the type of people they will attract to the neighborhood."

Smith explained that the proposed center, to be called Marin Open House and funded partially by a grant from the Babcock Foundation, would primarily be used for out-patient treatment.

"We don't expect to be full of people going through withdrawals," Smith said, but he added that a small number of persons would be housed there for short periods of heroin detoxification.

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner also made a plea for consideration of the center, saying that old-line approaches are not working with drug problems and that new approaches must be tried.

"Maybe it's like freeways," Hotchner said. "We all want them, but in someone else's backyard."

Commissioner Jorgan V. Lunding also expressed approval of the proposal, saying, "We've taken care of our dogs and cats tonight, but what about our young people," referring to earlier commission approval of two veterinary hospitals.

The commission finally agreed to set the public hearing for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Animal Hospital Gains Approval Of Planners

A permit for an animal hospital on the Miracle Mile, earlier opposed by nearby residents because of fear of noise and stench, was approved last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission.

Several residents of Crescent Drive, on a hill above the proposed location, said they had visited other veterinarian hospitals in the last two weeks and were convinced that noise and odor could be controlled.

Dr. Marshall L. Harwood of San Francisco, who had asked the permit for the hospital at 2060 Fourth Street, was instructed to use all precautions to keep the facility from being obnoxious to neighbors.

Herman Deitch, a real estate agent with offices adjacent to the proposed hospital, said he still objected to the facility, but the use was approved, 6-0, with Commissioner John J. Adams absent.

Another veterinary clinic to be located at 532 Fourth Street and operated by Dr. Tom Melhoff was approved without discussion.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

LOTS — Approved a resubdivision of three lots at 135 Fairhills Drive and 8 and 12 Beryl Lane with a transfer of land from the Fairhills lot to the two others.

CARPORT — Approved a swimming pool variance for Vincent Sullivan of 12 Marina Court but denied a variance for a carport.

SIGNS — Granted a request by Atlantic-Richfield Corp. for temporary signs at six service stations which will announce a change of name for the stations.

SCHOOL — Granted use of the Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church at 355 Los Ranchitos Road for a private school, to be called School for Independent Learning.

CARS — Gave approval of expansion of a car lot at 805 Irwin Street.

ROOF — Approved a red tile roof for McDonald's Restaurant at 2114 Fourth Street.

Mother Of TV Host Dies In Toronto

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mrs. M. H. Halparin, mother of Hollywood television host Monty Hall, died today in Toronto, Canada, at the age of 69 following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Halparin was a lecturer and entertainer in her native Canada and was honored for her charity work when in 1961 a park was named for her in Jerusalem.

Cong Offers To Talk With Envoy Bruce

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong offered today to hold direct peace talks with Ambassador David K.E. Bruce when he arrives here next week as chief U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks. But they again called for a complete U.S. military pullout from Vietnam.

The United States has previously rejected all similar Viet Cong offers because it considers officially the Viet Cong as a mere arm of the North Vietnamese Communist Party and because it wants any peace agreement to be negotiated and endorsed by South Vietnam.

Hanoi and the Viet Cong will face U.S. and South Vietnamese diplomatic officers Thursday at their 77th weekly meeting. Indications are there will be no movement before President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu hold their news conferences late Thursday and Friday.

Bruce himself is due in Paris next Monday. This Thursday, the American team will be headed again by Philip C. Habib, who has been acting chief negotiator since the resignation of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge last November.

"We are still ready to meet directly with the United States," a Viet Cong delegation spokesmen told UPI.

Apart from aborigines, the population of Australia is almost entirely of European stock.

Planners Persuaded To Conserve Creek

Warning that "you're going to have a Chinese Wall of apartment houses there," Larkspur nature-lovers last night persuasively wooed the city's planning commission to join their cause in conserving the north bank of Corte Madera Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tartaul of 45 Via Belardo and Clarence Zumwalt, 73 Via La Cumbre, reminded the commission that Larkspur, Corte Madera and county long-range plans all have envisioned the northern creek bank between the Bon Air bridge and Highway 101 as a thin ribbon of nature area.

Recent court rulings elsewhere may make it possible for the city to preserve the salt grass and pickleweed marsh without the expense of purchase, the Tartauls said. They reported a petition to preserve the creek banks already had gathered 192 signatures since Sunday and more are coming in.

The planning commissioners agreed to discuss policy on limiting development along the creek at their Aug. 11 meeting.

Mrs. Tartaul said completion of the Army flood control project and increased market demands have made the creekside attractive to developers, and urged the planners to control development carefully, maintain public access to the bank and preserve the wildlife resources of the salt marsh.

"Without that wildlife, which is made possible by the intertidal marsh growth, we have a super drainage ditch," she pleaded.

Her husband cited recent court rulings that public rights of access to undeveloped areas have been created by usage over long periods of years. He stressed that Corte Madera Creek has long been enjoyed by bird watchers and other nature lovers.

The creek's north bank is in more immediate jeopardy than the south side where development is less intense, Tartaul said.

Zumwalt, retired range ecologist for the U.S. Forest Service and now a naturalist for the Audubon Canyon Ranch bird preserve, led the commission through a discussion of the chain of life in the tidal marsh, and decried that Bay Area developers have had "an appalling disregard of the values of the mud flats."

"We're diming the San Francisco Bay to death with small parcels," he warned.

Commission chairman Robert H. Lee asked the speakers to participate in the commission's Aug. 11 discussions, and said some extensive staff studies may be needed.

Fifteen audience members stuck with the discussion, which continued past midnight.

Plan Settled For Grading In Larkspur

Controversy over the Tiscornia Estate's grading on Little King hill in Larkspur was settled last night almost without a scar.

Nearly 150 conservationist citizens had turned out June 30 for a Larkspur Planning Commission hearing on the estate's application for a permit to grade away the hilltop and fill a ravine. Seventeen persons were in the audience when the hearing resumed last night.

The commission unanimously approved modified plans calling for moving only 200 cubic yards of dirt to make a small silting pond, and other features to prevent winter storms from eroding the hillside and ravine.

The plans, presented by Donald Selmi of Dan Coleman Associates, no longer involved use of fill from neighboring excavation for a Marin Municipal Water District tank site since that soil was disposed of elsewhere, Selmi said.

The silting pond, small check dams made of trees already cut at the site, and a runoff flume are to be completed by Sept. 1.

Spain Subway Strike

MADRID (UPI) — A strike by subway workers demanding higher wages today halted all subway traffic in this capital city.

the commission was told. A $5,000 bond will be posted to cover any work needed to clear out silting during storms. Rye grass is being planted on the scarred areas.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

JOPLIN FENCE — Granted singer Janis Joplin permission to exceed the normal 3.5-foot height limit for a fence in he front setback. But on learning from her representatives (the popular singer was absent from the hearing) that no one yet knew whether the fence would be of grape-stake style or dimensioned lumber, the commission sent the spokesmen back to the drawing board for design work. Miss Joplin has been plagued with burglars and intruders at her red, woods-hidden home at 380 West Baltimore Avenue.

POTTERY SCHOOL — Split 2-2, thus denying a use permit for a pottery school in the one-time telephone building at 484 Magnolia Avenue, due to disagreement with applicant Michael Walsh and real estate agent Robert Busse over required offstreet parking. The leased area would require seven spaces according to the rules. Busse pleaded expense and lack of space precluded so much parking.

RENTAL OFFICE — Continued to Aug. 11 the Schultz Investment Co. application for variance permit to build an office for apartment rentals on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and El Portal without a rearyard setback.

SERVICE STATION — Denied CPD Corp.'s request for a use permit and for architectural supervision of a proposed gasoline service station between the Bon Air Bridge and the Safeway store. Commission chairman Robert H. Lee declared the plans never should have reached the commission and branded them "shoddy."

TAMALPAIS FENCING — After hearing objections both from neighbors and a resident of the Tamalpais retirement residence itself, approved architectural plans for gates and fences around the center.

Chicago To Deny Future Concerts

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Richard J. Daley, charging that the rioting during a Grant Park rock concert was organized, says Chicago has pulled the plug on future rock concerts.

"Certainly the incident on the stage was organized," Daley said Tuesday of the rioters who stormed the bandshell stage and destroyed the communications system. "You don't go to a rock concert with a baseball bat."

Some of the 50,000 persons at the concert fought police and went on a rampage into the downtown Loop area Monday evening. At least 160 were injured and 160 persons arrested. Three persons were shot in the park.

Motorcycle Crash Hurts Petaluman

Robert Wayne Besaw, 17, of 332 South McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital yesterday for a possible concussion suffered in a motorcycle accident.

Besaw was transferred to Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, where a report on his condition was not available.

The California Highway Patrol said his motorcycle skidded on Spring Hill Road, west of Chileno Valley Road, at 11:55 a.m., spilling him into a ditch.

Technology Held Ecological 'Savior'

chnology can be "not a de-yer, but a savior" in the t to protect the environ-t, power company executive the Marin County Chamber Commerce and Visitors Bu-u today.

obert R. Gros, vice presi-t for public relations for Pa-c Gas and Electric Co., said tricity is a "titanic force" cleansing the environment. ctric-powered trains can re-ce smog-producing cars, and ctricity can run sewage atment plants and air pollu-n abatement systems, Gros d.

nce Americans learned that ilization was in trouble from llution problems, he said, "we acted with a typically Ameri-n short fuse", with people eking scapegoats — the older neration, big business, too any people, overly cautious liticians.

But in planning action to pre-rve the environment, "we are lking about tradeoffs," Gros id. He said Americans will not oluntarily live like the poor of dia or Egypt. Without technol-gy, farm machinery, rapid ansportation and communica-on, he said, we cannot hope to ouse, clothe and feed the orld's population.

He rejected "the older gener-ation" as a scapegoat for the nvironmental crisis, admitting here have been shortcomings but that "we are leaving the oung a record of achievement worthy of respect," including social reforms, surviving the de-pression with the nation intact, defeating Hitler's attempt at world domination and achieving the post-war restoration of Eu-rope, creation of the United Na-tions and a start on school dese-gragation, voting rights and so-cial equality.

In a speech prepared for de-livery at the chamber's annual luncheon, Gros said industry wants to protect the same val-ues conservationists do.

PG&E, he said, has an advanced conservation program, including scores of lakes and reservoirs which provide recreation, flood control, water conservation, irrigation, and stream-flow to preserve fish and wildlife. The company even built artificial nesting areas for migrating Canada geese, he said.

Saving the environment, he said, is "a mind-boggling job — the reshaping of air quality standards, municipal incineration, local laws and ordinances, trash burning, auto pollution, legislative committees and municipal waste water treatment."

He scored attacks on the "chamber of commerce mentality," saying the phrase "betrays an appalling lack of knowledge of the facts of life in California."

"There are better ways to improve the qualities of life than curtailing economic promotional efforts," he said. What is needed, he said, is redistribution of the people now in California and planning for those who will arrive "whether invited or not."

PG&E has an area development department, he said, which encourages the right kind of industry to locate in the right places.

Although man is being propelled into the future with increasing momentum, Gros said, "Men who have walked on the moon. . .no longer need doubt their abilities to meet the problems of this fragile oasis in space called earth."

At the luncheon, Ben A. Farlatti was installed as chamber president. Other new officers are B.A. Sill, first vice president; Carlos E. Gonzalez, second vice-president; J. Galen Foster, secretary, and Edwin Johnson, treasurer.

Gun Booby Trap Brings Charge

A 31-year-old San Anselmo man yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon stemming from the rigging of a booby trap to protect his garage.

Don Luis Ceballos is to be arraigned Monday.

Police said Ceballos had attached a target pistol to a post in his garage and connected it with a wire to the door. The pistol fired on May 15 when the door was opened by two youths and a bullet lodged in the throat of one of the boys.

The injured youth, Stephen Beneinelli, 16, was hospitalized after the shooting, and both he and his companion, Robert J. Fornichi, 15, were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of burglary.

KTIM Sounding Board To View Health Post

Selection of a director and program chief for the Marin Community Mental Health Center will be the topic at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio station KTIM's Marin Sounding Board. Panelists will be Peter Palmer, chairman of the county mental health advisory board; Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, a member of the selection committee and the Marin's director of mental health services; Trudi Baum, a director of the Marin Association for Mental Health, and Rev. John J. O'Connor, executive director of Catholic Social Service of Marin.

Kitty Oppenheimer will be moderator. The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Ross Flood Control Board Hints Army Plan Approval

Even the most practical alternative to the Army's plan for a concrete flood control channel through Ross would cost the town $900,000 and a five-year delay in flood control, The Ross Town Council Flood Control Advisory Board has been told.

The board, which has studied several alternatives developed by consultant engineer Milton Hudis, has concluded the best is a plan calling for a flood control channel built under Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in conjunction with widening the street to four lanes, according to board member Carroll A. Snyker.

Donald R. Frost, Marin County public works director, told the board Monday night that the plan would cost the town $900,000 even if the Army Corps of Engineers agreed to pay half the increased cost. Getting the revised plan approved by federal authorities would take approximately five years, Frost said.

Estimated total cost of the alternative would be $4 million, plus another $1 million for the street widening.

The board took no action on the alternate, but issued three recommendations to the town council which imply reluctant acceptance of the Army plan for a concrete channel.

The board recommended that efforts be made to do all possible construction work within the creek channel itself, rather than along the banks, to minimize damage to the landscape; to treat and texture the concrete walls as much as possible within the plan budget to make it fit into the area; and to use every precaution to save trees along the creek, particularly those of six-inch or larger diameter.

Snyker said the town and the advisory board have been adamant throughout the flood control planning against any slowdown in construction of the channel, so the delay which the alternate plans entail would be unacceptable.

Mailing Chickens

PARIS (UPI) — Farmers throughout France have been mailing dead chickens to Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas as a protest against the importing of eggs from Belgium. Farmers taking part in the protest signed a statement saying they have formed "an economic committee on the egg."

Hub Council Assails ABAG, Opposes 20-Year Findings

After flailing away at the Association of Bay Area Governments' Regional Plan 1970-1990 and the association itself, the San Anselmo City Council voted 4-1 to oppose the $80,000 study findings. (For Marin supervisors' approval of plan, see page 5)

Backed by a planning commission decision and city engineer Charles R.Leitzell's recommendation, Mayor James F. Reed and Vice Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson shredded the plan. Only councilman Woodrow V. Capurro dissented.

Capurro, while not saying he liked the 20-year plan, said it should be approved "just to be a part of it."

However, his mild backing was lost in cascades of criticism.

Of the 32-page plan, Anderson said, "The first 25 pages could have been written by any reasonably intelligtnt, aware high school boy that lives in the area. The first 25 pages are a complete waste."

Phillip S. Heinecke, chairman of the planning commission, said the "meat and potatoes" is supposed to be in pages 19-25, but, "It's not there, it's all mom and apple pie. It's wholly subjective. What we have here can mean anything to anybody."

Reed, a former member of ABAG's general assembly and twice the dissenter in 79-1 decisions of ABAG, said the plan has followed the association's practice to the letter.

He charged that ABAG typically passes an item before asking local comments, then presents a glossy picture-book and pleads for rapid approval because of time limitations.

Reed said that the lateness of the plan was designed to prevent cities banding together against it.

He said the plan, which was received in late June, must be turned in to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development by October if ABAG is to continue receiving federal funds.

Reed then charged that the members do not have time to prepare adequately for ABAG meetings and are afraid to speak up because they will be shot down.

Councilmen cannot amend any actions, he said, because it takes a majority of supervisors and a majority of councilmen to amend so councilmen can only exercise a negative say.

Anderson said he would move to approve the plan for HUD purposes, but doubted it would meet their requirements for a land use plan. However, he refused to sanction it as a general plan for the Bay Area.

Councilman Warren R. Perry moved to reject the plan for reasons presented by Reed and Heinecke.

They were:

1. "It is so vague as to the means for accomplishing these (desirable concepts) that it is more a dream or a shopping list than a list of accomplishable goals."

2. It tells no way to avoid the fiasco of past low-cost government housing developments.

3. The plan dwells on saving the environment, but also assumes accelerated consumption.

4. The plan does not make it clear that there are areas like air pollution that local governments have been unable to cope with.

5. The text is so general as to be meaningless and the Bay Area map showing land use is incomprehensible because it omits names.

The planning commission also questioned — in recommending against the plan Monday — extending eminent domain and taxing rights to the association.

Heinecke said, "The planning commission feels regional government is necessary and has to come in a number of areas." However, he objected that a general plan does not have to be meaningless and the ABAG one is.

Leitzell said there are some good ideas contained in the plan, but cost estimates and methods of financing are not included. "In its present form, it is unusable except to go on and form a general plan."

"I'd hate to be blackmailed into approving something just so we'll get federal funds. That's the only excuse I can see for approving something like this," Leitzell said.

Reed, however, felt federal funds to local governments might not be lost by voting down the plan. "One way to find out is to reject the plan," he said.

PUC Again Suggests Hike In Muni Fares

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Public Utilities Commission recommended Tuesday that the Board of Supervisors increase Municipal Railway fares to 25 cents. They are now 20 cents for most runs.

John M. Woods, the system's general manager, said there would be a $24 million deficit for this fiscal year for the Muni without the boost. The supervisors last month shelved the same PUC request.

It is illegal to transport bullfrogs out of Arkansas.

Cleveland Safety Director Might Run Against Stokes

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Former safety director Benjamin O. Davis, Jr. has said he will "seriously consider" a suggestion that he run as an independent coalition candidate against Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes next year.

Leaders of the Cuyahoga County Republican party Tuesday launched a campaign to draft Davis, 57, who charged on his resignation Monday that Stokes provides "support and comfort to the enemies of law enforcement."

Robert Highes and Saul Stillman, co-chairmen of the county GOP Executive Committee issued a statement requesting Democratic officials, civic and religious leaders to join the effort to draft Davis.

"He can restore this city to the greatness it so rich deserves," they said.

Davis said he was highly complimented and would give thought to a political career.

"Of course I will have to spend a good deal of time discussing this matter with my closest adviser—my wife," he said.

County Democratic Chairman Joseph Bartunek said the propcsal was "very interesting" and added. "I have always held General Davis in very high regard."

Hughes and Stillman said Davis' "sober declaration that the administration is providing support and comfort to the enemies of law enforcement is a shock to the people of Cleveland."

Davis, who held the highest rank of any Negro in the armed services, stressed that the enemies he referred to were not violators of the law.

The GOP statement said that Davis has no party identification and "we realize the problems of the city transcend party labels."

One black leader, W. O. Walker, editor and publisher of the Negro weekly Call & Post, said he opposed a draft movement.

"I believe such an action would be far out of place and could serve only to create further turmoil in this city racially," said Walker.

There were 2,260 Americans killed in the War of 1812.

San Anselmo Approves Pay Schedule

The San Anselmo City Council last night approved without comment a salary schedule for city employees including raises up to 10 per cent for some.

The salary schedule had been hammered out in closed sessions and meetings between the council's negotiating team of City. Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel and City Atty. John G. Buresh and employee representatives.

A beginning police captain now makes $973 monthly whereas he made $883 per month last year. That is an increase of 10.2 per cent or 4.2 per cent over the cost-of-living increase previously granted to city employees.

However, the police chief doesn't know what he will earn this year. The council has not yet agreed on salaries for department heads and will consider the matter at an adjourned meeting Aug. 10.

An assistant fire chief at the highest pay level will earn $1174 per month, compared to $1074 last year, a raise of 9.4 per cent.

The public works employees won comparable raises. A building inspector who previously earned $905 now makes $992, an increase of 9.6 per cent.

In most cases, the council pushed the salary scale up one notch so that a beginner now makes approximately what a six-month veteran made last year.

Outside police, fire and public works, the assistant city clerk, the accounting clerk, the assistant librarian and the junior librarian also received raises of more than six per cent.

Richfield Gas Stations Gain Signs' Approval

The San Anselmo City Council, which had previously moved to reduce the number of gas station signs, last night granted 3-2 added signs for two Richfield stations for two months each.

The council allowed the Richfield Company, which is changing its name to Arco, to place a 43 square-foot sign on a station at 90 Red Hill Avenue and a 21 square-foot banner on a station at 100 Sir Francis Boulevard to advertise the name change.

Arco representative James Fraley had asked for three months, but settled for Oct. 1 to Dec. 1.

A request for pumper top signs for five months was denied unanimously and without discussion since an ordinance had banned such signs from San Anselmo service stations.

Mayor James F. Reed and Councilman Warren R. Perry dissented.

Perry maintained that the proposal was inconsistent with the proposed new sign ordinance.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

REZONE — Rezoned a lot at 180 Tunstead Avenue owned by Andrew P. Stafford to allow apartment development on the condition that the lot be merged with an adjoining lot. The planning commission had recommended against the rezoning.

DRAINAGE — Accepted responsibility for correcting a flooding problem at the 35 Brookside Drive home of Hans Schneider if the owner and adjoining owners grant a five-foot easement contiguous to an existing five-foot easement.

WALL — Granted a street encroachment to Fred A. Bardwell of 87 Valley Road for a retaining wall if he moves it back three feet from its present position. Bardwell apparently put up part of a two-foot high retaining wall thinking it was on his land.

SENIORS — Agreed to a contract with the Marin Senior Coordinating Council which stipulates that the council will run the city senior citizen program with the city paying $1,582 matched by county funds.

LIBRARY — Referred back to the library committee a proposal for sharing of library resources with Larkspur until Aug. 25 so the board can iron out the problem of an informal Larkspur sharing agreement with the county library and the problem of out-of-town users.

STREET LIGHTS — Approved a contract with Traffic Signal Repair Company of Sunnyvale for the repair and maintenance of five San Anselmo stop lights for about $1,600 annually.

SPECIFICATIONS — Gave permission to Hoffman and Albritton, engineers to determine plans and specifications for contract work to be done this fall.

TOT LOT — Refused to use city equipment and men for work on the Brookside School tot lot councilmen are half financing from their own salaries because it would be equivalent to a gift of public funds, according to city attorney John G. Buresh.

STREET LIGHTING — Voted to oppose an assembly bill authored by Assemblyman March K. Fong, D-15th District, that would require the state to pay half the cost of street lighting improvements designed to reduce the crime rate.

PATROL CAR — Approved the purchase of a new police car.

IMAGE — Passed an ordinance appropriating $3,500 for an advertising and publicity fund to be administered by the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce.

FOREMAN — Authorized staff to advertise for a working parks foreman to be paid in the $737 to $899 per month range, instead of a maintenance leadman in the $662 to $806 range as proposed.

ADJOURNED — Set an adjourned meeting for Aug. 10 to discuss the business license ordinance section on fees and department head salaries.

KTIM Forum To Quiz New Planning Chief

Werner Von Gundell, new Marin County planning director, will be interviewed on KTIM's Open Forum with Kettenhofen at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, former head of the Marin Board of Supervisors, moderates the show, which gives listeners opportunity to telephone in questions and comments.

Illegal Candy Sellers Run Out Of Town

The latest illegal door-to-door candy selling expedition into San Anselmo has been run out of town by police.

Chief Raymond Buchignani said William LeRoy Murphy, 28, of San Francisco and four boys found selling at 8:23 p.m. Monday on Valley Road were told they were violating a city ordinance against peddling.

The chief said the five were not held, but, "if Mr. Murphy comes in again, he will be arrested on the spot."

This is the second report of illegal selling in San Anselmo by Student Opportunity of Lafayette headed by Fritz Thus. Early in the month, two 10- to 12-year-old boys were selling in the Red Hill Shopping Center.

FUTURE WARNING

Buchignani said July 10 that he would warn Thus against further violations, but did not do so until he received a letter from the candy salesman requesting permission to sell door-to-door.

The chief denied his request in spite of altruistic claims by Thus.

In his letter, Thus said, "Our program is designed to teach young people the value of money and to help students earn a part-time income after school."

The youthful salesmen at Red Hill told one buyer they received ten cents for each $1.35 box sold.

Thus continued: "We are a charitable organization. Student Opportunity has opened a commercial account number 5974-714 with the Bank of America in the name of the St. Labre Indian School."

He said funds derived from the sale would go to the school on the first of each month.

Thus was vague when asked how much went to the mission school in Ashland, Mont., saying that it varied from month-to-month, but finally said $600 to $700 was given last month.

Informed that the school had told the Independent-Journal it had not received any payments, he said he had misunderstood the question; the first payment would be made Aug. 1. His organization has existed since December, according to the Better Business Bureau.

He said he makes a profit as do the young peddlers and in-betweens who operate without his supervision, but declined to say how much each makes from each $1.35 box sold.

He said he hires college students who then "hire solely high school students looking for jobs to save money, buy clothes . . ."

He said each high school peddler, usually from a poverty area in Oakland or Concord, must get permission from his must geg6gtmeutspg ETAOIN S must get permission from his school and wear an identification badge which states he works for a profit-making firm.

TRY FOR PERMITS

He said his distributors try to get permits where required, but do not always know where they are needed. However, he was unsure where licenses have been obtained.

The young peddlers are taken to sales areas and dropped off for the day by the college students, he said.

He said he had "three or four" groups of high schoolers headed by college students, but granted that the 28-year-old Murphy is not a collegian.

San Anselmo Police Officer Richard Schmidt, who caught the peddlers yesterday, said that if they were high school students, they had to be freshmen. He estimated they were 10- to 14-year-olds.

Thus said his firm is licensed with the state and is doing nothing illegal.

He is not licensed in Lafayette, according to Contra Costa County records. Police there said any company selling there must have a permit.

Sales without required permits have also been reported in San Francisco and Bel Marin Keys.

Thus' product bears a label which reads "Student Opportunity, To Help Young People Help Themselves."

Thirst Quenchers For Hot Summer Weather

On a hot, summer day, a frosty fruit cooler really tastes delectable; accompanied with a few crackers and cookies it becomes appetite satisfying as well as thirst quenching.

If you are counting calories and trying to enrich your diet, every beverage and snack should be a healthy contributor to your daily supply of nutrients.

These fruit-dairy drinks offer vitamins A and C of fresh fruit plus the calcium and protein of dairy products. They will also help increase your liquid intake which is so essential in hot weather.

A tall, skinny, eight-ounce glass of Blueberry Slim contains only about 135 calories.

BLUEBERRY SLIM

1 pint skim or fat free milk
1 pint orange juice
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ cup fresh blueberries
Mint sprigs

Combine first three ingredients and beat with rotary beater. Chill. Pour into tall chilled glasses. Float blueberries in each glass. Garnish with mint sprigs. Serve with crackers. Makes 4 (8 ounce) servings.

HONEY FRUIT NOG

1 cup sliced strawberries
1 ripe banana, sliced
1 egg
1¼ cups orange juice
1¼ cups milk
3 tablespoons honey

Mix all ingredients in blender at high speed. Chill. Serve with crackers and pretzels. Makes 4 (8 ounce) servings.

LIME 'N STRAWBERRY BREEZE

*1 pint fresh strawberries
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 pint milk
½ pint lime sherbet

Slice strawberries and combine with next three ingredients in blender at high speed until smooth. Chill. Place a scoop of sherbet into each of four chilled glasses. Pour strawberry mixture over. Serve with shortbread cookies and biscuits. Makes 4 (8 ounces) servings.

*Or 1 (10-ounce) package frozen strawberries, thawed. Yield will be slightly less.

Throw Away Old Fruit Salad Recipes For Something New

It is during the golden days of summer that the abundant harvest of fresh fruits can turn a fruit salad bowl into a many-splendored thing.

Because there is an almost endless variety to choose from, there is no need to ever make up a summer salad from the same old tried and true combinations. It is time to forget your favorite recipe for Waldorf salad and let your imagination soar.

Opt for a selection of more unusual fruit. For instance, in the market, look for a fresh pineapple and a fresh coconut. They lend flavors that are marvelously different. When selecting, be sure that all the fruits are ripe and ready for eating.

Now, for the crowning touch, try this delicious marinade for the fruit. Combine bottled Russian dressing with an orange-flavored liqueur. The sweet-tangy flavor of Russian dressing and the spirited taste of the fruit liqueur will add a delightful subtle touch to each piece of fruit. If you lack the liqueur, you could substitute fresh orange juice for this highly original marinade, if you wish.

As a perfect accompaniment to this salad, serve a mild Gouda cheese and then pass the pitcher of tall frosty iced tea.

FRESH FRUIT BOWL RUSSE

1 cup bottled Russian Dressing
6 tablespoons Triple Sec Liqueur or fresh orange juice
2 cups fresh melon balls
3 medium peaches, peeled and sliced
4 medium apricots, peeled and sliced
1½ cups seeded grapes
1 cup pitted fresh cherries
1 cup fresh blue berries
4 medium plums, peeled and sliced
2 cups cubed fresh pineapple
1½ cups cubed fresh coconut

In large bowl, combine Russian dressing and liqueur. Add fruits and coconut; stir gently. Marinate in refrigerator, stirring occasionally, 3 hours or until fruit is chilled. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Marinated Spareribs Are True To Tahitian Cuisine

Treat guests to a sample of Tahiti in your dining room or backyard. Pork, popular with the islanders, is a wise selection for the main course, according to home economist Reba Staggs of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

When marinated in a mixture of French dressing, ginger, soy sauce and pineapple juice, spareribs are true in flavor to Tahitian cuisine which is a combination of tropical and French. Rice is an appropriate accompaniment while combined fruits maintain the island theme.

TAHITIAN SPARERIBS

4 to 6 pounds spareribs
¾ cup garlic-flavored French dressing
2 teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup soy sauce
½ cup pineapple juice

Combine dressing, ginger, salt, soy sauce and pineapple juice. Pour marinade over spareribs and refrigerate 8 to 10 hours or overnight. Turn spareribs over while marinating. Place ribs on a rack in a roasting pan. Bake in a moderate over (350°F.) 2 hours or until done. Baste ribs every 15 to 20 minutes with marinade. 4 to 6 servings.

Raisin Bread Snack

Serve an eye-catcher for lunch or at party-time. Spread four slices of buttered raisin bread with contents of 1 (4¾-ounce) can of chicken spread. Cover with a layer of peeled apple slices dipped in lemon juice. Serve as open face sandwiches or top with additional raisin bread slices.

Luscious Dessert Is Easy To Make

So many summer occasions call for a luscious dessert that's easy to make, yet especially pretty! A bridal shower. . .a bon voyage party for vacationing friends. . .birthdays and anniversaries. . .the bride's first company dinner. . .all require elegant, cooling desserts.

These Frosty Maple-Cream Molds are a summer dessert delight. You can prepare them a day in advance; in fact, Frosty Maple-Cream Molds should be frozen at least overnight. Preparation is so simple, too; maple-blended syrup, eggs and cream are cooked 'til slightly thickened, then poured into decorative molds for freezing.

You needn't worry about dessert again until serving time. When ready to serve, unmold the creamy desserts on individual plates and top each with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

Next time you're looking for a scrumptious dessert for a special summer occasion, try this recipe. Frosty Maple-Cream Molds offer more flair than fuss — just right for warm weather entertaining.

FROSTY MAPLE CREAM MOLDS

4 eggs, beaten
1 cup maple-blended syrup
1½ cups half and half of light cream
Sweetened whipped cream
6 maraschino cherries

Combine eggs and syrup in medium-sized saucepan. Stir in cream. Cook over medium heat about 7 minutes or until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Pour into six 2/3-cup molds; freeze overnight. Six servings.

Top each with a dollop of sweetened whipped cream and garnish with a maraschino cherry.

Macaroni Salad

A 12-ounce can of chilled corned beef is the basis for a 6-serving main-dish marcaroni salad. Cook 1 (7-ounce) package elbow marcaroni as label directs. Drain and mix with ½ cup of minced celery, ¼ cup of minced onion, and contents of 2 (4-ounce) cans of coarsely diced pimiento. Cube the corned beef and add it to marcaroni with 1½ cups of mayonnaise. Season to taste with salt, pepper, worcestershire and liquid red pepper sauce. Chill before serving.

Novato Family Home After Month Of Play

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Chester MacPhee of the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato have returned to their home following a month's stay in the Hawaiian Islands.

With them were their son and two daughters and families, Messrs. and Mmes. Chester MacPhee Jr. of Ross, John Russell of Kent Woodlands and James Collins of Greenbrae and their children. They flew to Kauai where they stayed a week at the Sheraton; then they spent a week at the Royal Hawaiian and a week at Makaha in Honolulu.

When their children and 11 grandchildren returned to Marin County, Chet and Marge toured the islands for another week. Mr. MacPhee is grand master for the states of California and Hawaii for the Masonic Lodge.

PLANNING A trip to England in August are Mrs. Robert Hindmarch of Novato and two of the Hindmarch children, 9-year-old Kathryn and Bill, 14 years old. This is the first trip to England for Kathryn, who was born here.

It has been 10 years since Mrs. Hindmarch has been to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell in Sunderland, on the Northeast Coast of England. She is also looking forward to showing Kathryn London.

Staying at home in Novato will be her husband and two sons, John and Philip.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell have many friends in Novato as they have made two trips here.

HONORED SUNDAY afternoon at a shower given by her aunt, Mrs. Madeline Anthony, was Charlene Reece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. Reece of Mill Valley. Twenty guests attended the party at Mrs. Anthony's San Francisco home.

Charlene will become the bride of Paul Beasley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Beasley of Sonoma, on Aug. 16 at Peace Lutheran Church in Mill Valley.

MR. AND MRS. Hubbard Sundborg of San Rafael have announced the marriage of their daughter Mary Christine to Abdel Rahman Almahdy of San Francisco.

The couple were married July 19 in Oakland at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pollar.

The bride was graduated from San Rafael High School and College of Marin.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Leonard Sundborg of San Rafael. Her sister, Betty Elin Sundborg, and her brother, Scott Hubbard, live in San Rafael.

STAYING AT the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu on their second trip to the islands this year are Mr. and Mrs. John Brocato of San Anselmo. On this trip their son and daughter-in-law, Tom and Joy Brocato, have joined them. Tom is a graduate student at the University of California at Riverside.

CHRIS VAN WART, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Van Wart of Larkspur, attended the bi-annual leadership conference of her sorority, Alpha Delta Pi. The conference was held in Culner, Ind.

Chris is vice president of her sorority and president of Panhellenic at the University of California.

MEMBERS OF the deYoung Museum Society and Patrons of Art and Music of the Palace of the Legion of Honor will attend a preview party for the "Old Master Drawings from Chatsworth" show at the deYoung Museum.

The preview will be held Thursday evening, and the show will be open to the public Friday through Aug. 30.

Mrs. Gregory Solon of Kentfield has arranged the British decor for the preview.

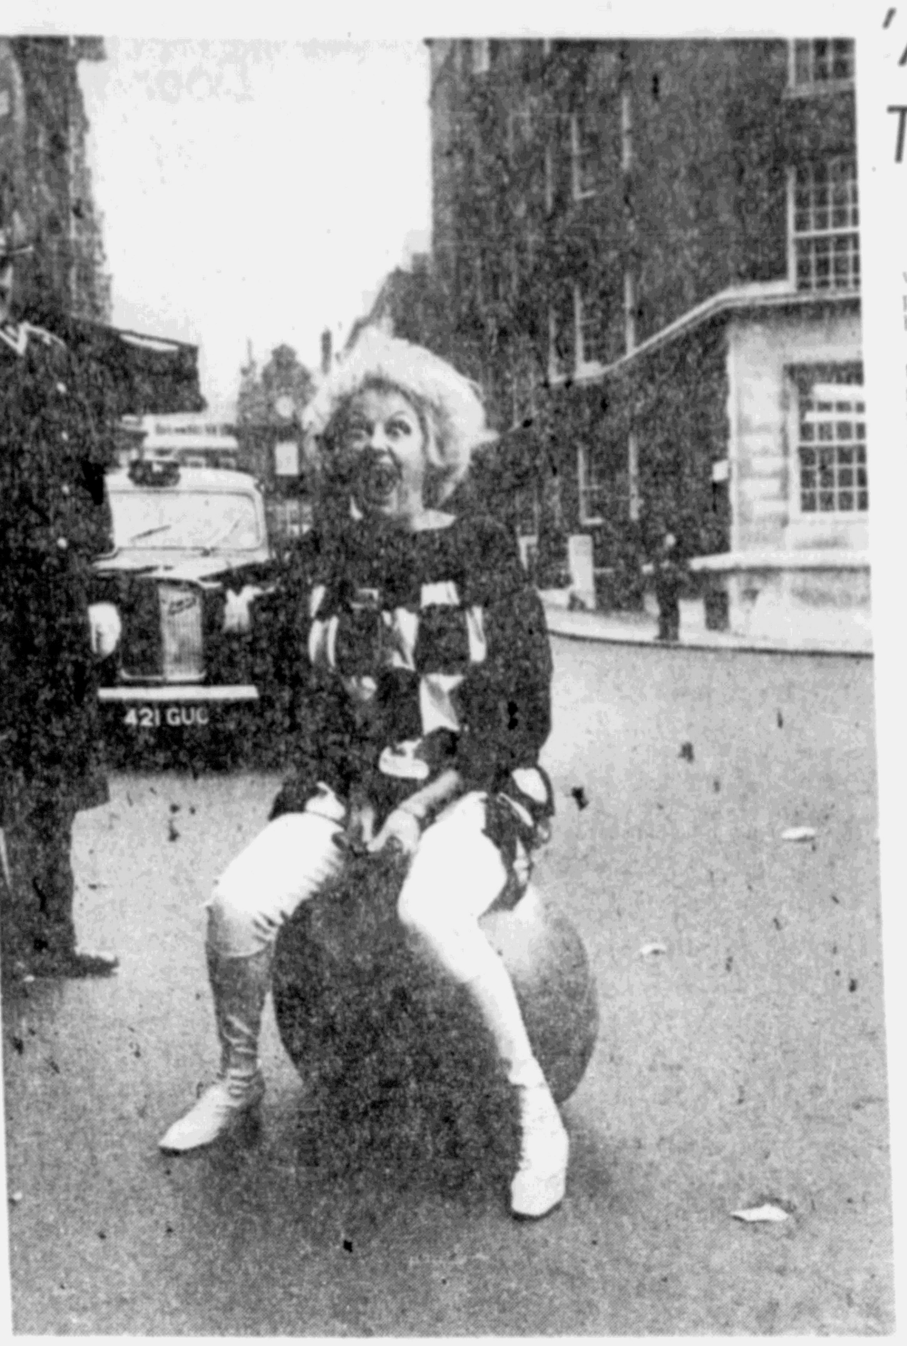
KIMBERLY SHAYNE Russell, who will become the bride of Henry Hilsmann on Aug. 8 in Mill Valley, will be honored at a shower given by her matron of honor, Mrs. Daniel Muller of Idaho. The party will be given at the home of Mrs. Muller's mother, Mrs. Paul DeFremery of Mill Valley, with 12 guests invited.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Beverly Russell of Mill Valley, and Henry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Hilsmann of Mill Valley.

Another shower was given for Beverly recently by a bridesmaid, Anita Douglas at her home in Mill Valley. Ten guests invited attended.

MR. AND MRS. Erret Gardner of Guam are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jay Kroeter, and her husband and three sons, Erret, 7, Kelly, 4, and Gardner, 9 months old, at the Kroeters' Marin Country Club Estates home.

This is the first time the Gardners have seen their new grandson.



PHYLLIS DILLER, the commedienne who laughs at her own jokes, discussed her dislike for body contact, women's liberation and the permissive society during a stay in London. Her acerbic wit has earned her the name Killer Diller, but in private she is softer and kinder, although not uncritical.

'A Peeping Tom Asked Me To Pull Down My Blinds'

By CLIVE RUSSELL
London Express Service

I refused to shake hands with Phyllis Diller when I parted from her at Les Ambassadeurs Park Lane club.

She stood there, hair at attention, in a canary yellow flounced dress and matching tights, holding out her hand, surely one of the world's only women to become a millionaire by her own efforts in middle-age — and she thanked me for my refusal.

It was a moment to tell my grandchildren about, though I don't know quite how I'd tell it to reflect any credit on myself.

"I'm not crazy about body contact," one of America's top comediennes had said 10 minutes earlier. "Not until you're crazy about someone. It's fine for special occasions, like baptising a baby, but not otherwise.

"The handshake is obsolete. Originally it was to show you were unarmed, that you didn't have a stone in your hand. I think it would be good to get rid of that and to have a slight bow as they do in the Orient."

By the time I'd left she had forgotten that. But then Killer Diller, as she's come to be known for her acerbic wit, talks hard and fast and at random with a figurative stone clutched aggressively in her hand.

"I've just analyzed the word wise-crack," was the first thing she said when we met. "It means, literally, a wise saying — but quick. That brings it right up from being an inferior thing. In other words humor cuts through the unnecessary garbage and says something that's wise, it hits home with the truth. The deeper the truth, the bigger the laugh."

HAD SHE seen David Frost's television interview with Peter Ustinov in which Ustinov's deep and subtle truths had met with stony silence by the studio audience?

"I didn't see that, but I do know that if you pull your punch, and she explained in detail what that meant in boxing terms — if you show any doubt at all that what you're saying is funny, it doesn't work at all."

Phyllis has never shown any doubt that she says is funny. She concludes her wisecracks with loud slow deliberate laughter like comic strip laughter, ha-ha-ha-ha. If the clientele of Les Ambassadeurs had not had upper lips to anchor them, their eyebrows would have shot up.

It took courage, determination and ability far beyond what is normally needed for Miss Diller to become a hugely popular comedienne. She was middle-aged, a mother of five, unbeautiful, unglamor-

Miller-Robinson Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robinson of San Rafael have announced the engagement of their daughter, Alice, to James Miller of Terra Linda.

Alice was graduated from Terra Linda High School and attended College of Marin. She is employed by Firemaster, Inc., in San Francisco. Tom Robinson, who is in the Navy stationed in Norfolk, Va., is her brother.

James is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Miller of Terra Linda. He was also graduated from Terra Linda High School and also attended College of Marin. The future bridegroom is employed by W.C. Garvie Boat Builder in San Rafael. He is the brother of Marilyn and Steven Miller.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Reader Enumerates Telephoning Gripes, Asks For Thoughtfulness

DEAR HELEN:

I have arthritis so it's hard to get to a phone. Acquaintances know this, yet they still hang up after three or four rings. Then I'm greeted with a buzz after painfully hobbling across the house.

Another infuriating telephoner is the woman who pours out all her troubles, non-stop for 15 minutes, then when you try to tell her something about yourself or your family, she says, "My favorite TV program just came on. Gotta go."

And then there's the one who talks on and on and on and, if you tell her someone is at the door or your dinner is burning, she calls back in an hour to "finish."

Could you please tell people again to be considerate about using the telephone? It is a blessing that can sometimes turn into a curse. — READER

DEAR READER:

You've already told them. Thanks — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I get up to fix my husband's breakfast and see him off to work. Then I feed the baby (who has been up since six a.m.). Then we both take a nap, and I start my second day about 10 a.m.

My mother-in-law disapproves. She makes little cuts about how her daughter has all her housework done by 9:30. Lately she's been calling me almost every morning between 8:00 and 9:00. Oh, very friendly, but I know. If she can't shame me into staying up, she'll see to it I don't sleep anyway.

I tried taking the phone off the hook, but then she "dropped in" on the way to the store because she was "worried about me."

I'm naturally polite and I don't want a fight, but I think I have as much right to sleep when my baby naps as she does to play bridge in the afternoon. My house is always clean and dinner ready when my husband gets home — and that's more than you can sometimes say for his mother. What can I do? — NAP NIPPED

DEAR N.N.:

How about calling your m-in-l each morning at six "to hear the baby's new word" or something? If her husband complains, then perhaps the two men might figure a peaceable compromise for their women. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is for the person who complained that "dirty books" were sold in the psychology, sex and art sections of good bookstores.

Does "Shocked" think sex is dirty? Psychology is related to both mind and body. Maybe he'd consider Freud lewd. As for dirty pictures in the art section: What is more beautiful than a fine painting or sculpture of a nude?

Maybe if parents did their job and educated their children about sex matters, the young people wouldn't have to run to the local bookstore and leave their smudged thumb prints on the pages of a "dirty book."

If adults feel they need a bookstore just for their books, that are actually the same "dirty books" "Shocked" complains about, then these adults must be looking for something they lack. If beauty is in the eye of the beholder, then too, dirt is in the mind. — SUZANNE

Door-To-Door Companies Set Up Stiff, Enforceable Ethics Code

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The "good guys" are catching up to the "bad guys" in the business of selling products from house to house.

The Direct Selling Association, an organization that represents most of the large companies selling from door to door, has just set up a stiff code of ethics and the means of enforcing it.

This in itself is no guarantee of progress, for many ethical codes are not worth the paper they are written on. But all signs indicate that this one is different and the Association really means business.

The fact is that few industries need policing more than this one. The difference is that the larger firms that control the Association have come to realize that strict enforcement of ethical standards is not only "The Right Thing to Do," the title of an Association flyer, but also the most profitable thing to do in the long run.

Consumers also stand to profit from what the industry is doing to purge itself of the worst actors. A little knowledge of the Association and its plans can help consumers get their money's worth and get satisfaction in disputed cases.

UNDER THE procedure set up by the Association, a single complaint against a member firm can set in motion a whole series of investigations and hearings. The organization cannot prosecute, of course, but it can recommend such action, and it can use the power of publicity.

In effect, the Association has thus set itself up as a service to assist consumers as well as members resolve matters in dispute. It does not mean that complainants will always get what they want, but it means that their cases will at least get considered seriously.

For the worst cases, where outright fraud is suspected, the organization to call, of course, is the police. And the Association itself would do the same, according to its president, J. Robert Brouse.

Consumers have another thing going for them. It is the growing acceptance of a three-day cooling-off period. The Direct Selling Association has approved the idea for all buyers and sellers. Its directors have even agreed not to oppose a proposed law that would apply the concept only to their industry.

Under the "Truth-in-Lending" law, a three-day cooling-off period is required whenever a credit purchase is secured by a home mortgage. Some 20 states now also allow some sort of period in which a buyer can cancel the deal for any reason without obligation.

Consumers can help the industry raise its own standards by dealing with firms that are working to raise them through their own association. Consumers can also test the sincerity and effectiveness of the association by sending inquiries and complaints to it. The address is 1730 M St. NW., Washington, D.C., 20036.

Phyllis Diller Is Critical Of Permissiveness And Women's Lib

ous, when she took to the stage.

"I think it's ideal to have wonderful work to do when you're older and your children have grown up. Having children to care for is a full time job, and it consumes you in a beautiful way because it takes up all of your resources and you go to bed at night happy and healthy and tired.

"BUT WHEN they're gone if you're not terribly careful you can become less than something great as a woman."

She stayed great by reeling off sharp but not quite bitter jokes along the lines that every harassed housewife/mother thinks:

"Just the other day a peeping Tom asked me topull down my blind.

'I found out why Mrs. Clean's laundry looks so much whiter than mine — she washes it.

"My mother-in-law is so old-fashioned she won't even wear a topless apron."

Cracks like these earned her lawsuits for alleged ridicule from her ex-mother and sister-in-laws. They also earned her a fortune on television and sackfuls of mail from housewives with their own double-edged jokes about the life of a housewife.

Killer Diller is the public face, but the private face is softer and kinder — but not uncritical.

"I DON'T BELIEVE in the equality of the sexes," she says. "I'm surrounded by gallantry. I married a gallant man. I'd miss it if it wasn't around me. Maybe that's because I attract it. I'm very helpless and very feminine. And I've got news for the Women's Liberation Movement: If they're going to have equality they're going to have to give up gallantry."

Killer Diller gives the permissive society a roughing up too: particularly the "tactile therapy" groups who believe that body contact leads to mental health:

"I know a lot of people nowadays think that it's a healthy thing to have body-contact with people, that it removes hang-ups and aggressions. All these nudes, and strokings and all that.

"I think it's a wonderful way to go to a 'clean' orgy under the auspices of someone respectable, so you know you won't go to jail.

"It's for people who can't find someone of their own to stroke. Personally, I'd pick up an alley cat — feed it and rub its ears and listen to it purr. I think these must be very sick people who have to go to any group thing. I really don't understand it. But what do you do with sick people?

"Ah! I know! It's in the Good Book — it says, 'heal thyself.' That's why I'd never subscribe to a group activity because I believe, heal thyself. I'd never really thought of it before, but that's my philosophy. It's what I've always done to myself, psychically and emotionally.

Space Age Plans For Quality Water

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Plans for an elaborate statewide system of space-age monitoring devices to keep watch over water quality were reported yesterday by top state water officials.

Kerry W. Mulligan, chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board, said that reports on water quality from the automatic remote monitoring system would feed continuously into a computed at the board's Sacramento headquarters.

A bell would ring if a monitored stream suddenly had too much phosphate, or showed a trend toward upsetting any of the other standards being checked. These might include temperature, salinity, rate of flow, oxygen content, algae and various pollutants, he said.

Mulligan, in a press conference at the International Water Pollution Research Conference, said he got the idea for the system from the moon landing. "I just thought if they can do it for space," Mulligan said, "why can't we do the samething here?"

He acknowledged that the initial need for such a system would be to check the performance of the State Water Project, to assure that the board's standards for protecting the Delta and San Francisco Bay are met by the state Department of Water Resources, which will run the project to divert Northern California water to the South.

Mulligan said the state already was working with three aerospace companies on research and development of the statewide monitoring system, and predicted that "we are only a year or two away from failsafe systems to monitor water quality."

He conceded that the cost of the system still was unknown, but noted that the state was hoping to spend more than $1 billion over the next five years in new hardware to control water pollution. The monitoring system would be relatively inexpensive, and would make sure that the hardware was working correctly, he said.

The remote monitoring system would be relatively inexpensive, and would make sure that the hardware was working correctly, he said.

The remote monitoring stations also should be placed along the state's coastline, Mulligan said.

The aerospace companies have assured the state "it's completely plausible economically and in every other way," he said.

Two of the companies already are sinking their own money into development of such a system, he noted. The technology for such a system is almost available now, but the real problem is reliability, Mulligan explained.

Jerome B. Gilbert, the board's executive officer, said that 40 to 50 of the remote monitoring stations probably would be needed.

Gilbert, asked how Southern California would get water in dry years if the water is needed to protect the Delta and bay, said the answer may be reclamation of waste water, desalting of ocean water, use of existing ground water reserves, or the Colorado River.

Mulligan noted that there have been only two dry years, 1930-31, in the past 46 years, and that water reserves in the state project would cover even longer dry periods. Only surplus Northern California water will be diverted south, he insisted.

Scottish Water Plan Sewage Woes Aired

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Unexpected and costly consequences of a major water project in Scotland may foretell similar problems for California's State Water Project, a British engineer cautioned yesterday.

J.I. Waddington, director of Scotland's Clyde River Purification Board, in a report to the International Water Pollution Research Conference, said that the diversion of fresh water from the Firth of Clyde was going to force huge new expenditures to upgrade sewage treatment.

Noting that the Clyde water system, which gets fresh water from fabled Loch Lomond before flowing into the sea, was similar to that of San Francisco Bay and the Delta, Waddington said he would be "scared to death" of California's project without a two to three-year study of whether similar consequences were likely here.

He reported that his board's study came belatedly after construction began on a dam to allow diversion of water from the loch, and that its findings are too late. The dam is more than half completed, he said.

The key finding was that the diversion will "very seriously deplete" the amount of dissolved oxygen in the firth, oxygen vital to all water life.

As a consequence of the finding, cities upstream along River Clyde will have to build costly facilities to purify their waste waters. And this cost comes immediately after the cities have just completed construction of treatment facilities expected to clean the riven enough so fish life would reappear in Glasgow. Except "for this damn thing," Waddington added.

Now, because of the diversion project, similar to California's much larger project to divert "surplus" water from Northern to Southern California, the cities on the River Clyde will have to cut by half their waste loadings — just to maintain the status quo.

Commenting that the diversion project "will nullify the benefits of the sewage improvements," Waddington said the argument now is who will have to pay for the extra treatment.

Removal Of Phosphates Successful

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A new method of removing phosphate from sewage waste, a key ingredient in water pollution, has been developed in Los Angeles.

The city's department of public works, in a report to the International Water Pollution Research Conference, said that it had succeeded in removing 95 per cent of the phosphate in a six-month experiment on 50 million gallons of sewage a day.

Conventional treatment systems are lucky if they remove 20 per cent of the phosphate.

Removal of phosphate is essential to fighting water pollution on rivers and in closed lakes because phosphate feeds algae, which in turn destroy the oxygen in water needed by aquatic life.

The Los Angeles plant at Hyperion found that the unexpectedly high removal came by increasing the aeration of sewage sludge, a relatively inexpensive process.

The department reported that the removal of phosphate can be combined with the removal of nitrates, another key ingredient in pollution.

Recycling Of Sewage Wastes Is Applauded

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Recycling of sewage waste water for reuse is cheaper that desalting the sea, and may even be cheaper than importing water from areas with an abundance of fresh water.

This was the thrust of reports yesterday at the International Water Pollution Research Conference by scientists and engineers from Israel to Los Angeles.

John D. Parkhurst of the Los Angeles County Sanitation District said that recycling brought the cost of water to $9 an acre foot, compared with $65 for imported water expected from the California Water Project.

But he and others conceded that the problem was more one of public acceptance than of technology or cost.

Hillel L. Shuval of Israel, noting that the U.S. Government already was pressuring communities to treat waste water up to 90 per cent of drinking standards because others will use it downstream, asked, "Why not go the other 10 per cent and drink it yourself?

Shuval noted that his nation had no choice but to recycle, since desalting sea water would cost two to three times more — and there are no water reserves.

Other reports noted that much of the water being drunk in the U.S. already comes from polluted sources.

Parkhurst called for a massive effort to build a 100-million plant to reclaim 100 million gallons a day, with the same sort of effort that went into the moon landing. "Once we do it, we will find it is economic and safe," he said.

Model Anticrime Package For Capital Is Now Law

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law today a sweeping anticrime package for the nation's capital —legislation he recommended to Congress as a model for the rest of the country.

It was the first major proposal to become law among various recommendations by the Nixon administration to combat crime.

Some provisions in the bill, under heavy attack even before congressional approval, are certain to face tests in the courts. Two of the most controversial are the "no knock" and preventive detention provisions but Attorney General John N. Mitchell defended both sections today.

The "noknock" provision permits police, after showing cause, to obtain special search warrants to allow them to enter and search premises without first knocking or announcing themselves.

Under the preventive detention provision, judges could order suspects jailed for up to 60 days prior to trial if the defendants were charged with forcible robbery, burglary of a dwelling, arson, forcible rape, or illegal drug sale.

Mitchell, in an interview this morning, said the bill "does not remove civil liberties."

"It provides proper law enforcements. Civil liberties will be protected because the courts will make proper safeguards."

He made the statements on the NBC-TV Today Show.

Nine Committed In School Riot

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Superior Court Judge Kenneth Holland Tuesday committed nine teenagers to the California Youth Authority for their participation in a riot at Morningside High School earlier this year.

The nine, ranging in age from 14 to 19 were among 14 arrested after a Feb. 24 outbreak during which a coach's car and several trash cans were set afire and a number of windows were broken.

Four of the 14 have had charges against them dismissed. A fifth was injured in a traffic accident and is still awaiting a hearing.

Length of the sentences for the youths was indeterminate.

Lindsay Issues New York Pollution Emergency Alert

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The mayor of New York activated the first stage of an air pollution emergency alert in the nation's largest city today as a blanket of dirty air hung motionless over much of the Atlantic Coast megalopolis for the fifth day.

"We have two crises on our hands — power and air pollution," Mayor John V. Lindsay declared following a morning of meetings with his Emergency Control Board and the president of Consolidated Edison Co.

As the first step in the alert the city Sanitation Department was ordered to cut incineration by 20 per cent and municipal hospitals and housing projects to stop their on site burning of garbage by 3 p.m.

Lindsay warned New Yorkers to "prepare for the banning of all private vehicles from certain areas of the city" if the crisis worsens.

He asked them to begin organizing car pools or using public transportation immediately and said the city would provide extra buses.

The mayor acted as the city's Air Resources Department announced the amount of sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide, smoke shade and oxidents in the air had reached the "unsatisfactory to unhealthy" stage.

Woman Resigns Marin GOP Post

Mrs. John F. Brennan resigned as executive secretary of the Marin County Republican Central Committee effective Nov. 3 because she is moving to Santa Rosa, chairman Rodgers C. Broomhead said today.

At last night's central committee meeting, it was also announced that Marin headquarters for the election campaign of Gov. Ronald Reagan and Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke will open in mid-August at 1403 B Street, San Rafael, Broomhead said.

The committee decided to maintain a calendar of important political events in the Bay Area at its 915 Lootens Place office in San Rafael to inform anyone calling, he said.

Canada Strikes Give Postmen A Holiday

OTTAWA (UPI)—More than 3,000 Canadian postal workers had the day off Tuesday, 2,320 on strikes called by their unions and another 893 locked out by the government.

The strikes, called by the National Council of Postal Unions, hit 36 post offices and 15 postal stations. The lockouts affected 37 post offices.

57 Miles Of Trip Completed

DEATH VALLEY (UPI)—Boris Yankoff, a 56-year-old private investigator had completed 57 miles of his 125-mile run across this searing desert by early today.

Yankoff is making his fourth trip in five years across Death Valley National Monument and district ranger Albert Schneider said he was moving along at a "good clip."

Yankoff's plan was to make the trip straight through without sleep. He was to make only a few rest stops on his way from Shoshone to Scotty's Castle.

PRIMARY SCHOOL CENSUS TO DIP

There isn't any urgent need for additional classrooms in the primary grades in the San Rafael Elementary School District with a decline in enrollment expected in the next three years.

Supt. John F. Plank gave that report last night to the San Rafael Board of Education during a discussion of planning a building program.

Board members pondered the implications of a declining enrollment and limited funds on the building program, including the middle school concept and use of school sites.

Plank estimated elementary district enrollment would decline about 3 per cent a year until the 1973-74 school year when it would level off at about 4,400 pupils.

Elementary enrollment at 4,785 during the last school year is expected to dip to 4,645 in 1970-71, 4,510 in 1971-72 and 4,385 in 1973-74.

The expected drop of elementary district pupils "raised the possibility of consolidating attendance areas and closing an elementary school to reduce overhead expenses," Plank said.

Board members mentioned the possibility of selling a 9.7-acre elementary school site at Riviera and Biscayne drives, Peacock Gap, purchased last year at a cost of $190,001.

Concerning middle schools, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, Plank said an additional school wouldn't be needed.

The district has a site for a third middle school at Glenwood, but that proposal was shelved after voters twice rejected bond proposals for the school last year.

Plank said there was $360,000 in elementary district bond funds available for building, and a shop is needed at Santa Venetia Middle School and a music building at Davidson Junior High School.

Architect Chester Bowles Jr., of Marshall and Bowles of San Francisco, estimated the shop would cost $100,000 and the music building $100,000.

Miscellaneous projects at other elementary schools, such as modernizing the lighting at West End School and improving grounds, would cost about $60,000, said Plank.

"This would leave about $100,000 in bond funds," Bowles said. This $100,000 could be used to remodel Santa Venetia Middle School to function as an "open are" middle school, or it could be used to add five classrooms each to Santa Venetia and Davidson schools.

With both the shop and additional classrooms the capacity of Santa Venetia Middle School would be increased from 400 to 675.

With both the music room and additional classrooms, the capacity of Davidson Junior High would be increased from 720 to 880, Bowles said.

With additional classrooms at Santa Venetia and Davidson schools, each could accommodate the expected middle school enrollment.

Board member John C. Pfeiffer felt that Davidson Junior High should remain a seventh and eighth grade school. "Since Santa Venetia started the Middle School program, let's make it a real middle school, and open enrollment there."

Board members agreed that without comment from faculty members and adinistrators on the choices before them they would postpone any decisions as to which direction to take in building.

Board members reviewed an "open plan" for a building designed to replace the old building at Laurel Dell Primary School, which does not meet the Field Act standards regarding earthquake resistance.

Architect Richard C. Marshall explained the unit would contain two classrooms, a library and offices. The new building is expected to cost about $90,000 and the complete project about $140,000, Marshall said.

Enrollment in the San Rafael High School District, Superintendent Plank told the board, is expected to increase three per cent a year for the next three cent and then level off. The present capacity of San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools can accommodate that small growth, he said.

Board To Pay $37.50 For Peace Signs

San Rafael Board of Education last night agreed to pay the Student-Faculty Coalition at San Rafael $37.50 for loss of material and labor resulting from confiscation of peace signs at graduation ceremonies last month.

The coalition has been seeking $65 for materials and labor and $500 punitive loss, but the board ruled punitive damages as out of its jurisdiction.

The signs were confiscated just before the graduation ceremonies, when the students were told they wouldn't be permitted. The coalition contended that only 33 of 150 signs were returned.

The $37.50 was a compromise among board members with Board Member Lawrence I. Kramer ready to pay $50 and Board President Herman L. Childress favoring a $25 payment.

Supt. John F. Plank said Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino had advised that the board legally could make restitution by negotiation. The alternative would be to "go to lawyers," Plank commented.

About a dozen students attending the session made no comment when the board approved the $37.50 payment.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

HIRING — Authorized the hiring of Lea Anderson, crafts teacher, high school district, at $6,275 a year; Linda Ballati, girls physical education, high school district, $7,844; and Robert Hixson, intermediate grades teacher, elementary district, $7,844.

COMMUNITY — Adopted a revised policy on community relations which calls for a standing San Rafael City Schools Citizens Advisory Committee, composed of 30 residents, 15 nominated by the board, and one nominated by each school parent-teacher organization.

MEETING SCHEDULE — Adjourned until 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Administration Building, Third and E Streets, for a special meeting on goals and curriculum. The next regular meeting and public hearing on elementary and high school district budgets will be at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday, and the second regular meeting in August at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 25 at the Administration Building.

CHANGE ORDER — Approved a change order in the San Rafael High School gymnasium rehabilitation project at a cost of $471.

HANDBOOK — Approved a revised handbook for non-teaching employees, which Supt. John F. Plank said contained "relatively minor changes."

BOARD'S ROLE — Reviewed a proposed revised policy on by-laws of the board, with comment from Board Member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. that it should mention the board's responsibility "to consider new ways of education."

Board members Paul L. Jones and Carl J. Brown were absent.

History Panel For Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Library Association has formed a group to interview persons with a knowledge of Mill Valley history.

Called the oral History Committee, the group has conducted and tape recorded seven interviews. Persons interested in helping with the work of the committee may write to it at the Mill Valley Public Library, 375 Throckmorton Avenue.

The tapes probably will be used as part of Mill Valley's 70th birthday celebration in September and ultimately will become part of a permanent archive at the library devoted to Mill Valley history, according to Gail Weber, committee member.

SIR JOHN BARBIROLLI
World-wide conductor

Sir John Barbirolli Dies At 70

LONDON (UPI)—Sir John Barbirolli, conductor-in-chief of Britain's Halle Orchestra, died Tuesday night. He was 70.

The former New York conductor had been under medical treatment since collapsing during a rehearsal May 29.

Music consumed his life from his first stint as a conductor at the age of 11 until his death.

His greatest fame came in England when he resigned as conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in 1943 to reorganize the relatively weak Halle Orchestra in Manchester.

The son of an Italian father and a French mother, Barbirolli was born over a bread shop in London in 1899. His father, a wandering musician, was leading a theater orchestra in London at the time.

In 1924, he founded the Barbirolli string orchestra of 12 players, and sky-rocketed to fame.

He was known as a man who preferred musical notes to monetary notes. This became clear in 1934 when he left his $30,000-a-year position in New York to join the Manchester Orchestra for $12,000.

A man proud of his British origins, Barbirolli frequently mentioned his cockney background. He was knighted for his music in 1949.

After 15 years at the helm of the Halle, Sir John became its principal conductor, an arrangement that freed him to accept other engagements. In 1967, his title was changed to Conductor Laureate for life.

In 1960, he traveled to Texas to succeed Leopold Stokowski as conductor-in-chief of the Houston Symphony Orchestra.

He is survived by his wife, Lady Barbirolli, who is well-known professionally as the oboist Evelyn Rothwell.

College Considers Override Tax Levy

If voters in the Marin Junior College District reject a proposed tax rate and bond issue election in November, the district could meet operating and capital needs by levying override taxes that might climb as high as $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation, the district board was told last night.

With capital projects planned for the new north campus and the Kentfield campus totaling $25 million in the next five years, the override tax needed for pay-as-you-go financing would fluctuate widely up to the $1.35 figure, Business Mgr. Norman Bird said.

What the board is considering is a two-part proposal for the November ballot — one for a $17 million bond issue and the other for a 15-cent or 25-cent tax rate increase to meet general operating costs.

The bond issue would cost from 19 cents to 12 cents a year over a 25-year amortization period, a table drawn by the county auditor's office showed.

But the board got bad news from Auditor Michael Mitchell about a bond election. Until the U.S. Supreme Court rules on it, the recent state Supreme Court ruling that bond issues need only a simple majority will not apply to bond elections, Mitchell wrote.

The U.S. court is unlikely to rule before next spring, and the ruling probably will not be retroactive, so an election before that which failed to get a two-thirds majority would lose, Mitchell wrote. The bond counsel firm of Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliffe has indicated it will not approve sale of any bonds approved by less than a two-thirds vote until the U.S. court ruling.

Projects which could be financed by the $17 million bond issue and matching state and federal funds were listed by Planning Director Dale A. Fleming.

Projects for 1971-72 would total $263,600 for planning, minor projects, and remodeling of Olney Hall and the chemistry and business buildings.

The 1972-73 total would balloon to $12.3 million for initial construction on the north campus and $2.9 million for work at Kentfield including remodeling and rehabilitation of the library, engineering and industrial arts buildings and art building, reclaiming marshland, expanding parking, a corporation yard, site development, and land acquisition.

In 1973-74 $2.3 million would be spent on the north college for equipping initial facilities, buying library books, planning, and creating parking spaces. At Kentfield, $1.7 million would go for building a classroom center, athletic expansion including bleachers and field lights, site development and minor projects.

In 1974-75 another $2.8 million would go into the north college for the second increment of facilities and site development, and $1 million at Kentfield for classroom construction, land acquisition, physical education facilities and planning.

In 1975-76 north campus investment would drop to $523,000 for equipment, parking, and planning. Kentfield outlay would be $1.2 million for an administration center, planetarium, site development and land acquisition.

The trustees discussed three ballot proposals, but were unable to decide among them. Trustee Harry J. Moore objected they were too long, saying the voter would vote no rather than read through them.

The board also reached no decision on whether to seek the new tax rate increase for an indefinite period or a fixed term.

Supt.-President John A. Grasham listed advantages and disadvantages of each. The indefinite term has distinct advantages for district long-range planning, but trustees were pessimistic about chances of the voters approving an indefinite term.

For its first year, the district tax rate would drop since the ballot proposal is for a 25-cent or 15-cent increase, while the present 35-cent special levy is due to expire in 1972.

The board agreed to take up the discussion again Thursday, when a special meeting is scheduled at 8 p.m. to discuss equipping the new science center. The equipment discussion will end at 9 p.m. and the financing taken up again then, Grasham said. The meeting will be in the testing office of the business center.

The board canceled a scheduled tour of the science center and Harlan Center, both under construction, which was to start at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow. The tour

Quintet Will Play Sunday In Mill Valley

The San Francisco Woodwind Quintet and guest violist David Smiley will present a free public chamber music concert Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Mill Valley Public Library.

Works by Danzi, Holst, Nielsen, Etler, Debussy and Liadov will be performed.

Active in chamber music more than ten years, the quintet is composed of Gary Gray, flute, James Matheson, oboe; Frealon Bibbins, clarinet; Raymond Ojeda, bassoon; and Robert Dickow, French horn. Four play with the San Francisco Symphony, and all play in the San Francisco Opera Orchestra.

Also a member of the San Francisco Symphony and Opera Orchestras, Smiley, who lives in Mill Valley, has been with the Bloch String Quartet four years and was leader of the Golden Gate String Quartet.

Music for Sunday's concert is provided through the cooperation of Local 6 of the American Federation of Musicians, AFL-CIO.

Plea Date Set In Check Case

Richard Anthony Alonzo, 18, of no known address, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on two counts of possessing checks with intent to defraud others.

Alonzo was arrested last Thursday when he went to the San Rafael police station to ask if there were any warrants out for him and it turned out there were.

He is accused of cashing checks at a San Rafael tavern that had been stolen from an attorney.

His case was continued to Aug. 11 for entry of plea.

Woman Given $50,000 For Cable Car Mishap

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission has decided to pay Gloria Sykes $50,000 for the cable car accident in which she claimed to have been made sexually aggressive.

"It could have been worse," said one member of the commission after it voted to pay off rather than fight the case in a higher court. A Superior Court jury last April awarded the 34-year-old woman the damages. She had sued for $500,000.

PUC Approves Grade Crossing In Corte Madera

The state Public Utilities Commission yesterday approved Corte Madera's application for a railroad grade crossing which will provide access to a large bayfront area scheduled for future development.

The PUC order authorizes a 64-foot wide crossing at Tamalpais and San Clemente drives, marked with crossing signs.

Arthur N. Morrison, Corte Madera public works director, said the crossing and street will be built by Dominic Muzzi, owner of the area. Development plan for Muzzi's land, known as the Westshore Plan, has been approved in principle by the town but needs further authorization by town and regional authorities before development. The plan calls for a resort motel and industrial park, a marina, a convalescent hospital, residential development and a park or golf course.

Once built, the grade crossing is to be maintained by the town and Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

MUSIC REVIEW

Marin's Double Duo Makes Fine Evening

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

What was started several years ago by the Marin Double Duo as "music for a summer evening" was even better music for a summer evening last night in a larger ensemble, the Marin Chamber Players, at the Fine Arts Theater of the College of Marin.

The original duo, composed of the husband-wife teams of violinist Charles Meacham, pianist Robaline Meacham, violist Lucien Mitchell and cellist Jean Mitchell, is still the basic part of the group. Added as guest artists for this concert, presented by the College of Marin Music Department, were soprano Margot Power and violinist Michael Gerling.

Highlight of the evening for me was the concluding quartet, Opus 7, by Schumann, performed by the double duo. Having played together for many years, this group shows the results in its highly polished style, perfect balance and sensitive rapport.

The quartet was romantic chamber music at its finest. Especially outstanding were the second movement, a scherzo-molto vivace, with marvelous precision achieved in its airy grace, and the third movement, an andante cantabile, in which each of the stringed instruments was in turn a featured singer almost as lyrical as the human voice.

Romanticism at its best was the son "Il Tramonte" (The Sunset) by Respighi, with text by Shelley accompanied by string quartet. Miss Power was so successful in expressing the emotional lyricism of this song that it did not matter if one did not understand the Italian words, since she had briefly explained the theme. Her effortlessly floated, sustained pianissimo passages were a delight.

Though she was equally successful in interpretation of mood in her opening group of seven Shakespeare songs set to music by Thomas Augustine Arne, the words could not always be understood. This may have been due to indistinct diction or to an accoustical problem caused by the deadening effect of stage curtains instead of a resonating surface in back of the performers. The songs were effectively accompanied by the two violins, cello and harpsichord played by Mrs. Meacham.

Quite a contrast with the rest of the program in its more modern and astringent sound was the duo for viola and violoncello by Walter Piston, performed by the Mitchells. Attention was focused in the andante sereno on the rich tone produced on these low-voiced instruments and in the allegro brilliant on the technical facility of the musicians.

Kean shot.

* If you saw this in the I-J you saw a national prizewinning photograph

He clicked

This "Kean shot" was taken by Jim Kean, I-J Staff Photographer, who has been known to crack a pun himself. The judges made these comments about it: "Jim Kean's lively action shot, 'Winners,' in the Independent-Journal tells the story. It is clear and sharp in detail and has a great deal of human interest." Which means it definitely is a "Kean shot."

This photograph, which hardly needs words to explain it, was judged second award-winner in the recent National Better Newspaper Contest under the classification, "Best Feature Picture." Obviously, it's a split-second shot. But behind it are years of experience, knowing where and how to look . . . part of the job of being an I-J Staff Photographer.

The point is that the I-J continually strives to bring you a better newspaper. Better news coverage, better articles, better features, and by the decision of highly-qualified judges, better photography.

Keeping pace with the I-J's talent are technological advances which place it among the leaders in the entire country.

LOOK OUT BELOW — A youth plummets toward the cool waters of Cascade Reservoir as another swims to get out of his way. Young people have been skinny-dipping at the lake since 1890, when the dam was built.

New Ideas At Ol' Swimmin' Hole

By GEORGE NEVIN

From all over the Bay Area they come to Mill Valley's Cascade Reservoir. Most of them are young, have long hair and like to smoke marijuana and swim in the nude.

They come from all over California and the East Coast as well. And they say they won't stop coming just because the city council has declared them personae non gratae.

Cascade Dam, with its tiny lake and luxuriant forest, has been a sore point with Cascade Canyon residents and the city council since it was annexed to Mill Valley in 1960.

There are many minor issues, but the crux of the problem is fire — people at the dam are careless with campfires (illegal) and cigarettes, say residents who feel that a major conflagration is inevitable as long as the public is allowed access.

The other issues include traffic congestion, nudity, pot smoking, sanitation problems and pollution of the lake. But it was the fire issue to which the city council reacted when it adopted an emergency ordinance July 20 barring the public from the dam.

Enforcement of the ordinance has been delayed while the parks and recreation department fabricates signs. Only after they are posted will The police department begin making arrests.

In the meantime, the reservoir is being used as it has been since the dam was built in 1890. About 20 freaks (as they call themselves) gathered at the dam the other day and gave the area the appearance of a scene from Huckleberry Finn.

Young, brown bodies covered the dam and a small sandpit. A few adventurous youths swung high over the water and dropped in. One young man climbed to the top of a tall tree and executed a perfect swan dive.

Talking with them yields the impression that the city council — which did not sound them out before passing the emergency ordinance — and the young people are like two radios going in a room, both broadcasting and neither receiving.

To a person, habitues of the reservoir said they can understand the need for caution with fire and would not start one if asked not to.

"The woods are beautiful. We don't want to burn them down," said a girl, who moments before had been swimming naked.

A young man said that "all they would have to do would be to post signs saying, 'Critical Fire Danger,' and people wouldn't build fires." He said he thought that young people would volunteer to patrol the area if the fire danger were explained to them.

David Rose, a 26-year-old San Francisco man, said that "the kind of people that come here wouldn't make fires if they were asked not to do so. Most of us don't smoke, so I don't think much of the fire hazard."

Donald Rubin, 18, a visitor from Los Angeles, admitted that responsibility is needed on both sides.

"Kids should be careful with fires and make concessions, too. If they (the city council and the residents) are willing to go half way, we should go half way, too," Rubin said.

The young people suggested solutions to other problems disturbing residents:

The hodgepodge of cars parked on Cascade Drive and Lovell Avenue: "Put in a small parking lot, or make people walk from town, or encourage bicycles."

Sanitation: "A few portable toilets would do it."

Contamination of the reservoir: "Everything is contaminated. Mothers' milk is contaminated. We don't think a healthy person will get sick from swimming here."

Nudity: "Put up a sign saying, 'Welcome to Cascade Reservoir, take off your clothes if you like, but at least don't be offended if others do.'"

As for the danger of drowning in the lake (two San Franciscans have died in the last 13 months), the youths feel that everything in life is dangerous. "If people are going to be careless with themselves and get drunk (William A. Guttmann was said to have been drinking before he drowned July 10), there's no way to prevent them from hurting themselves," said Peter Grossbad, 17, of Los Angeles.

Of the 20 or so at the dam Friday, only two said they wouldn't have gone there if they had known it was illegal. The others said they would continue to use the park even after the 'no trespassing' signs are posted.

"I live to break the law," said a long-haired youth who appeared to be in his early 20s. "Everything I do is against the law."

Another youth, who called himself Black Pirate and said that he lives in the woods on Mount Tamalpais, admitted that he wasn't aware of the new law but said it would not have made any difference. "I'll just come here when there's no one around," he said.

He laughed when told that he was violating three ordinances — being at the dam, being naked and swimming in the lake. "Let's break the law," he shoulted as he dove into the clear green water.

A quick poll of 10 others disclosed that only one knew he wasn't supposed to be there. The others had no idea.

"The basic thing isn't fires, but freedom," one youth ventured. "We're doing things here that they (the councilmen and residents) don't dare do. The only way for them to relax about what goes on up here is for them to take their clothes off and join us.

CRIMINALS ALL — Trespassing is illegal at Cascade Reservoir as the result of an emergency ordinance passed July 20, but no one has told these youths. They and most others who use the dam are unaware of the ordinance, but say they will ignore it just as they ignore the sign forbidding swimming.

Protesting American Prisoners' Treatment Doesn't Cost Much

It is easy to protest against the treatment of American prisoners of war by North Vietnam; it costs only 25 cents, and enough such protests may benefit the prisoners, according to Mrs. A.C. Anderson Jr., executive director of the Marin County Red Cross chapter.

The Red Cross is making a national campaign to get Americans to write Hanoi about the treatment of prisoners and the refusal to identify them or allow them to communicate with their families.

Mrs. Anderson offered the following suggestions:

"What to say: Express your concern for our men captive or missing in action. Ask for the identification of prisoners and for their humane treatment. Express the hope that prisoners will be allowed to correspond with their families. Ask that a neutral agent such as the Red Cross be allowed to inspect prisons, and remind that North Vietnam is bound by the Geneva Conventions to do these things, and that North Vietnam agreed to these conventions and signed them in 1957."

The letters should be addressed to: Office of the President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

The 25 cents is for an airmail stamp to carry the letter to Hanoi.

Audience Sought On Bypass Work

The Novato City Council last night requested a hearing before the California Highway Commission to ask for a speedup of the Highway 101 bypass project. (Another Novato Council story, page 1)

The request came after the council heard a report from a Division of Highways spokesman that the project, designed for completion in November, could be delayed until the third quarter of 1971.

Deputy District Engineer Leo J. Trombatore told the council that cutbacks in federal and state highway funds amounting to almost a third of the money programmed for the district caused the change in the bid advertising schedule.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack's proposal that the council request an audience with the highway commission to request a speedup of the project was approved, and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown was directed to attempt to obtain a hearing on the Sept. 18 and 19 commission agenda.

Womack also said that the council — which recently proposed moving the Atherton Avenue interchange of the bypass 200 feet north of site proposed by the Division of Highways — should not be responsible for causing further delays in the project, not even to get the access changes proposed.

Trombatore said that the highways division felt that the Atherton Avenue off-ramp in the present bypass design was adequate for traffic expected in 1990 and that changes could be made after completion of the project if the ramp was found inadequate.

He said he estimated the cost of the changes proposed to the division at $1 million and that he did not believe the changes could be carried out by a contract change order and therefore would delay completion of the project.

Councilman George C. Quesada challenged the $1 million cost figure for the change, and was told the cost figures were open to his examination.

PARK BOND — Passed a resolution of intention to hold a bond election for the acquisition and improvement of land for a community park and completion of Pioneer Memorial Park. What property to be acquired, the amount for the bond issue and date for the election were not specified. Placement of the issue on the regular November ballot and holding of a special election, possibly on Sept. 29, were discussed. Most discussion contemplated an $850,000 issue to purchase the O'Hair property at Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue.

DOWNTOWN PLAN — Set for Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. at Hill School a joint meeting of the council, the downtown study committee appointed by the council and the planning commission to discuss the comprehensive downtown development plan prepared by Sedway and Cooke consultants.

FISCAL REPORT — Received a preliminary report from Brown that fiscal 1969-70 revenues exceeded expectations by $145,000 plus $20,000 for planning and capital improvements, and that expenditures were $57,000 less than budgeted for the year.

CHASE-CHERRY — Accepted a $82,828 bid by Forde Construction Co. for the Chase and Cherry streets construction project, with the alternate asphalt concrete base and surfacing construction. Next lowest bid received was $3,827 higher.

LITTER LAW — Set for Aug. 11 at 8 p.m. public hearing on a proposed ordinance to control depositing of litter on public and private property and distribution of handbills.

INTERIM DIRECTOR — Named Brown interim finance director, pending hiring of a permanent director.

STRIKE — Directed Brown to prepare a resolution recommending that San Francisco Typographical Union 21 and the San Rafael Independent-Journal attempt mediation or submit to binding arbitration to settle the 29-week-old strike against the newspaper. The action was requested by Rev. James E. Symons of St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church of Mill Valley.

ZONING — Introduced a resolution to classify as single family residential three parcels of property overlooked when other annexed properties were zoned in April. The lots are located at the north end of Fabian Court, between Sutro and St. Francis avenues.

ANNEXATION — Annexed the Wilson Avenue properties of John Kelly and Daniel Wise.

BAHIA UNIT TWO — Approved a final subdivision map of the Bahia Unit Two housing development, consisting of ridge lots between Laguna Vista and Cerro Crest drives, after hearing a report from planning director Brian Mattson that the developer had acceded to three conditions imposed by the planning commission.

BAHIA UNIT 1B — Authorized Brown to execute grant deeds for sewer line easements in the Bahia Unit 1B development, lowlands surrounding the Andale Avenue and Malobar Drive cul-de-sacs, and to execute a 90-day extension of the city's agreement with the developer for completion of sidewalk replacement and miscellaneous work on the project.

COW BARN — Approved without discussion the master plan of the Cow Barn apartments on South Novato Boulevard.

JOINT POWERS — Authorized Brown to execute a continuation of the city's senior citizens joint powers agreement with Marin County under which the county will provide $2,000 for the senior citizens recreation program in exchange for opening of senior citizen activities to all Marin senior citizens.

SURPLUS — Declared six 1965 and 1967 sedans and two trucks surplus to the city's needs and authorized their sale by sealed bid at minimum prices ranging from $200 to $900.

SCOWN LAND — Postponed until Aug. 11 awarding of the contract for the Scown Land improvement project.

CHIT-CHAT WITH QUACK-QUACK

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Challenge To War Fails In Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An Assembly committee Tuesday decided the Indochina conflict is none of the legislature's business and defeated a bill prohibiting California servicemen from being required to fight in undeclared foreign wars.

Opponents of the measure by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, charged it would open "a Pandora's Box" which would allow all states to challenge the authority of the federal government.

The bill was based on a law recently enacted by the Massachusetts Legislature. The law is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

California servicemen, under the Vasconcellos bill, would be prohibited from serving in an undeclared foreign war such as the one in Vietnam.

The Vasconcellos bill and a similar measure by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, died on a 7-11 vote of the Ways and Means Committee with one Republican supporting the plan.

Democratic supporters made a futile effort to keep it alive by asking the committee to reconsider its action.

Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmont, initially voted for the bill. But he and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who said he favored it but was absent when the first vote was taken, could not return to the committee to support the move to keep the bill alive.

Bagley was on the Senate Floor all afternoon working for passage of the governor's tax passage.

The measure was intended to support the Massachusetts attempt to have the Supreme Court rule on the constitutionality of American involvement in the Vietnam war.

But the propriety of the legislature involving itself in national foreign policy was questioned by Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, committee chairman.

SEWAGE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill placing on the November ballot a $250 million bond issue designed to help local communities improve municipal sewage treatment plants was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

If approved by voters, the bond issue could generate $1 billion over the next five years, including $550 million in federal matching funds and another $200 million raised at the local level.

"This new measure escalates even further our fight against water pollution," Reagan said at a bill-signing ceremony in his office.

The governor said it would help communities increase efforts "to end water pollution by upgrading municipal sewage treatment programs so that they conform with our stringent water quality laws."

The administration-sponsored bill placing the issue on the ballot was carried in the legislature by Assemblyman Carley Porter, D-Compton, chairman of the Assembly Water Committee.

The bond act would change the present local-federal funding formula which requires cities to raise two-thirds of the money needed for sewage treatment facilities while the federal government supplies one-third.

Under the measure, cities would put up only 20 per cent of the funds while the state provides 25 per cent and the federal government 55 per cent.

LOAN RATES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill allowing personal loan firms to raise interest rates on certain loans today reached Gov. Ronald Reagan after gaining final legislative approval.

The measure by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, was passed Tuesday by the Senate on a 22-5 vote.

It would boost the current rate of 12 per cent a year on loans between $700 and $1,500 to 18 per cent a year.

Personal loan brokers need the higher interest rates in order to obtain lending money in the current tight money market, Briggs earlier told the Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee.

The higher rate would boost the interest on 543,000 loans a year in California, based on reported loans made in 1968, committee experts said.

'AMERICA WEEK'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature has asked Gov. Ronald Reagan to proclaim June 28-July 5 as "God Bless America Week" in California.

The Senate, on a 30-0 vote Tuesday, gave final legislative approval to the resolution by Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, and sent it to the governor.

Probers Continue Sonoma State Job

The investigating team from the State College Chancellor's Office today continued its study of possible mismanagement at Sonoma State College.

Yesterday and last night, the six-man team headed by Dr. Thomas H. McGrath, assistant executive vice chancellor, interviewed leaders of the college's three-county service area to sample opinions.

Dr. James B. Enochs, Sonoma State vice president, asked full cooperation from the campus so that all facts could be made known.

The team was dispatched to the campus by Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke to review utilization of facilities, faculty teaching loads, academic planning, accreditation, grading practices, fiscal management and administrative procedures.

One of the persons interviewed yesterday was Eugene Benedetti of Petaluma, president of Friends of Sonoma State College.

Benedetti said today that his organization did not request the investigation. He said that he and others from Marin and Sonoma counties formed an ad hoc committee of concerned citizens and had issued a statement earlier to the chancellor and state college trustees on improvements that might be made at the school.

In it, the men questioned the curriculum, utilization of physical and personnel resources and said a strong administrator would be needed to correct some irregularities.

Benedetti said the prime concern of the group was to be sure that the college would maintain its accreditation.

"We're all much in love with the school and don't want anything to happen to it," Benedetti said. "It's a tremendous asset," he added.

Posthumous Awards To A Woodacre GI

The family of a 19-year-old Woodacre soldier killed March 8 in South Vietnam yesterday received three medals awarded posthumously to their son.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius P. Goeree of 21 Madrone Avenue said today their son, Win Goeree, was awarded the Bronze Star, the Good Conduct Medal and the Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters by an Army representative during ceremonies at their home.

A citation accompanying the medals said young Goeret had "distinguished himself by outstanding meritorous service in connection with ground operations against a hostile force" between Dec. 8, 1969 and March 8, 1970.

The awards were presented to the soldier's parents by Second Lt. Linda M. Kahelin of the survivore assistance office at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Goeree, a door-gunner in an assualt helicopter unit stationed at Ban Me Thuot, died when a helicopter he was riding crashed from undetermined causes at Quang Duc.

His death is listed by the Army as "not as a result of hostile action."

Public Airing Blocked On ABAG Issue

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday squelched an attempt by Board Chairman Robert Theiller to hold a public hearing on possible withdrawal from membership in the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Theiller had scheduled a public hearing for Monday at 3 p.m., saying the board should hear public opinions on the value of ABAG and consider putting the membership question on the ballot in November.

Theiller has said he does not oppose the present form of ABAG, but feared it would turn into a regional form of government with taxing powers and become a threat to local control.

Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella of Sonoma, ABAG president, led the other four board members in opposing the public hearing and asked Theiller to consider alternates to ABAG membership before supporting a move to withdraw.

Vella, in a written statement, advised Theiller to clarify his position on the association as it is now constituted and to consult with representatives of the cities of Sonoma County on their feelings.

As to a new alliance for Sonoma County involving counties to the north, Vella suggested that Theiller get information from federal and state officials on whether a new group would be recognized to act as a clearing house for state and federal assistance funds.

Theiller said he would prepare a written response to Vella for presentation Monday afternoon.

L. Charles Smith Picked As Coordinator For Youth

The appointment of L. Charles Smith, deputy probation officer, as coordinator for the Marin County Youth Commission and Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission was announced last night at a meeting of the youth group.

Smith, 32, will succeed Gwen M. Monroe, on leave from the California Youth Authority, who is departing Aug. 15.

Smith, who lives at 2440 Center Road, Novato, with his wife and four children, has been working for the county probation department for four years as group councelor and deputy probation officer. Most recently, he was in charge of intensive supervision of problem youths at Juvenile Hall.

A graduate of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Smith was dormitory counselor at San Rafael Military Academy and worked with juveniles at Sunny Hills before county employment.

As youth coordinator, he will get $1,111 per month. His present salary is $1,120.

Representatives of the two commissions interviewed seven applicants last Friday and chose Smith, who was introduced to the youth group last night.

The youth group also considered applicants to fill two commission vacancies. Ann O'Rielly of Mill Valley and Ann Elliott of Ross have resigned because of college attendance. Names suggested to the board of supervisors for appointment were George Kewin, Sheila Maloney and Nick Harris, all of Supervisorial District 3 (Southern Marin) and Carol McClure, Dorie Nichols and Kirk Pessner, all of Supervisorial District 2 (Ross Valley.)

Board Delays Huddle On Dredging Plan

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors called for another delay yesterday in considering conditions of the gravel dredging operation on the Russian River at Jenner.

The board had been scheduled to consider the conditions at its meeting next Tuesday, but put the matter off until Sept. 15 at 2 p.m.

County Counsel Richard Ramsey said his office had encountered great difficulty in preparing a report for the board. Ramsey said the task of consolidating the suggestions of the planning department, Northern California Aggrigates, the dredging firm, and the opposition Jenner Coalition had turned into a monumental job.

Ramsey said his office has been faced with six proposed drafts of conditions and needed more time to consolidate them and give legal opinions.

During public hearings which began in March, conservationists and the Jenner Coalition opposed the dredging operation, calling it a threat to the reportedly fragile ecology of the area.

Representatives of Northern California Aggregates promised the supervisors that all steps would be taken to avoid any ecological damage and agreed that reasonable safeguards could be incorporated into conditions of a use permit.

JENNER BAY — Approved a resolution permitting minimum lot frontages of 40 feet in the Jenner Bay development on the Russian River.

BIDS — Opened bids for widening and realignment of Petaluma Valley Ford Road, with the apparent low bidder Wise and McGinty of Sonoma at $170,268. The estimated project cost was $175,000.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Sept. 1 at 2:15 p.m. to consider a planning commission recommendation to place Old Redwood Highway in Penngrove into a study district for one year.

Dixie Board Accepts Principal Resignation

The Dixie School District board last night accepted the resignation of Robert Schierbeck, principal of Dixie School.

Schierbeck resigned to take the post of director of instruction in the Sunnyvale School District.

The board scheduled a meeting for Aug. 17 at which it will probably appoint a successor to Schierbeck, Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff reported.

He said Supt. Clifford W. Campbell and John King, district personnel director, will interview candidates prior to the meeting.

The board hopes to make the appointment from the district staff, Goff said, adding that the board will probably meet in closed session to discuss the appointment prior to the Aug. 17 meeting.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

CONTRACT 8 authorized a contract with the Marin County Schools Office for audio-visual services for the 1970-71 school year at a cost to the district of $8,347.

FUNDS — Approved borrowing up to $700,000 from the county to carry the district through the summer and early fall until receipt of local tax funds.

FENCE — Awarded to the Abel Fence Co. of San Rafael a $2,210 contract for fencing the Indian mound at Miller Creek School. Goff said $1,220 for the project has already been raised by the Miwok Archaeological Preserve of Marin.

RAISE — Approved a salary increase to meet new union wage scales for the district's master painter, Harold Hoipkemeier of 215 Baltimore Avenue, Corte Madera, from $785 to $850 a month.

MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday for a public hearing on the 1970-71 budget.

Marinwood Panel Hikes Firemen Aid

The Marinwood Community Services District board last night added $300 to its fire department budget for 1970-71, bringing the department's budget to $85,330 and the total district budget to $202,465.

Proposed allocations of $11,930 for street lights and $105,205 for parks and recreation were left unchanged, Genevieve T. Bolding, business manager and secretary of the district, reported.

Mrs. Bolding said the $300 added will be to increase life insurance coverage of regular and volunteer firemen. She said the district may pay the full $341 premium if funds are available when the payment is due Dec. 1.

The Marinwood Communtiy Services District board also:

COMMISSION — Appointed Kirk Beales of 11 Mount Burney Court an alternate member of the Marinwood Fire Commission.

FUNDS — Approved an agreement with the county under which the district and the county will each contribute $500 for a senior citizens program in the district.

PENSIONS — Put over until Aug. 25 discussion of possible pension plans for some employees and a work-study program contract with the College of Marin.

2 Appraisers To Weigh Cotati School

Cotati School District trustees, looking forward to sale of the Cotati School, last night approved employment of two appraisers to evaluate the property.

The appraisal cost was estimated at $1,500. Most interest in purchase of the building on West Sierra Avenue has been expressed by the Cotati City Council.

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen has been instructed to negotiate with the school district for purchase of the building for a new city hall.

The Cotati School District board also:

BOUNDARY — Heard that legal procedures to enlarge the district boundary lines might have to begin anew. The Sonoma County counsel's office noted that the two residents of the area to be annexed signed the origina petition, but have since moved away.

APPLICATION — Approved an application for $16,245 from the federal government for remedial reading and mathematics programs.

BUDGET — Set a public hearing on the 1970-71 budget for Aug. 4 at 8 p.m. The regular board meeting will be held after the hearing. The Aug. 11 meeting was canceled.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of teacher Melanie Johnson, who will be leaving the country.

Smuggling Aliens Nets $700 Fine

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—A Torrance aerospace technician was fined $700 Tuesday as a condition of five years probation for smuggling Mexican aliens into the United States.

The sentence was imposed in U.S. District Court against Jack Gerritsen, 34, who admitted smuggling 21 aliens across the border in three separate trips.

He was arrested May 14 in South San Diego after being stopped by a policeman for traveling on the freeway with high headlight beams.

A search of Gerritsen's camper disclosed 11 aliens inside.

Quinn College Hit By Blazes

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—Students and a group of "outsiders" set fire to three buildings on the campus of Paul Quinn College Tuesday night and early today and then threw rocks at firemen when they tried to extinguish the blaze.

S. B. Rutland, president of the all-Negro school, ordered classes suspended and all students out of the dormitories. School officials said 400 students were attending summer classes and that there is a normal enrollment of 600 during the regular term.

No students were injured in the disturbance, but two firemen were hurt. One was overcome by smoke fighting the fire, and another was struck by a rock.

Man Wounds Finger While Cleaning Gun

James F. Bell of 124 Park Street, San Rafael, was treated Monday at Marin General Hospital for a gunshot wound in a finger of his left hand, the hospital reported today.

Bell, according to the hospital, apparently was cleaning a firearm at his home at 7 p.m. when the weapon accidently discharged.

Simon Bolivar, a soldier-statesman, freed six Latin American countries from Spanish rule.

Marin Court Will Probate Frouge Land

An 89-acre parcel of the Marincello property owned personally by the late Thomas Frouge, chairman of the board of Frouge Corp., who died in January 1969, will be probated in Marin Superior Court.

The remainder of the developer's estate is in probate in New York City where he died at the age of 54 following a heart transplant.

His heirs include his wife, three children and other relativts.

Frouge was president of the family corporation at the time the controversial $285 million Marincello planned community was proposed for 2,138 acres in the Marin Headlands.

Although the project finally won approval from the Marin Board of Supervisors in late 1965, no development has taken place. Lawsuits are still pending, and it is expected that Gulf Oil Corp. will emerge as owner of the property.

A suit by the City of Sausalito to void the plan approved by the supervisors is still in an appelate court and no development is expected until that is decided.

Bus With 50 Aboard 'Sinks'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 24,000-pound bus loaded with 50 Japanese tourists broke through the thin pavement of a downtown hotel parking lot Tuesday night and then sank in a 10-foot-square hole.

No one was injured.

"All of a sudden there was a hole under me," said Elmer Henderson, driver of the Greyhound bus.

While Henderson's bus started to sink, two others loaded with Oregon tourists quickly pulled back.

Two 35-ton tow trucks pulled the bus out of the hole. The hole, said a tow truck owner, revealed an abandoned building basement.

Court Upholds Convictions In

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld Tuesday the mail fraud and conspiracy convictions of Salvatore "Bill" Bonanno, son of accused former Mafia chieftain Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno, and his bodyguard, Peter Notaro.

Bonanno, 37, of San Jose, Calif., and Notaro, 52, of Tucson, Ariz., were convicted in November of using a stolen credit card. Bonanno was also convicted of perjury.

In March, the court sentenced Bonanno to four years in prison and fined him $10,000. Notaro received a one-year sentence and a $1,000 fine.

Woman's Condition Reported Critical

Theresa Jean Harris, 52, of 1704 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital suffering from undisclosed medical complications.

Mrs. Harris was found unconscious at her home at about 10 p.m. yesterday by her husband, Joseph Wendell Harris, who phoned police for help, officers said.

More than 6,000 ships enter and leave the Los Angeles port each year.

South Carolina produces less than one third of the beef consumed in the state.

Legal Notice

CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NOVATO RESOLUTION NO. 38-70 RESOLUTION GIVING NOTICE OF PROPOSED ANNEXATION TO THE CITY OF NOVATO OF UNINHABITED TERRITORY DESCRIBED HEREIN AND DESIGNATED "WILSON AVENUE ANNEXATION NO. 4 AND GIVING NOTICE OF TIME AND PLACE FOR HEARING OF PROTESTS THERETO.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NOVATO:

1. That it has come to the attention of the City Council of the City of Novato, and this Council finds, that it would be for the best interests of said City and of the residents of the contiguous area herein described to alter the boundaries of said City by annexing thereto and incorporating therein as a part thereof under the provisions of the annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939, as amended, certain property situated in the County of Marin, State of California, hereby designated "Wilson Avenue Annexation No.4"; and described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Legal Notice

2. The reasons why the City of Novato desires said annexation are as follows:

(a) Said territory because of its location and other features should be governed in its development by the same zoning and planning regulations which govern territory within the City of Novato.

(b) Because of its location, said territory will receive the benefit of and should therefore participate in supporting the municipal services of said city.

3. The City of Novato has heretofore filed with the Local Agency Annexation Commission of Marin County, a notice of intention to annex the territory more particularly described in Exhibit "A". Said notice contained the specific boundaries of the territory proposed to be annexed. The description of said territory was submitted to the Marin County Boundary Commission, and the attached description is in accordance with the report of said Commission. Thereafter, the Local Agency Annexation Commission of Marin County after public hearing did approve said proposed annexation.

4. That Tuesday, August 25, 1970, at the hour of 8:00 o'clock P.M., in the Council Chambers, Novato Community House, in the City of Novato, County of Marin, California, is hereby fixed as the time and place when and where any person owning real property within the uninhabited territory above described and proposed to be annexed to the City of Novato, and having any objections to the proposed annexation, may appear before the Council of the City of Novato and show cause why such uninhabited territory should not be so annexed to the City of Novato. The protest must be in writing, may be filed at any time before the hour set for hearing objections to the proposed annexation, and shall state the name or names of the owner or owners of property affected and the description and area of such property, in general terms.

5. The City Clerk of the City of Novato is hereby authorized and directed to cause a copy of this resolution to be published at least twice, but not oftener than once a week, in the Novato Advance, a newspaper of general circulation published in said City of Novato and in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation published in the County of Marin, said publication to be complete at least twenty (20) days prior to the date set for hearing.

6. The City Clerk is directed to cause written notice to be given to such other persons as may be legally entitled thereto, in the manner required by law.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the foregoing resolution was duly and regularly adopted by the City Council of the City of Novato, Marin County, California, at a regular meeting thereof, held on the 14th day of July 1970, by the following vote, to wit:

AYES: COUNCILMEN Quesada, Womack, Sartain, Merrill
NOES: COUNCILMEN None
ABSENT: COUNCILMEN Gargiulo

/s/ CHARLES A. BROWN
City Clerk

Approved as to form:
/s/ CLARK M. PALMER
City Attorney

Key Witness Tells Of Two Brutal Killings In Tate Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Linda Kasabian, standing only a few feet from Charles Manson but shielded by a deputy, today pointed out on a large diagram of the Sharon Tate grounds and residence the location of the slayings she said she witnessed there.

Manson, the accused mastermind of seven killings by the hippie cult, turned his back as the small girl walked past him and shielded his eyes with his hands.

The three young women codefendants — Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten—had their hair in pigtails today when they appeared in the courtroom mimicking Mrs. Kasabian's hairstyle.

The state's key witness pointed out on the large cardboard chart the gate over which she said she, Miss Atkins, Miss Krenwinkel and Charles "Tex" Watson climbed on the night of the slayings Aug. 8.

She identified the telephone pole which she said that Watson climbed to cut the wires leading into the estate. Watson so far has resisted extradition from Texas.

After pointing out various sites on the Tate estate, Mrs. Kasabian resumed the witness stand and picked up her account of the savage slayings.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi asked her in what state of mind she was after allegedly witnessing two of the killings on the grounds of the Tate home.

"I was in a total state of shock," she said.

"Did you think of running for help to another house?" Bugliosi asked.

"Yes, I thought of it."

Mrs. Kasabian told the jury Tuesday about how she ran toward the house.

Mrs. Kasabian had been giggling yesterday as she told of more than 20 members of the family engaged in indiscriminate love making together in an old shack at the Spahn Ranch after Manson took the clothing off a 16-year-old girl lying on the floor.

But her composure melted and she wept and could scarcely speak when she told of driving to the Tate estate, climbing over the fence after cutting the telephone lines and carrying out Manson's orders to leave a "witchy sign."

Mrs. Kasabian said Watson led the bloody foray to the Tate home. She said that when she started out she had no idea what they were to do but that Manson told her to "Do whatever Tex tells you."

She said that Miss Atkins and Miss Krenwinkel accompanied her and Watson and that they had three knives and a 22 caliber revolver with a foot-long barrel.

As soon as they climbed over the fence, she said, the lights of a car came toward them and then the automobile stopped. She said Watson stuck the gun through the car window, and while the man inside pleaded "don't hurt me," Watson shot him four times.

The body of Steven Parent was found in a car in the driveway the next day.

Mrs. Kasabian said they then crept up to the house where the eight-month pregnant actress, wife of film director Roman Polanski, was living with two house guests, Polish writer Voityck Frokowsky and coffee heiress Abigail Folger. Hair stylist Jay Sebring was visiting them.

Mrs. Kasabian said Watson told her to go back to the car in the driveway and to wait there.

"What happened then?" asked Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi.

"Then I heard people screaming and it was just horrible."

The young woman began to sob and her shoulders shook.

"At one point in the beginning I heard men say, 'no, no,' then screams. It seemed like forever. I started to run toward the house. I wanted them to stop. I knew what they had done to that man."

She told of a tall man — the state says it was Frokowsky — staggering out of the door.

"Then Sadie (Susan Atkins) ran out of the door and I said 'Please make it stop' and Sadie said 'It's too late now.' And Sadie told me she left her knife inside.

"Then I saw Tex on top of the man, he was hitting him and stabbing him. And I saw Katie (Patricia Krenwinkel) chasing after the girl with an upraised knife. She was a girl in a white gown.

"The man was on the ground and Tex was stabbing him and he kept doing it and doing it and doing it. The man was screaming, it was like no words, just a great please."

Third Set Of Park Plans Is Requested

The San Marin Improvement Association last night voted to ask for a third set of plans for Novato Creek Park which should be ready for the parks and recreation commission at its Aug. 17 meeting, according to Donald M. Van Dyke, president.

The association wants access to the park from Novato Boulevard instead of San Miguel Way. It does not want any parking lot in the park and voted to ask the Novato City Council for a variance to eliminate off-street parking for the park which has the pre-history museum in it, Van Dyke said. If there is to be any road in the park, it should be a service road only and not open to the public, he said.

The park plans as first presented had an access road from San Miguel Way to the pre-history museum with the parking lot on San Miguel Way.

Residents of that street protested having the parking lot there, so another set of plans was drawn moving the parking area to the rear of the museum. Neither of these plans had any access to the park from Novato Boulevard.

The parks and recreation commission will now be faced with a third set of plans for the park, Van Dyke said.

Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, attended the meeting and agreed to have the plans suggested by the association, ready for the Aug. 17 meeting, Van Dyke said.

Court Arraigns Assault Suspect

Way Lim Li, 63, of San Francisco, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon stemming from an altercation with his employer in which he allegedly wielded a bread knife and two cleavers.

Li was arrested last Thursday after his boss, Ronald C. McDonald of Sausalito, told police that he had argued with Li, his butler, over a proposed dinner party.

McDonald said that Li chased him out of his house, wielding the three weapons.

Li's case was continued to Tuesday for entry of plea.

Paine Airs Hopes For Space Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Thomas O. Paine, who is retiring as chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) after seeing it through two manned landings on the moon, said today the agency should start planning now for future projects such as lunar colonies and astronaut visits to the planets.

He envisioned the possibility of an "international space station" as a cooperative venture of European nations, Canada, and Japan. For the nearer post-Apollo future he forecast strong space program support by President Nixon, Congress and the public.

$500,000 Asked In Death Case

A San Anselmo widow filed suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court, asking $500,000 for the death of her husband in a construction accident at the Hall of Justice last year.

Cynthia Ann King said that defective equipment and negligence caused the death of her husband, Kenneth Lonzo King, 41, a heavy equipment operator who died after a loader he was driving ran over him.

Named as defendants were Robert E. McKee General Contractors and Maggiora and Ghilotti, King's employers.

Landowner Wants Hearing On Proposed Novato Center

A major property owner whose land was dismissed as a possible site for a large shopping center proposed in a Novato development program has written the city council asking for a chance to be heard.

Richard R. Hanna of Burlingame asked the council to take no action on the program — presented in a 118-page report prepared by San Francisco consultants Sedway and Cooke — until he has had time to submit his own development plan, including a regional shopping center on his 450-acre property.

The Sedway and Cooke report recommends building a large shopping center similar to Northgate Shopping Center on the Pinheiro Ranch and listed San Marin East and the present Downtown Novato Shopping Center land as other site possibilities.

Hanna's 450 acres, bounded by Highways 101 and 37 and Novato Creek, were not recommended even as an alternate site.

Ina letter dated Monday, Hanna said that he had let Planning Director Brian Mattson read correspondence from a major corporation interested in building a regional shopping center on the land.

Hanna wrote:

"In the past when we were asked to deed, to annex, and to offer property to the City, we deeded, we annexed, and we offered our properties. We have paid our enormous taxes and have been a good citizen for many years. It seems proper that the City should allow us time before final action is taken on the Sedway and Cook Report, to prepare a plan for the City's consideration."

Animal Plague Threat Grows

BERKELEY (UPI) — State health officials today announced a quarantine on commercial trapping of small animals, especially squirrels and chipmunks.

At the same time, vacationers were alerted to a growing animal plague threat in parts of four north central California counties.

Dr. Louis P. Saylor, state public health director, said extensive "dieoffs" of rodents in portions of Plumas, Lassen, Shasta and Siskiyou counties in the past few weeks could create a serious health problem in the area.

He said dusting of burrows with pesticides is under way in places where ground squirrels and chipmunks have died, in an area extending from Susanville and Lake Almanor.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Medicinal Benefits Of Alcohol Questioned By Most Physicians

Is alcohol good medicine? This is debatable despite the books that have been written on the beneficial effects of wine and hard liquor. Most of the references date back to antiquity or at least prior to modern remedies. Few physicians prescribe alcohol for specific ailments, because we have other drugs that do a better job.

Some MDs believe alcohol is not a good therapeutic agent under any circumstances. It is self-administered by many people as a tranquilizer, mood elevator, or for other psychological reasons. Tradition may account for its recommendation to the elderly, or people with heart conditions, circulatory disorders, and as a cold preventive. Alcohol acts as a sedative, anesthetic, digestant, appetite stimulant, and a dilator of blood vessels.

BUT AS WE SAID previously, the medical profession has a wide choice of agents that are more specific and effective. The exception is the use of alcohol in delirium tremens. This condition develops when a heavy boozer suddenly stops drinking.

But most of our mail deals with the advisability of drinking while undergoing treatment for an ailment or recovering from an operation or injury. The physician must decide whether a drink or two will aggravate the medical condition or interfere with treatment.

THESE QUESTIONS usually are asked by individuals who are accustomed to a cocktail before lunch or dinner. If the person normally drinks, many physicians will let him continue to do so, unless he has a peptic ulcer, kidney or bladder infection, pancreatitis, epilepsy, liver trouble, or other ailments that are aggravated by alcohol. Alcoholics should never drink.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

WATER DIET

R. N. M. writes: I heard a person on TV say that he was drinking eight glasses of water a day in order to reduce. Will water make a person lose weight?

REPLY

Water has no calories, but the rest of the diet is a more important criterion as to whether or not weight will be lost. If the individual goes on a starvation diet and consumes only water, yes, he will lose weight.

HAIR GROWTH VARIES

N. R. H. writes: Why does my hair and beard grow faster and thicker on the left side of my head and face than on the right side? My barber verifies this phenomenon but can't explain it. Can you?

REPLY

No. This has been reported and perhaps we can blame the fact that the two sides of the body never are exactly the same.

PINK-EYE

Mrs. E. writes: My child has had two attacks of pink-eye since her tonsils were removed. Is the tonsilectomy responsible?

REPLY

No. Pink-eye, an extremely contagious form of conjunctivitis, has nothing to do with a tonsilectomy. Has this diagnosis been verified by an ophthalmologist? He will suggest preventive measures.

OPENING IN THE HEART

O. P. writes: Do blue babies have a hole in the heart?

REPLY

Many have an opening in the partition between the ventricles, rather than in the wall of the heart.

Three Hurt In 3-Auto Crash

Three Petalumans were injured yesterday at 2:30 p.m. in a three-car accident on Gravenstein Highway at Stony Point Road, west of Cotati.

Gary Lee Koeblen, 12, of 1260 Berrydale Drive, was reported in good condition at Palm Drive Hospital, Sebastopol, with eye cuts. His mother, Jacquelin L. Koeblen, 32, and David Eaton, 12, of the same address, were treated for head cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said the car driven by Mrs. Koeblen collided with cars driven by Harold Thaxton Jr., 24, of Santa Rosa, and John A. Petersen, 70, of Sebastopol.

Parents Don't Follow The Doctor's Orders

NEW YORK (UPI) — How well do parents comply with doctors' orders regarding their children. Not too well, says Dr. Marshall H. Becker, a pediatric sociologist.

Dr. Becker, who has conducted a study on the subject, said that parents have a "disturbing low rate of compliance" with the doctors' instructions.

Flames Damage Petaluma Home

Fire extensively damaged the rear portion of a two-story frame house owned by Peter and Lola Olaeta, at 841 Schuman Lane, Petaluma, yesterday.

Smoke caused heavy damage to other portions of the house. The Petaluma fire department received the fire call at the unoccupied house from a neighbor at 11:12 a.m.

No cause or estimate of damage was available.

Plans Announced For A 'Flying Automobile'

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)—A Pontiac Firebird may be winging over the San Fernando Valley before the end of this year while it's assembly line brothers crawl along the clogged freeways.

The Advanced Vehicle Engineers Co., based here, announced Tuesday plans for a "flying automobile" which would utilize an airplane frame and engine that could be attached to a modified standard automobile.

It plans to make a test flight with the Pontiac Firebird before the end of the year.

Henry Smolinski, engineer-president of the firm, said all Detroit would have to do is modify the dash board slightly to allow for air instruments and make some minor adjustments in the roof so the airframe could be attached.

The plan is to make it possible for anyone to convert his automobile into a flying car by merely backing into the air frame and snapping the pieces together.

When the car is backed into the airframe, according to Smolinski, "four pins are inserted to lock the two and at the same time convert the car's standard steering wheel into an aircraft control. Rudder pedals snap into position beneath the driver-pilot side of the vehicle.

"Then, with the insertion of two more pins holding struts from the wing to either side of the car, the aircar will be ready to fly."

Although a flying automobile has been expounded in science fiction as well as scientific circles for ages, Smolinski said most designs have "emphasized the airborne portion and neglected the car with vehicles that were unsuitable for road use."

The airframe will consist of the wings, the rear pusher engine mount, the twin tail booms and the control surfaces of a Cessna Skymaster, fitted on the standard automobile.

The car would take the place of the Skymaster's cabin and forward propeller-driven engine. The aft engine would be replaced with a more powerful one, possibly a turboprop, capable of cruising at 130 miles per hour for 500 miles.

The combined weight of the flying automobile would be about 6,000 pounds, with a 38-foot wingspan and a length of 30 feet. It would cost about $15,000, but Smolinski said buyers could purchase just the automobile part for $4,500 and rent the airframe when needed.

The only drawback is tires. The company said improved tires might have to be developed to aid in landing at 80 m.p.h.

Mitchell Sees Moves To Check Northern Segregation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General John N. Mitchell said today "it will be necessary" for the courts to move eventually against segregation in some parts of the North.

"Obviously, there is as much segregation in some areas of the North as in the South," Mitchell said. While he did not endorse the use of the word "outlaw" to describe the kind of action he would favor against de facto segregation, he said:

"I think the courts will follow the path of determining where there is governmental action that can be taken."

The attorney general made the statements in response to questions in an interview on NBC-TV's Today Show.

The Nixon Administration has aimed its legal efforts to date at elimination of de jure segregation in the South —that resulting from either state or local laws or by custom. The government has not moved against de facto segregation, growing largely out of housing patterns, but Mitchell said, "It will be necessary as time goes by."

On school desegregation, Mitchell said, "The administration has made it clear that now is the time —this fall is the time —to replace dual school systems with unitary systems."

The attorney general said Tuesday that virtually all dual school systems in the South would be eliminated in the term starting in some areas in three weeks.

On the subject of civil disturbances, he also said his earlier keep-cool advice to police in coping with such problems did not mean they should not protect themselves when confronted with weapons.

Marin Accidents Injure Two, Patrol Reports

Two persons, including a visitor from Illinois, were treated for minor injuries yesterday after traffic accidents, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Dianne Turausky, 24, of Harwood Heights, Ill., was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes and bruises after an accident involving vehicles driven by Andrew J. Turausky, 26, Ned Meislin, 18, of Los Angeles, and Gregory L. Sherfey, 22, of 110 Laurel Avenue, Stinson Beach.

Details of the accident, which occurred at 1:20 p.m., were not available.

Zona R. Barberis, 28, of 45 La Brea Way, Santa Venetia, was treated for multiple bruises after her car, eastbound on North San Pedro Road east of Buck's Landing, left the road and overturned at 7 p.m., the patrol reported.

Pot Possession Sentencing Set

Joanne Rosalie Lucinian, 20, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

She is to be sentenced Aug. 21.

Miss Lucinian was arrested May 12 at the Safeway Store in Larkspur on suspicion of shoplifting. A search of her purse produced a bag of pot.

Committee Approves Antiobscenity Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee has approved legislation designed to outlaw the interstate mailing of smutty advertising.

The measure is one of three anti-obscenity measures requested by President Nixon. The measure approved Tuesday would punish violators with up to five years in prison and a $50,000 fine on first offense, with doubled penalties for repeat offenders.

Mozambique Battle

BEIRA, Mozambique (UPI) — A Portuguese army communique said Tuesday a major military drive over the past month had killed 300 anti-government guerrillas in Mozambique at a cost of 11 Portuguese troops.

One Booked In Shootout In Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—Roy Bartee Haile was booked at the city jail Tuesday night on a charge of assault to murder in connection with a ghetto gunfight in which Haile and four other persons were wounded and a black militant leader killed.

Haile, an organizer for the militant Students for a Democratic Society, was the only white youth among the black militants involved in the shootout Sunday night with 250 policemen.

Haile was released on a $2,500 bond.

The area in which the gunfight erupted has been peaceful since the outbreak except for one shooting Tuesday afternoon which authorities said was not connected with the Sunday night episode.

Archie Sayles Jr., 29, was shot to death by police who said he looked like a forgery suspect. The shooting came eight blocks from Dowling Street where Sunday's shootings occurred.

Sayles, a Negro, served time for shoplifting and was charged last year with robbery by assault. Two white policemen said they told Sayles to stop but he ran into a tavern and pulled a gun.

"I told him to stop again and he pointed (the gun) at me at which time I shot," Patrolman Wayne E. Reed said. "I fired twice. He fell out of the back door and my partner was standing there."

Pluria Marshall, a member of a black coalition in the city, announced Tuesday a boycott to put economic pressure on the white community and "to bring about a complete absence of black people in the downtown area."

"We intend to hit the white community where it hurts the most—the pocketbook," Marshall said.

Convicted Slayer Sent To Chamber

MARTINEZ (UPI) —Dennis Stanworth, 27, convicted of the murder of two 15-year-old Pinole girls, Wednesday was formally sentenced to death in the gas chamber.

Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason denied motions for a new trial and passed the sentence.

Stanworth was convicted of slaying Susan M. Box and Karee Lee Collison.

A jury sentenced him to death in 1966 but this was overturned by a State Supreme Court decision because of the methods of jury selection in capital cases.

A retrial in the penalty phase earlier this month also sentenced him to death.

Burglary Charge Admitted By Two

Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael, and Dolores Marie Burke, 27, of Fairfax, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Anselmo residence July 5.

A jury trial was set Monday for the week of Oct. 26.

Later in the day Judge E. Warren McGuire ordered Mrs. Burke, who is also awaiting sentencing on a charge of possessing marijuana, held in jail and set bail at $1,500 after learning from a probation officer that Mrs. Burke may be a narcotics addict.

Carrino was already in jail.

Water Council Elects Humboldt Supervisor

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — Humboldt County Supervisor C. Leland Rice has been elected president of the Eel River Water Council to succeed William R. Seeger, manager of the Marin Municipal Water District.

The council, which includes representatives from eight counties, also announced that Gordon Miller, chief engineer of the Sonoma County Water Agency, was chosen as vice president and Sonoma Supervisor Art Rounavaara was elected controller.

Hearing Slated On Pot Charge

Larry James Stover, 19, of Marin City, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and a pipe for smoking it when arrested July 5 in Novato.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 7.

Stover was arrested after a check of his car's license plate showed there was a traffic warrant outstanding for him. Police said they found a pipe and a small quantity of suspected pot in his car.

Guerrant's Center Job Is Approved

The Marin Hospital District board last night unanimously approved the appointment of Dr. John S. Guerrant as interim director of the Marin Community Mental Health Center.

Guerrant, who will fill the position immediately, was approved for the position last week by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, as required under an agreement between the two.

Formerly the chief of inpatient services at the center, Guerrant will receive a pay hike of about $200 a month to $2,250 and will serve for a maximum of five months.

His appointment follows by two weeks the resignation of Dr. Donald P. Wilson, who quit the job after failing to be offered the position for another year.

The search for a full-time successor continues this week after Dr. Harris B. Peck, a New York psychiatrist, turned down the position after it was offered to him by the two boards in June.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

PAY HIKE — Approved unanimously a salary increase of about $1,500 per year for hospital administrator Ray K. Bolinger. The administrator's new salary totals $31,000 per year.

FILM — Approved making a 10-minute public information film on the Community Mental Health Center. Some board members expressed concern over legal technicalities involved in using center patients in the film, but agreed the possibility of a suit was minimal if waivers were obtained from patients, families and doctors of patients.

INSURANCE — Approved unanimously a recommendation from the insurance committee that the hospital drop earthquake insurance on the hospital's equipment. The annual premium for such insurance would have increased about $3,500 from last year's total of about $1,500. The hospital has never carried earthquake insurance on the building.

ELECTION — Heard a report from Bolinger that the district's election ballot has been consolidated with the Nov. 3 general election ballot. The seats of Marion C. Ibach, Thomas K. Procter and George H. Folsom are up for election.

AGREEMENT — Approved unanimously an agreement with the University of San Francisco for eight to 11 nursing students to work part-time for credit at the Community Mental Health Center.

College Panel To Inspect Projects

The Marin Junior College District board will inspect the science building and new Harlan Center under construction at College of Marin at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow. The board will meet in Supt.-President John A. Grasham's office to start the tour. After the inspection, the board will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. in the testing office to discuss equipment for the science center.

Another special meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday in the testing office to discuss computer equipment, and the board's regular meeting will be at 8 p.m. Aug. 6 in Olney Hall.

Santa Venetian Denies Pot Count

Daryl James Moran, 20, of Santa Venetia, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and being under the influence of heroin when arrested July 20 at his home.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 10.

Drug agents who went to his house with a search warrant said they found two bags of suspected pot as well as three cigarettes. They also said they found empty balloons and other paraphernalia with suspected heroin residue.

Teen Twin Girls In Theft Charge

Eighteen-year-old San Anselmo twins were charged yesterday in Marin Municipal Court with petty theft and one of the girls, with a felony marijuana possession charge.

Marion and Eugenia Sproul were arrested last Wednesday by a security agent at the J.C. Penney Co. store in San Rafael. The agent found a can of suspected pot in Marion Sproul's purse, police said.

Their case was continued until Aug. 11 for a report as to whether they can be tried in juvenile court.

Suspect Bound Over On LSD, Pot Counts

Eric Lee Prescott, 21, of 835 Idylberry Road, Lucas Valley, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on two charges of selling LSD and one of offering to sell marijuana in June, 1969.

He is to be arraigned next Wednesday in superior court.

GOING IN DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS

Tommy Harper, Milwaukee Brewers' third baseman, runs in to field a grounder, Washington Senators Rick Reichardt (right) heads for first base, and Ed Brinkman breaks for home. It came about during yesterday's game in Milwaukee, won by the Brewers 5-1. On this play, Reichardt was thrown out at first base to end the inning, so catcher Phil Roof (foreground) missed out in the action.

Athletics Victory Streak At Seven

McNamara Praises His Men

OAKLAND (UPI) —Johnny McNamara, the Oakland A's rookie manager, didn't alibi when his club was losing and he was the last to take any credit today with the team on a hot winning streak.

"Those fellows out there are doing it all, not me," McNamara said in the wake of the A's seventh straight victory, 6-4 over the Boston Red Sox Tuesday night.

'TIMELY'

"This is the best we've played all season. Now we are doing the things I thought we would do all along. We are getting timely hitting and timely pitching and when you can put the two together you are going to win some games."

Chuck Dobson went as far as he could, 5 2-3 innings, with hardly more than a prayer, and Marcel Lachemann and Jim Grant picked him up when he simply lost contact with the plate. That took care of the pitching.

Then there were Sal Bando, Don Mincher and Reggie Jackson, all of whom stroked homers to account for five of the six Oakland runs. Mincher and Jackson hit their's back-to-back in the fourth after Bando had led off with an infield single. The homers nullified a three-run homer by Boston's Rico Petrocelli.

SOX LEAD

Reggie Smith, who had four hits in five at-bats, homered in the top of the fifth to give the Red Sox the lead for the second time. But Bando put the A's ahead to stay in the bottom of the same inning when he homered after a single by Felipe Alou.

The homers were the 18th for Bando, the 17th for Mincher and the 15th for Jackson. Dobson recorded his fourth straight victory and his 11th compared to 10 losses while Grant, who pitched three shutout innings, pick up his 17th save.

Despite the victory the A's remained nine games behind the Minnesota Twins in the American League West. That doesn't seem to bother the A's or McNamara.

AGREE

"The big thing is for us to keep on winning," said Bando, the A's captain. "If we win, things will take care of themselves."

McNamara said virtually the same thing.

"I really feel we have a chance to win it all," said McNamara. "I've said this from the start. Now that we are winning and playing the kind of ball we always were fapable of, I feel even stronger about things. As long as we win we have to pick up ground on someone.

"And don't forget," added McNamara, "we still have 11 games to play with Minnesota. There are two full months left of this season and a lot could happen in time."

SEGUI

Tonight, the A's continue their series with the Red Sox. Diego Segui, who went the distance in his last start, pitches for the A's against Ray Culp. The two teams wind up their series on Thursday and then the A's play the Washington Senators four weekend games.

It's a fine week in which to pick up ground but as McNamara said, "We have to play as a team the way we have this past week. If we can do that we should be all right."

EIGHT TEAMS ADVANCE IN LI'L LEAGUE PLAY

The Novato American League ran roughshod over San Geronimo, 19-0, and San Rafael American routed Mill Valley National, 12-0 last night as the Marin County Little League all-star baseball tournament got under way.

Novato's other team, from the National League, also won, 3-2 over San Rafael National in seven innings. Both Mill Valley teams were eliminated as the American League lost to Marinwood, 3-1.

In other first round games Hamilton-Loma Verde edged Tiburon in seven innings, 6-5, Sausalito defeated Twin Cities, 5-2, Fairfax stopped Strawberry, 3-1 and Kentfield Greenbrae knocked off Gallinas Valley, 8-0.

In games tonight at 6 o'clock, San Rafael American meets Novato American at Novato's Rancho School, Sausalito and Fairfax play at Larkspur, Novato National plays Hamilton-Loma Verde at Hamilton Air Force Base, and Marinwood hosts Kentfield.

WAR OF NERVES

Football Sides At Stalemate

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The war of nerves between the National Football League owners and players escalated today after the negotiations between the two sides recessed Tuesday night at the request of the owners.

With the talks obviously at an impasse, both sides were regrouping their forces and planning for future strategies and neither side seemed ready to make concessions. The dispute seemed ready to become a test of strength between the owners and the players as the widespread speculation continued that the owners are seriously thinking of opening their camps to veterans in an attempt to break the solid front of thep layers. The owners figurt enough veterans will report to break the back of the Players Association and force it to accept the owners' terms. But if the players don't break ranks, they could force the owners to make concessions.

TO DELIBERATE

The owners' representatives, who said they simply asked for a recess to deliberate," meet today in New York. Meanwhile, the 26 player representatives—one from each NFL team—assemble today in Chicago for a meeting to "determine a course of action for the days ahead." The players charged the owners had broken off the talks.

Ted Kneel, a labor consultant for the owners, said, "unfortunately, no progress has been made and the parties are just as far apart as they were when they first met here."

The three owners' representatives on the negotiating committee, Tex Schramm of Dallas, Rankin Smith of Atlanta and Ralph Wilson of Buffalo, returned to New York today for a meeting.

RECESS

Kheel said, "in view of the gravity of the situation, it is necessary for the owners' negotiators to confer among themselves and with the other owners. That's why it was necessary to propose a recess."

The owners' major decision is whether or not to end their lockout and open the camps to the veterans. When Kheel was asked if they planned to do it, he answered, "that's a matter to be decided by the owners."

The owners have kept the camps closed because they feared causing dissension on their teams. The players who stay out would be angry at the players who entered the camps. But with the exhibition season nearing, the owners may decide to force a showdown.

The players' main problem is to keep in touch with a thousand players scattered around the country since many players will be tempted to enter the camps if they're opened. The players use a "5-8 formation" from their Washington headquarters. They phone five players on each club and each of the five phones eight other players. They claim they

Montreal Baseball Fans Do A Lot Of Cheering

MONTREAL — This home of the Expos and Alouettes is a class city that everybody loves because of its warm-hearted citizens and countless sight-seeing spots which attract tourists by the thousands.

It's the height of the tourist season now and sight-seeing buses are lined up beside Cathedral Square outside the Windsor Hotel where the Giants' baseball club stays. Sight-seeing buses do a good business in San Francisco, also a picture city. But Montreal's bus business gets the nod.

After all, Montreal is a city three times the size of San Francisco with 2 million population. Even when the 1970 census is in, San Francisco still will be around 750,000. Very few vacant lots are left in San Francisco and the city's 48 square miles are almost saturated.

Much can be learned about people from their attitude towards sports. Everybody in Montreal loves sports. Baseball fans who jam Jarry Park to watch the Expos also are football fans. And, of course, they also are hockey fans. Everybody loves hockey here.

An Accurate Analysis By McHale

John McHale, president of the Expos, accurately analyzed the Montreal market when it came to picking a spot for his expansion club a couple of seasons ago. After Montreal was approved by the National League as the first Canadian city for a major league franchise, McHale got another tempting offer.

However, McHale, always a class guy himself, said he had no intention of leaving the Expos even before they completed a roster. McHale turned down the baseball commissioner's job after a deadlock arose over the balloting on Chub Feeney who had the unanimous support of the National League but couldn't swing the necessary two-thirds majority in the American League.

So Bowie Kuhn became the commissioner and Feeney became president of the National League. But McHale became something special to Montreal sports fans. He is as popular in Jarry Park as his Expo ball club. That is quite a tribute to McHale because Expo ball players get tremendous ovations from their fans.

They Know Good And Bad Plays

It isn't a case of Montreal fans not knowing good or bad plays. They are a knowledgeable lot. For years there was a AAA International League club in Montreal. But Jarry Park fans are extremely tolerant in expressing displeasure. They roar approval over any play that is even slightly more than routine.

And when an Expo pitcher does a good job, Jarry Park fans make him feel like a great hero. In the second game of last weekend's twi-nighter between the Giants and Expos, Howie Reed pitched three innings for which he was awarded the victory. It was a good performance by Reed but certainly nothing spectacular.

Yet, when Reed walked down the lleft field line after being lifted for an eighth inning pinch hitter, the capacity crowd of 28,307 in Jarry Park that night stood and cheered him. It was as though Reed had just pitched a no-hitter. Actually, he had allowed the Giants a run.

A ball player with the Expos just has to be a happy fellow if he does his job even routinely well.

(Jim Gilmartin is on vacation)

Keep Balls On Field, Says N.L.

MONTREAL (UPI)—The National League has banned its players from throwing baseballs into the crowd.

League president Chub Feeney said at the annual major league summer meeting Tuesday, "We have one law suit against us this year because of a player, whose name I don't wish to mention, who tossed a ball into a crowd. We are forced to take steps to cut this practice out."

ARTIFICIAL INFIELD

The National League owners also went along with a proposal by the Philadelphia Phillies to allow the club to install the new artificial grass infield in their new stadium, which is scheduled to open next season. The field, similar to the one being used in the new Cincinnati stadium, will feature the same 15 feet of dirt in front of the bag for sliding.

The Phillies, however, must get final sanction from the rules committee. They did not foresee any obstacles, though.

In an executive move at Tuesday's session, John McHale of the Montreal Expos was appointed to the National League Council. He replaces Bob Carpenter of the Phillies.

COLORED BASES

The two-day session, being held in Canada for the first time, concludes Wednesday with a joint meeting of the two leagues. The first session on Tuesday morning dealt with relatively minor items of the agenda, the most colorful of which was a proposal by Charles O. Finley to change the color of the bases.

Feeney predicted that this year would be the best in the history of the National League.

"We have nine of our clubs that will draw over a million and that's pretty good in a 62-team circuit," he said.

"Philadelphia will be fine next season when they get their new park. The San Francisco situation is a different type of problem because they are forced to draw from the same fans that Oakland draws from."

RECORD SET

The National League president added, "We set an all-time record in our league this past weekend when over half a million people came out to see our teams play. We're most excited that Montreal has turned out to be a great major league city. The people here love the game and although Jarry Park is small, according to major league standards, it definitely has that big league atmosphere. The French Canadian aspect is what makes the Expos so colorful."

METS BOMB AWAY

Giant Pitching: A Million Laughs

NEW YORK (UPI) —Manager Charlie Fox of the San Francisco Giants was complaining a few weeks ago that he didn't have enough starting pitchers. The problem, of course, is not new to the Giants in 1970. And the problem has yet to be solved.

Fox was not exactly overjoyed with the work of Rich Robertson and veteran Mike McCormick. But he decided a few weeks ago to keep Robertson in the rotation while demoting McCormick to the bullpen.

Robertson continued to flounder and McCormick pleaded to become a starter once more. Fox said no, and McCormick asked to be traded. He was shuffled off to the New York Yankees.

On Tuesday night Robertson was being bombed 12-2 by the New York Mets while McCormick was winning in his first appearance for the Yankees.

As an added sidelight, the man whom the Giants received for McCormick spent only 4 1-3 innings with San Francisco. He's John Cumberland, a young lefthander, and he was not with the Giants even a week before being sent to the minors.

In an anti-climax, Cumberland has refused to report to Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League, claiming the Giants never gave him a chance to show his stuff.

But right now, back to Robertson. The big righthander has not won a game since the seasons changed from spring to summer. He's been one of the consistently poor pitchers on a Giants staff which apparently knows no limits of mediocrity.

Robertson now is 6-7 after being blasted for seven runs in only three innings. Mike Davison and Ron Bryant shared the remainder of the Mets' onslaught.

Donn Clendenon belted a pair of three-run homers and a sacrifice fly while Jim McAndrew hurled a five-hitter for New York. The Giants' lone runs came on a two-run double by Ron Hunt which followed a fair of walks.

The loss was the second straight at the hands of the Mets, who sent Jerry Koosman (5-5) against San Francisco's Skip Pitlock (1-3) today in an attempt to sweep the three-game series.

From New York the Giants go to Philadelphia for a grueling five-game series in only three days, beginning Friday. Two games at Los Angeles round out the road trip before the Giants return home Aug. 5 against Cincinnati.

Tuesday night's loss kept the Giants six games under .500 and 22 games behind the first place Reds in the National League West.

49er-Raider TV To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Senate will consider a resolution which would urge the Oakland Raiders to allow local television coverage of their Dec. 20 game against the San Francisco 49ers.

The measure, authored by assemblyman Frank Murphy, D-Santa Cruz, was approved Tuesday by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

The Raiders contend they are expressing good faith to Oakland season ticket holders by blacking out the game to local residents without tickets. The 49ers claim the contest is a natural rivalry of overwhelming interest. In addition, the game is a sellout.

Shafer Scores 27 In Cage Victory

Pat Shafer scored 27 points to lead San Rafael Travel to a 70-66 win over Dan Coleman Associates last night in the Drake Summer Basketball League.

Ron Blum's 22 points offset Bob Dougherty's 25 as McGillicuddy Construction defeated Sausalito Boathouse, 89-62, and Harvey Wallbanger downed the Kettle, 57-53 in other games.

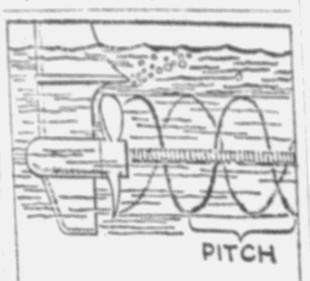
BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Facts About Boat's Propeller

Most boaters do not realize that a propeller, in addition to driving a boat, is also a governor.

Here's an example, taken from a letter I received. It reads: "Thanks for telling me about the prop. Since I changed it, the boat will now pull the three kids on water skis, not just one. But there's a new problem. Now the outboard runs wild, and the boat won't go as fast as it formerly did with just me in it alone."



It's obvious that the propeller that's good for pulling a heavy load, such as three water skiers, is not necessarily the best one for driving the same boat at top speed.

HERE ARE A couple of facts concerning propellers which may help in better understanding their function. First, there are two important measurements, diameter and pitch. The latter is usually the one which baffles boaters. Most think it is an angle of the blades, whereas actually it is a measurement of length. It's the theoretical distance a prop will travel through the water in one revolution (not allowing for slippage).

Pitch is also the most important measurement because it's easy to see that if one prop will push a boat 10 inches ahead for every revolution and another will push it a foot, it's going to take more power to turn the one with the bigger pitch.

This is how the propeller acts as a governor on engine speed. At any given throttle setting, a prop with a smaller pitch will let the engine or outboard motor turn faster than one with a bigger pitch. It's just that one puts a lesser load on the power plant.

Q. What are the numbers on my propeller?

A. If there are just two numbers, such as 10-12, the first one is always diameter, the second pitch. If there's a third number it is shaft size. This is found mostly on props for inboards.

Q. I'm told I need a new prop to operate my outboard on high altitude lakes in the mountains. Why?

A. There's a very noticeable drop in power when a gasoline engine is operated above 3,000 feet. A smaller pitch prop won't recover the lost power (only a supercharger could do that) but it will help some by bringing the rpm up to its normal maximum. If you trailer from sea-level to high level altitude, a prop for each condition is an absolute must.

Q. Can I try out a prop for my boat before buying?

A. Some dealers keep a stock of props for this purpose, but not too many. A dealer might try out several props on your craft himself, while he's along. But don't expect him to lend you one for a week's vacation. Remember rocks are everywhere.

Q. Are there variable pitch propellers for pleasure boats?

A. "Controllable" pitch is the usual term, and there are such devices for inboard installations. They are complicated and expensive, but they are on the way. However don't expect one as standard equipment on next year's outboards.

Baughan Returns To Rams

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI)—Maxie Baughan, the defensive quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, has come out of his brief retirement and will rejoin the club's veteran players.

The 11-year veteran of National Football League play had decided to quit at the end of the 1969 season for physical reasons. But Baughan underwent knee surgery during the off season and agreed to return.

DELIGHT

Coach George Allen, who had never given up hope of getting Baughan back, expressed his delight Tuesday when informed the linebacker had decided on at least another season of play.

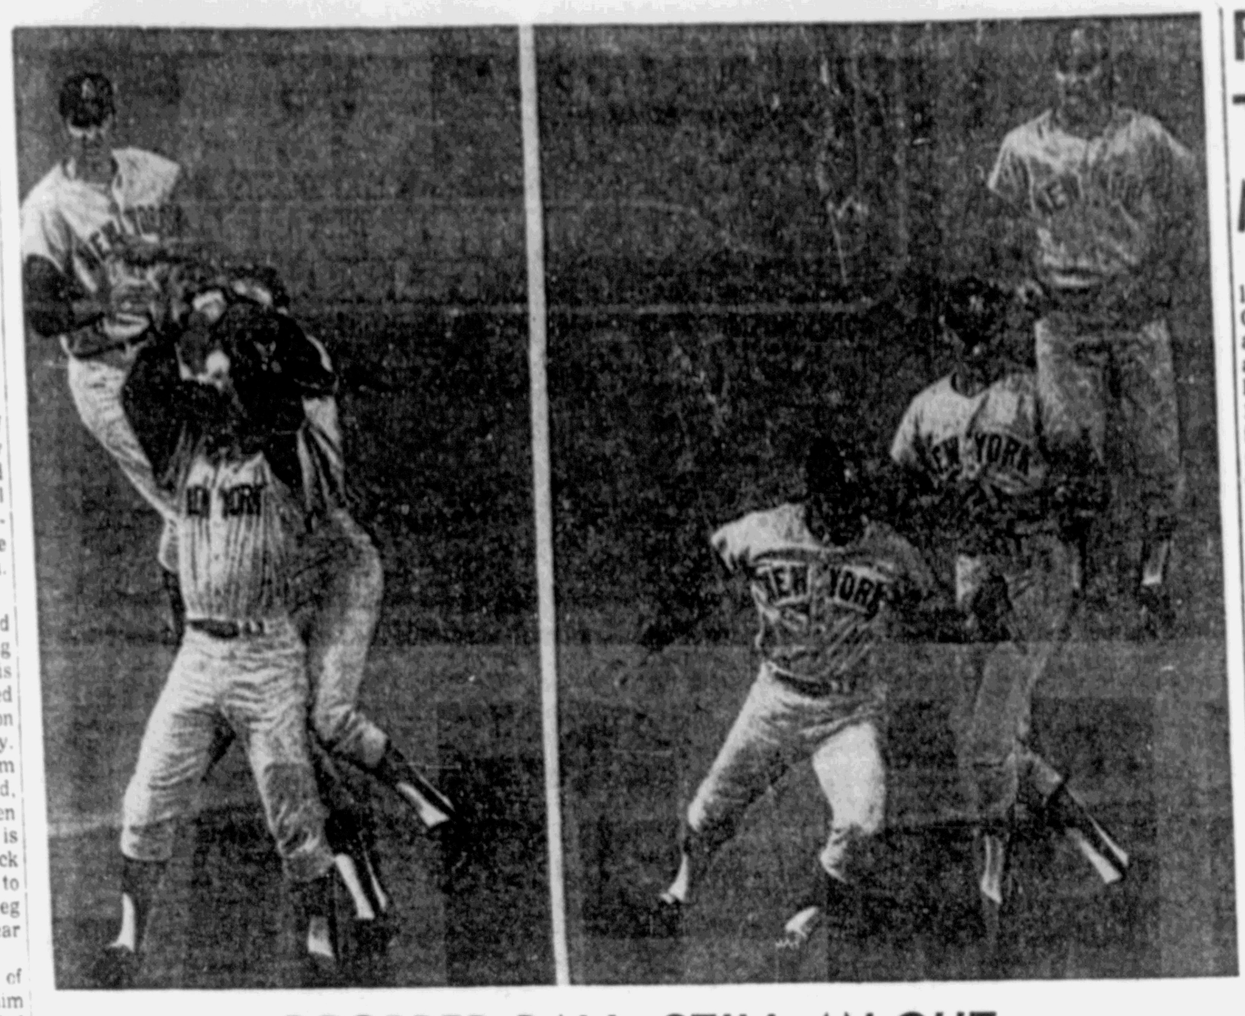
"This is great news for Ram coaches, Ram players and, most of all, Ram fans," Allen said. "Getting Maxie back is like having your quarterback return. His weight is up to about 220 pounds and his leg feels better than it did a year ago.

"Maxie loves the game of football. I plan to handle him similar to the way I handled Dick Bass and Tommy Mason the last two years—I'll hold him out until the last few preseason games."

GEORGIA TECH

Baughan, who will be 31 next month, was selected to the Pro Bowl in nine of his previous 10 years in the league and is a former All-Pro. He was graduated from Georgia Tech originally, was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles but was obtained by the Rams in 1966 in exchange for linebacker Fred Brown, defensive tackle Willie Molden and a draft choice.

Although he has agreed to return, Baughan will not join the Rams camp at Fullerton State until after the current controversy between the players and owners is settled.



DROPPED BALL, STILL AN OUT

New York Yankee shortstop Gene Michael and second baseman Horace Clarke (front) got tangled up trying for this pop fly off the bat of California Angels' Jim Fregosi yesterday but Clarke recovered in time to throw to second base for a force out. It was Ron Hansen who was shouting words of encouragement. New York won, 6-5. (UPI Telephoto)

Four-Hour Tennis Match

Mark Tucker of Portola Valley prevailed over Kentfield's Gary Walter in a four-hour marathon match in the boys 16-and-under class yesterday to highlight the second day of the 12th annual Marin County Junior Hardcourt Tennis Tournament at the Mill Valley Tennis Club.

Seeded players from Marin, including Andy Moffat, top seed in boys 18, won with but one exception as all classes in both boys and girls divisions saw action.

Tucker, sixth seeded in boys 16, and Walter were on the court from 2 p.m. until after 6. The final score was 5-7, 9-7, 9-7.

The only upset of a seeded player from Marin came at the hands of another Marinite. Mike Gomez of Belvedere stopped Bill Kinser of Tiburon in another long match, 3-6, 8-6, 6-4.

Favorites Win In National Clay Courts

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —A 28-hour trip from Sweden to Indianapolis and the $50,000 National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament may have been too much for Australian Dick Crealy, but it didn't upset Arthur Ashe's game.

With the exception of a few minor upsets, including that of Crealy, Tuesday's play in men's and women's singles went according to the form charts and victories were posted by all of the top seeds.

Ashe, Gum Springs, Va., ranked second nationally and seeded third in the men's singles here, arrived Monday night from Sweden and spent part of Tuesday afternoon defeating Tom Leonard, Arcadia, Calif., 6-3, 6-2. Ashe won the Clay Courts crown in 1967.

Crealy, the seventh-seeded foreigner, also arrived Monday night and proceeded to win the first four games of the first set Tuesday against Jean Royuer of France. However, Crealy then faltered and Royuer won the match, 8-6, 6-2.

Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., seeded No. 1 and ranked third nationally, ousted Paul Gerkin, East Norwalk, Conn., 6-3, 6-3. Richey won the title in 1966.

Stan Smith, Pasadena, Calif., ranked first nationally but seeded second here, had to go three sets before defeating Milan Holocek of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

ALL-STAR FOOTBALL

They Call McCoy 'Killer'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Notre Dame's huge defensive tackle, Mike McCoy, has a new nickname. In the College All Star camp, the coaches call him "the killer."

"I didn't know that," McCoy said. "Nobody said anything to me."

FRIDAY

The coaches obviously kept the information from McCoy because they don't want him to lose his enthusiasm for contact when the All Stars play the Super Bowl champion Kansas City Chiefs Friday night in Soldier Field in the annual test of the best of graduating college seniors and the pro champs.

But McCoy got his nickname because in routine, man on man drills, he eliminated two potential starters from the All Star roster, running back Larry Stegent and defensive tackle Phil Olsen.

"Both injuries were just one of those things," coach Otto Graham said. "It didn't even look like McCoy hit them very hard. But we lost both of them, and it hurt."

LOOKS AHEAD

McCoy will get his major test Friday night when he plays against the Chiefs. And while he recognized the problems he's going to face, he was looking forward to the combat.

"They've got about the biggest offensive line I've ever seen," McCoy said. "I don't know whether we'll be able to get to their quarterback at all.

"It's going to be tought. I don't mean we're going to lay back and say 'you're the pros so we know you're better than we are.' We're going all out to get them on every play. But it's going to be tough."

McCoy conceded the All Stars defensive unit could find another problem in the Chiefs' pint sized sprinter at running back, Mike Garrett.

"He's got more than just speed," McCoy said. "He's strong too. You can't put out one arm and stop him. You've got to hit him, and I imagine we will some.

Lombardi Reported Resting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington Redskins coach Vince Lombardi was reported "resting comfortably" today following an operation for an unspecified ailment. Redskins officials would say nothing else.

Officials refused to comment on whether Lombardi will return to coaching this season or on the nature of Monday's operation, his second surgery within a month.

Lombardi's first operation was for removal of part of his colon after doctors discovered a tumor they said appeared to be non-malignant.

There was growing speculation Lombardi might be compelled for health reasons to abandon coaching at least for this year. In his absence, assistant Bill Austin has been serving as "interim coach" at the Redskins pre-season camp at Carlisle, Pa.

Lombardi, who took over the Redskins coaching job last season after building a championship dynasty at Green Bay, underwent his first surgery June 27.

49ers Sign Two More Players

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers signed two more players Tuesday, giving them a total of 37 freshmen in their all-rookie camp.

The latest to sign were free agents Dwight Staten and Eural Smothers.

Staten is a linebacker-running back from Utah and Smothers is a defensive back from Sacramento State.

The 49ers' rookies continued their twice-a-day workouts in preparation for another scrimmage with the Dallas Cowboys rookies at Thousand Oaks, Calif., Saturday.

Last Saturday, the 49er rookies nipped the Cowboy rookies, 27-26.

Agnew Declares Golf Is A Sport Of Class

NEW YORK (UPI) —Vice-president Spiro T. Agnew Tuesday night praised the game of golf as sport of class, quality and accomplishment.

The vice-president made his remarks at the sixth annual All-America Collegiate golf dinner at the Waldorf Astoria where he received an award for his promotion and support of the game.

Other recipients of special awards were Argentine golfer Roberto deVicenzo Harvey Penick, veteran golf coach at the University of Texas; George Spater, president and chairman of American Airlines and television comedian Dick Martin.

Eight first team members of the 1970 collegiate all-America squad were also present and recieved jackets and plaques. First team members are Wayne McDonald of Indiana; Tom Valentine of Georgia; Bob Clark of California State at Los Angeles; Howard Twitty, Arizona State; Bruce Ashworth, Houston; Lanny Wadkins, Wake Forest; John Mahaffey, Houston; and Mark Hayes, Oklahoma State. (Novato's Ray Leach was named to the second team.)

The all-Americans were introduced by Arnold Palmer.

Other guests included South African golfer Gary Player, astronauts James Lovell and James McDevitt and Doug Sanders, runnerup in the recent British Open.

Marinwood Area Senior League In Tournament

The Marinwood-Lucas Valley Senior Little League all-stars, who last week won the Marin County Championship, begin play tonight in the Northern California Section II tournament at Sacramento.

Marinwood defeated Fairfax, 10-4 in the Marin County semifinal tournament game on back-to-back home runs by Jon Lonberg and Scott Logan, and took the title by beating Hamilton-Loma Verde, 6-0 behind the pitching of Nick Mattos.

Marin County has only three Senior leagues.

Don Leaves On Winning Note

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Don Carrithers has left the minor leagues on a winning note.

The 20-year-old Phoenix right-hander, scheduled to join the San Francisco Giants Thursday, won his ninth game in 10 decisions Tuesday night with a 9-3 Pacific Coast League triumph over the Tucson Toros.

Carrithers allowed 10 hits but helped his own cause with a two-run single. He has been called up by San Francisco to take the place of third baseman Alan Gallagher, who must serve two weeks of military reserve duty.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Orioles, Twins Pad Their Leads

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Maybe it's time to shuffle the American League's two division plan and put the Baltimore Orioles and the Minnesota Twins in the same division.

If the two clubs were in the same division, they would be engaged in a two-month, down-to-the-wire battle for the crown. But now they're starting to make a runaway of their respective division races and all the excitement will be centered in three to five days in the playoffs in October as it was last year.

SPLIT

The Orioles and Twins split a four-game series that ended Monday night in their final regular season meetings of the year. Now they have to be content with beating the other teams for two months until the playoffs and they both seem well qualified for the task. They both boosted their lead to seven games Tuesday night as Baltimore beat Chicago 4-2 and Minnesota topped Cleveland 5-2. Minnesota is 62-33 in the West for a .653 percentage and Baltimore is 63-38 for a .624 percentage in the East.

The collapsing second place teams, Detroit and California, made it a little easier by losing. Detroit was beaten by Kansas City 7-6 and California lost to New York 6-5.

In the other two AL games, Oakland topped Boston 6-4 and Milwaukee downed Washington 5-1.

N.L. SCORES

In the National League, Houston routed Chicago 10-4, Montreal nipped San Diego 5-4, New York routed San Francisco 12-2, Los Angeles topped Philadelphia 6-2, St. Louis downed Atlanta 6-4, and Pittsburgh nipped Cincinnati 4-3.

Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer in the seventh inning snapped a 2-2 tie, gave Minnesota its victory over Cleveland, and broke Sam McDowell's seven-game winning streak. McDowell took a 2-1 lead into the seventh but rookie Dan Thompson singled, Rick Renick hit a liner that Roy Foster let fall over his head for a two-run double and Killebrew hit McDowell's next pitch for a homer. It was Killebrew's 31st homer. McDowell is 15-5 this year. Jim Kaat pitched five-hit ball for six innings to get the victory and Tom Hall finished up.

BIG BLOW

Bob Grich, a rookie shortstop, hit a bases-loaded single to cap a three-run fourth inning and give Baltimore its triumph over Chicago. Mike Cuellar pitched a three-hitter to gain his 14th victory against six losses. Merv Rettenmund's double, Brooks Robinson's run-scoring single and two walks set the stage for Grich's hit.

California has lost four of its last five games while losing ground to Minnesota and it has used 25 pitchers in the five games. The Angels paraded five of them to the mound in its latest setback and New York responded with 12 hits. Rookie Thurman Munson had four of them, including a homer, and drove in two runs and scored three. Catcher Tom Egan made it a little easier for the Yanks by committing five passed balls to set an American League record. He also dropped a throw at the plate to let the deciding run score in the sixth.

SKIDDING

Detroit has also lost four of five while falling further behind Baltimore. The Tigers and Fred Scherman were on the verge of a 6-5 victory when Bob Oliver hit a wrong field homer with two out in the ninth. Ted Abernathy, who gave up a two-run homer to Norm Cash in the eighth, got the victory.

Al Downing pitched a two-hitter as Milwaukee downed Washington. Downing, a one-time Yankee star, is now 4-7 for the Brewers. Phil Roof and Ted Kubiak hit run-scoring singles in the seventh to snap a 1-1 tie. Both runs were unearned because Frank Howard let Ted Savage reach first on an error to start the inning.

Texas Open Scratched From Tour

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The Texas Open, one of the oldest golf tournaments in the nation, will not be staged next year because, according to Gilbert Brown, president of the San Antonio Golf Association, it would mean "inviting a financial loss."

Brown notified the PGA of his decision not to hold next year's open in a letter to golf commissioner Joseph C. Dey, stating that two alternate dates offered for the event by the PGA, one in October and the other during the New Year's holidays, were unacceptable.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Dr. John Garrett of Houston, who set a course record Monday, took medalist honors yesterday in the final round of qualifying for the 49th annual Broadmoor Men's Invitational golf tournament.

Garrett, runnerup in the NCAA tourney 15 years ago when he played at Rice University, fired a one-over-par 73 yesterday after a record shattering 64 Monday to lead a field of 32 into championship match play beginning today.

ATHENS, Ga. — Qualifying medalist David Canipe fired an even par 71 yesterday to take a one stroke lead the first day of the National Junior Amateur Golf Championship at the Athens Country Club.

can contact all their players in six hours by this system.

There was no indication when the talks between the two sides might resume but Kheel said the owners can contact the players, "as soon as we are in a position to know what steps can be taken to bring about an agreement."

Schramm said commissioner Pete Rozelle would not enter the dispute unless the players asked him to.

The federal mediators, who were praised by both sides, said they would "continue to explore the problem with parties during the next several days." The mediators are Gilbert Seldin, Ralph Patterson and Paul Yager.

The latest move by the owners may mean that the exhibition games scheduled for Aug. 7-8 will have to be cancelled. The teams won't be able to play by then unless the players are in camp by this weekend and have a week to practice.

Leonard Lindquist, a labor counsel for the players, said, "the Players Association and its membership is saddened by this development (the recess) but we remain hopeful the owners will see fit to return quickly to the bargaining and mediation process."

In a prepared statement, Lindquist added, "it is apparent that the owners of the NFL are putting the 1970 pro football season in jeopardy by this action."

The owners dismissed that statement as saber-rattling since it's unlikely any regular season games will be affected by the dispute. The players aren't as concerned about missing a couple of exhibition games since most of them feel that the exhibition season is too long and they don't make enough money for the exhibition games.

The exhibition season has become lucrative for the owners since many of the games are played before huge crowds and the owners have forced season ticket holders to buy tickets for the exhibition games in order to retain their season tickets in many instances.

The funding of the pension plan is still the main dispute between the two sides.

In a game the day before, Sohner whipped Brandon Tire 11-2. A story in yesterday's Independent-Journal had the score reversed.

Lucchesi And His Rating System

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank Lucchesi, the Philadelphia Phillies' manager, has this thing he calls his "plus chart" in his office at Connie Mack Stadium.

The chart is 18 by 20 inches, it's mounted on a piece of cardboard and has the name of every Phillies' player on it. Anytime one of his players does something out of the ordinary, Lucchesi puts a plus or an X alongside his name.

"I don't give out pluses too easily," says Lucchesi, who has kept his club in contention in the face of handicaps and injuries you wouldn't believe. "I'm tough. Don Money, for example, leads everybody with three pluses or three X's, whatever you want to call 'em. Deron Johnson is right up there with two and Tony Taylor also has two.

"What do I give a plus for? Well, it doesn't have to be a home run. Maybe it's for an exceptionally good slide that helped get us a run. I remember giving Byron Browne a plus the first week of the season. He was playing right field and on a high pop-up near the mound, with all the infielders converging, he came in and covered second. That was worth a plus in my book."

At the bottom of his chart, Lucchesi has pasted a word he clipped out of a newspaper. The word is "patience." Everytime Lucchesi sees his team do something on the field that would make any other manager blow his cork, he doesn't. Lucchesi does something else instead. He puts an X after the word patience.

"I've got 10 X's there already," the Phils' manager laughs. "Like I keep telling people, I've managed 19 years (in the minors) before this and I never had to show so much patience. Sometimes this year we played four rookies in one game. We've averaged three a game. And we've had a total of managers would've panicked. I didn't. I cooled it."

Whatever Lucchesi did he did pretty well because his Phillies have been the hottest club in the majors since the All-Star break. Going into Tuesday night's contest with the Dodgers, they were 10-2 and closing in fast on the third-place Cubs in the National League East.

"I feel especially good about four things," Lucchesi says. "I feel good that we've come back after a seven-game losing streak early and another one of 10 games later on. When we broke camp in the spring I said we'd go north with 25 ballplayers who want to play and they all do. Then there is Money. The critics said he couldn't be moved from shortstop to third base. They said he couldn't make the plays and wouldn't swing the bat enough. Well, he's making the plays and hitting .330."

Raider Hopefuls Bump-And-Run

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Newcomers to the training camp of the Oakland Raiders must learn to run their pass patterns accurately while being belted time after time by aggressive cornerbacks.

Bill Hits At Practice Very Costly To Public

Sen. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., has a bill in Congress which would strike at the heart of a practice dear to many unions, that of featherbedding.

Fannin's S. 1547 would make it illegal for any union to require an employer to pay "for services not desired or required, including those of a standby nature."

The National Labor Relations Act forbids unions from requiring employers to pay for services not performed. However, this has been interpreted as not applying to a standby crew — such as an orchestra paid to "stand by" while recorded music is played in a theater.

Also, it has been held not to apply to supernumeraries not needed on a job but required as holdovers from bygone days when the job was done in a different way.

FEATHERBEDDING is best known to the public from the frequent railroad union disputes. Retention of the fireman on diesel trains, where there is no firebox to serve, is a familiar instance. This and other featherbedding practices imposed by the railroad brotherhoods have contributed to the financial plight of American railroads, both directly by inflating the cost of operating trains and indirectly by driving the railroad companies into other, more profitable lines at the expense of their rail operations.

Featherbedding is by no means limited to the railroad unions, although its extent in other fields is little known to the public.

A dramatic demonstration of its extent in newspaper printing plants was provided recently at the New York Times.

THE INTERNATIONAL Typographical Union's Local 6, out to win a big increase in pay, began daily "chapel meetings" in the Times' composing room.

A "chapel meeting" is a form of sitdown strike. The workers stay in the plant, but don't do any work, instead gathering to discuss union business.

The chapel meeting at the New York Times got longer and longer. Finally, the printers were holding them for 17 hours out of every 24.

Yet, even when the meetings reached this length, the Times was able to put out a newspaper reduced in size by only about a fourth — though this proved so costly in loss of advertising that the management gave the union almost everything it asked.

Obviously, if a newspaper 75 per cent of its normal size can be produced in 25 per cent of the normal time, there is a lot of featherbedding somewhere.

THE NATIONAL Federation of Independent Business has taken a poll of its members on Fannin's anti-featherbedding bill. Nationwide, it found that 91 per cent of businessmen polled favor the bill.

In California, the percentage in favor was 92. In Washington, D.C., it was 100.

The businessmen are better aware than the general public of the costs — inevitably passed on to the consumer — inherent in featherbedding.

Of course, a poll of union members would show a different result. But we very much doubt that 91 per cent of them would oppose a ban on featherbedding — though 91 per cent of their "pie card" union politicians might do so.

Whom Do You Believe?

"The union would join in the prosecution of anyone caught" (committing acts of vandalism against I-J advertisers). — Donald H. Abrams, spokesman for San Francisco Typographical Union 21, before the San Rafael Lions Club April 15.

"These are our members. We feel they are entitled to every legal defense." - Leon Olson, president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, commenting on union members out on bail arranged by the union and defended by union-hired attorneys after being charged with vandalism against I-J advertisers, in interview published July 26 in San Francisco Examiner.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Label It 'Ecology,' But Hide Rapid Transit Study Underneath

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There used to be a legislator around these halls whose bills, especially toward the end of the session, received special scrutiny from his fellows.

The theory was that no matter what the title, if you turned one of them over, you would probably find a logging truck underneath.

Today there are a number of measures by a number of legislators bearing titles relating to smog, ecology, the environment and other sacred catchwords.

If you turn them over you will probably find rapid transit underneath.

IT'S SORT OF LIKE the old bait-and-switch proposition perfected by non-legislative con men.

Polls conducted by legislators indicate that the public is willing to let revenues produced by automobile owners be used to combat the smog the autos produce.

The same polls indicate, however, that the same public is not willing to have the same revenues diverted from highway construction to experiments with restoring the kind of transit systems the automobiles ran off the rails years ago.

So if you are a legislator the transit lobby has convinced of the need for a return to the rails, and if you have a resourceful legislative assistant, you design a constitutional amendment of the bait-and-switch variety by coupling smog research with rapid transit.

WITH SMOG RESEARCH as the bait, the authors of these measures are confident they can get popular approval of gas tax diversion for rapid transit schemes they fear the same voters would reject if presented as separate items.

The group of proposed constitutional amendments, at a conservative estimate would make a total of $850 million available for these two purposes, which is more money than exists in the highway fund.

The amount of money that individual measures would make available for smog research and rapid transit ranges from a low of $25 million to a high of about $300 million.

Any of these amounts, of course, would be on top of the $4.7 million the state is already spending on smog research — $3 million of it from motorist revenues not constitutionally mandated for highway construction.

RESEARCH TAKES time as well as money, and there are only so many qualified researchers and research organizations in this state. Qualified research people say that $3 million to $4 million a year is about all their activity can absorb.

If in spite of this, hundreds of millions are going to be shoveled into duplicating and redundant research, there is at least one newsman who is going into the redundant research business.

Big Labor Now; Big Brother Next?

In an age when Big Labor has bludgeoned Big Business to its knees, perhaps paving the way for Big Brotherhood, it seems doubtful that the small Independent-Journal can get a fair hearing from the public, most of which is unionized. Yet reason, though cowed and enfeebled, may still be alive here and there. Is it worth while to appeal to it?. . .

The union position is somewhat like that of the holdup man who maintained he wasn't responsible for his victim's death: the man, he said, had committed suicide by refusing to hand over his wallet. Or like the radical students at S.F. State who maintained it wasn't they who had initiated the violence by breaking down a door: the school administrators, they claimed, started the violence by locking the door against them.

It's high time we recognized that competition, the heart of Darwin's evolutionary theory, is also the heart and soul of any free enterprise system. When competition dies, the system dies. The capitalist free enterprise system which made America great was composed of two parts, (1) capital which competed with capital for markets, and (2) labor which competed with labor for wages and employment. When either side withdraws from the conditions of competition, as capital might do by forming giant cartels or monopolies, or as labor might do by forming giant unions which bargain collectively for workers, the entire system has to perish. The days of our moribund free enterprise system are numbered. And when it finally dies, as seems more than likely, liberty and democracy may die with it.

It is generally acknowledged that employer abuses of labor fostered unionism in America and contributed to the chaotic economic conditions which precipitated passage of the National Labor Relations Act (Wagner Act) in 1935. But the collective bargaining provisions of the act and the right to strike may have been an over-correction of abuses. These two features of the act, when coupled with labor's exemption from the monopoly provisions of the Sherman Act and the Clayton Act, have enabled labor to withdraw from the free enterprise system.

Capital, on the other hand, is sternly obliged to comply with all the provisions of both antitrust acts. Consequently, it is severely handicapped when it comes to building competitive excellence into its products and services; for while capital must still compete with capital for markets, workers are no longer obliged to compete with each other for wages and employment.

The logical result has followed: prices have gone up and quality down. U.S. labor costs have priced us out of world markets, resulting in the gold drain, and have a pernicious inflationary effect on the entire American economy. Inflation, as we know it today, steady, eroding, predictable inflation, began with the National Labor Relations Act. . .

The demand-and-threat technique, now legally recognized as an integral part of any union's bargaining powers, was perfected by American hoodlums seeking power for themselves by obtaining gains for American workers. Today, however, the tecnnique is being copied and perverted by organized dissidents everywhere. All we seem to hear from all sides is demand-and-threat, demand-and-threat, demand-and-threat.

The vast majority of American workers are decent, law-abiding citizens. For the most part, they are well-fed, well-clothed, well-housed, and well-wheeled. As they sit complacently before their TV sets being entertained and watching history unfold before their eyes, they are innocently unaware of the impending economic and political catastrophe which they helped to manufacture. It is true that they may awaken to their peril before this decade is over. But will it be in time to save America from Big Brotherhood?

I'm not a rich reactionary, by the way, and I don't know much about economic theories or writing. I'm a high school drop-out and drive a taxi for a living. But after watching TV coverage of the event in San Rafael last Saturday, I decided to set down my thoughts on the subject. . .Your fight to save the Journal should be the fight of every thinking American.

Concern For U.S. Prisoners Of War

I would like to express deep concern for our American and allied prisoners of war and missing in action in Southeast Asia. The North Vietnamese, Pathet Lao, and Viet Cong have refused to release a list of the prisoners of war or any reassurance that the men have human treatment.

The Geneva Convention of 1954 calls for release of lists of prisoners, of the sick and wounded, and inspection of POW camps and treatment of prisoners. Also a free flow of mail. North Vietnam has not abided by the Geneva Convention which it signed.

The parents, wives and children of such POWs have no way of knowing whether their loved ones are dead, alive, prisoners, missing, or wounded. As a concerned American I fear for the POW-MIAs' health, survival and safety. I fear also for the mental anguish of their families.

The North Vietnamese should be made to realize how the free world feels about their questionable methods of fighting a war.

THE DRUMMONDS

Events, Not Arguments, Will Determine Outcome Of Election

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Two events will determine if the Republicans win the Senate this fall. All the rest is shadowboxing.

What events? Just two:

1 — Employment will have to be going up and the cost of living down.

2 — Withdrawal from Vietnam will have to be steady and impressive. It will have to be evident beyond doubt that ending the U. S. combat role in the war is an early certainty.

THESE ARE PRESIDENT Nixon's own priorities. These are the matters above all others on which he has said: Judge my administration.

They will be. If the voters conclude that the President is making solid headway on both of these priorities, the odds will be strong that the GOP will finally recapture the Senate and hold the usual midterm losses in the House to a minimum.

If Richard Nixon is succeeding, then the Republican candidates can to advantage turn their campaigns into a verdict on the administration.

But if either of Mr. Nixon's two priorities is faltering, then the Democrats, however negative their own record and however responsible they have been for both the war and the inflation, need do no more than pick up the marbles. They will almost certainly retain control of both houses of Congress with larger majorities.

THE PACE of withdrawal from Vietnam is pretty much in Mr. Nixon's own hands. He can resolve the uncertainties as his own judgment dictates and speed removal. Our guess is that he will be doing exactly that.

The pace of the economic recovery and getting inflation on the down-trend is not so easily in Richard Nixon's own hands. There are too many uncertaintiesi n the economy. Author Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told Congress last week that he expected the nation's economy to return to full employment sometime in 1971. But there is little assurance that the up-trend will be sufficiently visible by late October to be a political asset.

This is why Hubert Humphrey is focusing his Senate campaign in Minnesota almost wholly on the state of the economy and away from Vietnam and he is strongly advising his Democratic colleagues elsewhere in the country to do the same.

Humphrey sees the Nixon administration more vulnerable on the economic issue — unemployment and inflation — that on anything else. This is an issue which is both local — where unemployment may be pinching — and national in that it becomes a verdict on the Nixon administration's record.

If the state of the economy does not favor the administration, the voters are not likely to favor the Republicans in November.

BOTH REPUBLICANS and Democrats are beginning to feel out the issues and the answers for the congressional campaigning.

President Nixon is beginning to take part. He is trying to pin the label of "big spender" on the Democratic Congress.

And the Democrats don't seem worried in the least. They have been the big spenders from 'way back and the voters, far from punishing them, have rewarded them. They have won both House and Senate in 17 of the past 19 congressional elections and have controlled Congress during 34 of the past 38 years.

That record shows how little the "big spender" epithet thrown at the Democrats repels voters.

BOTH SIDES know they are shadowboxing. The Democrats know that they have a substantially empty, negative legislative record in this Congress and that they risk losing the Senate if things go reasonably well for the Nixon administration during the next four months. The Republicans know they can't take the Senate — winning the House is not within their reach — unless things go well in the country.

This means that events, not arguments, will determine the outcome.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Liberal Leaders Vote Against Right Of Reply

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Senate liberals apparently feel it is eminently right and proper to have a double standard in the administration of civil rights.

To a man, they vigorously opposed a proposal to require the Civil Rights Commission to include in its published reports statements by individuals accused or critized by the agency. Under existing law, the commission doesn't have to do that.

Led by Senators Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Joseph Tydings, D-Md., all members of the Judiciary Committee and foremost champions of civil rights the liberals voted as a bloc against the fair-play provision.

IT WAS OFFERED by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Permanent Investigating Committee, as an amendment to the bill authorizing a $3,400,000 budget for the Civil Rights Commission — a $750,000 increase over its last appropriation of $2,650,000.

Despite the liberals' disapproval, the Senate approved McClellan's amendment 44 to 40 — with 16 absentees.

Significantly, every Senate dove who was present voted against the proposal.

They included Senators Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Edward Brooke, R-Mass.; Clifford Case, R-NJ.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo.; Charles Goodell, R-N.Y.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.; Eugene McCarhty, D-Minn.; George McGovern, D-S.D.; Edmund Muskie, D-Me.; Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; William Proxmire, D-Wis.; Stuart Symington, D-Mo.; Stephen Young, D-O.

IN URGING his amendment, Senator McClellan pointed out that all it did was "to simply give a man who is defamed the opportunity to make his own summation in the court of public opinion. This is an opportunity for the Senate to say that there is not going to be a double standard in making accusations against people"

McClellan cited an instance where two Texas highway patrolmen were denounced for brutality in a commission report, although grand juries refused to indict either of them. Neither officer had adequate opportunity to answer the charges made against them before the commission and published in its report.

"Where is the justice and fairness in that?" demanded McClellan.

CURIOUSLY, the liberals' determined fight against McClellan's fair-play proposal went wholly unreported.

Senator Tydings, contended the amendment would "open a veritable Pandora's box." He maintained an undesirable precedent would be set "if a person is criticized in the final report and he would be able to respond in the report, and the thrust of the report would be forfeited."

McCLELLAN caustically brushed aside all the declamatory rhetoric, caying:

"The plain fact remains that under present law, individuals defamed, degraded or incriminated in a report of the commission have no right to have their side of the story included in the report of the commission. I assert that is a double standard."

CTA Fights Legislation Encouraging Competition

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The California Teachers Association, following the lead of its parent National Education Association, has come out swinging against legislation that would encourage competition to the public schools.

Calvin J. Rossi, the CTA's top lobbyist who is serving as its acting executive secretary, teed off on what he called "uninformed and concerted efforts to cripple public education" in a statement distributed to the press as a news story.

Rossi asked for letters from the public opposing SB 2, SB 1204, AB 2471, and ACA 47. (Actually, the handout said "AB 1204" instead of SB 1204, a misprint which may have resulted in some rather confusing letters to legislators since AB 1204 has nothing to do with education.)

SB 2, INTRODUCED by State Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin (since elected to Congress), would grant state income tax deduction for tuition paid to private schools.

SB 1204, by State Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, would provide state vouchers to parents of children enrolled in private schools, approximating the cost of their education in the public schools.

AB 2471, by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, would authorize privately run "demonstration schools" to compare their results with those of the public schools.

ACA 47, by Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, would amend the state constitution to authorize public grants to non-profit colleges for non-sectarian purposes.

REFERRING TO SB 1204, Rossi asked rhetorically: "Who would prevent a proliferation of non-public schools whose interest may be more in the area of political activity than basic education?"

Declared the CTA lobbyist-executive secretary: "To divert (public) funds from the public schools while they are in need of money is to seriously threaten the system of education that has made this nation the greatest in the world."

QUITE THE OPPOSITE view has been taken by those who introduced the legislation to which CTA objects. Senator Moscone's SB 1204, for example, states:

"The public interest is best served through competition and diversity in educational opportunity offered by public and non-public schools . . . Therefore, the legislature declares that it serves the general welfare of the people of the state to make an investment in the education of children enrolled in non-public . . . schools."

ACA 47 would authorize the state to do what the federal government already is doing: grant public moneys to private colleges.

SUCH FEDERAL grants are under attack, and the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to hear next fall a challenge brought in the U.S. District Court in Connecticut by the American Civil Liberties Union and American Jewish Congress on behalf of 15 Connecticut taxpayers. This involves construction grants under the Higher Education Facilities Act to four Catholic colleges.

A three-judge panel of the district court dismissed the challenge, finding that the grants were not for religious purposes and their use "neither advances nor inhibits religion." Judge William H. Timbers, who wrote the decision, declared in it:

"Here we find no conflict between preservation of religious freedom and provision of higher education. Without both, we may end up with neither."

ASIDE FROM the church-state separation issue, there is an interesting question involved in all the legislation to which CTA objects:

Would granting public funds to private schools increase or decrease the cost of the public schools?

If, as CTA contends, the public schools are short of money, might diverting more students into private schools alleviate the public schools' financial plight?

Boost Peninsula Fares, SP Asks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Southern Pacific Co. argued for a 5 per cent fare increase for its San Francisco Peninsula customers Tuesday, contending it was losing money on the system between San Jose and San Francisco.

The firm also proposed abolishing round trip fares while saying its commuter deficit was $1,750,000 last year.

A 5 per cent boost, the company said, would reduce that by $240,000.

Under the SP proposal, a monthly commute book between San Mateo and San Francisco would cost $22.65, instead of $21.55. The rate to Palo Alto would be $33.10 instead of $31.50 and the rate to San Jose would be $37 instead of $35.20.

A round trip to Burlingame from San Francisco would cost $2 instead of $1.75.

The case was adjourned until Aug. 11 when the public will be heard.

Board Of Design Reelects Two

The Corte Madera Board of Design Review has reelected William B. Gilbert as chairman and Morgan Griffiths vice chairman for 1970-71.

In a discussion with Jules D. Firenze of Standard Oil Company, the board Monday night outlined its wishes for remodeling of two service stations, both within the Corte Madera Center.

The design should blend with town plans for future development along Tamalpais Drive, with wood-like exteriors and earth tones in the color scheme, reported secretary Elizabeth Long.

29 Cases Of Strep Reported Last Week

Strep infection outnumbered other communicable diseases in Marin in the week ending Saturday with 29 cases reported, according to Marin County Health Officer Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht.

Other cases recorded were: 25 of gonorrhea, two of mumps, one of tuberculosis, 11 of infectious hepatitis, one of aseptic meningitis and one of serum hepatitis.

Marin Seen Steady In Bay Area Ranking

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin County will hold its own or even gain slightly in the statistics status race among the nine Bay Area counties by 1980, a researchers' report has predicted.

"Bay Area Projections for 1975 and 1980," distributed by the Bay Area Council, predicts that Santa Clara County will continue its climb to dominance among the counties, surpassing Alameda and San Francisco. Marin, now sixth in population, is expected to have the same ranking for the next 10 years; its per capita income is expected to keep the same pace, as well as its number of employed and retail sales.

The predictions are based on a recent survey by the Stanford Research Institute for a San Jose client, plus an older survey on Alameda County's prospects.

Marin's ranking among the counties may remain much the same, but the growth predictions show a husky curve:

Population for Marin, 300,000 by 1980, or 5 per cent of the Bay Area's total. In 1968, Marin was home for 4.5 per cent of Bay Area residents.

Total personal income for Marin, $879 million in 1968, is expected to hit $2.26 billion in 10 years.

Marin retail sales, $365 million in 1968, are expected to hit $877 million by 1970.

The 50,900 job researchers found available in Marin two years ago are predicted to grow to 80,000 by 1970, with government service being the biggest gainer — from 12,300 in 1968 to 23,000 by 1970. Service jobs are expected to go from 13,300 in 1968 to 23,000 in 1970; construction trades jobs from 3,100 to 5,000 and other fields may show proportionately smaller gains.

The Bay Area Council research director, Kenneth F. Evansco, said that the ranking among the various Bay Area counties was studied to predict if there will be any significant shifts in relationships such as Marin and San Francisco, in light of Marin's high ratio of commuting wage earners. Evansco said no obvious trends could be seen, but this "may be simply the result of projecting past trends rather than attempting to assess the potential effect of major population movements on such trends."

Motel Defrauder Hears Penalty

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal court has placed a Seattle man, who had admitted defrauding Corte Madera motels, on probation for one year, gave him 30 days in jail and told him to make restitution to the motels.

He gave Wilbur L. Myhre, 32, credited Monday for the time he has spent in jail since his arrest July 19.

Myhre had been identified as the man who switched names and hairpieces for each visit to two Corte Madera motels, where he skipped out on bills totaling about $300.

Fine Nude Sunbathers

KEELE, England (UPI) — Eleven Keele University students who sunbathed in the nude on campus were each fined 10 pounds ($25) by campus officials and banned from using university residences until next June. They were given the right to appeal.

SF State Forced To Cut Personnel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco State College must cut 44 persons from its faculty and 27 from its staff because of legislative cuts in its budget, a school spokesman says.

Harvey Yorke, public relations director, said Tuesday no layoff was expected since cuts could be made by eliminating currently vacant posts.

The college was allocated $22.5 million for the 1970-71 year, $200,000 less than last year and $800,000 less than Governor Reagan proposed.

Ban On Long Hair

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The University of Singapore has banned long hair and sandals from the campus, a spokesman announced.

Jetliner Hijacker Surrenders

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) —A Bolivian gunman who hijacked an Argentine jetliner with 55 persons aboard surrendered early today, more than 12 hours after he ordered the plane to Cuba at gunpoint.

The hijacker, identified as Lorenzo Fermin Jurado Albornot, gave himself up at 3:40 a.m. EDT to Argentine police in the presence of Bolivian consul, Felix Sattori, official sources said.

Earlier reports said there were six hijackers armed with 45-caliber pistols and a machinegun. This proved erroneous when Jurado Albornoz stepped off the plane and released the remaining 32 persons aboard.

Jurado Albornoz' flight to the Caribbean was thwarted by an Andes mountains blizzard and stubborn officials at Cordoba's Pajas Blanca airfield who refused to let him take off for Montevideo, Uruguay.

Juardo Albornoz commandeered the Boeing 737 by threatening to murder two small children while it was en route from Salta to Buenos Aires with 49 passengers and a crew of six.

The plane made a refueling stop at Cordoba, where Jurado Albornoz allowed 23 of the passengers to debark and took aboard Numberto Gardassi, a qualified Boeing 707 pilot with international experience.

The plane departed Cordoba late Tuesday for Santiago, Chile, but was prevented from crossing the Andes by a heavy snow storm. Instead it landed at the western Argentine city of Mendoza, where another passenger got off, then returned to Cordoba, en route to Montevideo where, according to officials, Jurado Albornoz planned to seek political asylum.

An electric system defect and the absence of a key keeper stalled the plane's scond takeoff from Cordoba. When the pilot asked to be refueled, he was told by the tower that "the fuel tanks are locked up for the night and it will be necessary for someone to open them."

Authorization for takeoff was then refused.

Jurado Albornoz now faces possible death. On June 3 the Argentine military regime decreed the death penalty for hijackers.

Bench Warrant Set For Mill Valley Man

A bench warrant with bail set at $2,500 has been issued in Marin Superior Court for Peter Lee Arbuthnot, 31, of Mill Valley, who failed to appear Monday for centencing ond drug charges.

Arbuthnot had earlier pleaded guilty to counts of possessing cocaine in December, 1969, and having marijuana in September, 1969.

MINI-CAR NAMED PICCOLO

The new AWS-Piccolo model succeeds West Germany's "Goggomobil" and all that remains of the "Goggo" are the chassis and the motor. This model comes with a rust-proof plastic-coated steel body and screw-on, exchangeable body sections. The sections, which can be used like building blocks to make different body styles, can form a factory-hall transporter like this one and an effective exhaust filter makes indoor use possible.

1969 New Tire Sales Totaled $4.5 Billion

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Americans spent more than $4.5 billion last year for new tires — about one $25 tire for every American over age 18, according to Goodyear.

About $3.25 billion was spent for replacing worn out tires on cars, another $1.14 billion for 16 million truck tires, and about $138 million on tires for farm equipment.

Apartment Group Raps Nixon Bill On Rent Subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The national apartment association has attacked the administration housing proposals as attempting "to embrace the great middle class" by seeking to extend rent subsidies to "half the nation's families."

The 18,000-member group suggested before a senate housing subcommittee that the proposals be toned down so that "families of relatively low income, but with ample assets" would not be eligible for government rent help.

The group also urged prompt federal action to bar mortgage-money lenders from demanding "a piece of the action" as the price for lending apartment-building funds to big investors.

Though the NAA expressed general support for an omnibus housing bill designed to consolidate, simplify and extend the bewildering array of existing housing programs, it was sharply critical of provisions to liberalize eligibility criteria for rent subsidies.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Organization Offers Investment Club Aid

By Roger E. Spear

Q. A group of us at the plant interested in starting an investment club would like a rough idea on other clubs. Can we get information on the mechanics of setting up our club? J.K.

A. The men at your plant will be joining a movement which has seen the number of clubs rise from 37,000 to 60,000 in the last 5 years. Of this number 14,000 are members of the National Association of Investment Clubs, a nonprofit organization devoted to aiding new and established clubs. The average club is composed of 15 to 20 members with businessmen and professionals predominating. NAIC reports that the average club invests $275 monthly. Write to NAIC, Washington Boulevard Building., Detroit, Mich. 48226 for guidance in organizing your group.

Q. We purchased Libbey-Owens-Ford in 1965 at 55 a share. They have cut their dividend. Since we are retired should we take the loss or hold? B.L.

A. The dividend on your Libbey-Owens-Ford shares at current trading levels yields an abnormally high 8 per cent as compared with 5.4 per cent at the time of your purchase. At this level it would appear that the market is registering some doubt as to the safety of the new dividend rate. Heavy dependence on the cyclical automotive and construction industries was reflected in first quarter sales, down 14 per cent, and earnings, off 46 per cent. Large expenditures for capital expansion, a significant factor in the cash squeeze that resulted in the dividend cut, are of major importance in the long-range outlook for Libbey. Expenditures of $100 million for conversion to the more efficient float process for manufacturing flat glass will be completed this summer. Acquisitions and the emphasis on specialty glass products are also expected to enhance earnings growth in the coming decade. Although preservation of the current dividend rate depends heavily on the duration of the business slump and near-term earnings prospects are clouded, long-term potential justifies retention.

Stocks Close Higher As Trading Rises

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange closed higher today although they were down from earlier gains. Trading was moderately active.

The UPI Indicator of all stocks traded climbed 0.59 per cent on 1,558 issues across the tape. Advances outpaced declines, 815 to 459.

Volume amounted to about 12,500,000 shares compared with 9,040,000 shares Tuesday.

One analyst said early trading apparently was spurred by a report the Viet Cong had offered to hold direct peace talks with Ambassador David Bruce, the U.S. representative at the Paris talks. But the analyst said volume began slowing with the Labor Department announcement of a sharp increase in wholesale prices for July. The Labor Department, in a preliminary report, said wholesale prices for July were well above the May and June figures. It marked the biggest monthly rise since January.

Another Wall Street analyst said he believed the Dow Jones Industrial Average would try to penetrate the 740 area.

Among the most active issues were Computer Sciences Corp., which traded one block of 499,000 shares at 7 1-4, off 7-8; American Smelting, which reported higher second quarter earnings; Mead Corp.; and Budd Co. The latter traded a block of 185,800 shares at 7 1-2, off 3-4.

National Starch attracted some support. National Starch and Merck & Co. announced a preliminary agreement to merger. Merck eased.

Caterpillar President For Nixon On Quotas

PEORIA (UPI) — W. H. Franklin, president of Caterpillar Tractor Co., has urged Congress to support President Nixon and vote down any imposition of quotas on imports.

He said import quotas certainly would result in wide foreign retaliation that would be disastrous to U.S. exports.

Will Sell Branches

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hayden Stone Co., the Wall Street house negotiating a merger with Walston & Co., reports it also is negotiating to sell its foreign branches to other parties. However, Hayden Stone said it has no present plans to close the foreign branches as reported recently on Wall Street.

ASARCO Plans To Close Lead Plant Near S.F.

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Smelting & Refining Co. will shut down permanently its Selby lead plant near San Francisco within the next several months, it has announced.

The plant, built in 1885 and purchased for ASARCO by the late Bernard Baruch in 1905, has a 340-man work force and can produce 72,000 tons of refined lead a year. It is the only remaining producer of refined gold (a byproduct) in California.

Originally a refiner of ores mined in California and Nevada, Selby in recent years has been using predominantly foreign ores and concentrates. The company said competitive bidding by Japanese and European smelters for raw materials has stiffened, making it more difficult to run Selby at a profit.

The smelter and refinery have been running at or near the break-even point for several years, and now higher taxes and labor costs and an increase in the firm's tidelands lease with the state of California make it impossible to run Selby except at a loss, ASARCO said.

Earlier this month, ASARCO slashed its price for lead by one cent to 15 ½ cents a pound, breaking a string of five straight increases.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Alcolac Chemical Corp. has increased its interest in Water Pollution Research & Applications, Inc., of Washington to 76 per cent by purchasing an additional 11 per cent of the shares.

Barnum & Bailey Profits Doubled

WASHINGTON, D.C. (BW) — Net income of Rngling Bros. - Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, Inc., for the six months ended June 30 rose by an unprecedented 99 per cent over earnings in the first half of 1969, Irvin Feld, president, has announced.

"We earned more in this year's first half than in all of 1969, which was the best year in Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey hsitory.

"In fact, Ringling Bros. - Barnum & Bailey has set new comparative records in revenues and earnings in every accounting period since the present management took over control in November 1967," Feld stated.

Cancel Book Merger

NEW YORK (UPI) — The proposed purchase of Simon & Schuster, Inc., one of the world's leading book publishing houses, by Norton Simon, Inc., announced with great fanfare several weeks ago, has been called off. No formal reason was given.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 29, the 210th day of 1970 with 155 to follows.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

In 1914 the first transcontinental telephone linkup was completed with a conversation between San Francisco and New York City.

In 1967 fire swept the aircraft carrier Forrestal off the coast of Vietnam, killing 129 men.

In 1968 Pope Paul upheld the prohibition of all artifical means of birth control for Roman Catholics.

In 1969 the first photos taken by men on the moon were shown, including graphic shots of footprints on the lunar surface.

A thought for the day: George Bernard Shaw said, "Silence is the most perfect expression of scorn."

2-State Post Office

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UPI) — Texas and Arkansas boast the only post office in the United States that straddles a state line. It serves both Texarkana, Tex., and Texarkana, Ark. The site was picked in 1841 when Texas was still a republic.

Car Checkup Rough

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)— State Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman reports early 23 per cent of the 1.5 million motor vehicles registered in Kentucky were rejected for mechanical defects in the state's 1969 mandatory safety check. This was down 3 per cent from the number rejected in 1968, he said.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Remember Opponent Can't Lead Both Suits At The Same Time

If your high school physics course is many years behind you, perhaps you have forgotten the discovery of Professor Noitcua Egdirb: Your opponents cannot lead two suits at once. The importance of this principle is shown in a hand I discovered in the professor's papers during my recent trip to Sweden.

OBVIOUS SINGLETON

West leads the eight of clubs, an obvious singleton, and declarer must win in the dummy and should drop the nine or ten of clubs from his hand. South next draws three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy.

With trumps out of the way, declarer can resume the clubs, leading the seven of clubs from dummy. East nonchalantly plays low, and South drops the six under dummy's seven, winning the finesse and keeping the lead in dummy in order to continue with another club.

East wins the next club with the king and must attack both red suits at once. Here is where we see Professor Egdirb's principle at work.

DOES NOT COVER

When East leads the ten of hearts, South must not cover with the king. West plays the deuce on this trick because a heart continuation would leave him without a safe return.

SHIFTS SUIT

East obediently shifts, this time to the ten of diamonds. South does not cover, and dummy wins with the queen. Declarer is safe because the defenders could not lead hearts and diamonds together.

As a result, declarer can lead hearts from the dummy, forcing West to win with the ace. If West returns a heart, dummy ruffs, while South gets rid of a diamond; and if West returns a diamond, declarer gets a free finesse. Either way South makes his contract and thanks the memory of the old Professor.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠—A Q 10 9
♥—K 4
♦—J 5 2
♣—Q 10 9 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

The hand is barely worth an opening bid, and the fact that you can comfortably rebid one spade if partner responds in a red suit entitles you to bid rather than pass.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dr. Charles C. Shepard, public health officer of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, was honored for his breakthrough work in growing leprosy bacilli in the footpads of mice.

Unlike other bacteria causing human disease, the leprosy bacillus hasn't been grown in test tubes. Shepard's procedure makes it possible for the first time to test efficiency of drugs against the human leprosy bacillus.

Reagan's Tax Shift Blocked

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— A lone Republican and a dozen Democrats blocked by only one vote today Senate passage of a key second half of Gov. Ronald Reagan's $1 billion election-year tax shift program.

Approval by the Senate is tantamount to final passage.

But Democratic leaders told newmen they foresaw no swift break in the impasse, which shaped up as a carbon copy replay of the state budget fight earlier in the month except there is not the same element of urgency.

SINGLE VOTE

Republican Sen. Clark Bradley of San Jose teamed up with 12 Democrats Tuesday night in denying by a single vote passage of the Reagan administration-sponsored bill which distributes property tax relief.

The bill was kept alive, however, by the proponents receiving premission to reconsider the rejection today. The vote actually occurred on a technical provision allowing the program to take immediate effect and not on the bill itself.

But Sen. Robert Lagomarsino, the legislation's Senate sponsor, told newsmen late in the morning that he wouldn't seek further action "until we have the votes or until we're awful sure we don't."

It received 26 favorable to 13 against, one short of the minimum 27 needed for passage. Seven Democrats broke ranks to vote for the bill.

Only seven hours earlier, the Senate voted 23-14 approval to a companion bill in the two-measure package which raises tax relief by shifting more emphasis to business-oriented levies and increases the sales and income taxes. It needed only 21 votes.

"MORAL VICTORY"

Democratic caucus chairman Mervyn Dymally of Los Angeles said rejection of the second bill represented a "moral" victory for Democrats.

They had protested the program failed to provide enough relief for low income Californians and did nothing to prevent a threatened $300 million tax increase next year.

Assemblyman William Bagley, R-San Rafael, legislative architect of the proposal, said he foresaw no potential areas for compromise because Democrats hadn't offered to negotiate.

Bradley, who has established a reputation as a conservative and independent Republican, in a floor speech attacked the program's proposed increase in the sales tax from five to a record six cents on the dollar.

Senate Democratic leader George Moscone warned that the massive tax reshuffle would "inevitably" cost Californians a tax increase next year to finance it. He forecast it at $300 million.

Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, R-Ojai, Senate manager of the legislation, refused to agree that a tax increase was inevitable next year. He said

CREEK WORK — This is how the first section of Phase 3A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project appeared today as workmen prepared the canal for a layer of gravel. In the foreground is a pump which is syphoning water from the creek bed to a point downstream beyond the College Avenue bridge. The Army said the gravel must be laid today if the contractor J B and C Co. is to meet the construction schedule.

COUNTY DISAGREES

Chief Insists Project On Schedule

Construction of Phase 3A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project running through the College of Marin is proceeding on schedule despite county claims to the contrary, the project's superintendent said yesterday.

The superintendent, Ronald D. Price of J B and C Co., said the controversial concrete canal will be completed by Oct. 14 and access roads parallelling the creek will be paved by the Oct. 29 deadline.

Price made his comments as rumors continued to circulate among county officials and contractors that the 36-day-old project is already 28 days behind its timetable.

Donald R. Frost, county public works director, last week told the county board of supervisors construction was four weeks behind. The alarmed supervisors immediately fired off a letter of concern to the Army Corps of Engineers, which had contracted with the Scottsdale, Ariz., firm for the $1,333,333 job after the county guaranteed rights-of-way.

Frost said yesterday the contractor is only now beginning the main excavation of a small section of creek bed near the College Avenue bridge, Kentfield. He blamed the delay on the contractor's inexperience in rerouting water from the creek.

Price countered that his company's method of "de-watering" is not commonly usedb y contractors and therefore not widely understood.

"Some of our methods may appear unorthodox to other contractors, but they work," he said. "The method we are using has cut our cost about $100,000."

The Arizona firm bid $500,000 less than any other bidder for the job.

Rather than dry the entire creek by the installation and continued operation of heavy duty pumps, Price said his firm is drying the creek in sections as construction proceeds.

Phase 3A requires that the contractor this year complete the flood control channel from the College Avenue Bridge to a point 600 feet upstream of Laurel Avenue in Kentfield. Next year, a second phase will continue to a point 200 feet downstream from the Ross Post Office.

Col. Charles R. Roberts, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers said county officials charging the contractor with delays "don't know what they are talking about."

"If the contractor begins laying filter blankets (gravel) today, I will consider the contractor to be on schedule," he said.

"What they (county officials) are worried about is whether the contractor's schedule is approved," Roberts said adding that he would approve the schedule when the ditch's gravel base is laid.

"The schedule has check points which I will be checking as work progresses. I'm not going to let it (the project) fall behind," he concluded.

But the Army's optimistic view is not shared by either Dale A. Fleming, College of Ma-

Hawks, Doves Vie In Israel Truce Stand

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Israeli cabinet split between hawks and doves widened today, and the hawkish Gahal Party threatened to leave the government if Israel replies affirmatively to U.S. peace proposals. Premier Golda Meir appealed to the Gahal leaders not to precipitate a government crisis at this critical time.

While various ministers began a series of daylong meetings with the Gahal members of the Knesset (Parliament), the battle along the Suez Canal raged for the 69th consecutive day. There were artillery duels which wounded one Israeli soldier and new Israeli airstrikes against Egypt's canal positions.

Israeli jets also swept across the Jordan River at noon and blasted three Arab guerrilla bases south of Jarash in northern Jordan as reprisal for guerrilla attacks, a spokesman said in Tel Aviv. The bases were 15 to 25 miles inside Jordan.

The rift in the Arab world created by Jordan's and Egypt's acceptance of U.S. proposals for a three-month cease-fire deepened and the Sudan joined Egypt in banning broadcasts by the Arab guerrillas who have vowed there will

By MARY LEYDECKER

A San Rafael insurance man finally cleared official hurdles last night and won a two-year battle to keep a pony and horse at his home in the plush Dominican area. (Other planning commission stories, page 8.)

The San Rafael Planning Commission granted Edward K. Wachsman — who came to last night's meeting accompanied by an entourage including a veterinarian, psychiatrist, a doctor, several long-haired youths and a Great Dane — a permit for the animals for one year.

Wachsman, of 50 Palm Avenue, who admitted at the outset he never rides horses, won the somewhat unexpected victory after a long feud with some of his neighbors and San Rafael officials.

After complaints about odor, noise and flies from the neighbors, Wachsman lost his animal permit in 1968. Although he said he was assured by city officials that if he met certain conditions, he could keep them, he was convicted in Marin Municipal Court in 1969 of keeping the animals without a permit.

Recently, the city council adopted a new ordinance concerning animals, and Wachsman was the first person to apply for a permit from Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

Hotchner turned him down, he said last night, because he felt after interviewing neighbors and looking at the corral, there would still be odor, noise and flies.

A neighbor, James Huckins of 9 Edward Court, said last night that his "family life on the patio had been destroyed" since the advent of the horses next door.

Another neighbor, Howard Baldwin of 15 Edward Court, sadly described the Wachsman's corral as "once an area for garden parties — a lovely place for champagne parties."

That is all gone now, he said, and the only recent time his family had not suffered from flies and horsey smells was this summer when the horses were removed following a court order.

Wachsman's supporters, however, disagreed and said that smells were in the nose of the beholder.

"You have no more right to take away a man's horses than his eucalyptus trees," a psychi-

Boycott On Grapes Halted By Chavez

80 Per Cent Of Growers Sign Up

DELANO (UPI) — Cesar Chavez today ended the nationwide boycott against four-fifths of the California table grape crop with an announcement he had signed 80 per cent of the growers to union contracts.

Chavez held a news conference with 300 of his farm workers present to announce that 7,000 to 10,000 vineyard workers are now covered by contracts with his United Farm Workers Organizing Committee.

The boycott against 20 per cent of the state's table grape crop will continue, Chavez said, until all growers have signed.

The new contracts included Giumarra Vineyards, of Kern County, one of the strongest holdouts.

SOME NOT SIGNED

A few growers in Fresno and Tulare counties have not yet signed, Chavez said.

John Giumarra Jr., of Giumarra Vineyards, said the signing brought a "new era" to agriculture. "We are happy, perhaps overjoyed, that peace has come to the valley," he said.

"The eyes of America are on Delano," he said. "If it (unionization) works here, it can work elsewhere. There is a fantastic sense of responsibility on both sides."

The contracts cover a three-year period and the minimum hourly wage ranges from $1.75 to $1.80 with 20 cents a box incentive pay. There are provisions for no strikes, no boycotts and no lockouts.

35 PCT. OF GRAPES

Growers producing 35 per cent of the state's table grapes previously signed contracts with the union and have been selling their produce in boxes carrying the union's black eagle label.

Chavez, a Mexican-American who once was a migrant farm worker himself, stressed nonviolence all through his organizing campaign and fasted for 25 days in 1968 because he feared advocates of violence were gaining the upper hand.

Vineyard workers had been receiving $1.60 an hour for their work, but in a contract Chavez signed in May they were guaranteed $1.75 an hour this year and $1.90 next year, plus an incentive of 25 cents a box.

Novato Vote Bans School Tax Boost

Novato voters who narrowly failed to pass an increase in the school tax rate limit last April, yesterday defeated the increase by a 3-to-2 margin.

Final unofficial tally in the voting yesterday was 3,415 no to 2,182 yes.

There were four void ballots among the 5,601 cast in a turnout of 41 per cent of the 13,523 registered voters in the district.

The measure to increase the general purpose tax rate 85 cents per $100 assessed valuation failed in all but one precinct, 4 Summers Avenue which served the Black Point area.

In the April election, voters refused to increase the general purpose tax from $3,481 to $4,341.

In the meantime, the board had voted to abolish home-to-school bus service and place the $80,000 saved in the general fund.

The district subsequently gained $312,294, some in state funding, some from a larger carryover from 1969-70 than budgeted.

Trustees will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Administration Building to determine which of the programs they have cut will be restored with the added state and local funds.

In addition to transportation, they had cut B-Basketball and varsity wrestling, water polo cross-country running and soccer at the two high schools, and basketball, track and girls athletic association activites at the three junior high schools.

Housing Issue Delays San Marin East Plan

By WAYNE RATLIFF

The Novato City Council, after more than two hours of public discussion centering on low income housing, postponed until Aug. 11 possibly precedent-setting action on a developer's plan for San Marin East. (See other Novato City Council stories, page 22.)

A condition set by the planning commissionfor approval of the project, if upheld by the council, would be the first requirement of a Novato developer to include low and moderate income units in a development.

Standard Growth Properties applied for changes to the San Marin master plan to develop the 150 acres of land on both sides of San Marin Drive, west of Redwood Boulevard.

The developer, planning about 1,000 apartment and townhouse rental units and several business sites, objected to being the first Novato developer required to include 10 per cent low and moderate income units, but several speakers supported the requirement.

"We do not believe that this should be a condition of development; it was not required of other developers. The staff should develop a program — not just make the requirement for one development," said Roger Strawick, representative of the applicant.

Strawick said that preliminary cost estimates per unit were near $3,500 and that Federal Housing Administration officials had told him that they knew of no project under the federal low-income housing program with unit costs above $2,500.

Individuals and representatives of several Marin groups, including the Committee for Adequate Shelter and the Ecumenical Association for Housing, spoke favoring the low income housing — some recommending an increase in the percentage required.

Richard R. Kuhn of 363 San Luis Way, representing Our Lady of Loretto Church's parish council, "If we don't want to put the burden on these people who are developing this project, where do we start? The present 10 per cent requirement seems more than reasonable."

"Let's decide right now how

Supervisors Set Washington Trip For Seashore Promises

All five Marin County supervisors will converge on Washington, D.C., on Aug. 11 to ask federal officials to get off the dime and buy all of Point Reyes National Seashore as promised. (Other supervisors stories, page 5).

Supervisor William A. Gnoss suggested a mass trip to Washington by the five supervisors at yesterday's meeting.

Supervisors were spurred into action by a property owner's demand that his 319 acres be rezoned for a 63-lot subdivision.

Robert D. Marshall Jr., who owns 319 acres on the west side of Tomales Bay north of Tomales Bay State Park, wants to develop his Laird's Landing subdivision, with lots averaging from two to 20 acres each. The property lies between Pierce Point Road and Tomales Bay.

Marshall's attorney, James B. McKenney, asked approval for Laird's Landing tentative map last November and a rezoning in February this year. The county put off action on these requests because federal acquisition appeared imminent.

Yesterday, McKenney pressed for the rezoning, arguing that the owner can wait no longer, especially because of a new government policy in land condem-

New Cambodian Push For Plateau

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—A force of 3,000 Cambodian troops guided by a U.S. Air Force spotter plane opened a new offensive today to try to recapture the rain and fog shrouded Kirirom Plateau from Communist forces who sent them reeling backwards Tuesday.

The plateau, 56 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, controls Highway 4 to the sea and its occupation by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces threatens Phnom Penh's imports of oil and other commodities and jeopardizes several important factories vital to Cambodia's war effort.

The attack force was made up of five battalions of government troops including three fresh battalions rushed from Phnom Penh in a convoy of 50 buses and trucks. The force, led by American-trained Khmer mercenaries who once fought in South Vietnam, was moving up the 3,000 foot mountain from near the resort town of Kirirom, 70 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

As the troops gathered for the assault, a U.S. Air Force Bronco spotter plane and F4 Phantom jets were seen through the clouds above the plateau, apparently on reconnaissance and intelligence missions.

Brig. Gen. Sosthene Fernandez, commander of the 2nd military district, told UPI he had asked for U.S. air support for the assault on the plateau but had had no reply. He said, however, that American aerial reconnaissance had been "very helpful" in planning the attack.

Fernandez estimated there were at least 2,000 Communist troops in the Kirirom area with other elements in the surrounding countryside.

Fernandez said Cambodian casualties in the battle which sent them fleeing from Kirirom were at least 20 killed and 40 wounded, mostly from 120 mortar attacks.

An estimated 1,700 South Vietnamese soldiers who helped Cambodian forces recapture a nearby cement plant on Tuesday were reported 15 miles from the plateau, available for a counterattack if the Cambodians mount one. There was no word of fighting.

'Class Action' Suits Bill A Nixon Defeat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic consumer advocates have dealt the Nixon Administration an initial defeat on a proposal which businessmen fear would make them defendants in court against their own customers.

But the bill, approved by the Senate Commerce Committee Tuesday, still faces imposing roadblocks. Besides the administration, it has roused strong lobbying opposition from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, the American Rental Federation and several individual firms including General Electric Co. and J.C. Penney Co.

The measure would let one customer file a "class action" suit on behalf of everyone gypped by the same shoddy product, phony sales pitch or fraudulent advertisement. If the suit was successful, the judge would award damages or refunds to all affected customers, with the manufacturer or retailer footing the bill.

Panel Urges Sweeping Reforms For Pentagon

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's commission on overhauling the Pentagon has called for sweeping reforms in the military establishment. It wants to put the armed forces under stronger civilian control and cut inefficiency and overstaffing by abolishing 10,000 Pentagon jobs.

The panel's most controversial proposal would strip the Joint Chiefs of Staff of their traditional command of America's fighting men. It would hand this command to a sesparate, high-ranging military staff operating under a civilian deputy defense secretary.

Gilbert W. Fitzhugh, commission chairman, reported the joint chiefs —the top five men in the present military hierarchy — were "less than enthusiastic" about the proposal.

The recommendation would leave the chiefs only the functions spelled out for them by law—advising the President on military matters and supervising their individual military services. The chiefs presently act as the defense secretary's command arm through the secretary's delegation of authority, rather than by law.

"We are not really taking authority away from the military," Fitzhugh told newsmen at a briefing. He said the aim was to decentralize authority for people below the secretary of defense.

"Everybody is going to end up with a smaller area of responsibility if our recommendations are adopted, but they are going to have more responsibility and authority and accountability for the areas they have left," Fitzhugh said.

He urged that the report be adopted "without debating it for months ahead" and said 90 per cent of the measures would not require congressional action. In the long run, he said, they would save money.

Fitzhugh's panel, a non-government group appointed by the President a year ago, also recommended a major shakeup in the Defense Department organization from the office of the secretary of defense down to military field commands.

It proposed unifying the offensive and defensive nuclear services under one command, merging the general warfare elements under a second command and the creation of a third super command to handle logistics for all service branches.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Rescind On Genocide

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday approved a 1949 world treaty against genocide, but then voted to rescind its action because it feared the original narrow vote—6 to 5—would injure the measure's chances on the Senate floor.

The treaty was originally submitted in 1949 by President Harry S Truman, and President Nixon revived the issue this year.

Unmanned Probe

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviets today launched an unmanned satellite carrying electronic equipment into earth orbit, the official Tass news agency said.

Tass said the new sputnik, Cosmos 354, was orbiting earth at a maximum distance of 125 miles and a minimum distance of 86 miles, with an inclination angle of 50 degrees.

Tass did not give details of its mission other than to say it was continuing a space exploration program begun in 1962.

Turnpike Dynamite

RIDGEFIELD PARK, N.J. (UPI)—A woman driver found five sticks of dynamite along the New Jersey Turnpike when she stopped to fix her car Monday night. The police here, who reported the discovery when the explosive was turned in Tuesday night, said she had "forgotten" it until then.

An Army demolition team called in to examine the dynamite said there was little chance it could have exploded accidentally.

Paper Pool Bill

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon has signed into law a bill to allow newspapers in danger of financial failure to pool non-editorial operations.

The President's action affected joint newspaper operations in 22 cities, which until now were subject to prosecution under antitrust laws.

Any new polling agreements must be approved in advance by the attorney general, however.

The law permits a newspaper in "probable danger of financial failure" to pool its advertising, circulation, business, printing and other production operations with another paper. However, the papers must maintain separate editorial departments.

Yacht For Jackie

ATHENS (UPI) — Aristotle Onassis' yacht Christina has been described as the world's finest with its 10 guest rooms and marble swimming pool. Yet he promised his wife, Jacqueline, an even better one Tuesday on her 41st birthday.

Onassis presented the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy with an order for "the best yacht in the world to be completed by the same date next year."

It will be called the Jacqueline and will be constructed by the Japanese shipyards.

New Treaty Stage

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet-West German negotiations on a nonaggression treaty moved into a new stage of bargaining in their third day today with the Germans beginning to raise issues not covered in preliminary talks.

The full delegations, led by Foreign Ministers Walter Scheel and Andrei A. Gromyko, engaged in a new round of discussion that Bonn spokesmen said had more precise proposals to deal with than earlier sessions.

To End Strike

LONDON (UPI)—Union delegates representing 47,000 striking longshoremen have voted to end the two weeks' port shutdown, it was announced today.

The announcement was made at the end of a two-and-a-half hour meeting of more than 80 longshoremen's delegates at Transport Union headquarters.

The delegates voted 51-31 to accept a peace package presented by a government-appointed court of inquiry Monday and to end the walkout.

Fails To Agree

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal court jury trying a school teacher accused of slapping Internal Revenue agents failed to agree on a verdict Tuesday and were dismissed.

A new trial was set Sept. 28 for Mrs. Nancy Brewer, 40, who also is charged with failure to pay part of her income taxes.

Mrs. Brewer, a teacher at Lowell High School and the mother of five children, contended in court that the service had erroneously deducted taxes from her paychecks and tried to put a lien on her automobile.

Park Rangers In Fight Trying To Collect Fee

What began as a simple collection of camping fees from a young couple at Tamalpais State Park last night ended in a slugfest pitting two park rangers against 10 to 12 other campers.

Ranger Fred C. Schmidt said today he approached Michael S. Hart, 23, and Chandler Victoria Hannon, 18, of 322½ Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, at about 8 p.m. requesting they pay the Bootjak Camp Ground park fee.

The couple responded they didn't have the money, so were told to vacate their space within an hour, Schmidt said.

An hour later, Schmidt returned with another ranger, Robert Nygren to discover the campers still there.

Ordered to leave, Hart refused and was placed under arrest. Amid a torrent of foul language, the two rangers discovered themselves confronted by about 10 other campers demanding to know the rangers' right to evict the young couple, Schmidt said.

As the arguement heated, Nygren was allegedly struck in the mouth by Hart and a prolonged scuffle ensued allowing Hart and Miss Hannon time to make a hasty getaway in a homemade truck which reportedly lacked license plates and registration.

"I thought we had a riot on our hands," Schmidt commented, adding that he called the sheriff's office for reinforcements.

Hart and the girl were later stopped at a sheriff's road block one half mile south of the Mountain Home Restaurant on Panoramic Highway with the rangers, having evaded the other campers, in pursuit.

Hart was booked into the county jail on suspicion of felony battery on an officer, resisting arrest and failure to pay camping fees.

Miss Hannon was booked for resisting arrest and failure to pay camping fees.

Bail was set at $2,500 for Hart and $1,250 for Miss Hannon. Both remained in jail this morning and were to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

Wachsman had his wife lead in their enormous Great Dane to demonstrate scars, which he said were a result of a beating. He added that another of his dogs had been poisoned by neighbors.

The commissioners finally agreed, with Alan M. Kay casting the only no vote, to let Wachsman keep the animals which his children and wife ride. The decision, however, is subject to appeal to the city council.

Egyptians Release Jewish Prisoners

PARIS (UPI)—Egypt, after secret negotiations with France, has released 80 Jews held captive since the 1967 War and they have been flown to Paris, political sources said today.

They said the deal was arranged a few weeks ago after French authorities and charitable organizations involved in the diplomatic intervention agreed to maintain complete silence about it and the departing Jews renounced their Egyptian nationality.

French government spokesmen and the Israeli Embassy refused to discuss the report, some details of which were printed in the leftist Paris weekly Le Nouvel Observateur.

Postal Reforms Accord Reached

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A House-Senate conference committee reached tentative agreement Wednesday on a postal reform bill that would give the nation's mailmen an 8 per cent pay raise and convert the Post Office into an independent government agency.

The agreement came during the third week of negotiations on the legislation at a time it was believed the committee may have reached an impasse. A final committee vote was expected Thursday.

The pay raise would be retroactive to April 18. The bill also would reduce the time it takes a postal worker to reach top pay from 21 to 8 years.

Hearing Pending For Drug Raid Arrests

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) —The five men arrested in another landmark U. S. drug raid awaited a preliminary hearing Tuesday behind bars—three of them under $1 million bonds.

Some $50 million in cocaine and a C46 airplane were part of the haul late Monday in the raid agents pulled off after 13 days of continuous surveillance at an apartment near Coral Gables' "miracle mile" shopping strip.

be no letup in their war against Israel.

Al-Fatah, the most powerful of the Arab guerrilla groups, announced it would broadcast from Amman. The Central Committee for Palestinian guerrilla organizations called a two-hour general strike for Thursday in the Jordanian capital to protest the U.S. Mideast proposals.

The crisis between King Hussein and the guerrillas based in his country appeared to be worsening.

The Israeli cabinet met Sunday and was unable to resolve the cabinet crisis. It met again for two hours today but there was no decision.

Political sources said Mrs. Meir was determined when Israel did give its answer it would present a unified front to the world.

Today's cabinet session was declared a meeting of the ministerial Security Committee, thereby placing it under military censorship to prevent leaks of its discussions.

In other Middle East developments today:

— A Jordanian military spokesman said an Israeli patrol crossed the Jordan River in the Tel Al-Sukkar area of the north Jordan Valley around midnight and planted mines on a main road. He said 12 Jordanian civilians including a baby were injured in a mine explosion this morning.

—Diplomatic sources in London said U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring plans to begin his Mideast peace soundings early next month if Israel joins Egypt and Jordan in accepting the U.S. peace formula.

—The London Daily Express said Soviet jets flown by Russian pilots clashed with Israeli fighters last Saturday near the Suez Canal and shot down an American-built Skyhawk.

—The French government formally endorsed U.S. efforts to achieve a negotiated Mideast settlement. The endorsement came at today's cabinet meeting in the Elysee Palace in Paris.

3 Youths Booked As Suspects In Auto Theft

Three San Francisco youths were arrested today after being stopped in a car reported stolen two weeks ago in San Francisco, Larkspur police reported.

Michael Charles Monestier, 19, and Michael Alfonso Avanche, 19, were booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of car theft and possession of stolen property. James Steenport, 16, was booked at juvenile hall on the same complaints.

Police said they stopped the three at 2 a.m. when their 1966 Mustang drove out of a service station which had been closed for four hours.

A check indicated the car was stolen July 14, when it had South Dakota license plates. The California plates they found on the car, police said, belonged to a Pontiac reported stolen Monday in San Francisco.

Monestier and Avanche were held to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Fall Breaks Leg Of Bolinas Man

Robert Pipkin, 21, of Bolinas was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a compound fracture of his right leg suffered yesterday in a fall from a cliff.

County Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom said five firemen raised Pipkin to the top of the 300-foot cliff.

Pipkin and two male companions were apparently walking on the beach near Arroyo Honda on the Point Reyes National Seashore around 5 p.m. when he apparently attempted to scale the cliff and failed, falling from a height of 15 feet, Bloom said.

Youth Agency To Rule On Teen Slayer

I-J Special Report

SALINAS — A 17-year-old Monterey County youth today was ordered committed to the California Youth Authority for the murder of a former Petaluma woman May 27.

Michael Rigmaiden, was found guilty Monday in juvenile court of slaying Susan Jameson, 23, a teacher at a Monterey school where Rigmaiden's father was principal.

John Schellhaas, assistant chief probation officer for Monterey County, said today that the length of Rigmaiden's commitment will be decided by the CYA administration.

He said the youth was being held at Monterey County Juvenile Hall awaiting delivery to the CYA northern reception center at Perkins, Sacramento County.

Miss Jameson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doral R. Jameson of 407 Sunnyslope Avenue, Petaluma, was a second-grade teacher at San Benancio Elementary School.

Her body, beaten about the head with a metal wastebasket and showing strangulation marks, was found in the principal's office the morning of May 28.

Young Rigmaiden, who worked as a janitor at the school and who reported finding the body, was arrested on a warrant June 29.

Annexation Of 441 Acres Is Approved

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved annexation of 441 acres south of East Cotati Avenue, including space for public use.

The land owners, Paul Golis and Fred Rohnert, ratified the move on the assurance the council would adopt a policy requiring future large annexations to make similar provision for public facilities.

In the agreement, 70 acres is set aside for a future regional park to be sold to the city at $4,000 per acre. Other sites for neighborhood parks, fire stations and other public facilities would also be sold at the lower price.

The council said the city attorney would prepare the policy for action at the Monday council meeting so the annexation agreement could be formalized.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

PURCHASES — Approved a resolution authorizing the city to purchase vehicles from the state.

EASEMENT — Asked for more information on the request of Pacific Telephone Co. for an easement through the Rohnert Park golf course.

WATER MAIN — Agreed to the request of the Sonoma Campus Co. to defer reimbursement for the water main in the Colegio Vista subdivision until further development.

to implement it; let this be the beginning of a policy," said another resident, Eleanor Wagner of 646 Tamalpais Avenue.

Councilman F. Wayne Sartain expressed general approval of the requirement, saying that low and moderate income housing may be a new requirement for developments in Novato but not in this county.

He expressed reservations about a requirement that the low income units be included in the first four of seven construction phases.

"Wouldn't the housing be more diversified if it were divided among all seven phases?" he asked.

City Planning Director Brian Mattson replied that the provision was also included to allow the planning commission to exercise increased control during construction.

Councilman George A. Quesada said that he felt that action should be delayed pending improved definition of low and moderate income housing and that provision should be made for delineation between requirements for low income housing and moderate income housing.

Differences also existed between the developer and planning commissioner designation of sites for service stations in the master plan stage to insure that sites near the proposed Highway 101 bypass were available for that use and on construction of a portion of San Marin Drive at the entrance to the development.

NAME IN THE NEWS

nations. Under the new policy, the government can file condemnation, then pull out if the jury award turns out too high.

McKenney charged that this new policy would leave landowners in an uncertain position even after condemnation proceedings had started.

County supervisors reluctantly denied Marshall's rezoning request and decided to call on Washington officials to get immediate action.

Supervisors asked the county administrator and the county counsel to set up meetings in Washington with Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, and other federal officials on Aug. 11. Supervisors hope to meet with Reps. Don. H. Clausen, R-First District, Calif., William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, Calif.; California Sens. George Murphy and Alan Cranston, and park officials.

Because of the Washington trip, supervisors will bypass their regular Tuesday meeting on Aug. 11. They plan to leave Marin on Aug. 10 and return Aug. 12.

About 20,000 acres of the original 54,000 acres designated for the National Seashore still remain in private ownership.

The $57.5 million needed for the acquisition has been authorized by Congress but the land acquisition is not complete.

Plea Set Today In Auto Theft

Michael Dean Loesch, 18, of San Francisco, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a charge of car theft.

Loesch, who gave his younger brother's name and age when arrested early Monday morning and was first taken to Juvenile Hall, was stopped by the California Highway Patrol on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael for erratic driving.

Officers said the car he was driving had been stolen from a Cotati man. Loesch's case was continued to today for entry of plea.

rin planning director or Charles E. Murphy, county flood control engineer. Both expressed views that construction is "at least" two or three weeks behind.

Local contractors have also expressed concern over the methods employed in drying the creek bed. Some feel the lack of pump fitted wells along the entire construction site will not permit the creek to dry. They added without a properly dried channel, cement cannot be poured.

Some concluded that heavy winter rains will completely destroy any progress the contractor makes this summer if his concrete is not properly laid.

that was a "separate" issue unrelated to tax revision.

Democrats failed in four attempts to amend Reagan's legislation on the floor, including one by Sen. Walter Stiern, D-Bakersfield, to give counties $2 million to pay the administrative costs of processing homeowner tax exemption forms.

Lagomarsino said such an amendment would merely delay passage of the bill another day but gave his tacit approval to including Stiern's amendment in a later bill to repair technical defects. The sales tax hike is proposed to take effect Saturday.

Administration supporters lobbied fellow senators for hours in an unsuccessful attempt to shake loose the one vote that would assure the program's passage. It previously cleared the Assembly but must return to the lower house for concurrence in amendments.

Carpenters Hit PG&E Project

SAN LUIS OBISPO (UPI) — Carpenters were on strike today against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company's nuclear power plant construction project at Diablo Canyon.

Members of Carpenters Local 1632 walked off the job Tuesday due to a dispute with Guy Atkinson Contractors on grounds the firm violated a master labor agreement.

Fritz Drager, a spokesman for PG&E, said the power company was an innocent bystander. "It is one of those things which happen in the normal course of construction," he said.

Third Voltage Cut

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Consolidated Edison Co. cut electrical voltage for the third straight day today as a prolonged spell of steaming hot weather threatened to create more demand for electrical power than the utility could supply.

OBITUARIES

Albert Rathael Dies At 82

Private funeral for Albert Rathael, former Marin resident, was held today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Rathael died Tuesday in a hospital in Redwood City after a brief illness. He was 82.

A native of New York City, he moved to Marin County in 1910 and lived in the county for 40 years. He was proprietor of Rathael's Market in San Anselmo for over 20 years.

He moved to Middletown, Lake County, where he operated Middletown Food Center until his retirement in 1958. He subsequently lived in San Francisco and Redwood City.

Surviving are his son, Ralph A. Rathael of Napa; a daughter, Selma C. Dike of Millbrae, and three grandchildren.

Burial was at Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

PAUL D. EMSTRUM

Funeral for Paul David Emstrum, 15, of Castro Valley, son of former Fairfax resident Mary Alice Jenkins Emstrum, will be Thursday at 9 a.m. at Our Lady of Grace Church in Castro Valley.

Paul died Saturday from injuries received that day in an Oakland auto accident.

He is also survived by his maternal grandmother, Lisa S. Jenkins of Fairfax.

Kerkorian New Western Airlines Board Chairman

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Millionaire Kirk Kerkorian has been appointed chairman of the Board of Western Airlines succeeding Terrell Drinkwater who recently resigned.

Drinkwater's seat on the 19-member board was filled by actor Cary Grant, a friend of Kerkorian's.

Kerkorian acquired a major interest in the Los Angeles based airline a year and a half ago. He will not however, become the chief executive of the line. The man who was named president and chief executive last fall, J. Judson Taylor will stay on.

Kerkorian, operates two Las Vegas casinos besides holding control over Western and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc.

Final Decision Pends On Trial For Medina

FT. MCPHERSON, Ga. (UPI)—A final decision is pending with military officials on whether Capt Ernest L. Medina will be prosecuted in connection with the alleged My Lai massacre of Vietnamese civilians.

Preliminary, grand jury-type hearings for Medina were completed Tuesday. The hearing officer, Col. James H. Mobley, told attorneys he would make his recommendation on the case "as quickly as possible."

Ordinance Hits Bay's Drydock

Warned that if they didn't act the county "might not have a paddle and be up Richardson Bay," the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday passed an emergency ordinance to prevent Sausalito's controversial drydocks from being moved in Marin waters. (Another county board of supervisors story, page 1.)

The warning came from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney who presented the proposed ordinance to the board. He said his action was based on a "rumor from a very reliable source" that J. Christopher Roberts, owner of the drydocks, planned to move them to the vicinity of the heliport near Richardson Bay Bridge.

To thwart Robert's rumored plans, the board adopted the ordinance saying that no one can move or relocate drydocks in the county of Marin without a permit.

Theoretically, Roberts would be given a permit only if he planned to move the docks out the Golden Gate.

Yesterday's action was the latest in a series of legal attempts to get rid of the drydocks. The county has filed several suits and proposed charging rent because the drydocks are on county tideland. Last month, it was suggested they be set afire.

Roberts, a Mill Valley artist, has indicated he will try to make them into a gigantic wooden lotus blossom with stained glass windows for a cultural center if he can get funding and approval.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

BID PROCEDURE — Opposed Assembly Bill 991, which would require the county to call for bids on all projects costing $3,500 or more, instead of the present $10,000 or more.

CREEK ENCROACHMENT — Amended an ordinance to allow public utilities to encroach on lands of the Flood Control District along Corte Madera Creek. The existing ordinance allows only owners of property abutting the creek to get encroachment permits.

WEED ABATEMENT — Ordered weeds abated in 15 days from property at the corner of Camino del Mar and Drake Way in Inverness and on two parcels on Las Gallinas Avenue in San Rafael.

EMPLOYEE SALARY — Set 3:30 p.m. Friday as the time to meet in closed session with Assistant Administrator John F. Barrows to discuss a new contract with the county's 200 safety employees — sheriff's deputies, firemen and communication workers.

WELFARE — Directed Maloney to file for an injunction to stop a state audit of county welfare programs using a new auditing system which, it has been estimated, could cost the county $52,000 in state and federal funds. The audit was to start today.

PERSONNEL — Authorized spending $2,706 to engage eight extra workers in the department of public social services for two months to assist with extra work caused by new state welfare regulations and the rescinding of such.

APPOINTMENT — Appointed Donald E. Presco, San Rafael contractor, to the board of building code appeals. He succeeds Victor McKinnon who did not desire reappointment.

AUDITORIUM — Took no action on a request by the Marin Symphony Guild for a formal commitment that a guild concert be the first event in the Veterans Memorial Auditorium. The board directed Thelma Schultz, president of the guild, to present a report to the board on what type of event the guild has planned for the dedication.

WAR MEASURE — Approved, by a 3-1 vote, the wording of a November ballot measure urging the immediate withdrawal of all U.S. military forces from Southeast Asia by June 30, 1971. Supervisor Louis H. Baar was absent and Chairman John F. McInnis voted against the motion.

CLAIM — Rejecred a $100,000 claim by Angelo Morales of 16 Seadrift Landing, Tiburon, for damages allegedly suffered when a boat in which he was riding struck the drydocks in Richardson Bay.

APPEAL — Set for Aug. 11 a hearing on an appeal by the Marin Conservation League of a planning commission decision granting a use permit and plan approval to George Kappas for 35 houseboats at Gate 6½, Richardson Bay.

RICHARDSON BAY — Ordered by 3-to-1 vote, with Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. dissenting, that Tom E. Nowell Jr. remove or bury within 15 days rubble illegally placed in Richardson Bay. Arrigoni wanted outright removal and no option to bury.

No Oregon Honor

SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — Oregon is the only state ever fired upon by a foreign enemy during a war. This occurred early in World War II when a Japanese submarine lobbed a few shells at a beach in northwest Oregon.

DEPUTIES RECOMMEND CURE FOR ANTI-POLICE FEELINGS

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Polk county sheriff's deputies have coined a slogan to combat anti-police sentiment.

The deputies have bumper stickers which read:

"If you don't like police, next time you're in trouble call a hippie."

State Denies $90,000 Plea For Improving Fairgrounds

A request for $90,000 for improvements to the Marin County Civic Center Fairgrounds has been denied by the California Division of Fairs and Expositions.

Thomas F. Campanella, assistant county administrator, in advising the board of supervisors of the action yesterday, said plans for the 1971 fair at the Civic Center site are nevertheless proceeding.

The money had been rquested for preliminary improvements, including rest room facilities and underground utilities.

Campanella said after the board meeting that the denial means "we'll revise our plans and try to work the fair around the auditorium building."

"We need the money," he said, "but we'll try to do without it."

Ray Harrington, chief of the division of fairs and expositions in Sacramento, told the Independent-Journal yesterday by telephone that the county's request was denied because Marin's needs were not enough compared to other counties.

He said the division had $2.5 million to allocate to 73 eligible fairs throughout the state, and that other fairs needed it more than Marin.

The division has already given the county $1,176,000 for construction of the auditorium, he added.

Short Weight Probe

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — The state Department of Agriculture reports its inspectors in one month found 40 per cent of 25,786 retail packaged items checked in Kentucky stores and supermarkets were short-weighted. A crackdown was ordered.

Budget Session Is Called Off

A special budget meeting of the Marin County Human Rights Commission, set for tonight, has been called off because the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday asked the commission to thrash out budget matters with County Administrator Bruce.

Anne Smith, commission secretary, said the executive committee of the commission plans to meet with Bruce sometime next week.

The supervisors refused to increase the commission's budget of $35,000 yesterday and asked the group to determine the best use of those funds.

Supervisors Vote 'In Concept' Nod To ABAG's Bay Regional Plan

A Bay Area regional plan developed by the Association of Bay Area Governments won unanimous approval "in concept" by the Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday. (For San Anselmo City Council reaction to plan, see page 10.)

On a motion by Michael Wornum, supervisors voted 4 to 0 to "approve the proposed ABAG plan in concept, with hearings consider amendments." Supervisor Louis H. Baar is on vacation.

Before the vote, County Planner Werner Von Gundell told the supervisors that the ABAG plan and Marin's adopted plans have conflicts in detail but not in basic concept.

"I notice here that Highway 1 goes through the middle of Tamalpais Valley," declared Wornum, looking at an overall map accompanying ABAG's regional plan. The overall map of the nine counties indicates highways by dark lines. One of the lines runs from a point near the food of Waldo Grade to Point Reyes Station.

"There was no attempt to establish the right-of-way alignment," explained Chairman John F. McInnis, who is chairman of Abag's regional planning committee, the group that drew up the regional plan.

Dark lines showing highways mark only a general transportation corridor, explained McInnis. "The need to move an x-volume of traffic from one point to the other is connected by a line and nothing more."

"Can our balanced transportation study, when completed, be pumped into this?" asked Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

McInnis said the regional plan is a broad brush approach, with details to be filled in by local authorities. "If there is a conflict between our balanced transportation system and this (ABAG regional plan), my feeling is that our system will prevail."

If this regional plan is approved by the ABAG General Assembly tomorrow night, the next step will be to hold hearings to resolve areas of difference between local plans and the ABAG plan, said McInnis.

"This shows more open space in West Marin than our plan," observed Arrigoni.

Wornum said there will be questions when the plan is refined, but as a general concept, "I think it is a great approach."

"The whole concept of open space to be acquired and released only as needed — I hope they stick to it," said Wornum. "My worry is not whether they'll approve this but whether they'll stick to it."

"It's not up to the region to enforce this," replied McInnis. "The proposal is to urge local governments to enforce this type of thing."

If such a regional plan is to be effective, some infringement on local sovereignty is inevitable, said Wornum.

ABAG's regional plan looks 20 years ahead, to 1990, with a projected doubling in Marin's population, to 408,700. The accompanying map shows urban concentrations around Corte Madera, San Rafael, and Novato, with residential surrounding the city centers.

Major transportation corridors shown, in addition to Highway 101, are: foot of Waldo Grade to Point Reyes Station and north to Sonoma; San Rafael area to Point Reyes Station; Point Reyes Station to Petaluma.

Residential centers are shown along Highway 101 and at Bolinas Stinson Beach, Point Reyes Station, Inverness, Marshall, Dillon Beach, and San Geronimo Valley. Most of the remaining areas in Marin are marked permanent open space, which is defined as one unit per acre or less.

"Employment centers" are also designated in several spots along Highway 101.

A rapid transit system is suggested over or along the Golden Gate Bridge and Richmond-San Rafael Bridge northward to Sonoma. This would be an extension of the BART system either by rail or bus rapid transit.

Drug Center Due Public Hearing

After hearing that the "mere mention" of a proposed drug addiction treatment center had caused "fear and unrest" among neighbors, the San Rafael Planning Commission last night set a public hearing for Aug. 11 on the center. (Another planning commission story, page 1.)

Although Roger Smith, a criminologist who would direct the center, said that the proposed location at 401 First Street is in a "young and hip" neighborhood, those expressing fear and doubt last night were from another age category.

San Rafael undertaker Harry M. Williams, who lives at 430 First Street, flatly said that he didn't "want the type of people they will attract to the neighborhood."

Smith explained that the proposed center, to be called Marin Open House and funded partially by a grant from the Babcock Foundation, would primarily be used for out-patient treatment.

"We don't expect to be full of people going through withdrawals," Smith said, but he added that a small number of persons would be housed there for short periods of heroin detoxification.

Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner also made a plea for consideration of the center, saying that old-line approaches are not working with drug problems and that new approaches must be tried.

"Maybe it's like freeways," Hotchner said. "We all want them, but in someone else's backyard."

Commissioner Jorgan V. Lunding also expressed approval of the proposal, saying, "We've taken care of our dogs and cats tonight, but what about our young people," referring to earlier commission approval of two veterinary hospitals.

The commission finally agreed to set the public hearing for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 11.

Animal Hospital Gains Approval Of Planners

A permit for an animal hospital on the Miracle Mile, earlier opposed by nearby residents because of fear of noise and stench, was approved last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission.

Several residents of Crescent Drive, on a hill above the proposed location, said they had visited other veterinarian hospitals in the last two weeks and were convinced that noise and odor could be controlled.

Dr. Marshall L. Harwood of San Francisco, who had asked the permit for the hospital at 2060 Fourth Street, was instructed to use all precautions to keep the facility from being obnoxious to neighbors.

Herman Deitch, a real estate agent with offices adjacent to the proposed hospital, said he still objected to the facility, but the use was approved, 6-0, with Commissioner John J. Adams absent.

Another veterinary clinic to be located at 532 Fourth Street and operated by Dr. Tom Melhoff was approved without discussion.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

LOTS — Approved a resubdivision of three lots at 135 Fairhills Drive and 8 and 12 Beryl Lane with a transfer of land from the Fairhills lot to the two others.

CARPORT — Approved a swimming pool variance for Vincent Sullivan of 12 Marina Court but denied a variance for a carport.

SIGNS — Granted a request by Atlantic-Richfield Corp. for temporary signs at six service stations which will announce a change of name for the stations.

SCHOOL — Granted use of the Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church at 355 Los Ranchitos Road for a private school, to be called School for Independent Learning.

CARS — Gave approval of expansion of a car lot at 805 Irwin Street.

ROOF — Approved a red tile roof for McDonald's Restaurant at 2114 Fourth Street.

Mother Of TV Host Dies In Toronto

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mrs. M. H. Halparin, mother of Hollywood television host Monty Hall, died today in Toronto, Canada, at the age of 69 following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Halparin was a lecturer and entertainer in her native Canada and was honored for her charity work when in 1961 a park was named for her in Jerusalem.

Cong Offers To Talk With Envoy Bruce

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong offered today to hold direct peace talks with Ambassador David K.E. Bruce when he arrives here next week as chief U.S. negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks. But they again called for a complete U.S. military pullout from Vietnam.

The United States has previously rejected all similar Viet Cong offers because it considers officially the Viet Cong as a mere arm of the North Vietnamese Communist Party and because it wants any peace agreement to be negotiated and endorsed by South Vietnam.

Hanoi and the Viet Cong will face U.S. and South Vietnamese diplomatic officers Thursday at their 77th weekly meeting. Indications are there will be no movement before President Nixon and South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu hold their news conferences late Thursday and Friday.

Bruce himself is due in Paris next Monday. This Thursday, the American team will be headed again by Philip C. Habib, who has been acting chief negotiator since the resignation of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge last November.

"We are still ready to meet directly with the United States," a Viet Cong delegation spokesmen told UPI.

Planners Persuaded To Conserve Creek

Warning that "you're going to have a Chinese Wall of apartment houses there," Larkspur nature-lovers last night persuasively wooed the city's planning commission to join their cause in conserving the north bank of Corte Madera Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tartaul of 45 Via Belardo and Clarence Zumwalt, 73 Via La Cumbre, reminded the commission that Larkspur, Corte Madera and county long-range plans all have envisioned the northern creek bank between the Bon Air bridge and Highway 101 as a thin ribbon of nature area.

Recent court rulings elsewhere may make it possible for the city to preserve the salt grass and pickleweed marsh without the expense of purchase, the Tartauls said. They reported a petition to preserve the creek banks already had gathered 192 signatures since Sunday and more are coming in.

The planning commissioners agreed to discuss policy on limiting development along the creek at their Aug. 11 meeting.

Mrs. Tartaul said completion of the Army flood control project and increased market demands have made the creekside attractive to developers, and urged the planners to control development carefully, maintain public access to the bank and preserve the wildlife resources of the salt marsh.

"Without that wildlife, which is made possible by the intertidal marsh growth, we have a super drainage ditch," she pleaded.

Her husband cited recent court rulings that public rights of access to undeveloped areas have been created by usage over long periods of years. He stressed that Corte Madera Creek has long been enjoyed by bird watchers and other nature lovers.

The creek's north bank is in more immediate jeopardy than the south side where development is less intense, Tartaul said.

Zumwalt, retired range ecologist for the U.S. Forest Service and now a naturalist for the Audubon Canyon Ranch bird preserve, led the commission through a discussion of the chain of life in the tidal marsh, and decried that Bay Area developers have had "an appalling disregard of the values of the mud flats."

"We're diming the San Francisco Bay to death with small parcels," he warned.

Commission chairman Robert H. Lee asked the speakers to participate in the commission's Aug. 11 discussions, and said some extensive staff studies may be needed.

Fifteen audience members stuck with the discussion, which continued past midnight.

Plan Settled For Grading In Larkspur

Controversy over the Tiscornia Estate's grading on Little King hill in Larkspur was settled last night almost without a scar.

Nearly 150 conservationist citizens had turned out June 30 for a Larkspur Planning Commission hearing on the estate's application for a permit to grade away the hilltop and fill a ravine. Seventeen persons were in the audience when the hearing resumed last night.

The commission unanimously approved modified plans calling for moving only 200 cubic yards of dirt to make a small silting pond, and other features to prevent winter storms from eroding the hillside and ravine.

The plans, presented by Donald Selmi of Dan Coleman Associates, no longer involved use of fill from neighboring excavation for a Marin Municipal Water District tank site since that soil was disposed of elsewhere, Selmi said.

The silting pond, small check dams made of trees already cut at the site, and a runoff flume are to be completed by Sept. 1.

Spain Subway Strike

MADRID (UPI) — A strike by subway workers demanding higher wages today halted all subway traffic in this capital city.

the commission was told. A $5,000 bond will be posted to cover any work needed to clear out silting during storms. Rye grass is being planted on the scarred areas.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

JOPLIN FENCE — Granted singer Janis Joplin permission to exceed the normal 3.5-foot height limit for a fence in he front setback. But on learning from her representatives (the popular singer was absent from the hearing) that no one yet knew whether the fence would be of grape-stake style or dimensioned lumber, the commission sent the spokesmen back to the drawing board for design work. Miss Joplin has been plagued with burglars and intruders at her red, woods-hidden home at 380 West Baltimore Avenue.

POTTERY SCHOOL — Split 2-2, thus denying a use permit for a pottery school in the one-time telephone building at 484 Magnolia Avenue, due to disagreement with applicant Michael Walsh and real estate agent Robert Busse over required offstreet parking. The leased area would require seven spaces according to the rules. Busse pleaded expense and lack of space precluded so much parking.

RENTAL OFFICE — Continued to Aug. 11 the Schultz Investment Co. application for variance permit to build an office for apartment rentals on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and El Portal without a rearyard setback.

SERVICE STATION — Denied CPD Corp.'s request for a use permit and for architectural supervision of a proposed gasoline service station between the Bon Air Bridge and the Safeway store. Commission chairman Robert H. Lee declared the plans never should have reached the commission and branded them "shoddy."

TAMALPAIS FENCING — After hearing objections both from neighbors and a resident of the Tamalpais retirement residence itself, approved architectural plans for gates and fences around the center.

Chicago To Deny Future Concerts

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Richard J. Daley, charging that the rioting during a Grant Park rock concert was organized, says Chicago has pulled the plug on future rock concerts.

"Certainly the incident on the stage was organized," Daley said Tuesday of the rioters who stormed the bandshell stage and destroyed the communications system. "You don't go to a rock concert with a baseball bat."

Some of the 50,000 persons at the concert fought police and went on a rampage into the downtown Loop area Monday evening. At least 160 were injured and 160 persons arrested. Three persons were shot in the park.

Motorcycle Crash Hurts Petaluman

Robert Wayne Besaw, 17, of 332 South McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma, was treated at Petaluma General Hospital yesterday for a possible concussion suffered in a motorcycle accident.

Besaw was transferred to Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, where a report on his condition was not available.

The California Highway Patrol said his motorcycle skidded on Spring Hill Road, west of Chileno Valley Road, at 11:55 a.m., spilling him into a ditch.

Technology Held Ecological 'Savior'

Technology can be "not a destroyer, but a savior" in the fight to protect the environment, power company executive told the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau today.

Robert R. Gros, vice president for public relations for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., said electricity is a "titanic force" for cleansing the environment. Electric-powered trains can replace smog-producing cars, and electricity can run sewage treatment plants and air pollution abatement systems, Gros said.

Once Americans learned that civilization was in trouble from pollution problems, he said, "we reacted with a typically American short fuse", with people seeking scapegoats — the older generation, big business, too many people, overly cautious politicians.

But in planning action to preserve the environment, "we are talking about tradeoffs," Gros said. He said Americans will not voluntarily live like the poor of India or Egypt. Without technology, farm machinery, rapid transportation and communication, he said, we cannot hope to house, clothe and feed the world's population.

He rejected "the older generation" as a scapegoat for the environmental crisis, admitting there have been shortcomings but that "we are leaving the young a record of achievement worthy of respect," including social reforms, surviving the depression with the nation intact, defeating Hitler's attempt at world domination and achieving the post-war restoration of Europe, creation of the United Nations and a start on school desegragation, voting rights and social equality.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the chamber's annual luncheon, Gros said industry wants to protect the same values conservationists do.

PG&E, he said, has an advanced conservation program, including scores of lakes and reservoirs which provide recreation, flood control, water conservation, irrigation, and stream-flow to preserve fish and wildlife. The company even built artificial nesting areas for migrating Canada geese, he said.

Saving the environment, he said, is "a mind-boggling job — the reshaping of air quality standards, municipal incineration, local laws and ordinances, trash burning, auto pollution, legislative committees and municipal waste water treatment."

He scored attacks on the "chamber of commerce mentality," saying the phrase "betrays an appalling lack of knowledge of the facts of life in California."

"There are better ways to improve the qualities of life than curtailing economic promotional efforts," he said. What is needed, he said, is redistribution of the people now in California and planning for those who will arrive "whether invited or not."

PG&E has an area development department, he said, which encourages the right kind of industry to locate in the right places.

Although man is being propelled into the future with increasing momentum, Gros said, "Men who have walked on the moon. . .no longer need doubt their abilities to meet the problems of this fragile oasis in space called earth."

At the luncheon, Ben A. Farlatti was installed as chamber president. Other new officers are B.A. Sill, first vice president; Carlos E. Gonzalez, second vice-president; J. Galen Foster, secretary, and Edwin Johnson, treasurer.

Gun Booby Trap Brings Charge

A 31-year-old San Anselmo man yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon stemming from the rigging of a booby trap to protect his garage.

Don Luis Ceballos is to be arraigned Monday.

Police said Ceballos had attached a target pistol to a post in his garage and connected it with a wire to the door. The pistol fired on May 15 when the door was opened by two youths and a bullet lodged in the throat of one of the boys.

The injured youth, Stephen Beneinelli, 16, was hospitalized after the shooting, and both he and his companion, Robert J. Fornichi, 15, were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of burglary.

KTIM Sounding Board To View Health Post

Selection of a director and program chief for the Marin Community Mental Health Center will be the topic at 9 a.m. tomorrow on radio station KTIM's Marin Sounding Board. Panelists will be Peter Palmer, chairman of the county mental health advisory board; Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, a member of the selection committee and the Marin's director of mental health services; Trudi Baum, a director of the Marin Association for Mental Health, and Rev. John J. O'Connor, executive director of Catholic Social Service of Marin.

Kitty Oppenheimer will be moderator. The program will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Ross Flood Control Board Hints Army Plan Approval

Even the most practical alternative to the Army's plan for a concrete flood control channel through Ross would cost the town $900,000 and a five-year delay in flood control, The Ross Town Council Flood Control Advisory Board has been told.

The board, which has studied several alternatives developed by consultant engineer Milton Hudis, has concluded the best is a plan calling for a flood control channel built under Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in conjunction with widening the street to four lanes, according to board member Carroll A. Snyker.

Donald R. Frost, Marin County public works director, told the board Monday night that the plan would cost the town $900,000 even if the Army Corps of Engineers agreed to pay half the increased cost. Getting the revised plan approved by federal authorities would take approximately five years, Frost said.

Estimated total cost of the alternative would be $4 million, plus another $1 million for the street widening.

The board took no action on the alternate, but issued three recommendations to the town council which imply reluctant acceptance of the Army plan for a concrete channel.

The board recommended that efforts be made to do all possible construction work within the creek channel itself, rather than along the banks, to minimize damage to the landscape; to treat and texture the concrete walls as much as possible within the plan budget to make it fit into the area; and to use every precaution to save trees along the creek, particularly those of six-inch or larger diameter.

Snyker said the town and the advisory board have been adamant throughout the flood control planning against any slowdown in construction of the channel, so the delay which the alternate plans entail would be unacceptable.

Mailing Chickens

PARIS (UPI) — Farmers throughout France have been mailing dead chickens to Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas as a protest against the importing of eggs from Belgium. Farmers taking part in the protest signed a statement saying they have formed "an economic committee on the egg."

Hub Council Assails ABAG, Opposes 20-Year Findings

After flailing away at the Association of Bay Area Governments' Regional Plan 1970-1990 and the association itself, the San Anselmo City Council voted 4-1 to oppose the $80,000 study findings. (For Marin supervisors' approval of plan, see page 5)

Backed by a planning commission decision and city engineer Charles R.Leitzell's recommendation, Mayor James F. Reed and Vice Mayor Kenneth L. Anderson shredded the plan. Only councilman Woodrow V. Capurro dissented.

Capurro, while not saying he liked the 20-year plan, said it should be approved "just to be a part of it."

However, his mild backing was lost in cascades of criticism.

Of the 32-page plan, Anderson said, "The first 25 pages could have been written by any reasonably intelligtnt, aware high school boy that lives in the area. The first 25 pages are a complete waste."

Phillip S. Heinecke, chairman of the planning commission, said the "meat and potatoes" is supposed to be in pages 19-25, but, "It's not there, it's all mom and apple pie. It's wholly subjective. What we have here can mean anything to anybody."

Reed, a former member of ABAG's general assembly and twice the dissenter in 79-1 decisions of ABAG, said the plan has followed the association's practice to the letter.

He charged that ABAG typically passes an item before asking local comments, then presents a glossy picture-book and pleads for rapid approval because of time limitations.

Reed said that the lateness of the plan was designed to prevent cities banding together against it.

He said the plan, which was received in late June, must be turned in to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development by October if ABAG is to continue receiving federal funds.

Reed then charged that the members do not have time to prepare adequately for ABAG meetings and are afraid to speak up because they will be shot down.

Councilmen cannot amend any actions, he said, because it takes a majority of supervisors and a majority of councilmen to amend so councilmen can only exercise a negative say.

Anderson said he would move to approve the plan for HUD purposes, but doubted it would meet their requirements for a land use plan. However, he refused to sanction it as a general plan for the Bay Area.

Councilman Warren R. Perry moved to reject the plan for reasons presented by Reed and Heinecke.

They were:

1. "It is so vague as to the means for accomplishing these (desirable concepts) that it is more a dream or a shopping list than a list of accomplishable goals."

2. It tells no way to avoid the fiasco of past low-cost government housing developments.

3. The plan dwells on saving the environment, but also assumes accelerated consumption.

4. The plan does not make it clear that there are areas like air pollution that local governments have been unable to cope with.

5. The text is so general as to be meaningless and the Bay Area map showing land use is incomprehensible because it omits names.

The planning commission also questioned — in recommending against the plan Monday — extending eminent domain and taxing rights to the association.

Heinecke said, "The planning commission feels regional government is necessary and has to come in a number of areas." However, he objected that a general plan does not have to be meaningless and the ABAG one is.

Leitzell said there are some good ideas contained in the plan, but cost estimates and methods of financing are not included. "In its present form, it is unusable except to go on and form a general plan."

"I'd hate to be blackmailed into approving something just so we'll get federal funds. That's the only excuse I can see for approving something like this," Leitzeli said.

Reed, however, felt federal funds to local governments might not be lost by voting down the plan. "One way to find out is to reject the plan," he said.

PUC Again Suggests Hike In Muni Fares

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Public Utilities Commission recommended Tuesday that the Board of Supervisors increase Municipal Railway fares to 25 cents. They are now 20 cents for most runs.

John M. Woods, the system's general manager, said there would be a $24 million deficit for this fiscal year for the Muni without the boost. The supervisors last month shelved the same PUC request.

It is illegal to transport bullfrogs out of Arkansas.

Cleveland Safety Director Might Run Against Stokes

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Former safety director Benjamin O. Davis, Jr. has said he will "seriously consider" a suggestion that he run as an independent coalition candidate against Cleveland Mayor Carl B. Stokes next year.

Leaders of the Cuyahoga County Republican party Tuesday launched a campaign to draft Davis, 57, who charged on his resignation Monday that Stokes provides "support and comfort to the enemies of law enforcement."

Robert Highes and Saul Stillman, co-chairmen of the county GOP Executive Committee issued a statement requesting Democratic officials, civic and religious leaders to join the effort to draft Davis.

"He can restore this city to the greatness it so ricly deserves," they said.

Davis said he was highly complimented and would give thought to a political career.

"Of course I will have to spend a good deal of time discussing this matter with my closest adviser—my wife," he said.

County Democratic Chairman Joseph Bartunek said the proposal was "very interesting" and added. "I have always held General Davis in very high regard."

Hughes and Stillman said Davis' "sober declaration that the administration is providing support and comfort to the enemies of law enforcement is a shock to the people of Cleveland."

Davis, who held the highest rank of any Negro in the armed services, stressed that the enemies he referred to were not violators of the law.

The GOP statement said that Davis has no party identification and "we realize the problems of the city transcend party labels."

One black leader, W. O. Walker, editor and publisher of the Negro weekly Call & Post, said he opposed a draft movement.

"I believe such an action would be far out of place and could serve only to create further turmoil in this city racially," said Walker.

There were 2,260 Americans killed in the War of 1812.

San Anselmo Approves Pay Schedule

The San Anselmo City Council last night approved without comment a salary schedule for city employees including raises up to 10 per cent for some.

The salary schedule had been hammered out in closed sessions and meetings between the council's negotiating team of City Administrator Alfred C. Kaeppel and City Atty. John G. Buresh and employee representatives.

A beginning police captain now makes $973 monthly whereas he made $883 per month last year. That is an increase of 10.2 per cent or 4.2 per cent over the cost-of-living increase previously granted to city employees.

However, the police chief doesn't know what he will earn this year. The council has not yet agreed on salaries for department heads and will consider the matter at an adjourned meeting Aug. 10.

An assistant fire chief at the highest pay level will earn $1174 per month, compared to $1074 last year, a raise of 9.4 per cent.

The public works employees won comparable raises. A building inspector who previously earned $905 now makes $992, an increase of 9.6 per cent.

In most cases, the council pushed the salary scale up one notch so that a beginner now makes approximately what a six-month veteran made last year.

Outside police, fire and public works, the assistant city clerk, the accounting clerk, the assistant librarian and the junior librarian also received raises of more than six per cent.

Richfield Gas Stations Gain Signs' Approval

The San Anselmo City Council, which had previously moved to reduce the number of gas station signs, last night granted 3-2 added signs for two Richfield stations for two months each.

The council allowed the Richfield Company, which is changing its name to Arco, to place a 43 square-foot sign on a station at 90 Red Hill Avenue and a 21 square-foot banner on a station at 100 Sir Francis Boulevard to advertise the name change.

Arco representative James Fraley had asked for three months, but settled for Oct. 1 to Dec. 1.

A request for pumper top signs for five months was denied unanimously and without discussion since an ordinance had banned such signs from San Anselmo service stations.

Mayor James F. Reed and Councilman Warren R. Perry dissented.

Perry maintained that the proposal was inconsistent with the proposed new sign ordinance.

The San Anselmo City Council Also:

REZONE — Rezoned a lot at 180 Tunstead Avenue owned by Andrew P. Stafford to allow apartment development on the condition that the lot be merged with an adjoining lot. The planning commission had recommended against the rezoning.

DRAINAGE — Accepted responsibility for correcting a flooding problem at the 35 Brookside Drive home of Hans Schneider if the owner and adjoining owners grant a five-foot easement contiguous to an existing five-foot easement.

WALL — Granted a street encroachment to Fred A. Bardwell of 87 Valley Road for a retaining wall if he moves it back three feet from its present position. Bardwell apparently put up part of a two-foot high retaining wall thinking it was on his land.

SENIORS — Agreed to a contract with the Marin Senior Coordinating Council which stipulates that the council will run the city senior citizen program with the city paying $1,582 matched by county funds.

LIBRARY — Referred back to the library committee a proposal for sharing of library resources with Larkspur until Aug. 25 so the board can iron out the problem of an informal Larkspur sharing agreement with the county library and the problem of out-of-town users.

STREET LIGHTS — Approved a contract with Traffic Signal Repair Company of Sunnyvale for the repair and maintenance of five San Anselmo stop lights for about $1,600 annually.

SPECIFICATIONS — Gave permission to Hoffman and Albritton, engineers to determine plans and specifications for contract work to be done this fall.

TOT LOT — Refused to use city equipment and men for work on the Brookside School tot lot councilmen are half financing from their own salaries because it would be equivalent to a gift of public funds, according to city attorney John G. Buresh.

STREET LIGHTING — Voted to oppose an assembly bill authored by Assemblyman March K. Fong, D-15th District, that would require the state to pay half the cost of street lighting improvements designed to reduce the crime rate.

PATROL CAR — Approved the purchase of a new police car.

IMAGE — Passed an ordinance appropriating $3,500 for an advertising and publicity fund to be administered by the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce.

FOREMAN — Authorized staff to advertise for a working parks foreman to be paid in the $737 to $899 per month range, instead of a maintenance leadman in the $662 to $806 range as proposed.

ADJOURNED — Set an adjourned meeting for Aug. 10 to discuss the business license ordinance section on fees and department head salaries.

KTIM Forum To Quiz New Planning Chief

Werner Von Gundell, new Marin County planning director, will be interviewed on KTIM's Open Forum with Kettenhofen at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, former head of the Marin Board of Supervisors, moderates the show, which gives listeners opportunity to telephone in questions and comments.

Illegal Candy Sellers Run Out Of Town

The latest illegal door-to-door candy selling expedition into San Anselmo has been run out of town by police.

Chief Raymond Buchignani said William LeRoy Murphy, 28, of San Francisco and four boys found selling at 8:23 p.m. Monday on Valley Road were told they were violating a city ordinance against peddling.

The chief said the five were not held, but, "if Mr. Murphy comes in again, he will be arrested on the spot."

This is the second report of illegal selling in San Anselmo by Student Opportunity of Lafayette headed by Fritz Thus. Early in the month, two 10- to 12-year-old boys were selling in the Red Hill Shopping Center.

FUTURE WARNING

Buchignani said July 10 that he would warn Thus against further violations, but did not do so until he received a letter from the candy salesman requesting permission to sell door-to-door.

The chief denied his request in spite of altruistic claims by Thus.

In his letter, Thus said, "Our program is designed to teach young people the value of money and to help students earn a part-time income after school."

The youthful salesmen at Red Hill told one buyer they received ten cents for each $1.35 box sold.

Thus continued: "We are a charitable organization. Student Opportunity has opened a commercial account number 5974-714 with the Bank of America in the name of the St. Labre Indian School."

He said funds derived from the sale would go to the school on the first of each month.

Thus was vague when asked how much went to the mission school in Ashland, Mont., saying that it varied from month-to-month, but finally said $600 to $700 was given last month.

Informed that the school had told the Independent-Journal it had not received any payments, he said he had misunderstood the question; the first payment would be made Aug. 1. His organization has existed since December, according to the Better Business Bureau.

He said he makes a profit as do the young peddlers and in-betweens who operate without his supervision, but declined to say how much each makes from each $1.35 box sold.

He said he hires college students who then "hire solely high school students looking for jobs to save money, buy clothes..."

He said each high school peddler, usually from a poverty area in Oakland or Concord, must get permission from his must geg6gtmeutspg ETAOIN S must get permission from his school and wear an identification badge which states he works for a profit-making firm.

TRY FOR PERMITS

He said his distributors try to get permits where required, but do not always know where they are needed. However, he was unsure where licenses have been obtained.

The young peddlers are taken to sales areas and dropped off for the day by the college students, he said.

He said he had "three or four" groups of high schoolers headed by college students, but granted that the 28-year-old Murphy is not a collegian.

San Anselmo Police Officer Richard Schmidt, who caught the peddlers yesterday, said that if they were high school students, they had to be freshmen. He estimated they were 10- to 14-year-olds.

Thus said his firm is licensed with the state and is doing nothing illegal.

He is not licensed in Lafayette, according to Contra Costa County records. Police there said any company selling there must have a permit.

Sales without required permits have also been reported in San Francisco and Bel Marin Keys.

Thus' product bears a label which reads "Student Opportunity, To Help Young People Help Themselves."

Thirst Quenchers For Hot Summer Weather

On a hot, summer day, a frosty fruit cooler really tastes delectable; accompanied with a few crackers and cookies it becomes appetite satisfying as well as thirst quenching.

If you are counting calories and trying to enrich your diet, every beverage and snack should be a healthy contributor to your daily supply of nutrients.

These fruit-dairy drinks offer vitamins A and C of fresh fruit plus the calcium and protein of dairy products. They will also help increase your liquid intake which is so essential in hot weather.

A tall, skinny, eight-ounce glass of Blueberry Slim contains only about 135 calories.

BLUEBERRY SLIM

1 pint skim or fat free milk
1 pint orange juice
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
½ cup fresh blueberries
Mint sprigs

Combine first three ingredients and beat with rotary beater. Chill. Pour into tall chilled glasses. Float blueberries in each glass. Garnish with mint sprigs. Serve with crackers. Makes 4 (8 ounce) servings.

HONEY FRUIT NOG

1 cup sliced strawberries
1 ripe banana, sliced
1 egg
1¼ cups orange juice
1¼ cups milk
3 tablespoons honey

Mix all ingredients in blender at high speed. Chill. Serve with crackers and pretzels. Makes 4 (8 ounce) servings.

LIME 'N STRAWBERRY BREEZE

*1 pint fresh strawberries
1 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons granulated sugar
1 pint milk
½ pint lime sherbet

Slice strawberries and combine with next three ingredients in blender at high speed until smooth. Chill. Place a scoop of sherbet into each of four chilled glasses. Pour strawberry mixture over. Serve with shortbread cookies and biscuits. Makes 4 (8 ounces) servings.

*Or 1 (10-ounce) package frozen strawberries, thawed. Yield will be slightly less.

Luscious Dessert Is Easy To Make

So many summer occasions call for a luscious dessert that's easy to make, yet especially pretty! A bridal shower. . .a bon voyage party for vacationing friends. . .birthdays and anniversaries. . .the bride's first company dinner. . .all require elegant, cooling desserts.

These Frosty Maple-Cream Molds are a summer dessert delight. You can prepare them a day in advance; in fact, Frosty Maple-Cream Molds should be frozen at least overnight. Preparation is so simple, too; maple-blended syrup, eggs and cream are cooked 'til slightly thickened, then poured into decorative molds for freezing.

You needn't worry about dessert again until serving time. When ready to serve, unmold the creamy desserts on individual plates and top each with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

Next time you're looking for a scrumptious dessert for a special summer occasion, try this recipe. Frosty Maple-Cream Molds offer more flair than fuss — just right for warm weather entertaining.

FROSTY MAPLE CREAM MOLDS

4 eggs, beaten
1 cup maple-blended syrup
1⅓ cups half and half of light cream
Sweetened whipped cream
6 maraschino cherries

Combine eggs and syrup in medium-sized saucepan. Stir in cream. Cook over medium heat about 7 minutes or until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Pour into six 2/3-cup molds; freeze overnight. Six servings.

Top each with a dollop of sweetened whipped cream and garnish with a maraschino cherry.

Macaroni Salad

A 12-ounce can of chilled corned beef is the basis for a 6-serving main-dish marcaroni salad. Cook 1 (7-ounce) package elbow marcaroni as label directs. Drain and mix with ½ cup of minced celery, ¼ cup of minced onion, and contents of 2 (4-ounce) cans of coarsely diced pimiento. Cube the corned beef and add it to marcaroni with 1½ cups of mayonnaise. Season to taste with salt, pepper, worcestershire and liquid red pepper sauce. Chill before serving.

Throw Away Old Fruit Salad Recipes For Something New

It is during the golden days of summer that the abundant harvest of fresh fruits can turn a fruit salad bowl into a many-splendored thing.

Because there is an almost endless variety to choose from, there is no need to ever make up a summer salad from the same old tried and true combinations. It is time to forget your favorite recipe for Waldorf salad and let your imagination soar.

Opt for a selection of more unusual fruit. For instance, in the market, look for a fresh pineapple and a fresh coconut. They lend flavors that are marvelously different. When selecting, be sure that all the fruits are ripe and ready for eating.

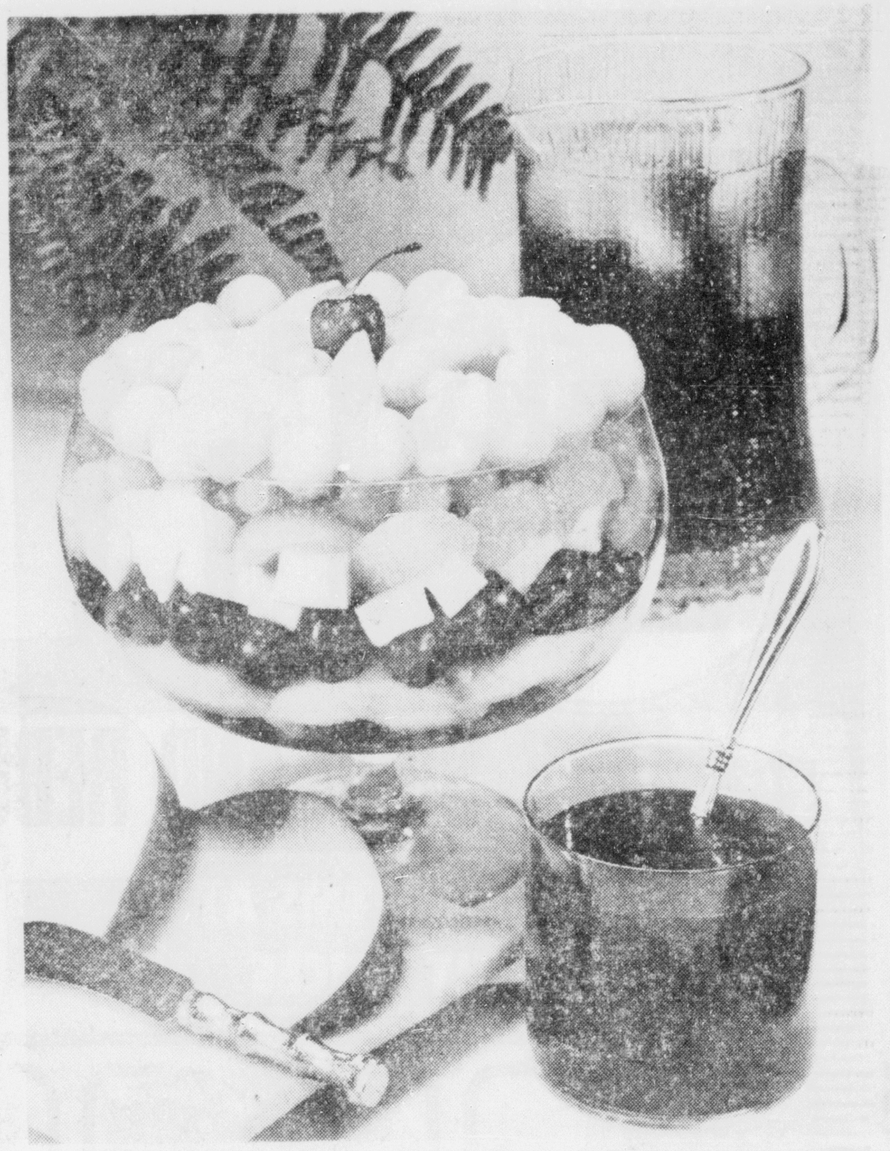
Now, for the crowning touch, try this delicious marinade for the fruit. Combine bottled Russian dressing with an orange-flavored liqueur. The sweet-tangy flavor of Russian dressing and the spirited taste of the fruit liqueur will add a delightful subtle touch to each piece of fruit. If you lack the liqueur, you could substitute fresh orange juice for this highly original marinade, if you wish.

As a perfect accompaniment to this salad, serve a mild Gouda cheese and then pass the pitcher of tall frosty iced tea.

FRESH FRUIT BOWL RUSSE

1 cup bottled Russian Dressing
6 tablespoons Triple Sec Liqueur or fresh orange juice
2 cups fresh melon balls
3 medium peaches, peeled and sliced
4 medium apricots, peeled and sliced
1½ cups seeded grapes
1 cup pitted fresh cherries
1 cup fresh blue berries
4 medium plums, peeled and sliced
2 cups cubed fresh pineapple
1½ cups cubed fresh coconut

In large bowl, combine Russian dressing and liqueur. Add fruits and coconut; stir gently. Marinate in refrigerator, stirring occasionally, 3 hours or until fruit is chilled. Makes 10 to 12 servings.



Marinated Spareribs Are True To Tahitian Cuisine

Treat guests to a sample of Tahiti in your dining room or backyard. Pork, popular with the islanders, is a wise selection for the main course, according to home economist Reba Staggs of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

When marinated in a mixture of French dressing, ginger, soy sauce and pineapple juice, spareribs are true in flavor to Tahitian cuisine which is a combination of tropical and French. Rice is an appropriate accompaniment while combined fruits maintain the island theme.

TAHITIAN SPARERIBS

4 to 6 pounds spareribs
¾ cup garlic-flavored French dressing
2 teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup soy sauce
½ cup pineapple juice

Combine dressing, ginger, salt, soy sauce and pineapple juice. Pour marinade over spareribs and refrigerate 8 to 10 hours or overnight. Turn spareribs over while marinating. Place ribs on a rack in a roasting pan. Bake in a moderate over (350°F.) 2 hours or until done. Baste ribs every 15 to 20 minutes with marinade. 4 to 6 servings.

Raisin Bread Snack

Serve an eye-catcher for lunch or at party-time. Spread four slices of buttered raisin bread with contents of 1 (4¾-ounce) can of chicken spread. Cover with a layer of peeled apple slices dipped in lemon juice. Serve as open face sandwiches or top with additional raisin bread slices.

Novato Family Home After Month Of Play

By MOLLY MARIN

Mr. and Mrs. Chester MacPhee of the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato have returned to their home following a month's stay in the Hawaiian Islands.

With them were their son and two daughters and families, Messrs. and Mmes. Chester MacPhee Jr. of Ross, John Russell of Kent Woodlands and James Collins of Greenbrae and their children. They flew to Kauai where they stayed a week at the Sheraton; then they spent a week at the Royal Hawaiian and a week at Makaha in Honolulu.

When their children and 11 grandchildren returned to Marin County, Chet and Marge toured the islands for another week. Mr. MacPhee is grand master for the states of California and Hawaii for the Masonic Lodge.

PLANNING A trip to England in August are Mrs. Robert Hindmarch of Novato and two of the Hindmarch children, 9-year-old Kathryn and Bill, 14 years old. This is the first trip to England for Kathryn, who was born here.

It has been 10 years since Mrs. Hindmarch has been to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell in Sunderland, on the Northeast Coast of England. She is also looking forward to showing Kathryn London.

Staying at home in Novato will be her husband and two sons, John and Philip.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell have many friends in Novato as they have made two trips here.

HONORED SUNDAY afternoon at a shower given by her aunt, Mrs. Madeline Anthony, was Charlene Reece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur F. Reece of Mill Valley. Twenty guests attended the party at Mrs. Anthony's San Francisco home.

Charlene will become the bride of Paul Beasley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Beasley of Sonoma, on Aug. 16 at Peace Lutheran Church in Mill Valley.

MR. AND MRS. Hubbard Sundborg of San Rafael have announced the marriage of their daughter Mary Christine to Abdel Rahman Almahdy of San Francisco.

The couple were married July 19 in Oakland at the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pollar.

The bride was graduated from San Rafael High School and College of Marin.

She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Leonard Sundborg of San Rafael. Her sister, Betty Elin Sundborg, and her brother, Scott Hubbard, live in San Rafael.

STAYING AT the Royal Hawaiian Hotel in Honolulu on their second trip to the islands this year are Mr. and Mrs. John Brocato of San Anselmo. On this trip their son and daughter-in-law, Tom and Joy Brocato, have joined them. Tom is a graduate student at the University of California at Riverside.

CHRIS VAN WART, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Van Wart of Larkspur, attended the bi-annual leadership conference of her sorority, Alpha Delta Pi. The conference was held in Culver, Ind.

Chris is vice president of her sorority and president of Panhellenic at the University of California.

MEMBERS OF the deYoung Museum Society and Patrons of Art and Music of the Palace of the Legion of Honor will attend a preview party for the "Old Master Drawings from Chatsworth" show at the deYoung Museum.

The preview will be held Thursday evening, and the show will be open to the public Friday through Aug. 30.

Mrs. Gregory Solon of Kentfield has arranged the British decor for the preview.

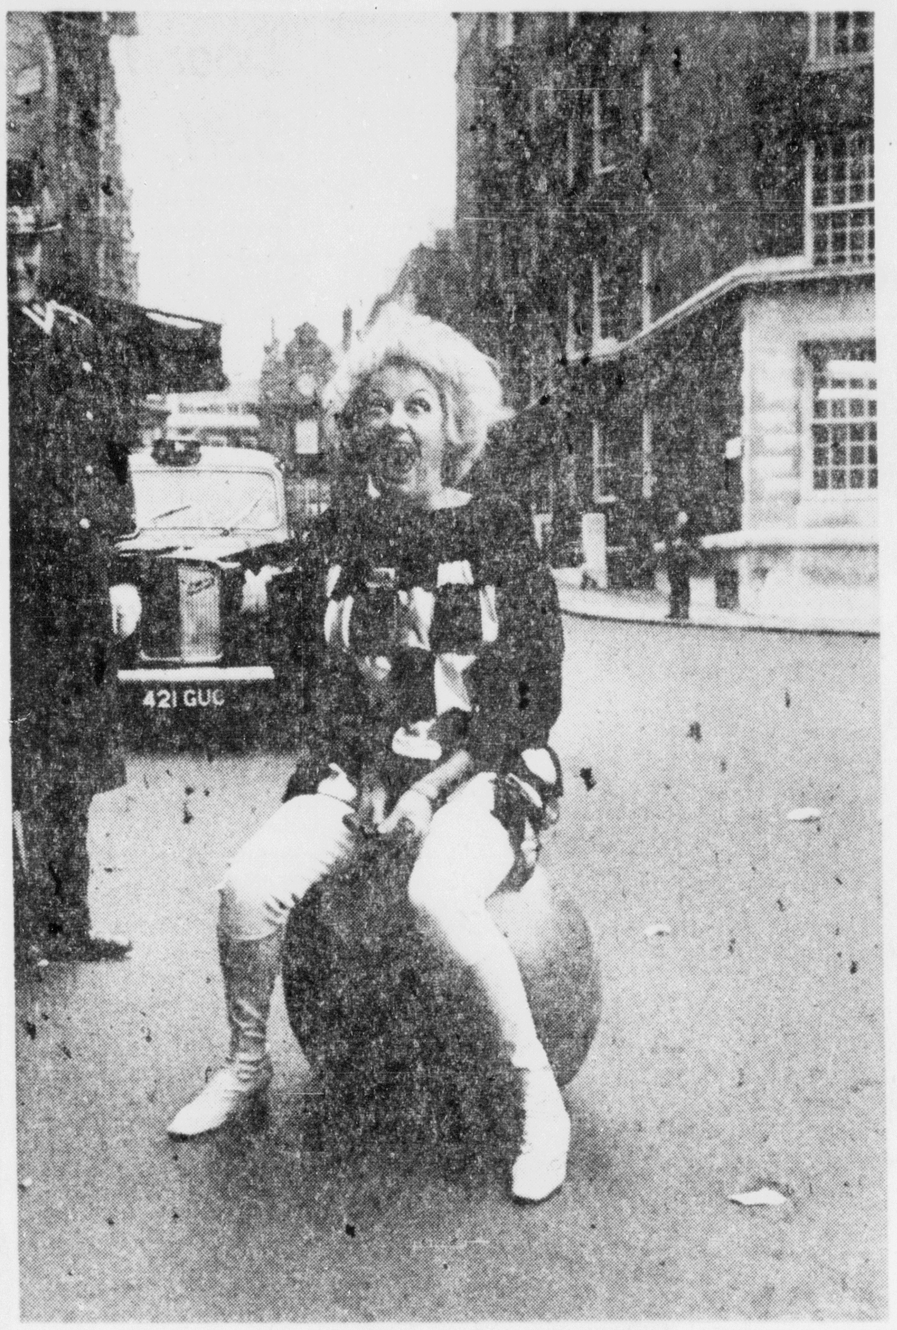
KIMBERLY SHAYNE Russell, who will become the bride of Henry Hilsmann on Aug. 8 in Mill Valley, will be honored at a shower given by her matron of honor, Mrs. Daniel Muller of Idaho. The party will be given at the home of Mrs. Muller's mother, Mrs. Paul DeFremery of Mill Valley, with 12 guests invited.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Beverly Russell of Mill Valley, and Henry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Hilsmann of Mill Valley.

Another shower was given for Beverly recently by a bridesmaid, Anita Douglas at her home in Mill Valley. Ten guests invited attended.

MR. AND MRS. Erret Gardner of Guam are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Jay Kroeter, and her husband and three sons, Erret, 7, Kelly, 4, and Gardner, 9 months old, at the Kroeters' Marin Country Club Estates home.

This is the first time the Gardners have seen their new grandson.



PHYLLIS DILLER, the commedienne who laughs at her own jokes, discussed her dislike for body contact, women's liberation and the permissive society during a stay in London. Her acerbic wit has earned her the name Killer Diller, but in private she is softer and kinder, although not uncritical.

'A Peeping Tom Asked Me To Pull Down My Blinds'

By CLIVE RUSSELL
London Express Service

I refused to shake hands with Phyllis Diller when I parted from her at Les Ambassadeurs Park Lane club.

She stood there, hair at attention, in a canary yellow flounced dress and matching tights, holding out her hand, surely one of the world's only women to become a millionaire by her own efforts in middle-age — and she thanked me for my refusal.

It was a moment to tell my grandchildren about, though I don't know quite how I'd tell it to reflect any credit on myself.

"I'm not crazy about body contact," one of America's top comediennes had said 10 minutes earlier. "Not until you're crazy about someone. It's fine for special occasions, like baptising a baby, but not otherwise.

"The handshake is obsolete. Originally it was to show you were unarmed, that you didn't have a stone in your hand. I think it would be good to get rid of that and to have a slight bow as they do in the Orient."

By the time I'd left she had forgotten that. But then Killer Diller, as she's come to be known for her acerbic wit, talks hard and fast and at random with a figurative stone clutched aggressively in her hand.

"I've just analyzed the word wise-crack," was the first thing she said when we met. "It means, literally, a wise saying — but quick. That brings it right up from being an inferior thing. In other words humor cuts through the unnecessary garbage and says something that's wise, it hits home with the truth. The deeper the truth, the bigger the laugh."

HAD SHE seen David Frost's television interview with Peter Ustinov in which Ustinov's deep and subtle truths had met with stony silence by the studio audience?

"I didn't see that, but I do know that if you pull your punch, and she explained in detail what that meant in boxing terms — if you show any doubt at all that what you're saying is funny, it doesn't work at all."

Phyllis has never shown any doubt that what she says is funny. She concludes her wisecracks with loud slow deliberate laughter like comic strip laughter, ha-ha-ha-ha. If the clientele of Les Ambassadeurs had not had upper lips to anchor them, their eyebrows would have shot up.

It took courage, determination and ability far beyond what is normally needed for Miss Diller to become a hugely popular comedienne. She was middle-aged, a mother of five, unbeautiful, unglamor-

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Reader Enumerates Telephoning Gripes, Asks For Thoughtfulness

DEAR HELEN:

I have arthritis so it's hard to get to a phone. Acquaintances know this, yet they still hang up after three or four rings. Then I'm greeted with a buzz after painfully hobbling across the house.

Another infuriating telephoner is the woman who pours out all her troubles, non-stop for 15 minutes, then when you try to tell her something about yourself or your family, she says, "My favorite TV program just came on. Gotta go."

And then there's the one who talks on and on and on and, if you tell her someone is at the door or your dinner is burning, she calls back in an hour to "finish."

Could you please tell people again to be considerate about using the telephone? It is a blessing that can sometimes turn into a curse. — READER

DEAR READER:

You've already told them. Thanks — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I get up to fix my husband's breakfast and see him off to work. Then I feed the baby (who has been up since six a.m.). Then we both take a nap, and I start my second day about 10 a.m.

My mother-in-law disapproves. She makes little cuts about how her daughter has all her housework done by 9:30. Lately she's been calling me almost every morning between 8:00 and 9:00. Oh, very friendly, but I know. If she can't shame me into staying up, she'll see to it I don't sleep anyway.

I tried taking the phone off the hook, but then she "dropped in" on the way to the store because she was "worried about me."

I'm naturally polite and I don't want a fight, but I think I have as much right to sleep when my baby naps as she does to play bridge in the afternoon. My house is always clean and dinner ready when my husband gets home — and that's more than you can sometimes say for his mother. What can I do? — NAP NIPPED

DEAR N.N.:

How about calling your m-in-l each morning at six "to hear the baby's new word" or something? If her husband complains, then perhaps the two men might figure a peaceable compromise for their women. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

This is for the person who complained that "dirty books" were sold in the psychology, sex and art sections of good bookstores.

Does "Shocked" think sex is dirty? Psychology is related to both mind and body. Maybe he'd consider Freud lewd. As for dirty pictures in the art section: What is more beautiful than a fine painting or sculpture of a nude?

Maybe if parents did their job and educated their children about sex matters, the young people wouldn't have to run to the local bookstore and leave their smudged thumb prints on the pages of a "dirty book."

If adults feel they need a bookstore just for their books, that are actually the same "dirty books" "Shocked" complains about, then these adults must be looking for something they lack. If beauty is in the eye of the beholder, then too, dirt is in the mind. — SUZANNE

Door-To-Door Companies Set Up Stiff, Enforceable Ethics Code

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — The "good guys" are catching up to the "bad guys" in the business of selling products from house to house.

The Direct Selling Association, an organization that represents most of the large companies selling from door to door, has just set up a stiff code of ethics and the means of enforcing it.

This in itself is no guarantee of progress, for many ethical codes are not worth the paper they are written on. But all signs indicate that this one is different and the Association really means business.

The fact is that few industries need policing more than this one. The difference is that the larger firms that control the Association have come to realize that strict enforcement of ethical standards is not only "The Right Thing to Do," the title of an Association flyer, but also the most profitable thing to do in the long run.

Consumers also stand to profit from what the industry is doing to purge itself of the worst actors. A little knowledge of the Association and its plans can help consumers get their money's worth and get satisfaction in disputed cases.

UNDER THE procedure set up by the Association, a single complaint against a member firm can set in motion a whole series of investigations and hearings. The organization cannot prosecute, of course, but it can recommend such action, and it can use the power of publicity.

In effect, the Association has thus set itself up as a service to assist consumers as well as members resolve matters in dispute. It does not mean that complainants will always get what they want, but it means that their cases will at least get considered seriously.

For the worst cases, where outright fraud is suspected, the organization to call, of course, is the police. And the Association itself would do the same, according to its president, J. Robert Brouse.

Consumers have another thing going for them. It is the growing acceptance of a three-day cooling-off period. The Direct Selling Association has approved the idea for all buyers and sellers. Its directors have even agreed not to oppose a proposed law that would apply the concept only to their industry.

Under the "Truth-in-Lending" law, a three-day cooling-off period is required whenever a credit purchase is secured by a home mortgage. Some 20 states now also allow some sort of period in which a buyer can cancel the deal for any reason without obligation.

Consumers can help the industry raise its own standards by dealing with firms that are working to raise them through their own association. Consumers can also test the sincerity and effectiveness of the association by sending inquiries and complaints to it. The address is 1730 M St. NW., Washington, D.C., 20036.

ous, when she took to the stage.

"I think it's ideal to have wonderful work to do when you're older and your children have grown up. Having children to care for is a full time job, and it consumes you in a beautiful way because it takes up all of your resources and you go to bed at night happy and healthy and tired.

"BUT WHEN they're gone if you're not terribly careful you can become less than something great as a woman."

She stayed great by reeling off sharp but not quite bitter jokes along the lines that every harassed housewife/mother thinks:

"Just the other day a peeping Tom asked me topull down my blind.

'I found out why Mrs. Clean's laundry looks so much whiter than mine — she washes it.

"My mother-in-law is so old-fashioned she won't even wear a topless apron."

Cracks like these earned her lawsuits for alleged ridicule from her ex-mother and sister-in-laws. They also earned her a fortune on television and sackfuls of mail from housewives with their own double-edged jokes about the life of a housewife.

Killer Diller is the public face, but the private face is softer and kinder — but not uncritical.

"I DON'T BELIEVE in the equality of the sexes," she says. "I'm surrounded by gallantry. I married a gallant man. I'd miss it if it wasn't around me. Maybe that's because I attract it. I'm very helpless and very feminine. And I've got news for the Women's Liberation Movement: If they're going to have equality they're going to have to give up gallantry."

Killer Diller gives the permissive society a roughing up too: particularly the "tactile therapy" groups who believe that body contact leads to mental health:

"I know a lot of people nowadays think that it's a healthy thing to have body-contact with people, that it removes hang-ups and aggressions. All these nudes, and strokings and all that.

"I think it's a wonderful way to go to a 'clean' orgy under the auspices of someone respectable, so you know you won't go to jail.

"It's for people who can't find someone of their own to stroke. Personally, I'd pick up an alley cat — feed it and rub its ears and listen to it purr. I think these must be very sick people who have to go to any group thing. I really don't understand it. But what do you do with sick people?

"Ah! I know! It's in the Good Book — it says, 'heal thyself.' That's why I'd never subscribe to a group activity because I believe, heal thyself. I'd never really thought of it before, but that's my philosophy. It's what I've always done to myself, psychically and emotionally.

Space Age Plans For Quality Water

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Plans for an elaborate statewide system of space-age monitoring devices to keep watch over water quality were reported yesterday by top state water officials.

Kerry W. Mulligan, chairman of the State Water Resources Control Board, said that reports on water quality from the automatic remote monitoring system would feed continuously into a computed at the board's Sacramento headquarters.

A bell would ring if a monitored stream suddenly had too much phosphate, or showed a trend toward upsetting any of the other standards being checked. These might include temperature, salinity, rate of flow, oxygen content, algae and various pollutants, he said.

Mulligan, in a press conference at the International Water Pollution Research Conference, said he got the idea for the system from the moon landing. "I just thought if they can do it for space," Mulligan said, "why can't we do the same thing here?"

He acknowledged that the initial need for such a system would be to check the performance of the State Water Project, to assure that the board's standards for protecting the Delta and San Francisco Bay are met by the state Department of Water Resources, which will run the project to divert Northern California water to the South.

Mulligan said the state already was working with three aerospace companies on research and development of the statewide monitoring system, and predicted that "we are only a year or two away from failsafe systems to monitor water quality."

He conceded that the cost of the system still was unknown, but noted that the state was hoping to spend more than $1 billion over the next five years in new hardware to control water pollution. The monitoring system would be relatively inexpensive, and would make sure that the hardware was working correctly, he said.

The remote monitoring system would be relatively inexpensive, and would make sure that the hardware was working correctly, he said.

The remote monitoring stations also should be placed along the state's coastline, Mulligan said.

The aerospace companies have assured the state "it's completely plausible economically and in every other way," he said.

Two of the companies already are sinking their own money into development of such a system, he noted. The technology for such a system is almost available now, but the real problem is reliability, Mulligan explained.

Jerome B. Gilbert, the board's executive officer, said that 40 to 50 of the remote monitoring stations probably would be needed.

Gilbert, asked how Southern California would get water in dry years if the water is needed to protect the Delta and bay, said the answer may be reclamation of waste water, desalting of ocean water, use of existing ground water reserves, or the Colorado River.

Mulligan noted that there have been only two dry years, 1930-31, in the past 46 years, and that water reserves in the state project would cover even longer dry periods. Only surplus Northern California water will be diverted south, he insisted.

Scottish Water Plan Sewage Woes Aired

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Unexpected and costly consequences of a major water project in Scotland may foretell similar problems for California's State Water Project, a British engineer cautioned yesterday.

J.I. Waddington, director of Scotland's Clyde River Purification Board, in a report to the International Water Pollution Research Conference, said that the diversion of fresh water from the Firth of Clyde was going to force huge new expenditures to upgrade sewage treatment.

Noting that the Clyde water system, which gets fresh water from fabled Loch Lomond before flowing into the sea, was similar to that of San Francisco Bay and the Delta, Waddington said he would be "scared to death" of California's project without a two to three-year study of whether similar consequences were likely here.

He reported that his board's study came belatedly after construction began on a dam to allow diversion of water from the loch, and that its findings are too late. The dam is more than half completed, he said.

The key finding was that the diversion will "very seriously deplete" the amount of dissolved oxygen in the firth, oxygen vital to all water life.

As a consequence of the finding, cities upstream along River Clyde will have to build costly facilities to purify their waste waters. And this cost comes immediately after the cities have just completed construction of treatment facilities expected to clean the riven enough so fish life would reappear in Glasgow. Except "for this damn thing," Waddington added.

Now, because of the diversion project, similar to California's much larger project to divert "surplus" water from Northern to Southern California, the cities on the River Clyde will have to cut by half their waste loadings — just to maintain the status quo.

Commenting that the diversion project "will nullify the benefits of the sewage improvements," Waddington said the argument now is who will have to pay for the extra treatment.

Removal Of Phosphates Successful

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A new method of removing phosphate from sewage waste, a key ingredient in water pollution, has been developed in Los Angeles.

The city's department of public works, in a report to the International Water Pollution Research Conference, said that it had succeeded in removing 95 per cent of the phosphate in a six-month experiment on 50 million gallons of sewage a day.

Conventional treatment systems are lucky if they remove 20 per cent of the phosphate.

Removal of phosphate is essential to fighting water pollution on rivers and in closed lakes because phosphate feeds algae, which in turn destroy the oxygen in water needed by aquatic life.

The Los Angeles plant at Hyperion found that the unexpectedly high removal came by increasing the aeration of sewage sludge, a relatively inexpensive process.

The department reported that the removal of phosphate can be combined with the removal of nitrates, another key ingredient in pollution.

Recycling Of Sewage Wastes Is Applauded

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Recycling of sewage waste water for reuse is cheaper that desalting the sea, and may even be cheaper than importing water from areas with an abundance of fresh water.

This was the thrust of reports yesterday at the International Water Pollution Research Conference by scientists and engineers from Israel to Los Angeles.

John D. Parkhurst of the Los Angeles County Sanitation District said that recycling brought the cost of water to $9 an acre foot, compared with $65 for imported water expected from the California Water Project.

But he and others conceded that the problem was more one of public acceptance than of technology or cost.

Hillel L. Shuval of Israel, noting that the U.S. Government already was pressuring communities to treat waste water up to 90 per cent of drinking standards because others will use it downstream, asked, "Why not go the other 10 per cent and drink it yourself?

Shuval noted that his nation had no choice but to recycle, since desalting sea water would cost two to three times more — and there are no water reserves.

Other reports noted that much of the water being drunk in the U.S. already comes from polluted sources.

Parkhurst called for a massive effort to build a 100-million plant to reclaim 100 million gallons a day, with the same sort of effort that went into the moon landing. "Once we do it, we will find it is economic and safe," he said.

Model Anticrime Package For Capital Is Now Law

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —President Nixon signed into law today a sweeping anticrime package for the nation's capital —legislation he recommended to Congress as a model for the rest of the country.

It was the first major proposal to become law among various recommendations by the Nixon administration to combat crime.

Some provisions in the bill, under heavy attack even before congressional approval, are certain to face tests in the courts. Two of the most controversial are the "no knock" and preventive detention provisions but Attorney General John N. Mitchell defended both sections today.

The "noknock" provision permits police, after showing cause, to obtain special search warrants to allow them to enter and search premises without first knocking or announcing themselves.

Under the preventive detention provision, judges could order suspects jailed for up to 60 days prior to trial if the defendants were charged with forcible robbery, burglary of a dwelling, arson, forcible rape, or illegal drug sale.

Mitchell, in an interview this morning, said the bill "does not remove civil liberties."

"It provides proper law enforcements. Civil liberties will be protected because the courts will make proper safeguards."

He made the statements on the NBC-TV Today Show.

Lindsay Issues New York Pollution Emergency Alert

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The mayor of New York activated the first stage of an air pollution emergency alert in the nation's largest city today as a blanket of dirty air hung motionless over much of the Atlantic Coast megalopolis for the fifth day.

"We have two crises on our hands — power and air pollution," Mayor John V. Lindsay declared following a morning of meetings with his Emergency Control Board and the president of Consolidated Edison Co.

As the first step in the alert the city Sanitation Department was ordered to cut incineration by 20 per cent and municipal hospitals and housing projects to stop their on site burning of garbage by 3 p.m.

Lindsay warned New Yorkers to "prepare for the banning of all private vehicles from certain areas of the city" if the crisis worsens.

He asked them to begin organizing car pools or using public transportation immediately and said the city would provide extra buses.

The mayor acted as the city's Air Resources Department announced the amount of sulfur dioxide, carbon monoxide, smoke shade and oxidents in the air had reached the "unsatisfactory to unhealthy" stage.

Woman Resigns Marin GOP Post

Mrs. John F. Brennan resigned as executive secretary of the Marin County Republican Central Committee effective Nov. 3 because she is moving to Santa Rosa, chairman Rodgers C. Broomhead said today.

At last night's central committee meeting, it was also announced that Marin headquarters for the election campaign of Gov. Ronald Reagan and Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke will open in mid-August at 1403 B Street, San Rafael, Broomhead said.

The committee decided to maintain a calendar of important political events in the Bay Area at its 915 Lootens Place office in San Rafael to inform anyone calling, he said.

57 Miles Of Trip Completed

DEATH VALLEY (UPI)— Boris Yankoff, a 56-year-old private investigator had completed 57 miles of his 125-mile run across this searing desert by early today.

Yankoff is making his fourth trip in five years across Death Valley National Monument and district ranger Albert Schneider said he was moving along at a "good clip."

Yankoff's plan was to make the trip straight through without sleep. He was to make only a few rest stops on his way from Shoshone to Scotty's Castle.

Stans Off To Funeral

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans flew to Portugal today to represent President Nixon at the funeral of Prime Minister Antonio Salazar.

Nine Committed In School Riot

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Superior Court Judge Kenneth Holland Tuesday committed nine teenagers to the California Youth Authority for their participation in a riot at Morningside High School earlier this year.

The nine, ranging in age from 14 to 19 were among 14 arrested after a Feb. 24 outbreak during which a coach's car and several trash cans were set afire and a number of windows were broken.

Four of the 14 have had charges against them dismissed. A fifth was injured in a traffic accident and is still awaiting a hearing.

Length of the sentences for the youths was indeterminate.

Canada Strikes Give Postmen A Holiday

OTTAWA (UPI)—More than 3,000 Canadian postal workers had the day off Tuesday, 2,320 on strikes called by their unions and another 893 locked out by the government.

The strikes, called by the National Council of Postal Unions, hit 36 post offices and 15 postal stations. The lockouts affected 37 post offices.

PRIMARY SCHOOL CENSUS TO DIP

There isn't any urgent need for additional classrooms in the primary grades in the San Rafael Elementary School District with a decline in enrollment expected in the next three years.

Supt. John F. Plank gave that report last night to the San Rafael Board of Education during a discussion of planning a building program.

Board members pondered the implications of a declining enrollment and limited funds on the building program, including the middle school concept and use of school sites.

Plank estimated elementary district enrollment would decline about 3 per cent a year until the 1973-74 school year when it would level off at about 4,400 pupils.

Elementary enrollment at 4,785 during the last school year is expected to dip to 4,645 in 1970-71, 4,510 in 1971-72 and 4,385 in 1973-74.

The expected drop of elementary district pupils "raised the possibility of consolidating attendance areas and closing an elementary school to reduce overhead expenses," Plank said.

Board members mentioned the possibility of selling a 9.7-acre elementary school site at Riviera and Biscayne drives, Peacock Gap, purchased last year at a cost of $190,001.

Concerning middle schools, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, Plank said an additional school wouldn't be needed.

The district has a site for a third middle school at Glenwood, but that proposal was shelved after voters twice rejected bond proposals for the school last year.

Plank said there was $360,000 in elementary district bond funds available for building, and a shop is needed at Santa Venetia Middle School and a music building at Davidson Junior High School.

Architect Chester Bowles Jr., of Marshall and Bowles of San Francisco, estimated the shop would cost $100,000 and the music building $100,000.

Miscellaneous projects at other elementary schools, such as modernizing the lighting at West End School and improving grounds, would cost about $60,000, said Plank.

"This would leave about $100,000 in bond funds," Bowles said. This $100,000 could be used to remodel Santa Venetia Middle School to function as an "open are" middle school, or it could be used to add five classrooms each to Santa Venetia and Davidson schools.

With both the shop and additional classrooms the capacity of Santa Venetia Middle School would be increased from 400 to 675.

With both the music room and additional classrooms, the capacity of Davidson Junior High would be increased from 720 to 880, Bowles said.

With additional classrooms at Santa Venetia and Davidson schools, each could accommodate the expected middle school enrollment.

Board member John C. Pfeiffer felt that Davidson Junior High should remain a seventh and eighth grade school. "Since Santa Venetia started the Middle School program, let's make it a real middle school, and open enrollment there."

Board members agreed that without comment from faculty members and adinistrators on the choices before them they would postpone any decisions as to which direction to take in building.

Board members reviewed an "open plan" for a building designed to replace the old building at Laurel Dell Primary School, which does not meet the Field Act standards regarding earthquake resistance.

Architect Richard C. Marshall explained the unit would contain two classrooms, a library and offices. The new building is expected to cost about $90,000 and the complete project about $140,000, Marshall said.

Enrollment in the San Rafael High School District, Superintendent Plank told the board, is expected to increase three per cent a year for the next three cent and then level off. The present capacity of San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools can accommodate that small growth, he said.

Board To Pay $37.50 For Peace Signs

San Rafael Board of Education last night agreed to pay the Student-Faculty Coalition at San Rafael $37.50 for loss of material and labor resulting from confiscation of peace signs at graduation ceremonies last month.

The coalition has been seeking $65 for materials and labor and $500 punitive loss, but the board ruled punitive damages as out of its jurisdiction.

The signs were confiscated just before the graduation ceremonies, when the students were told they wouldn't be permitted. The coalition contended that only 33 of 150 signs were returned.

The $37.50 was a compromise among board members with Board Member Lawrence I. Kramer ready to pay $50 and Board President Herman L. Childress favoring a $25 payment.

Supt. John F. Plank said Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino had advised that the board legally could make restitution by negotiation. The alternative would be to "go to lawyers," Plank commented.

About a dozen students attending the session made no comment when the board approved the $37.50 payment.

The San Rafael Board of Education also:

HIRING — Authorized the hiring of Lea Anderson, crafts teacher, high school district, at $6,275 a year; Linda Ballati, girls physical education, high school district, $7,844; and Robert Hixson, intermediate grades teacher, elementary district, $7,844.

COMMUNITY — Adopted a revised policy on community relations which calls for a standing San Rafael City Schools Citizens Advisory Committee, composed of 30 residents, 15 nominated by the board, and one nominated by each school parent-teacher organization.

MEETING SCHEDULE — Adjourned until 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Administration Building, Third and E Streets, for a special meeting on goals and curriculum. The next regular meeting and public hearing on elementary and high school district budgets will be at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday, and the second regular meeting in August at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 25 at the Administration Building.

CHANGE ORDER — Approved a change order in the San Rafael High School gymnasium rehabilitation project at a cost of $471.

HANDBOOK — Approved a revised handbook for nonteaching employees, which Supt. John F. Plank said contained "relatively minor changes."

BOARD'S ROLE — Reviewed a proposed revised policy on by-laws of the board, with comment from Board Member Lawrence I. Kramer Jr. that it should mention the board's responsibility "to consider new ways of education."

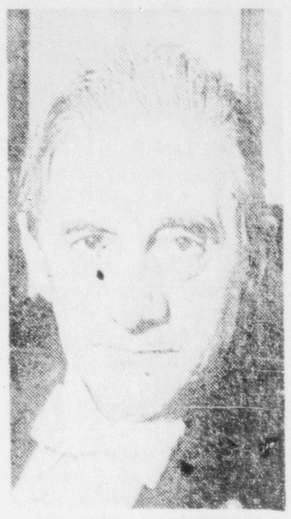
Board members Paul L. Jones and Carl J. Brown were absent.

History Panel For Mill Valley

The Mill Valley Library Association has formed a group to interview persons with a knowledge of Mill Valley history.

Called the oral History Committee, the group has conducted and tape recorded seven interviews. Persons interested in helping with the work of the committee may write to it at the Mill Valley Public Library, 375 Throckmorton Avenue.

The tapes probably will be used as part of Mill Valley's 70th birthday celebration in September and ultimately will become part of a permanent archive at the library devoted to Mill Valley history, according to Gail Weber, committee member.



SIR JOHN BARBIROLLI
World-wide conductor

Sir John Barbirolli Dies At 70

LONDON (UPI)—Sir John Barbirolli, conductor-in-chief of Britain's Halle Orchestra, died Tuesday night. He was 70.

The former New York conductor had been under medical treatment since collapsing during a rehearsal May 29.

Music consumed his life from his first stint as a conductor at the age of 11 until his death.

His greatest fame came in England when he resigned as conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in 1943 to reorganize the relatively weak Halle Orchestra in Manchester.

The son of an Italian father and a French mother, Barbirolli was born over a bread shop in London in 1899. His father, a wandering musician, was leading a theater orchestra in London at the time.

In 1924, he founded the Barbirolli string orchestra of 12 players, and sky-rocketed to fame.

He was known as a man who preferred musical notes to monetary notes. This became clear in 1934 when he left his $30,000-a-year position in New York to join the Manchester Orchestra for $12,000.

A man proud of his British origins, Barbirolli frequently mentioned his cockney background. He was knighted for his music in 1949.

After 15 years at the helm of the Halle, Sir John became its principal conductor, an arrangement that freed him to accept other engagements. In 1967, his title was changed to Conductor Laureate for life.

In 1960, he traveled to Texas to succeed Leopold Stokowski as conductor-in-chief of the Houston Symphony Orchestra.

He is survived by his wife, Lady Barbirolli, who is well-known professionally as the oboist Evelyn Rothwell.

College Considers Override Tax Levy

If voters in the Marin Junior College District reject a proposed tax rate and bond issue election in November, the district could meet operating and capital needs by levying override taxes that might climb as high as $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation, the district board was told last night.

With capital projects planned for the new north campus and the Kentfield campus totaling $25 million in the next five years, the override tax needed for pay-as-you-go financing would fluctuate widely up to the $1.35 figure, Business Mgr. Norman Bird said.

What the board is considering is a two-part proposal for the November ballot — one for a $17 million bond issue and the other for a 15-cent or 25-cent tax rate increase to meet general operating costs.

The bond issue would cost from 19 cents to 12 cents a year over a 25-year amortization period, a table drawn by the county auditor's office showed.

But the board got bad news from Auditor Michael Mitchell about a bond election. Until the U.S. Supreme Court rules on it, the recent state Supreme Court ruling that bond issues need only a simple majority will not apply to bond elections, Mitchell wrote.

The U.S. court is unlikely to rule before next spring, and the ruling probably will not be retroactive, so an election before that which failed to get a two-thirds majority would lose, Mitchell wrote. The bond counsel firm of Orrick, Herrington, Rowley and Sutcliffe has indicated it will not approve sale of any bonds approved by less than a two-thirds vote until the U.S. court ruling.

Projects which could be financed by the $17 million bond issue and matching state and federal funds were listed by Planning Director Dale A. Fleming.

Projects for 1971-72 would total $263,600 for planning, minor projects, and remodeling of Olney Hall and the chemistry and business buildings.

The 1972-73 total would balloon to $12.3 million for initial construction on the north campus and $2.9 million for work at Kentfield including remodeling and rehabilitation of the library, engineering and industrial arts buildings and art building, reclaiming marshland, expanding parking, a corporation yard, site development, and land acquisition.

In 1973-74 $2.3 million would be spent on the north college for equipping initial facilities, buying library books, planning, and creating parking spaces. At Kentfield, $1.7 million would go for building a classroom center, athletic expansion including bleachers and field lights, site development and minor projects.

In 1974-75 another $2.8 million would go into the north college for the second increment of facilities and site development, and $1 million at Kentfield for classroom construction, land acquisition, physical education facilities and planning.

In 1975-76 north campus investment would drop to $523,000 for equipment, parking, and planning. Kentfield outlay would be $1.2 million for an administration center, planetarium, site development and land acquisition.

The trustees discussed three ballot proposals, but were unable to decide among them. Trustee Harry J. Moore objected they were too long, saying the voter would vote no rather than read through them.

The board also reached no decision on whether to seek the new tax rate increase for an indefinite period or a fixed term.

Supt.-President John A. Grasham listed advantages and disadvantages of each. The indefinite term has distinct advantages for district long-range planning, but trustees were pessimistic about chances of the voters approving an indefinite term.

For its first year, the district tax rate would drop since the ballot proposal is for a 25-cent or 15-cent increase, while the present 35-cent special levy is due to expire in 1972.

The board agreed to take up the discussion again Thursday, when a special meeting is scheduled at 8 p.m. to discuss equipping the new science center. The equipment discussion will end at 9 p.m. and the financing taken up again then, Grasham said. The meeting will be in the testing office of the business center.

The board canceled a scheduled tour of the science center and Harlan Center, both under construction, which was to start at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow. The tour

Quintet Will Play Sunday In Mill Valley

The San Francisco Woodwind Quintet and guest violist David Smiley will present a free public chamber music concert Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Mill Valley Public Library.

Works by Danzi, Holst, Nielsen, Etler, Debussy and Liadov will be performed.

Active in chamber music more than ten years, the quintet is composed of Gary Gray, flute, James Matheson, oboe; Frealon Bibbins, clarinet; Raymond Ojeda, bassoon; and Robert Dickow, French horn. Four play with the San Francisco Symphony, and all play in the San Francisco Opera Orchestra.

Also a member of the San Francisco Symphony and Opera Orchestras, Smiley, who lives in Mill Valley, has been with the Bloch String Quartet four years and was leader of the Golden Gate String Quartet.

Music for Sunday's concert is provided through the cooperation of Local 6 of the American Federation of Musicians, AFL-CIO.

Plea Date Set In Check Case

Richard Anthony Alonzo, 18, of no known address, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on two counts of possessing checks with intent to defraud others.

Alonzo was arrested last Thursday when he went to the San Rafael police station to ask if there were any warrants out for him and it turned out there were.

He is accused of cashing checks at a San Rafael tavern that had been stolen from an attorney.

His case was continued to Aug. 11 for entry of plea.

Woman Given $50,000 For Cable Car Mishap

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission has decided to pay Gloria Sykes $50,000 for the cable car accident in which she claimed to have been made sexually aggressive.

"It could have been worse," said one member of the commission after it voted to pay off rather than fight the case in a higher court. A Superior Court jury last April awarded the 34-year-old woman the damages. She had sued for $500,000.

PUC Approves Grade Crossing In Corte Madera

The state Public Utilities Commission yesterday approved Corte Madera's application for a railroad grade crossing which will provide access to a large bayfront area scheduled for future development.

The PUC order authorizes a 64-foot wide crossing at Tamalpais and San Clemente drives, marked with crossing signs.

Arthur N. Morrison, Corte Madera public works director, said the crossing and street will be built by Dominic Muzzi, owner of the area. Development plan for Muzzi's land, known as the Westshore Plan, has been approved in principle by the town but needs further authorization by town and regional authorities before development. The plan calls for a resort motel and industrial park, a marina, a convalescent hospital, residential development and a park or golf course.

Once built, the grade crossing is to be maintained by the town and Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

MUSIC REVIEW

Marin's Double Duo Makes Fine Evening

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

What was started several years ago by the Marin Double Duo as "music for a summer evening" was even better music for a summer evening last night in a larger ensemble, the Marin Chamber Players, at the Fine Arts Theater of the College of Marin.

The original duo, composed of the husband-wife teams of violinist Charles Meacham, pianist Robaline Meacham, violist Lucien Mitchell and cellist Jean Mitchell, is still the basic part of the group. Added as guest artists for this concert, presented by the College of Marin Music Department, were soprano Margot Power and violinist Michael Gerling.

Highlight of the evening for me was the concluding quartet, Opus 7, by Schumann, performed by the double duo. Having played together for many years, this group shows the results in its highly polished style, perfect balance and sensitive rapport.

The quartet was romantic chamber music at its finest. Especially outstanding were the second movement, a scherzo-molto vivace, with marvelous precision achieved in its airy grace, and the third movement, an andante cantabile, in which each of the stringed instruments was in turn a featured singer almost as lyrical as the human voice.

Romanticism at its best was the son "Il Tramonte" (The Sunset) by Respighi, with text by Shelley accompanied by string quartet. Miss Power was so successful in expressing the emotional lyricism of this song that it did not matter if one did not understand the Italian words, since she had briefly explained the theme. Her effortlessly floated, sustained pianissimo passages were a delight.

Though she was equally successful in interpretation of mood in her opening group of seven Shakespeare songs set to music by Thomas Augustine Arne, the words could not always be understood. This may have been due to indistinct diction or to an accoustical problem caused by the deadening effect of stage curtains instead of a resonating surface in back of the performers. The songs were effectively accompanied by the two violins, cello and harpsichord played by Mrs. Meacham.

Quite a contrast with the rest of the program in its more modern and astringent sound was the duo for viola and violoncello by Walter Piston, performed by the Mitchells. Attention was focused in the andante sereno on the rich tone produced on these low-voiced instruments and in the allegro brilliant on the technical facility of the musicians.

Kean shot.

* If you saw this in the I-J you saw a national prizewinning photograph

He clicked

This "Kean shot" was taken by Jim Kean, I-J Staff Photographer, who has been known to crack a pun himself. The judges made these comments about it: "Jim Kean's lively action shot, 'Winners,' in the Independent-Journal tells the story. It is clear and sharp in detail and has a great deal of human interest." Which means it definitely is a "Kean shot."

This photograph, which hardly needs words to explain it, was judged second award-winner in the recent National Better Newspaper Contest under the classification, "Best Feature Picture." Obviously, it's a split-second shot. But behind it are years of experience, knowing where and how to look . . . part of the job of being an I-J Staff Photographer.

The point is that the I-J continually strives to bring you a better newspaper. Better news coverage, better articles, better features, and by the decision of highly-qualified judges, better photography.

Keeping pace with the I-J's talent are technological advances which place it among the leaders in the entire country.

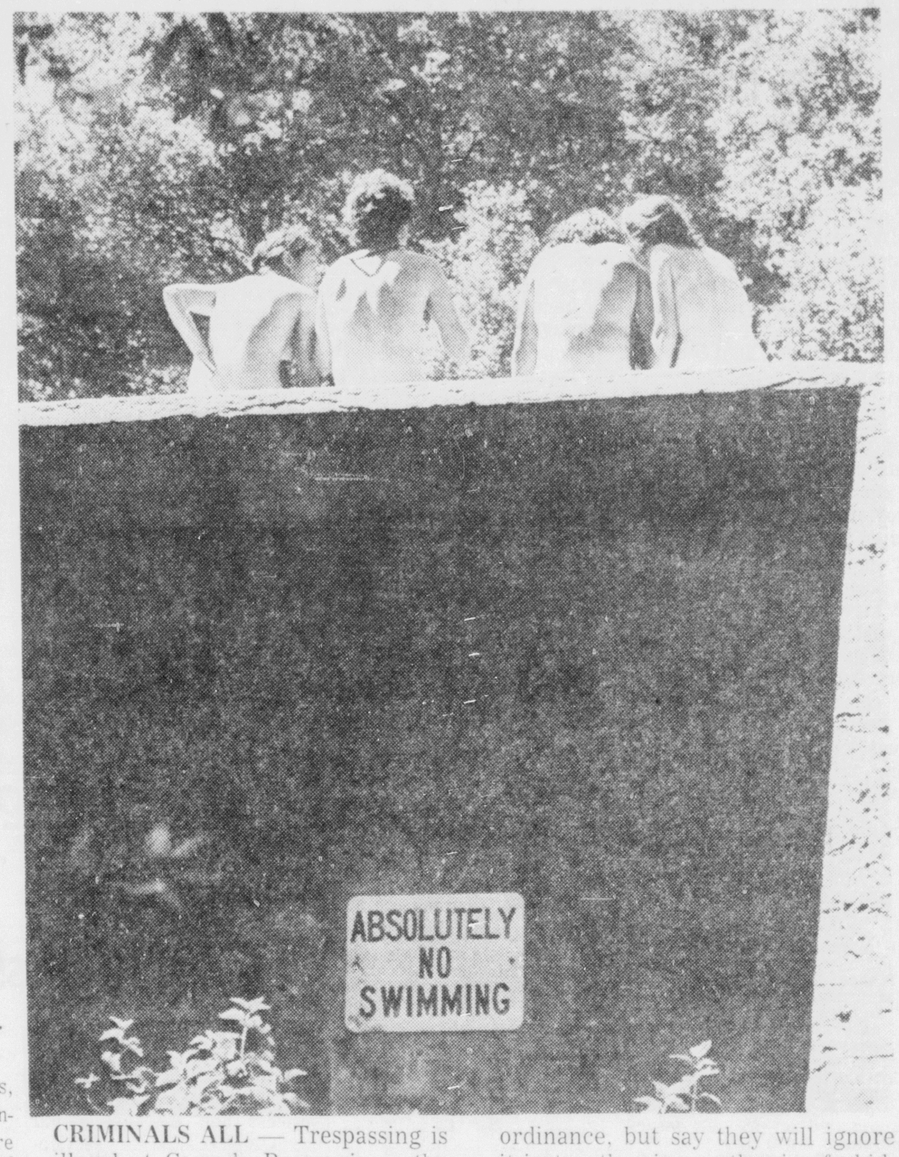
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1970 21

LOOK OUT BELOW — A youth plummets toward the cool waters of Cascade Reservoir as another swims to get out of his way. Young people have been skinny-dipping at the lake since 1890, when the dam was built.



CRIMINALS ALL — Trespassing is illegal at Cascade Reservoir as the result of an emergency ordinance passed July 20, but no one has told these youths. They and most others who use the dam are unaware of the ordinance, but say they will ignore it just as they ignore the sign forbidding swimming.

New Ideas At Ol' Swimmin' Hole

By GEORGE NEVIN

From all over the Bay Area they come to Mill Valley's Cascade Reservoir. Most of them are young, have long hair and like to smoke marijuana and swim in the nude.

They come from all over California and the East Coast as well. And they say they won't stop coming just because the city council has declared them personae non gratae.

Cascade Dam, with its tiny lake and luxuriant forest, has been a sore point with Cascade Canyon residents and the city council since it was annexed to Mill Valley in 1960.

There are many minor issues, but the crux of the problem is fire — people at the dam are careless with campfires (illegal) and cigarettes, say residents who feel that a major conflagration is inevitable as long as the public is allowed access.

The other issues include traffic congestion, nudity, pot smoking, sanitation problems and pollution of the lake. But it was the fire issue to which the city council reacted when it adopted an emergency ordinance July 20 barring the public from the dam.

Enforcement of the ordinance has been delayed while the parks and recreation department fabricates signs. Only after they are posted will The police department begin making arrests.

In the meantime, the reservoir is being used as it has been since the dam was built in 1890. About 20 freaks (as they call themselves) gathered at the dam the other day and gave the area the appearance of a scene from Huckleberry Finn.

Young, brown bodies covered the dam and a small sandpit. A few adventurous youths swung high over the water and dropped in. One young man climbed to the top of a tall tree and executed a perfect swan dive.

Talking with them yields the impression that the city council — which did not sound them out before passing the emergency ordinance — and the young people are like two radios going in a room, both broadcasting and neither receiving.

To a person, habitues of the reservoir said they can understand the need for caution with fire and would not start one if asked not to.

"The woods are beautiful. We don't want to burn them down," said a girl, who moments before had been swimming naked.

A young man said that "all they would have to do would be to post signs saying, 'Critical Fire Danger,' and people wouldn't build fires." He said he thought that young people would volunteer to patrol the area if the fire danger were explained to them.

David Rose, a 26-year-old San Francisco man, said that "the kind of people that come here wouldn't make fires if they were asked not to do so. Most of us don't smoke, so I don't think much of the fire hazard."

Donald Rubin, 18, a visitor from Los Angeles, admitted that responsibility is needed on both sides.

"Kids should be careful with fires and make concessions, too. If they (the city council and the residents) are willing to go half way, we should go half way, too," Rubin said.

The young people suggested solutions to other problems disturbing residents:

The hodgepodge of cars parked on Cascade Drive and Lovell Avenue: "Put in a small parking lot, or make people walk from town, or encourage bicycles."

Sanitation: "A few portable toilets would do it."

Contamination of the reservoir: "Everything is contaminated. Mothers' milk is contaminated. We don't think a healthy person will get sick from swimming here."

Nudity: "Put up a sign saying, 'Welcome to Cascade Reservoir, take off your clothes if you like, but at least don't be offended if others do.'"

As for the danger of drowning in the lake (two San Franciscans have died in the last 13 months), the youths feel that everything in life is dangerous. "If people are going to be careless with themselves and get drunk (William A. Guttmann was said to have been drinking before he drowned July 10), there's no way to prevent them from hurting themselves," said Peter Grossbad, 17, of Los Angeles.

Of the 20 or so at the dam Friday, only two said they wouldn't have gone there if they had known it was illegal. The others said they would continue to use the park even after the 'no trespassing' signs are posted.

"I live to break the law," said a long-haired youth who appeared to be in his early 20s. "Everything I do is against the law."

Another youth, who called himself Black Pirate and said that he lives in the woods on Mount Tamalpais, admitted that he wasn't aware of the new law but said it would not have made any difference. "I'll just come here when there's no one around," he said.

He laughed when told that he was violating three ordinances — being at the dam, being naked and swimming in the lake. "Let's break the law," he shouted as he dove into the clear green water.

A quick poll of 10 others disclosed that only one knew he wasn't supposed to be there. The others had no idea.

"The basic thing isn't fires, but freedom," one youth ventured. "We're doing things here that they (the councilmen and residents) don't dare do. The only way for them to relax about what goes on up here is for them to take their clothes off and join us.

Protesting American Prisoners' Treatment Doesn't Cost Much

It is easy to protest against the treatment of American prisoners of war by North Vietnam; it costs only 25 cents, and enough such protests may benefit the prisoners, according to Mrs. A.C. Anderson Jr., executive director of the Marin County Red Cross chapter.

The Red Cross is making a national campaign to get Americans to write Hanoi about the treatment of prisoners and the refusal to identify them or allow them to communicate with their families.

Mrs. Anderson offered the following suggestions:

"What to say: Express your concern for our men captive or missing in action. Ask for the identification of prisoners and for their humane treatment. Express the hope that prisoners will be allowed to correspond with their families. Ask that a neutral agent such as the Red Cross be allowed to inspect prisons, and remind that North Vietnam is bound by the Geneva Conventions to do these things, and that North Vietnam agreed to these conventions and signed them in 1957."

The letters should be addressed to: Office of the President, Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, North Vietnam.

The 25 cents is for an airmail stamp to carry the letter to Hanoi.

More Drunken Drivers

HELSINKI (UPI) — Finns are combining drinking with driving in increasing numbers. A study by police indicated authorities arrested 7,981 drunken drivers in 1969, a 22 per cent jump over 1968.

Audience Sought On Bypass Work

The Novato City Council last night requested a hearing before the California Highway Commission to ask for a speedup of the Highway 101 bypass project. (Another Novato Council story, page 1)

The request came after the council heard a report from a Division of Highways spokesman that the project, designed for completion in November, could be delayed until the third quarter of 1971.

Deputy District Engineer Leo J. Trombatore told the council that cutbacks in federal and state highway funds amounting to almost a third of the money programmed for the district caused the change in the bid advertising schedule.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack's proposal that the council request an audience with the highway commission to request a speedup of the project was approved, and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown was directed to attempt to obtain a hearing on the Sept. 18 and 19 commission agenda.

Womack also said that the council — which recently proposed moving the Atherton Avenue interchange of the bypass 200 feet north of site proposed by the Division of Highways — should not be responsible for causing further delays in the project, not even to get the access changes proposed.

Trombatore said that the highways division felt that the Atherton Avenue off-ramp in the present bypass design was adequate for traffic expected in 1990 and that changes could be made after completion of the project if the ramp was found inadequate.

He said he estimated the cost of the changes proposed to the division at $1 million and that he did not believe the changes could be carried out by a contract change order and therefore would delay completion of the project.

Councilman George C. Quesada challenged the $1 million cost figure for the change, and was told the cost figures were open to his examination.

PARK BOND — Passed a resolution of intention to hold a bond election for the acquisition and improvement of land for a community park and completion of Pioneer Memorial Park. What property to be acquired, the amount for the bond issue and date for the election were not specified. Placement of the issue on the regular November ballot and holding of a special election, possibly on Sept. 29, were discussed. Most discussion contemplated an $850,000 issue to purchase the O'Hair property at Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue.

DOWNTOWN PLAN — Set for Aug. 3 at 8 p.m. at Hill School a joint meeting of the council, the downtown study committee appointed by the council and the planning commission to discuss the comprehensive downtown development plan prepared by Sedway and Cooke consultants.

FISCAL REPORT — Received a preliminary report from Brown that fiscal 1969-70 revenues exceeded expectations by $145,000 plus $20,000 for planning and capital improvements, and that expenditures were $57,000 less than budgeted for the year.

CHASE-CHERRY — Accepted a $82,828 bid by Forde Construction Co. for the Chase and Cherry streets construction project, with the alternate asphalt concrete base and surfacing construction. Next lowest bid received was $3,827 higher.

LITTER LAW — Set for Aug. 11 at 8 p.m. public hearing on a proposed ordinance to control depositing of litter on public and private property and distribution of handbills.

INTERIM DIRECTOR — Named Brown interim finance director, pending hiring of a permanent director.

STRIKE — Directed Brown to prepare a resolution recommending that San Francisco Typographical Union 21 and the San Rafael Independent-Journal attempt mediation or submit to binding arbitration to settle the 29-week-old strike against the newspaper. The action was requested by Rev. James E. Symons of St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church of Mill Valley.

ZONING — Introduced a resolution to classify as single family residential three parcels of property overlooked when other annexed properties were zoned in April. The lots are located at the north end of Fabian Court, between Sutro and St. Francis avenues.

ANNEXATION — Annexed the Wilson Avenue properties of John Kelly and Daniel Wise.

BAHIA UNIT TWO — Approved a final subdivision map of the Bahia Unit Two housing development, consisting of ridge lots between Laguna Vista and Cerro Crest drives, after hearing a report from planning director Brian Mattson that the developer had acceded to three conditions imposed by the planning commission.

BAHIA UNIT 1B — Authorized Brown to execute grant deeds for sewer line easements in the Bahia Unit 1B development, lowlands surrounding the Andale Avenue and Malobar Drive cul-de-sacs, and to execute a 90-day extension of the city's agreement with the developer for completion of sidewalk replacement and miscellaneous work on the project.

COW BARN — Approved without discussion the master plan of the Cow Barn apartments on South Novato Boulevard.

JOINT POWERS — Authorized Brown to execute a continuation of the city's senior citizens joint powers agreement with Marin County under which the county will provide $2,000 for the senior citizens recreation program in exchange for opening of senior citizen activities to all Marin senior citizens.

SURPLUS — Declared six 1965 and 1967 sedans and two trucks surplus to the city's needs and authorized their sale by sealed bid at minimum prices ranging from $200 to $900.

SCOWN LAND — Postponed until Aug. 11 awarding of the contract for the Scown Land improvement project.

Dixie Board Accepts Principal Resignation

The Dixie School District board last night accepted the resignation of Robert Schierbeck, principal of Dixie School.

Schierbeck resigned to take the post of director of instruction in the Sunnyvale School District.

The board scheduled a meeting for Aug. 17 at which it will probably appoint a successor to Schierbeck, Asst. Supt. Joseph B. Goff reported.

He said Supt. Clifford W. Campbell and John King, district personnel director, will interview candidates prior to the meeting.

The board hopes to make the appointment from the district staff, Goff said, adding that the board will probably meet in closed session to discuss the appointment prior to the Aug. 17 meeting.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

CONTRACT 8 authorized a contract with the Marin County Schools Office for audio-visual services for the 1970-71 school year at a cost to the district of $8,347.

FUNDS — Approved borrowing up to $700,000 from the county to carry the district through the summer and early fall until receipt of local tax funds.

FENCE — Awarded to the Abel Fence Co. of San Rafael a $2,210 contract for fencing the Indian mound at Miller Creek School. Goff said $1,220 for the project has already been raised by the Miwok Archaeological Preserve of Marin.

RAISE — Approved a salary increase to meet new union wage scales for the district's master painter, Harold Hoipkemeier of 215 Baltimore Avenue, Corte Madera, from $785 to $850 a month.

MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday for a public hearing on the 1970-71 budget.

Smuggling Aliens Nets $700 Fine

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—A Torrance aerospace technician was fined $700 Tuesday as a condition of five years probation for smuggling Mexican aliens into the United States.

The sentence was imposed in U.S. District Court against Jack Gerritsen, 34, who admitted smuggling 21 aliens across the border in three separate trips.

He was arrested May 14 in South San Diego after being stopped by a policeman for traveling on the freeway with high headlight beams.

A search of Gerritsen's camper disclosed 11 aliens inside.

Quinn College Hit By Blazes

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—Students and a group of "outsiders" set fire to three buildings on the campus of Paul Quinn College Tuesday night and early today and then threw rocks at firemen when they tried to extinguish the blaze.

S. B. Rutland, president of the all-Negro school, ordered classes suspended and all students out of the dormitories. School officials said 400 students were attending summer classes and that there is a normal enrollment of 600 during the regular term.

No students were injured in the disturbance, but two firemen were hurt. One was overcome by smoke fighting the fire, and another was struck by a rock.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Challenge To War Fails In Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An Assembly committee Tuesday decided the Indochina conflict is none of the legislature's business and defeated a bill prohibiting California servicemen from being required to fight in undeclared foreign wars.

Opponents of the measure by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, charged it would open "a Pandora's Box" which would allow all states to challenge the authority of the federal government.

The bill was based on a law recently enacted by the Massachusetts Legislature. The law is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

California servicemen, under the Vasconcellos bill, would be prohibited from serving in an undeclared foreign war such as the one in Vietnam.

The Vasconcellos bill and a similar measure by Assemblyman Bill Greene, D-Los Angeles, died on a 7-11 vote of the Ways and Means Committee with one Republican supporting the plan.

Democratic supporters made a futile effort to keep it alive by asking the committee to reconsider its action.

Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Piedmont, initially voted for the bill. But he and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who said he favored it but was absent when the first vote was taken, could not return to the committee to support the move to keep the bill alive.

Bagley was on the Senate Floor all afternoon working for passage of the governor's tax passage.

The measure was intended to support the Massachusetts attempt to have the Supreme Court rule on the constitutionality of American involvement in the Vietnam war.

But the propriety of the legislature involving itself in national foreign policy was questioned by Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, committee chairman.

they conform with our stringent water quality laws."

The administration-sponsored bill placing the issue on the ballot was carried in the legislature by Assemblyman Carley Porter, D-Compton, chairman of the Assembly Water Committee.

The bond act would change the present local-federal funding formula which requires cities to raise two-thirds of the money needed for sewage treatment facilities while the federal government supplies one-third.

Under the measure, cities would put up only 20 per cent of the funds while the state provides 25 per cent and the federal government 55 per cent.

SEWAGE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill placing on the November ballot a $250 million bond issue designed to help local communities improve municipal sewage treatment plants was signed Tuesday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

If approved by voters, the bond issue could generate $1 billion over the next five years, including $550 million in federal matching funds and another $200 million raised at the local level.

"This new measure escalates even further our fight against water pollution," Reagan said at a bill-signing ceremony in his office.

The governor said it would help communities increase efforts "to end water pollution by upgrading municipal sewage treatment programs so that

Man Wounds Finger While Cleaning Gun

James F. Bell of 124 Park Street, San Rafael, was treated Monday at Marin General Hospital for a gunshot wound in a finger of his left hand, the hospital reported today.

Bell, according to the hospital, apparently was cleaning a firearm at his home at 7 p.m. when the weapon accidently discharged.

LOAN RATES

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill allowing personal loan firms to raise interest rates on certain loans today reached Gov. Ronald Reagan after gaining final legislative approval.

The measure by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton, was passed Tuesday by the Senate on a 22-5 vote.

It would boost the current rate of 12 per cent a year on loans between $700 and $1,500 to 18 per cent a year.

Personal loan brokers need the higher interest rates in order to obtain lending money in the current tight money market, Briggs earlier told the Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee.

The higher rate would boost the interest on 543,000 loans a year in California, based on reported loans made in 1968, committee experts said.

'AMERICA WEEK'

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The legislature has asked Gov. Ronald Reagan to proclaim June 28-July 5 as "God Bless America Week" in California.

The Senate, on a 30-0 vote Tuesday, gave final legislative approval to the resolution by Assemblyman E. Richard Barnes, R-San Diego, and sent it to the governor.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Senate Passed

Taxes—Provides most of the financing for local property tax relief, including increases in the sales and income taxes. (AB1000—Bagley, R-San Rafael. 23-14. Returned to Assembly for concurrence in Senate amendments.)

2 Appraisers To Weigh Cotati School

Cotati School District trustees, looking forward to sale of the Cotati School, last night approved employment of two appraisers to evaluate the property.

The appraisal cost was estimated at $1,500. Most interest in purchase of the building on West Sierra Avenue has been expressed by the Cotati City Council.

City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen has been instructed to negotiate with the school district for purchase of the building for a new city hall.

The Cotati School District board also:

BOUNDARY — Heard that legal procedures to enlarge the district boundary lines might have to begin anew. The Sonoma County counsel's office noted that the two residents of the area to be annexed signed the original petition, but have since moved away.

APPLICATION — Approved an application for $16,245 from the federal government for remedial reading and mathematics programs.

BUDGET — Set a public hearing on the 1970-71 budget for Aug. 4 at 8 p.m. The regular board meeting will be held after the hearing. The Aug. 11 meeting was canceled.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of teacher Melanie Johnson, who will be leaving the country.

Woman's Condition Reported Critical

Theresa Jean Harris, 52, of 1704 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was reported in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital suffering from undisclosed medical complications.

Mrs. Harris was found unconscious at her home at about 10 p.m. yesterday by her husband, Joseph Wendell Harris, who phoned police for help, officers said.

Probers Continue Sonoma State Job

The investigating team from the State College Chancellor's Office today continued its study of possible mismanagement at Sonoma State College.

Yesterday and last night, the six-man team headed by Dr. Thomas H. McGrath, assistant executive vice chancellor, interviewed leaders of the college's three-county service area to sample opinions.

Dr. James B. Enochs, Sonoma State vice president, asked full cooperation from the campus so that all facts could be made known.

The team was dispatched to the campus by Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke to review utilization of facilities, faculty teaching loads, academic planning, accreditation, grading practices, fiscal management and administrative procedures.

One of the persons interviewed yesterday was Eugene Benedetti of Petaluma, president of Friends of Sonoma State College.

Benedetti said today that his organization did not request the investigation. He said that he and others from Marin and Sonoma counties formed an ad hoc committee of concerned citizens and had issued a statement earlier to the chancellor and state college trustees on improvements that might be made at the school.

In it, the men questioned the curriculum, utilization of physical and personnel resources and said a strong administrator would be needed to correct some irregularities.

Benedetti said the prime concern of the group was to be sure that the college would maintain its accreditation.

"We're all much in love with the school and don't want anything to happen to it," Benedetti said. "It's a tremendous asset," he added.

Posthumous Awards To A Woodacre GI

The family of a 19-year-old Woodacre soldier killed March 8 in South Vietnam yesterday received three medals awarded posthumously to their son.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius P. Goeree of 21 Madrone Avenue said today their son, Win Goeree, was awarded the Bronze Star, the Good Conduct Medal and the Air Medal with two oak leaf clusters by an Army representative during ceremonies at their home.

A citation accompanying the medals said young Goeret had "distinguished himself by outstanding meritorous service in connection with ground operations against a hostile force" between Dec. 8, 1969 and March 8, 1970.

The awards were presented to the soldier's parents by Second Lt. Linda M. Kahelin of the survivore assistance office at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Goeree, a door-gunner in an assualt helicopter unit stationed at Ban Me Thuot, died when a helicopter he was riding crashed from undetermined causes at Quang Duc.

His death is listed by the Army as "not as a result of hostile action."

L. Charles Smith Picked As Coordinator For Youth

The appointment of L. Charles Smith, deputy probation officer, as coordinator for the Marin County Youth Commission and Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission was announced last night at a meeting of the youth group.

Smith, 32, will succeed Gwen M. Monroe, on leave from the California Youth Authority, who is departing Aug. 15.

Smith, who lives at 2440 Center Road, Novato, with his wife and four children, has been working for the county probation department for four years as group councelor and deputy probation officer. Most recently, he was in charge of intensive supervision of problem youths at Juvenile Hall.

A graduate of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Smith was dormitory counselor at San Rafael Military Academy and worked with juveniles at Sunny Hills before county employment.

As youth coordinator, he will get $1,111 per month. His present salary is $1,120.

Representatives of the two commissions interviewed seven applicants last Friday and chose Smith, who was introduced to the youth group last night.

The youth group also considered applicants to fill two commission vacancies. Ann O'Rielly of Mill Valley and Ann Elliott of Ross have resigned because of college attendance. Names suggested to the board of supervisors for appointment were George Kewin, Sheila Maloney and Nick Harris, all of Supervisorial District 3 (Southern Marin) and Carol McClure, Dorie Nichols and Kirk Pessner, all of Supervisorial District 2 (Ross Valley.)

Marinwood Panel Hikes Firemen Aid

The Marinwood Community Services District board last night added $300 to its fire department budget for 1970-71, bringing the department's budget to $85,330 and the total district budget to $202,465.

Proposed allocations of $11,930 for street lights and $105,205 for parks and recreation were left unchanged, Genevieve T. Bolding, business manager and secretary of the district, reported.

Mrs. Bolding said the $300 added will be to increase life insurance coverage of regular and volunteer firemen. She said the district may pay the full $341 premium if funds are available when the payment is due Dec. 1.

The Marinwood Communtiy Services District board also:

COMMISSION — Appointed Kirk Beales of 11 Mount Burney Court an alternate member of the Marinwood Fire Commission.

FUNDS — Approved an agreement with the county under which the district and the county will each contribute $500 for a senior citizens program in the district.

PENSIONS — Put over until Aug. 25 discussion of possible pension plans for some employees and a work-study program contract with the College of Marin.

Bus With 50 Aboard 'Sinks'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A 24,000-pound bus loaded with 50 Japanese tourists broke through the thin pavement of a downtown hotel parking lot Tuesday night and then sank in a 10-foot-square hole.

No one was injured.

"All of a sudden there was a hole under me," said Elmer Henderson, driver of the Greyhound bus.

While Henderson's bus started to sink, two others loaded with Oregon tourists quickly pulled back.

Two 35-ton tow trucks pulled the bus out of the hole. The hole, said a tow truck owner, revealed an abandoned building basement.

More than 6,000 ships enter and leave the Los Angeles port each year.

Public Airing Blocked On ABAG Issue

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday squelched an attempt by Board Chairman Robert Theiller to hold a public hearing on possible withdrawal from membership in the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Theiller had scheduled a public hearing for Monday at 3 p.m., saying the board should hear public opinions on the value of ABAG and consider putting the membership question on the ballot in November.

Theiller has said he does not oppose the present form of ABAG, but feared it would turn into a regional form of government with taxing powers and become a threat to local control.

Supervisor Ignazio A. Vella of Sonoma, ABAG president, led the other four board members in opposing the public hearing and asked Theiller to consider alternates to ABAG membership before supporting a move to withdraw.

Vella, in a written statement, advised Theiller to clarify his position on the association as it is now constituted and to consult with representatives of the cities of Sonoma County on their feelings.

As to a new alliance for Sonoma County involving counties to the north, Vella suggested that Theiller get information from federal and state officials on whether a new group would be recognized to act as a clearing house for state and federal assistance funds.

Theiller said he would prepare a written response to Vella for presentation Monday afternoon.

Board Delays Huddle On Dredging Plan

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors called for another delay yesterday in considering conditions of the gravel dredging operation on the Russian River at Jenner.

The board had been scheduled to consider the conditions at its meeting next Tuesday, but put the matter off until Sept. 15 at 2 p.m.

County Counsel Richard Ramsey said his office had encountered great difficulty in preparing a report for the board. Ramsey said the task of consolidating the suggestions of the planning department, Northern California Aggrigates, the dredging firm, and the opposition Jenner Coalition had turned into a monumental job.

Ramsey said his office has been faced with six proposed drafts of conditions and needed more time to consolidate them and give legal opinions.

During public hearings which began in March, conservationists and the Jenner Coalition opposed the dredging operation, calling it a threat to the reportedly fragile ecology of the area.

Representatives of Northern California Aggregates promised the supervisors that all steps would be taken to avoid any ecological damage and agreed that reasonable safeguards could be incorporated into conditions of a use permit.

JENNER BAY — Approved a resolution permitting minimum lot frontages of 40 feet in the Jenner Bay development on the Russian River.

BIDS — Opened bids for widening and realignment of Petaluma Valley Ford Road, with the apparent low bidder Wise and McGinty of Sonoma at $170,268. The estimated project cost was $175,000.

HEARING — Set a public hearing for Sept. 1 at 2:15 p.m. to consider a planning commission recommendation to place Old Redwood Highway in Penngrove into a study district for one year.

Marin Court Will Probate Frouge Land

An 89-acre parcel of the Marincello property owned personally by the late Thomas Frouge, chairman of the board of Frouge Corp., who died in January 1969, will be probated in Marin Superior Court.

The remainder of the developer's estate is in probate in New York City where he died at the age of 54 following a heart transplant.

His heirs include his wife, three children and other relativts.

Frouge was president of the family corporation at the time the controversial $285 million Marincello planned community was proposed for 2,138 acres in the Marin Headlands.

Although the project finally won approval from the Marin Board of Supervisors in late 1965, no development has taken place. Lawsuits are still pending, and it is expected that Gulf Oil Corp. will emerge as owner of the property.

A suit by the City of Sausalito to void the plan approved by the supervisors is still in an appelate court and no development is expected until that is decided.

Court Upholds Convictions In

NEW YORK (UPI)—The U.S. Court of Appeals upheld Tuesday the mail fraud and conspiracy convictions of Salvatore "Bill" Bonanno, son of accused former Mafia chieftain Joseph "Joe Bananas" Bonanno, and his bodyguard, Peter Notaro.

Bonanno, 37, of San Jose, Calif., and Notaro, 52, of Tucson, Ariz., were convicted in November of using a stolen credit card. Bonanno was also convicted of perjury.

In March, the court sentenced Bonanno to four years in prison and fined him $10,000. Notaro received a one-year sentence and a $1,000 fine.

South Carolina produces less than one third of the beef consumed in the state.

CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NOVATO RESOLUTION NO. 38-70 RESOLUTION GIVING NOTICE OF PROPOSED ANNEXATION TO THE CITY OF NOVATO OF UNINHABITED TERRITORY DESCRIBED HEREIN AND DESIGNATED "WILSON AVENUE ANNEXATION NO. 4 AND GIVING NOTICE OF TIME AND PLACE FOR HEARING OF PROTESTS THERETO.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF NOVATO:

1. That it has come to the attention of the City Council of the City of Novato, and this Council finds, that it would be for the best interests of said City and of the residents of the contiguous area herein described to alter the boundaries of said City by annexing thereto and incorporating therein as a part thereof under the provisions of the annexation of Uninhabited Territory Act of 1939, as amended, certain property situated in the County of Marin, State of California, hereby designated "Wilson Avenue Annexation No.4", and described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and made a part hereof.

Legal Notice

2. The reasons why the City of Novato desires said annexation are as follows:

(a) Said territory because of its location and other features should be governed in its development by the same zoning and planning regulations which govern territory within the City of Novato.

(b) Because of its location, said territory will receive the benefit of and should therefore participate in supporting the municipal services of said city.

3. The City of Novato has heretofore filed with the Local Agency Annexation Commission of Marin County, a notice of intention to annex the territory more particularly described in Exhibit "A". Said notice contained the specific boundaries of the territory proposed to be annexed. The description of said territory was submitted to the Marin County Boundary Commission, and the attached description is in accordance with the report of said Commission. Thereafter, the Local Agency Annexation Commission of Marin County after public hearing did approve said proposed annexation.

4. That Tuesday, August 25, 1970, at the hour of 8:00 o'clock P.M., in the Council Chambers, Novato Community House, in the City of Novato, County of Marin, California, is hereby fixed as the time and place when and where any person owning real property within the uninhabited territory above described and proposed to be annexed to the City of Novato, and having any objections to the proposed annexation, may appear before the Council of the City of Novato and show cause why such uninhabited territory should not be so annexed to the City of Novato. The protest must be in writing, may be filed at any time before the hour set for hearing objections to the proposed annexation, and shall state the name or names of the owner or owners of property affected and the description and area of such property, in general terms.

5. The City Clerk of the City of Novato is hereby authorized and directed to cause a copy of this resolution to be published at least twice, but not oftener than once a week, in the Novato Advance, a newspaper of general circulation published in said City of Novato and in the Independent-Journal, a newspaper of general circulation published in the County of Marin, said publication to be complete at least twenty (20) days prior to the date set for hearing.

6. The City Clerk is directed to cause written notice to be given to such other persons as may be legally entitled thereto, in the manner required by law.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the foregoing resolution was duly and regularly adopted by the City Council of the City of Novato, Marin County, California, at a regular meeting thereof, held on the 14th day of July 1970, by the following vote, to wit:

AYES: COUNCILMEN Quesada, Womack, Sartain, Merrill
NOES: COUNCILMEN None
ABSENT: COUNCILMEN Gargiulo

/s/ CHARLES A. BROWN
City Clerk

Approved as to form:

Key Witness Tells Of Two Brutal Killings In Tate Case

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Linda Kasabian, standing only a few feet from Charles Manson but shielded by a deputy, today pointed out on a large diagram of the Sharon Tate grounds and residence the location of the slayings she said she witnessed there.

Manson, the accused mastermind of seven killings by the hippie cult, turned his back as the small girl walked past him and shielded his eyes with his hands.

The three young women codefendants — Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten—had their hair in pigtails today when they appeared in the courtroom mimicking Mrs. Kasabian's hairstyle.

The state's key witness pointed out on the large cardboard chart the gate over which she said she, Miss Atkins, Miss Krenwinkel and Charles "Tex" Watson climbed on the night of the slayings Aug. 8.

She identified the telephone pole which she said that Watson climbed to cut the wires leading into the estate. Watson so far has resisted extradition from Texas.

After pointing out various sites on the Tate estate, Mrs. Kasabian resumed the witness stand and picked up her account of the savage slayings.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi asked her in what state of mind she was after allegedly witnessing two of the killings on the grounds of the Tate home.

"I was in a total state of shock," she said.

"Did you think of running for help to another house?" Bugliosi asked.

"Yes, I thought of it."

Mrs. Kasabian told the jury Tuesday about how she ran toward the house.

Mrs. Kasabian had been giggling yesterday as she told of more than 20 members of the family engaged in indiscriminate love making together in an old shack at the Spahn Ranch after Manson took the clothing off a 16-year-old girl lying on the floor.

But her composure melted and she wept and could scarcely speak when she told of driving to the Tate estate, climbing over the fence after cutting the telephone lines and carrying out Manson's orders to leave a "witchy sign."

Mrs. Kasabian said Watson led the bloody foray to the Tate home. She said that when she started out she had no idea what they were to do but that Manson told her to "Do whatever Tex tells you."

She said that Miss Atkins and Miss Krenwinkel accompanied her and Watson and that they had three knives and a .22 caliber revolver with a foot-long barrel.

As soon as they climbed over the fence, she said, the lights of a car came toward them and then the automobile stopped. She said Watson stuck the gun through the car window, and while the man inside pleaded "don't hurt me," Watson shot him four times.

The body of Steven Parent was found in a car in the driveway the next day.

Mrs. Kasabian said they then crept up to the house where the eight-month pregnant actress, wife of film director Roman Polanski, was living with two house guests, Polish writer Voityck Frokowsky and coffee heiress Abigail Folger. Hair stylist Jay Sebring was visiting them.

Mrs. Kasabian said Watson told her to go back to the car in the driveway and to wait there.

"What happened then?" asked Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi.

"Then I heard people screaming and it was just horrible."

The young woman began to sob and her shoulders shook.

"At one point in the beginning I heard men say, 'no, no,' then screams. It seemed like forever. I started to run toward the house. I wanted them to stop. I knew what they had done to that man."

She told of a tall man — the state says it was Frokowsky — staggering out of the door.

"Then Sadie (Susan Atkins) ran out of the door and I said 'Please make it stop' and Sadie said 'It's too late now.' And Sadie told me she left her knife inside.

"Then I saw Tex on top of the man, he was hitting him and stabbing him. And I saw Katie (Patricia Krenwinkel) chasing after the girl with an upraised knife. She was a girl in a white gown.

"The man was on the ground and Tex was stabbing him and he kept doing it and doing it and doing it. The man was screaming, it was like no words, just a great please."

Third Set Of Park Plans Is Requested

The San Marin Improvement Association last night voted to ask for a third set of plans for Novato Creek Park which should be ready for the parks and recreation commission at its Aug. 17 meeting, according to Donald M. Van Dyke, president.

The association wants access to the park from Novato Boulevard instead of San Miguel Way. It does not want any parking lot in the park and voted to ask the Novato City Council for a variance to eliminate off-street parking for the park which has the pre-history museum in it, Van Dyke said. If there is to be any road in the park, it should be a service road only and not open to the public, he said.

The park plans as first presented had an access road from San Miguel Way to the pre-history museum with the parking lot on San Miguel Way.

Residents of that street protested having the parking lot there, so another set of plans was drawn moving the parking area to the rear of the museum. Neither of these plans had any access to the park from Novato Boulevard.

The parks and recreation commission will now be faced with a third set of plans for the park, Van Dyke said.

Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director, attended the meeting and agreed to have the plans suggested by the association, ready for the Aug. 17 meeting, Van Dyke said.

Court Arraigns Assault Suspect

Way Lim Li, 63, of San Francisco, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court on a felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon stemming from an altercation with his employer in which he allegedly wielded a bread knife and two cleavers.

Li was arrested last Thursday after his boss, Ronald C. McDonald of Sausalito, told police that he had argued with Li, his butler, over a proposed dinner party.

McDonald said that Li chased him out of his house, wielding the three weapons.

Li's case was continued to Tuesday for entry of plea.

Paine Airs Hopes For Space Gains

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Thomas O. Paine, who is retiring as chief of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) after seeing it through two manned landings on the moon, said today the agency should start planning now for future projects such as lunar colonies and astronaut visits to the planets.

He envisioned the possibility of an "international space station" as a cooperative venture of European nations, Canada, and Japan. For the nearer post-Apollo future he forecast strong space program support by President Nixon, Congress and the public.

$500,000 Asked In Death Case

A San Anselmo widow filed suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court, asking $500,000 for the death of her husband in a construction accident at the Hall of Justice last year.

Cynthia Ann King said that defective equipment and negligence caused the death of her husband, Kenneth Lonzo King, 41, a heavy equipment operator who died after a loader he was driving ran over him.

Named as defendants were Robert E. McKee General Contractors and Maggiora and Ghilotti, King's employers.

Landowner Wants Hearing On Proposed Novato Center

A major property owner whose land was dismissed as a possible site for a large shopping center proposed in a Novato development program has written the city council asking for a chance to be heard.

Richard R. Hanna of Burlingame asked the council to take no action on the program — presented in a 118-page report prepared by San Francisco consultants Sedway and Cooke — until he has had time to submit his own development plan, including a regional shopping center on his 450-acre property.

The Sedway and Cooke report recommends building a large shopping center similar to Northgate Shopping Center on the Pinheiro Ranch and listed San Marin East and the present Downtown Novato Shopping Center land as other site possibilities.

Hanna's 450 acres, bounded by Highways 101 and 37 and Novato Creek, were not recommended even as an alternate site.

In a letter dated Monday, Hanna said that he had let Planning Director Brian Mattson read correspondence from a major corporation interested in building a regional shopping center on the land.

Hanna wrote:

"In the past when we were asked to deed, to annex, and to offer property to the City, we deeded, we annexed, and we offered our properties. We have paid our enormous taxes and have been a good citizen for many years. It seems proper that the City should allow us time before final action is taken on the Sedway and Cook Report, to prepare a plan for the City's consideration."

Animal Plague Threat Grows

BERKELEY (UPI) — State health officials today announced a quarantine on commercial trapping of small animals, especially squirrels and chipmunks.

At the same time, vacationers were alerted to a growing animal plague threat in parts of four north central California counties.

Dr. Louis P. Saylor, state public health director, said extensive "dieoffs" of rodents in portions of Plumas, Lassen, Shasta and Siskiyou counties in the past few weeks could create a serious health problem in the area.

He said dusting of burrows with pesticides is under way in places where ground squirrels and chipmunks have died, in an area extending from Susanville and Lake Almanor.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Medicinal Benefits Of Alcohol Questioned By Most Physicians

Is alcohol good medicine? This is debatable despite the books that have been written on the beneficial effects of wine and hard liquor. Most of the references date back to antiquity or at least prior to modern remedies. Few physicians prescribe alcohol for specific ailments, because we have other drugs that do a better job.

Some MDs believe alcohol is not a good therapeutic agent under any circumstances. It is self-administered by many people as a tranquilizer, mood elevator, or for other psychological reasons. Tradition may account for its recommendation to the elderly, or people with heart conditions, circulatory disorders, and as a cold preventive. Alcohol acts as a sedative, anesthetic, digestant, appetite stimulant, and a dilator of blood vessels.

BUT AS WE SAID previously, the medical profession has a wide choice of agents that are more specific and effective. The exception is the use of alcohol in delirium tremens. This condition develops when a heavy boozer suddenly stops drinking.

But most of our mail deals with the advisability of drinking while undergoing treatment for an ailment or recovering from an operation or injury. The physician must decide whether a drink or two will aggravate the medical condition or interfere with treatment.

THESE QUESTIONS usually are asked by individuals who are accustomed to a cocktail before lunch or dinner. If the person normally drinks, many physicians will let him continue to do so, unless he has a peptic ulcer, kidney or bladder infection, pancreatitis, epilepsy, liver trouble, or other ailments that are aggravated by alcohol. Alcoholics should never drink.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

WATER DIET

R. N. M. writes: I heard a person on TV say that he was drinking eight glasses of water a day in order to reduce. Will water make a person lose weight?

REPLY

Water has no calories, but the rest of the diet is a more important criterion as to whether or not weight will be lost. If the individual goes on a starvation diet and consumes only water, yes, he will lose weight.

HAIR GROWTH VARIES

N. R. H. writes: Why does my hair and beard grow faster and thicker on the left side of my head and face than on the right side? My barber verifies this phenomenon but can't explain it. Can you?

REPLY

No. This has been reported and perhaps we can blame the fact that the two sides of the body never are exactly the same.

PINK-EYE

Mrs. E. writes: My child has had two attacks of pink-eye since her tonsils were removed. Is the tonsilectomy responsible?

REPLY

No. Pink-eye, an extremely contagious form of conjunctivitis, has nothing to do with a tonsilectomy. Has this diagnosis been verified by an ophthalmologist? He will suggest preventive measures.

OPENING IN THE HEART

O. P. writes: Do blue babies have a hole in the heart?

REPLY

Many have an opening in the partition between the ventricles, rather than in the wall of the heart.

Three Hurt In 3-Auto Crash

Three Petalumans were injured yesterday at 2:30 p.m. in a three-car accident on Gravenstein Highway at Stony Point Road, west of Cotati.

Gary Lee Koeblen, 12, of 1260 Berrydale Drive, was reported in good condition at Palm Drive Hospital, Sebastopol, with eye cuts. His mother, Jacquelin L. Koeblen, 32, and David Eaton, 12, of the same address, were treated for head cuts.

The California Highway Patrol said the car driven by Mrs. Koeblen collided with cars driven by Harold Thaxton Jr., 24, of Santa Rosa, and John A. Petersen, 70, of Sebastopol.

Parents Don't Follow The Doctor's Orders

NEW YORK (UPI) — How well do parents comply with doctors' orders regarding their children. Not too well, says Dr. Marshall H. Becker, a pediatric sociologist.

Dr. Becker, who has conducted a study on the subject, said that parents have a "disturbing low rate of compliance" with the doctors' instructions.

Flames Damage Petaluma Home

Fire extensively damaged the rear portion of a two-story frame house owned by Peter and Lola Olaeta, at 841 Schuman Lane, Petaluma, yesterday.

Smoke caused heavy damage to other portions of the house. The Petaluma fire department received the fire call at the unoccupied house from a neighbor at 11:12 a.m.

No cause or estimate of damage was available.

Mitchell Sees Moves To Check Northern Segregation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General John N. Mitchell said today "it will be necessary" for the courts to move eventually against segregation in some parts of the North.

"Obviously, there is as much segregation in some areas of the North as in the South," Mitchell said. While he did not endorse the use of the word "outlaw" to describe the kind of action he would favor against de facto segregation, he said:

"I think the courts will follow the path of determining where there is governmental action that can be taken."

The attorney general made the statements in response to questions in an interview on NBC-TV's Today Show.

The Nixon Administration has aimed its legal efforts to date at elimination of de jure segregation in the South —that resulting from either state or local laws or by custom. The government has not moved against de facto segregation, growing largely out of housing patterns, but Mitchell said, "It will be necessary as time goes by."

On school desegregation, Mitchell said, "The administration has made it clear that now is the time —this fall is the time —to replace dual school systems with unitary systems."

The attorney general said Tuesday that virtually all dual school systems in the South would be eliminated in the term starting in some areas in three weeks.

On the subject of civil disturbances, he also said his earlier keep-cool advice to police in coping with such problems did not mean they should not protect themselves when confronted with weapons.

Pot Possession Sentencing Set

Joanne Rosalie Lucinian, 20, of Mill Valley, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

She is to be sentenced Aug. 21.

Miss Lucinian was arrested May 12 at the Safeway Store in Larkspur on suspicion of shoplifting. A search of her purse produced a bag of pot.

Committee Approves Antiobscenity Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee has approved legislation designed to outlaw the interstate mailing of smutty advertising.

The measure is one of three anti-obscenity measures requested by President Nixon. The measure approved Tuesday would punish violators with up to five years in prison and a $50,000 fine on first offense, with doubled penalties for repeat offenders.

Mozambique Battle

BEIRA, Mozambique (UPI) — A Portuguese army communique said Tuesday a major military drive over the past month had killed 300 anti-government guerrillas in Mozambique at a cost of 11 Portuguese troops.

Marin Accidents Injure Two, Patrol Reports

Two persons, including a visitor from Illinois, were treated for minor injuries yesterday after traffic accidents, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Dianne Turausky, 24, of Harwood Heights, Ill., was treated at Marin General Hospital for multiple scrapes and bruises after an accident involving vehicles driven by Andrew J. Turausky, 26, Ned Meislin, 18, of Los Angeles, and Gregory L. Sherfey, 22, of 110 Laurel Avenue, Stinson Beach.

Details of the accident, which occurred at 1:20 p.m., were not available.

Zona R. Barberis, 28, of 45 La Brea Way, Santa Venetia, was treated for multiple bruises after her car, eastbound on North San Pedro Road east of Buck's Landing, left the road and overturned at 7 p.m., the patrol reported.

One Booked In Shootout In Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—Roy Bartee Haile was booked at the city jail Tuesday night on a charge of assault to murder in connection with a ghetto gunfight in which Haile and four other persons were wounded and a black militant leader killed.

Haile, an organizer for the militant Students for a Democratic Society, was the only white youth among the black militants involved in the shootout Sunday night with 250 policemen.

Haile was released on a $2,500 bond.

The area in which the gunfight erupted has been peaceful since the outbreak except for one shooting Tuesday afternoon which authorities said was not connected with the Sunday night episode.

Archie Sayles Jr., 29, was shot to death by police who said he looked like a forgery suspect. The shooting came eight blocks from Dowling Street where Sunday's shootings occurred.

Sayles, a Negro, served time for shoplifting and was charged last year with robbery by assault. Two white policemen said they told Sayles to stop but he ran into a tavern and pulled a gun.

"I told him to stop again and he pointed (the gun) at me at which time I shot," Patrolman Wayne E. Reed said. "I fired twice. He fell out of the back door and my partner was standing there."

Pluria Marshall, a member of a black coalition in the city, announced Tuesday a boycott to put economic pressure on the white community and "to bring about a complete absence of black people in the downtown area."

"We intend to hit the white community where it hurts the most—the pocketbook," Marshall said.

Thomas Dell Robinette, 29, of 101-A Marin Street, San Rafaed, arrested May 2 on Highway 101, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

John Henry Williams, 50, of Boyes Hot Springs, arrested April 26 on Highway 37, was placed on probation for one year and fined $150.

Convicted Slayer Sent To Chamber

MARTINEZ (UPI) —Dennis Stanworth, 27, convicted of the murder of two 15-year-old Pinole girls, Wednesday was formally sentenced to death in the gas chamber.

Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Richard E. Arnason denied motions for a new trial and passed the sentence.

Stanworth was convicted of slaying Susan M. Box and Karee Lee Collison.

A jury sentenced him to death in 1966 but this was overturned by a State Supreme Court decision because of the methods of jury selection in capital cases.

A retrial in the penalty phase earlier this month also sentenced him to death.

Burglary Charge Admitted By Two

Stephen Robert Carrino, 22, of San Rafael, and Dolores Marie Burke, 27, of Fairfax, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Anselmo residence July 5.

A jury trial was set Monday for the week of Oct. 26.

Later in the day Judge E. Warren McGuire ordered Mrs. Burke, who is also awaiting sentencing on a charge of possessing marijuana, held in jail and set bail at $1,500 after learning from a probation officer that Mrs. Burke may be a narcotics addict.

Carrino was already in jail.

Hearing Slated On Pot Charge

Larry James Stover, 19, of Marin City, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and a pipe for smoking it when arrested July 5 in Novato.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 7.

Stover was arrested after a check of his car's license plate showed there was a traffic warrant outstanding for him. Police said they found a pipe and a small quantity of suspected pot in his car.

Plans Announced For A 'Flying Automobile'

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI)—A Pontiac Firebird may be winging over the San Fernando Valley before the end of this year while it's assembly line brothers crawl along the clogged freeways.

The Advanced Vehicle Engineers Co., based here, announced Tuesday plans for a "flying automobile" which would utilize an airplane frame and engine that could be attached to a modified standard automobile.

It plans to make a test flight with the Pontiac Firebird before the end of the year.

Henry Smolinski, engineer-president of the firm, said all Detroit would have to do is modify the dash board slightly to allow for air instruments and make some minor adjustments in the roof so the airframe could be attached.

The plan is to make it possible for anyone to convert his automobile into a flying car by merely backing into the air frame and snapping the pieces together.

When the car is backed into the airframe, according to Smolinski, "four pins are inserted to lock the two and at the same time convert the car's standard steering wheel into an aircraft control. Rudder pedals snap into position beneath the driver-pilot side of the vehicle.

"Then, with the insertion of two more pins holding struts from the wing to either side of the car, the aircar will be ready to fly."

Although a flying automobile has been expounded in science fiction as well as scientific circles for ages, Smolinski said most designs have "emphasized the airborne portion and neglected the car with vehicles that were unsuitable for road use."

The airframe will consist of the wings, the rear pusher engine mount, the twin tail booms and the control surfaces of a Cessna Skymaster, fitted on the standard automobile.

The car would take the place of the Skymaster's cabin and forward propeller-driven engine. The aft engine would be replaced with a more powerful one, possibly a turboprop, capable of cruising at 130 miles per hour for 500 miles.

The combined weight of the flying automobile would be about 6,000 pounds, with a 38-foot wingspan and a length of 30 feet. It would cost about $15,000, but Smolinski said buyers could purchase just the automobile part for $4,500 and rent the airframe when needed.

The only drawback is tires. The company said improved tires might have to be developed to aid in landing at 80 m.p.h.

Guerrant's Center Job Is Approved

The Marin Hospital District board last night unanimously approved the appointment of Dr. John S. Guerrant as interim director of the Marin Community Mental Health Center.

Guerrant, who will fill the position immediately, was approved for the position last week by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, as required under an agreement between the two.

Formerly the chief of inpatient services at the center, Guerrant will receive a pay hike of about $200 a month to $2,250 and will serve for a maximum of five months.

His appointment follows by two weeks the resignation of Dr. Donald P. Wilson, who quit the job after failing to be offered the position for another year.

The search for a full-time successor continues this week after Dr. Harris B. Peck, a New York psychiatrist, turned down the position after it was offered to him by the two boards in June.

The Marin Hospital District board also:

PAY HIKE — Approved unanimously a salary increase of about $1,500 per year for hospital administrator Ray K. Bolinger. The administrator's new salary totals $31,000 per year.

FILM — Approved making a 10-minute public information film on the Community Mental Health Center. Some board members expressed concern over legal technicalities involved in using center patients in the film, but agreed the possibility of a suit was minimal if waivers were obtained from patients, families and doctors of patients.

INSURANCE — Approved unanimously a recommendation from the insurance committee that the hospital drop earthquake insurance on the hospital's equipment. The annual premium for such insurance would have increased about $3,500 from last year's total of about $1,500. The hospital has never carried earthquake insurance on the building.

ELECTION — Heard a report from Bolinger that the district's election ballot has been consolidated with the Nov. 3 general election ballot. The seats of Marion C. Ibach, Thomas K. Procter and George H. Folsom are up for election.

AGREEMENT — Approved unanimously an agreement with the University of San Francisco for eight to 11 nursing students to work part-time for credit at the Community Mental Health Center.

College Panel To Inspect Projects

The Marin Junior College District board will inspect the science building and new Harlan Center under construction at College of Marin at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow. The board will meet in Supt.-President John A. Grasham's office to start the tour. After the inspection, the board will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. in the testing office to discuss equipment for the science center.

Another special meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday in the testing office to discuss computer equipment, and the board's regular meeting will be at 8 p.m. Aug. 6 in Olney Hall.

Santa Venetian Denies Pot Count

Daryl James Moran, 20, of Santa Venetia, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing marijuana and being under the influence of heroin when arrested July 20 at his home.

A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 10.

Drug agents who went to his house with a search warrant said they found two bags of suspected pot as well as three cigarettes. They also said they found empty balloons and other paraphernalia with suspected heroin residue.

Teen Twin Girls In Theft Charge

Eighteen-year-old San Anselmo twins were charged yesterday in Marin Municipal Court with petty theft and one of the girls, with a felony marijuana possession charge.

Marion and Eugenia Sproul were arrested last Wednesday by a security agent at the J.C. Penney Co. store in San Rafael. The agent found a can of suspected pot in Marion Sproul's purse, police said.

Their case was continued until Aug. 11 for a report as to whether they can be tried in juvenile court.

Suspect Bound Over On LSD, Pot Counts

Eric Lee Prescott, 21, of 835 Idylberry Road, Lucas Valley, yesterday was bound over to Marin Superior Court on two charges of selling LSD and one of offering to sell marijuana in June, 1969.

He is to be arraigned next Wednesday in superior court.

GOING IN DIFFERENT DIRECTIONS

Tommy Harper, Milwaukee Brewers' third baseman, runs in to field a grounder, Washington Senators Rick Reichardt (right) heads for first base, and Ed Brinkman breaks for home. It came about during yesterday's game in Milwaukee, won by the Brewers 5-1. On this play, Reichardt was thrown out at first base to end the inning, so catcher Phil Roof (foreground) missed out in the action.

Athletics Victory Streak At Seven

McNamara Praises His Men

OAKLAND (UPI) —Johnny McNamara, the Oakland A's rookie manager, didn't alibi when his club was losing and he was the last to take any credit today with the team on a hot winning streak.

"Those fellows out there are doing it all, not me," McNamara said in the wake of the A's seventh straight victory, 6-4 over the Boston Red Sox Tuesday night.

'TIMELY'

"This is the best we've played all season. Now we are doing the things I thought we would do all along. We are getting timely hitting and timely pitching and when you can put the two together you are going to win some games."

Chuck Dobson went as far as he could, 5 2-3 innings, with hardly more than a prayer, and Marcel Lachemann and Jim Grant picked him up when he simply lost contact with the plate. That took care of the pitching.

Then there were Sal Bando, Don Mincher and Reggie Jackson, all of whom stroked homers to account for five of the six Oakland runs. Mincher and Jackson hit their's back-to-back in the fourth after Bando had led off with an infield single. The homers nullified a three-run homer by Boston's Rico Petrocelli.

SOX LEAD

Reggie Smith, who had four hits in five at-bats, homered in the top of the fifth to give the Red Sox the lead for the second time. But Bando put the A's ahead to stay in the bottom of the same inning when he homered after a single by Felipe Alou.

The homers were the 18th for Bando, the 17th for Mincher and the 15th for Jackson. Dobson recorded his fourth straight victory and his 11th compared to 10 losses while Grant, who pitched three shutout innings, pick up his 17th save.

Despite the victory the A's remained nine games behind the Minnesota Twins in the American League West. That doesn't seem to bother the A's or McNamara.

AGREE

"The big thing is for us to keep on winning," said Bando, the A's captain. "If we win, things will take care of themselves."

McNamara said virtually the same thing.

"I really feel we have a chance to win it all," said McNamara. "I've said this from the start. Now that we are winning and playing the kind of ball we always were fapable of, I feel even stronger about things. As long as we win we have to pick up ground on someone.

"And don't forget," added McNamara, "we still have 11 games to play with Minnesota. There are two full months left of this season and a lot could happen in time."

SEGUI

Tonight, the A's continue their series with the Red Sox. Diego Segui, who went the distance in his last start, pitches for the A's against Ray Culp. The two teams wind up their series on Thursday and then the A's play the Washington Senators four weekend games.

"It's a fine week in which to pick up ground but as McNamara said, "We have to play as a team the way we have this past week. If we can do that we should be all right."

EIGHT TEAMS ADVANCE IN LI'L LEAGUE PLAY

The Novato American League ran roughshod over San Geronimo, 19-0, and San Rafael American routed Mill Valley National, 12-0 last night as the Marin County Little League all-star baseball tournament got under way.

Novato's other team, from the National League, also won, 3-2 over San Rafael National in seven innings. Both Mill Valley teams were eliminated as the American League lost to Marinwood, 3-1.

In other first round games Hamilton-Loma Verde edged Tiburon in seven innings, 6-5, Sausalito defeated Twin Cities, 5-2, Fairfax stopped Strawberry, 3-1 and Kentfield Greenbrae knocked off Gallinas Valley, 8-0.

In games tonight at 6 o'clock, San Rafael American meets Novato American at Novato's Rancho School, Sausalito and Fairfax play at Larkspur, Novato National plays Hamilton-Loma Verde at Hamilton Air Force Base, and Marinwood hosts Kentfield.

WAR OF NERVES

Football Sides At Stalemate

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The war of nerves between the National Football League owners and players escalated today after the negotiations between the two sides recessed Tuesday night at the request of the owners.

With the talks obviously at an impasse, both sides were regrouping their forces and planning for future strategies and neither side seemed ready to make concessions. The dispute seemed ready to become a test of strength between the owners and the players as the widespread speculation continued that the owners are seriously thinking of opening their camps to veterans in an attempt to break the solid front of thep layers. The owners figurt enough veterans will report to break the back of the Players Association and force it to accept the owners' terms. But if the players don't break ranks, they could force the owners to make concessions.

TO DELIBERATE

The owners' representatives, who said they simply asked for a recess to deliberate," meet today in New York. Meanwhile, the 26 player representatives—one from each NFL team—assemble today in Chicago for a meeting to "determine a course of action for the days ahead." The players charged the owners had broken off the talks.

Ted Kheel, a labor consultant for the owners, said, "unfortunately, no progress has been made and the parties are just as far apart as they were when they first met here."

The three owners' representatives on the negotiating committee, Tex Schramm of Dallas, Rankin Smith of Atlanta and Ralph Wilson of Buffalo, returned to New York today for a meeting.

RECESS

Kheel said, "in view of the gravity of the situation, it is necessary for the owners' negotiators to confer among themselves and with the other owners. That's why it was necessary to propose a recess."

The owners' major decision is whether or not to end their lockout and open the camps to the veterans. When Kheel was asked if they planned to do it, he answered, "that's a matter to be decided by the owners."

The owners have kept the camps closed because they feared causing dissension on their teams. The players who stay out would be angry at the players who entered the camps. But with the exhibition season nearing, the owners may decide to force a showdown.

The players' main problem is to keep in touch with a thousand players scattered around the country since many players will be tempted to enter the camps if they're opened. The players use a "5-8 formation" from their Washington headquarters. They phone five players on each club and each of the five phones eight other players. They claim they

MONTREAL — This home of the Expos and Alouettes is a class city that everybody loves because of its warm-hearted citizens and countless sight-seeing spots which attract tourists by the thousands.

It's the height of the tourist season now and sight-seeing buses are lined up beside Cathedral Square outside the Windsor Hotel where the Giants' baseball club stays. Sight-seeing buses do a good business in San Francisco, also a picture city. But Montreal's bus business gets the nod.

After all, Montreal is a city three times the size of San Francisco with 2 million population. Even when the 1970 census is in, San Francisco still will be around 750,000. Very few vacant lots are left in San Francisco and the city's 48 square miles are almost saturated.

Much can be learned about people from their attitude towards sports. Everybody in Montreal loves sports. Baseball fans who jam Jarry Park to watch the Expos also are football fans. And, of course, they also are hockey fans. Everybody loves hockey here.

An Accurate Analysis By McHale

John McHale, president of the Expos, accurately analyzed the Montreal market when it came to picking a spot for his expansion club a couple of seasons ago. After Montreal was approved by the National League as the first Canadian city for a major league franchise, McHale got another tempting offer.

However, McHale, always a class guy himself, said he had no intention of leaving the Expos even before they completed a roster. McHale turned down the baseball commissioner's job after a deadlock arose over the balloting on Chub Feeney who had the unanimous support of the National League but couldn't swing the necessary two-thirds majority in the American League.

So Bowie Kuhn became the commissioner and Feeney became president of the National League. But McHale became something special to Montreal sports fans. He is as popular in Jarry Park as his Expo ball club. That is quite a tribute to McHale because Expo ball players get tremendous ovations from their fans.

They Know Good And Bad Plays

It isn't a case of Montreal fans not knowing good or bad plays. They are a knowledgeable lot. For years there was a AAA International League club in Montreal. But Jarry Park fans are extremely tolerant in expressing displeasure. They roar approval over any play that is even slightly more than routine.

And when an Expo pitcher does a good job, Jarry Park fans make him feel like a great hero. In the second game of last weekend's twi-nighter between the Giants and Expos, Howie Reed pitched three innings for which he was awarded the victory. It was a good performance by Reed but certainly nothing spectacular.

Yet, when Reed walked down the lleft field line after being lifted for an eighth inning pinch hitter, the capacity crowd of 28,307 in Jarry Park that night stood and cheered him. It was as though Reed had just pitched a no-hitter. Actually, he had allowed the Giants a run.

A ball player with the Expos just has to be a happy fellow if he does his job even routinely well.

(Jim Gilmartin is on vacation)

Keep Balls On Field, Says N.L.

MONTREAL (UPI)—The National League has banned its players from throwing baseballs into the crowd.

League president Chub Feeney said at the annual major league summer meeting Tuesday, "We have one law suit against us this year because of a player, whose name I don't wish to mention, who tossed a ball into a crowd. We are forced to take steps to cut this practice out."

ARTIFICIAL INFIELD

The National League owners also went along with a proposal by the Philadelphia Phillies to allow the club to install the new artificial grass infield in their new stadium, which is scheduled to open next season. The field, similar to the one being used in the new Cincinnati stadium, will feature the same 15 feet of dirt in front of the bag for sliding.

The Phillies, however, must get final sanction from the rules committee. They did not foresee any obstacles, though.

In an executive move at Tuesday's session, John McHale of the Montreal Expos was appointed to the National League Council. He replaces Bob Carpenter of the Phillies.

COLORED BASES

The two-day session, being held in Canada for the first time, concludes Wednesday with a joint meeting of the two leagues. The first session on Tuesday morning dealt with relatively minor items of the agenda, the most colorful of which was a proposal by Charles O. Finley to change the color of the bases.

Feeney predicted that this year would be the best in the history of the National League.

"We have nine of our clubs that will draw over a million and that's pretty good in a 62-team circuit," he said.

"Philadelphia will be fine next season when they get their new park. The San Francisco situation is a different type of problem because they are forced to draw from the same fans that Oakland draws from."

RECORD SET

The National League president added, "We set an all-time record in our league this past weekend when over half a million people came out to see our teams play. We're most excited that Montreal has turned out to be a great major league city. The people here love the game and although Jarry Park is small, according to major league standards, it definitely has that big league atmosphere. The French Canadian aspect is what makes the Expos so colorful."

METS BOMB AWAY

Giant Pitching: A Million Laughs

NEW YORK (UPI) —Manager Charlie Fox of the San Francisco Giants was complaining a few weeks ago that he didn't have enough starting pitchers. The problem, of course, is not new to the Giants in 1970. And the problem has yet to be solved.

Fox was not exactly overjoyed with the work of Rich Robertson and veteran Mike McCormick. But he decided a few weeks ago to keep Robertson in the rotation while demoting McCormick to the bullpen.

Robertson continued to flounder and McCormick pleaded to become a starter once more. Fox said no, and McCormick asked to be traded. He was shuffled off to the New York Yankees.

On Tuesday night Robertson was being bombed 12-2 by the New York Mets while McCormick was winning in his first appearance for the Yankees.

As an added sidelight, the man whom the Giants received for McCormick spent only 4 1-3 innings with San Francisco. He's John Cumberland, a young lefthander, and he was not with the Giants even a week before being sent to the minors.

In an anti-climax, Cumberland has refused to report to Phoenix of the Pacific Coast League, claiming the Giants never gave him a chance to show his stuff.

But right now, back to Robertson. The big righthander has not won a game since the seasons changed from spring to summer. He's been one of the consistently poor pitchers on a Giants staff which apparently knows no limits of mediocrity.

Robertson now is 6-7 after being blasted for seven runs in only three innings. Mike Davison and Ron Bryant shared the remainder of the Mets' onslaught.

Donn Clendenon belted a pair of three-run homers and a sacrifice fly while Jim McAndrew hurled a five-hitter for New York. The Giants' lone runs came on a two-run double by Ron Hunt which followed a fair of walks.

The loss was the second straight at the hands of the Mets, who sent Jerry Koosman (5-5) against San Francisco's Skip Pitlock (1-3) today in an attempt to sweep the three-game series.

From New York the Giants go to Philadelphia for a grueling five-game series in only three days, beginning Friday. Two games at Los Angeles round out the road trip before the Giants return home Aug. 5 against Cincinnati.

Tuesday night's loss kept the Giants six games under .500 and 22 games behind the first place Reds in the National League West.

49er-Raider TV To Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The Senate will consider a resolution which would urge the Oakland Raiders to allow local television coverage of their Dec. 20 game against the San Francisco 49ers.

The measure, authored by assemblyman Frank Murphy, D-Santa Cruz, was approved Tuesday by the Senate Public Utilities and Corporations Committee.

The Raiders contend they are expressing good faith to Oakland season ticket holders by blacking out the game to local residents without tickets. The 49ers claim the contest is a natural rivalry of overwhelming interest. In addition, the game is a sellout.

Shafer Scores 27 In Cage Victory

Pat Shafer scored 27 points to lead San Rafael Travel to a 70-66 win over Dan Coleman Associates last night in the Drake Summer Basketball League.

Ron Blum's 22 points offset Bob Dougherty's 25 as McGillicuddy Construction defeated Sausalito Boathouse, 89-62, and Harvey Wallbanger downed the Kettle, 57-53 in other games.

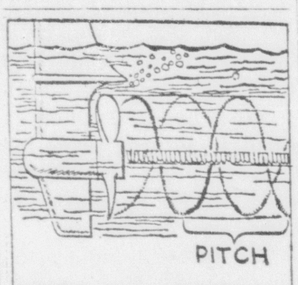
BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Facts About Boat's Propeller

Most boaters do not realize that a propeller, in addition to driving a boat, is also a governor.

Here's an example, taken from a letter I received. It reads: "Thanks for telling me about the prop. Since I changed it, the boat will now pull the three kids on water skis, not just one. But there's a new problem. Now the outboard runs wild, and the boat won't go as fast as it formerly did with just me in it alone."



PITCH OF A PROP IS NOT AN ANGLE. IT'S THE DISTANCE IT MOVES THROUGH WATER IN ONE REVOLUTION.

It's obvious that the propeller that's good for pulling a heavy load, such as three water skiers, is not necessarily the best one for driving the same boat at top speed.

HERE ARE A couple of facts concerning propellers which may help in better understanding their function. First, there are two important measurements, diameter and pitch. The latter is usually the one which baffles boaters. Most think it is an angle of the blades, whereas actually it is a measurement of length. It's the theoretical distance a prop will travel through the water in one revolution (not allowing for slippage).

Pitch is also the most important measurement because it's easy to see that if one prop will push a boat 10 inches ahead for every revolution and another will push it a foot, it's going to take more power to turn the one with the bigger pitch.

This is how the propeller acts as a governor on engine speed. At any given throttle setting, a prop with a smaller pitch will let the engine or outboard motor turn faster than one with a bigger pitch. It's just that one puts a lesser load on the power plant.

Q. What are the numbers on my propeller?

A. If there are just two numbers, such as 10-12, the first one is always diameter, the second pitch. If there's a third number it is shaft size. This is found mostly on props for inboards.

Q. I'm told I need a new prop to operate my outboard on high altitude lakes in the mountains. Why?

A. There's a very noticeable drop in power when a gasoline engine is operated above 3,000 feet. A smaller pitch prop won't recover the lost power (only a supercharger could do that) but it will help some by bringing the rpm up to its normal maximum. If you trailer from sea-level to high level altitude, a prop for each condition is an absolute must.

Q. Can I try out a prop for my boat before buying?

A. Some dealers keep a stock of props for this purpose, but not too many. A dealer might try out several props on your craft himself, while he's along. But don't expect him to lend you one for a week's vacation. Remember rocks are everywhere.

Q. Are there variable pitch propellers for pleasure boats?

A. "Controllable" pitch is the usual term, and there are such devices for inboard installations. They are complicated and expensive, but they are on the way. However don't expect one as standard equipment on next year's outboards.

Baughan Returns To Rams

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI)—Maxie Baughan, the defensive quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, has come out of his brief retirement and will rejoin the club's veteran players.

The 11-year veteran of National Football League play had decided to quit at the end of the 1969 season for physical reasons. But Baughan underwent knee surgery during the off season and agreed to return.

DELIGHT

Coach George Allen, who had never given up hope of getting Baughan back, expressed his delight Tuesday when informed the linebacker had decided on at least another season of play.

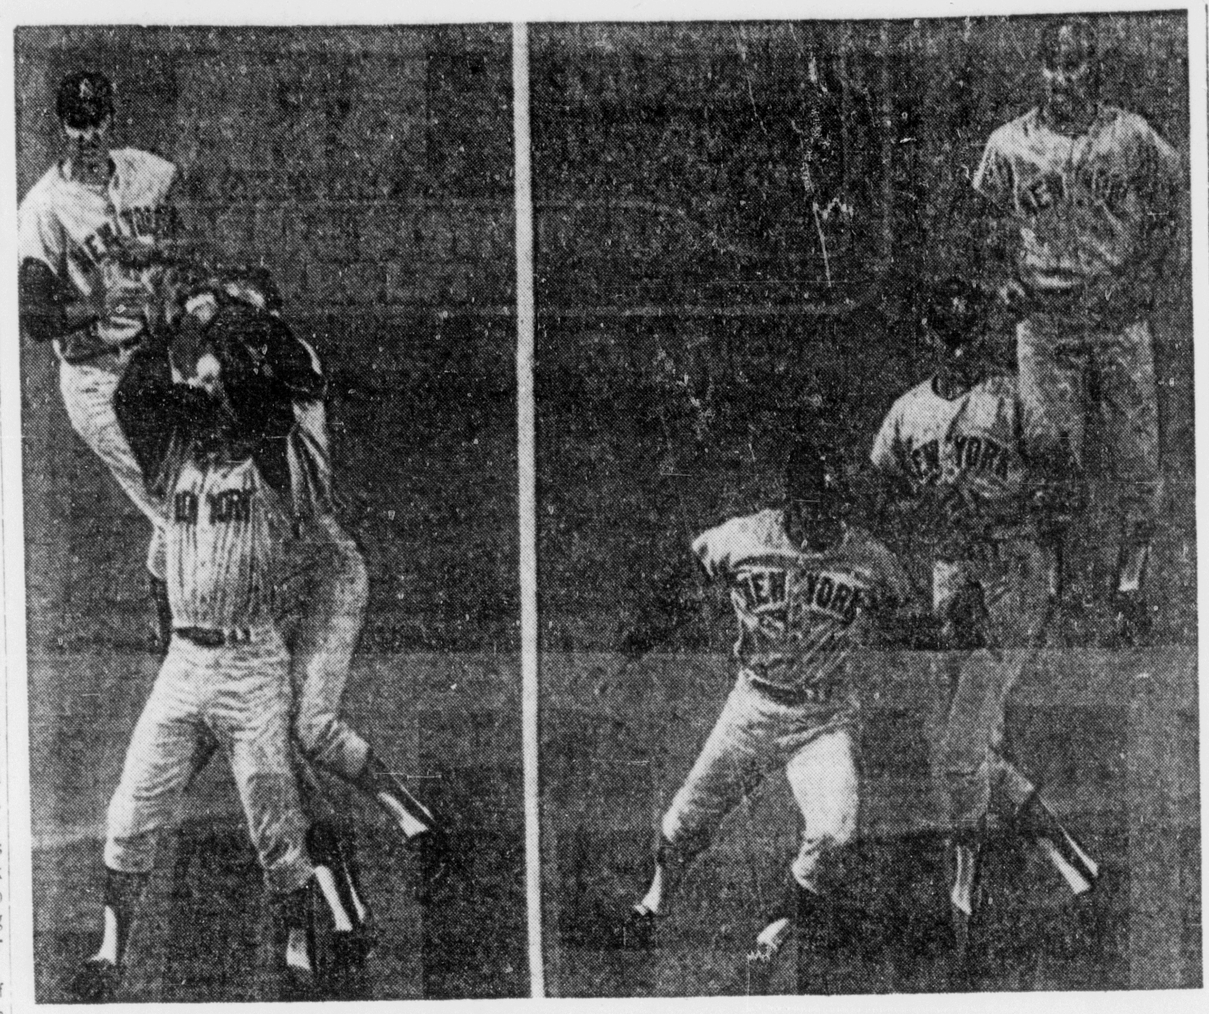
"This is great news for Ram coaches, Ram players and, most of all, Ram fans," Allen said. "Getting Maxie back is like having your quarterback return. His weight is up to about 220 pounds and his leg feels better than it did a year ago.

"Maxie loves the game of football. I plan to handle him similar to the way I handled Dick Bass and Tommy Mason the last two years—I'll hold him out until the last few preseason games."

GEORGIA TECH

Baughan, who will be 31 next month, was selected to the Pro Bowl in nine of his previous 10 years in the league and is a former All-Pro. He was graduated from Georgia Tech originally, was drafted by the Philadelphia Eagles but was obtained by the Rams in 1966 in exchange for linebacker Fred Brown, defensive tackle Willie Molden and a draft choice.

Although he has agreed to return, Baughan will not join the Rams camp at Fullerton State until after the current controversy between the players and owners is settled.



DROPPED BALL, STILL AN OUT

New York Yankee shortstop Gene Michael and second baseman Horace Clarke (front) got tangled up trying for this pop fly off the bat of California Angels' Jim Fregosi yesterday but Clarke recovered in time to throw to second base for a force out. It was Ron Hansen who was shouting words of encouragement. New York won, 6-5. (UPI Telephoto)

Four-Hour Tennis Match

Mark Tucker of Portola Valley prevailed over Kentfield's Gary Walter in a four-hour marathon match in the boys 16-and-under class yesterday to highlight the second day of the 12th annual Marin County Junior Hardcourt Tennis Tournament at the Mill Valley Tennis Club.

Seeded players from Marin, including Andy Moffat, top seed in boys 18, won with but one exception as all classes in both boys and girls divisions saw action.

Tucker, sixth seeded in boys 16, and Walter were on the court from 2 p.m. until after 6. The final score was 5-7, 9-7, 9-7.

The only upset of a seeded player from Marin came at the hands of another Marinite. Mike Gomez of Belvedere stopped Bill Kinser of Tiburon in another long match, 3-6, 8-6, 6-4.

Boys 18 (Third Round) — Tim Monroe d. Eugene Kilgore (Tiburon), 6-0, 6-2; Jerry Suyderhoud (San Anselmo) d. Andy Walker (Tiburon), 6-2, 6-3; Andy Moffat (Mill Valley) d. Mark Rodnick (Tiburon), 6-1, 6-1; Terry Rodgers d. Bill Kinser (Tiburon), 7-5, 1-6, 6-3.

Favorites Win In National Clay Courts

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—A 28-hour trip from Sweden to Indianapolis and the $50,000 National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament may have been too much for Australian Dick Crealy, but it didn't upset Arthur Ashe's game.

With the exception of a few minor upsets, including that of Crealy, Tuesday's play in men's and women's singles went according to the form charts and victories were posted by all of the top seeds.

Ashe, Gum Springs, Va., ranked second nationally and seeded third in the men's singles here, arrived Monday night from Sweden and spent part of Tuesday afternoon defeating Tom Leonard, Arcadia, Calif., 6-3, 6-2. Ashe won the Clay Courts crown in 1967.

Crealy, the seventh-seeded foreigner, also arrived Monday night and proceeded to win the first four games of the first set Tuesday against Jean Royuer of France. However, Crealy then faltered and Royuer won the match, 8-6, 6-2.

Cliff Richey, San Angelo, Tex., seeded No. 1 and ranked third nationally, ousted Paul Gerkin, East Norwalk, Conn., 6-3, 6-3. Richey won the title in 1966.

Stan Smith, Pasadena, Calif., ranked first nationally but seeded second here, had to go three sets before defeating Milan Holocek of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

ALL-STAR FOOTBALL

They Call McCoy 'Killer'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Notre Dame's huge defensive tackle, Mike McCoy, has a new nickname. In the College All Star camp, the coaches call him "the killer."

"I didn't know that," McCoy said. "Nobody said anything to me."

FRIDAY

The coaches obviously kept the information from McCoy because they don't want him to lose his enthusiasm for contact when the All Stars play the Super Bowl champion Kansas City Chiefs Friday night in Soldier Field in the annual test of the best of graduating college seniors and the pro champs.

But McCoy got his nickname because in routine, man on man drills, he eliminated two potential starters from the All Star roster, running back Larry Stegent and defensive tackle Phil Olsen.

"Both injuries were just one of those things," coach Otto Graham said. "It didn't even look like McCoy hit them very hard. But we lost both of them, and it hurt."

LOOKS AHEAD

McCoy will get his major test Friday night when he plays against the Chiefs. And while he recognized the problems he's going to face, he was looking forward to the combat.

"They've got about the biggest offensive line I've ever seen," McCoy said. "I don't know whether we'll be able to get to their quarterback at all.

"It's going to be tought. I don't mean we're going to lay back and say 'you're the pros so we know you're better than we are.' We're going all out to get them on every play. But it's going to be tough."

McCoy conceded the All Stars defensive unit could find another problem in the Chiefs' pint sized sprinter at running back, Mike Garrett.

"He's got more than just speed," McCoy said. "He's strong too. You can't put out one arm and stop him. You've got to hit him, and I imagine we will some.

Lombardi Reported Resting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington Redskins coach Vince Lombardi was reported "resting comfortably" today following an operation for an unspecified ailment. Redskins officials would say nothing else.

Officials refused to comment on whether Lombardi will return to coaching this season or on the nature of Monday's operation, his second surgery within a month.

Lombardi's first operation was for removal of part of his colon after doctors discovered a tumor they said appeared to be non-malignant.

There was growing speculation Lombardi might be compelled for health reasons to abandon coaching at least for this year. In his absence, assistant Bill Austin has been serving as "interim coach" at the Redskins pre-season camp at Carlisle, Pa.

Lombardi, who took over the Redskins coaching job last season after building a championship dynasty at Green Bay, underwent his first surgery June 27.

49ers Sign Two More Players

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — The San Francisco 49ers signed two more players Tuesday, giving them a total of 37 freshmen in their all-rookie camp.

The latest to sign were free agents Dwight Staten and Eural Smothers.

Staten is a linebacker-running back from Utah and Smothers is a defensive back from Sacramento State.

The 49ers' rookies continued their twice-a-day workouts in preparation for another scrimmage with the Dallas Cowboys rookies at Thousand Oaks, Calif., Saturday.

Last Saturday, the 49er rookies nipped the Cowboy rookies, 27-26.

Agnew Declares Golf Is A Sport Of Class

NEW YORK (UPI) —Vice-president Spiro T. Agnew Tuesday night praised the game of golf as sport of class, quality and accomplishment.

The vice-president made his remarks at the sixth annual All-America Collegiate golf dinner at the Waldorf Astoria where he received an award for his promotion and support of the game.

Other recipients of special awards were Argentine golfer Roberto deVicenzo, Harvey Penick, veteran golf coach at the University of Texas; George Spater, president and chairman of American Airlines and television comedian Dick Martin.

Eight first team members of the 1970 collegiate all-America squad were also present and recieved jackets and plaques. First team members are Wayne McDonald of Indiana; Tom Valentine of Georgia; Bob Clark of California State at Los Angeles; Howard Twitty, Arizona State; Bruce Ashworth, Houston; Lanny Wadkins, Wake Forest; John Mahaffey, Houston; and Mark Hayes, Oklahoma State. (Novato's Ray Leach was named to the second team.)

The all-Americans were introduced by Arnold Palmer.

Other guests included South African golfer Gary Player, astronauts James Lovell and James McDevitt and Doug Sanders, runnerup in the recent British Open.

Marinwood Area Senior League In Tournament

The Marinwood-Lucas Valley Senior Little League all-stars, who last week won the Marin County Championship, begin play tonight in the Northern California Section II tournament at Sacramento.

Marinwood defeated Fairfax, 10-4 in the Marin County semifinal tournament game on back-to-back home runs by Jon Lonberg and Scott Logan, and took the title by beating Hamilton-Loma Verde, 6-0 behind the pitching of Nick Mattos.

Marin County has only three Senior leagues.

Don Leaves On Winning Note

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Don Carrithers has left the minor leagues on a winning note.

The 20-year-old Phoenix right-hander, scheduled to join the San Francisco Giants Thursday, won his ninth game in 10 decisions Tuesday night with a 9-3 Pacific Coast League triumph over the Tucson Toros.

Carrithers allowed 10 hits but helped his own cause with a two-run single. He has been called up by San Francisco to take the place of third baseman Alan Gallagher, who must serve two weeks of military reserve duty.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Orioles, Twins Pad Their Leads

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Maybe it's time to shuffle the American League's two division plan and put the Baltimore Orioles and the Minnesota Twins in the same division.

If the two clubs were in the same division, they would be engaged in a two-month, down-to-the-wire battle for the crown. But now they're starting to make a runaway of their respective division races and all the excitement will be centered in three to five days in the playoffs in October as it was last year.

SPLIT

The Orioles and Twins split a four-game series that ended Monday night in their final regular season meetings of the year. Now they have to be content with beating the other teams for two months until the playoffs and they both seem well qualified for the task. They both boosted their lead to seven games Tuesday night as Baltimore beat Chicago 4-2 and Minnesota topped Cleveland 5-2. Minnesota is 62-33 in the West for a .653 percentage and Baltimore is 63-38 for a .624 percentage in the East.

The collapsing second place teams, Detroit and California, made it a little easier by losing. Detroit was beaten by Kansas City 7-6 and California lost to New York 6-5.

In the other two AL games, Oakland topped Boston 6-4 and Milwaukee downed Washington 5-1.

N.L. SCORES

In the National League, Houston routed Chicago 10-4, Montreal nipped San Diego 5-4, New York routed San Francisco 12-2, Los Angeles topped Philadelphia 6-2, St. Louis downed Atlanta 6-4, and Pittsburgh nipped Cincinnati 4-3.

Harmon Killebrew's two-run homer in the seventh inning snapped a 2-2 tie, gave Minnesota its victory over Cleveland, and broke Sam McDowell's seven-game winning streak. McDowell took a 2-1 lead into the seventh but rookie Dan Thompson singled, Rick Renick hit a liner that Roy Foster let fall over his head for a two-run double and Killebrew hit McDowell's next pitch for a homer. It was Killebrew's 31st homer. McDowell is 15-5 this year. Jim Kaat pitched five-hit ball for six innings to get the victory and Tom Hall finished up.

BIG BLOW

Bob Grich, a rookie shortstop, hit a bases-loaded single to cap a three-run fourth inning and give Baltimore its triumph over Chicago. Mike Cuellar pitched a three-hitter to gain his 14th victory against six losses. Merv Rettenmund's double, Brooks Robinson's run-scoring single and two walks set the stage for Grich's hit.

California has lost four of its last five games while losing ground to Minnesota and it has used 25 pitchers in the five games. The Angels paraded five of them to the mound in its latest setback and New York responded with 12 hits. Rookie Thurman Munson had four of them, including a homer, and drove in two runs and scored three. Catcher Tom Egan made it a little easier for the Yanks by committing five passed balls to set an American League record. He also dropped a throw at the plate to let the deciding run score in the sixth.

SKIDDING

Detroit has also lost four of five while falling further behind Baltimore. The Tigers and Fred Scherman were on the verge of a 6-5 victory when Bob Oliver hit a wrong field homer with two out in the ninth. Ted Abernathy, who gave up a two-run homer to Norm Cash in the eighth, got the victory.

Al Downing pitched a two-hitter as Milwaukee downed Washington. Downing, a one-time Yankee star, is now 4-7 for the Brewers. Phil Roof and Ted Kubiak hit run-scoring singles in the seventh to snap a 1-1 tie. Both runs were unearned because Frank Howard let Ted Savage reach first on an error to start the inning.

Texas Open Scratched From Tour

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — The Texas Open, one of the oldest golf tournaments in the nation, will not be staged next year because, according to Gilbert Brown, president of the San Antonio Golf Association, it would mean "inviting a financial loss."

Brown notified the PGA of his decision not to hold next year's open in a letter to golf commissioner Joseph C. Dey, stating that two alternate dates offered for the event by the PGA, one in October and the other during the New Year's holidays, were unacceptable.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Dr. John Garrett of Houston, who set a course record Monday, took medalist honors yesterday in the final round of qualifying for the 49th annual Broadmoor Men's Invitational golf tournament.

Garrett, runnerup in the NCAA tourney 15 years ago when he played at Rice University, fired a one-over-par 73 yesterday after a record shattering 64 Monday to lead a field of 32 into championship match play beginning today.

ATHENS, Ga. — Qualifying medalist David Canipe fired an even par 71 yesterday to take a one stroke lead the first day of the National Junior Amateur Golf Championship at the Athens Country Club.

Right behind Canipe, a 16-year-old high school junior from Fayetteville, N.C., was Tony Maltese of Baldwin Park, Calif. Football 114-1

CHICAGO — Bob Anderson, running back from Colorado, and Mike McCoy, defensive lineman from Notre Dame, have been named by teammates as co-captains for Friday night's College All-Star football game.

Anderson, 6 feet, 208 pounds, last year became the first back to pass the 5,000 yard mark in career offense in major college history. McCoy, 6-5, 285 pounds, wsa the No. 2 draft pick in the nation, chosen by the Green Bay Packers.

can contact all their players in six hours by this system.

There was no indication when the talks between the two sides might resume but Kheel said the owners can contact the players, "as soon as we are in a position to know what steps can be taken to bring about an agreement."

Schramm said commissioner Pete Rozelle would not enter the dispute unless the players asked him to.

The federal mediators, who were praised by both sides, said they would "continue to explore the problem with parties during the next several days." The mediators are Gilbert Seldin, Ralph Patterson and Paul Yager.

The latest move by the owners may mean that the exhibition games scheduled for Aug. 7-8 will have to be cancelled. The teams won't be able to play by then unless the players are in camp by this weekend and have a week to practice.

Leonard Lindquist, a labor counsel for the players, said, "the Players Association and its membership is saddened by this development (the recess) but we remain hopeful the owners will see fit to return quickly to the bargaining and mediation process."

In a prepared statement, Lindquist added, "it is apparent that the owners of the NFL are putting the 1970 pro football season in jeopardy by this action."

The owners dismissed that statement as saber-rattling since it's unlikely any regular season games will be affected by the dispute. The players aren't as concerned about missing a couple of exhibition games since most of them feel that the exhibition season is too long and they don't make enough money for the exhibition games.

The exhibition season has become lucrative for the owners since many of the games are played before huge crowds and the owners have forced season ticket holders to buy tickets for the exhibition games in order to retain their season tickets in many instances.

The funding of the pension plan is still the main dispute between the two sides.

Lucchesi And His Rating System

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Frank Lucchesi, the Philadelphia Phillies' manager, has this thing he calls his "plus chart" in his office at Connie Mack Stadium.

The chart is 18 by 20 inches, it's mounted on a piece of cardboard and has the name of every Phillies' player on it. Anytime one of his players does something out of the ordinary, Lucchesi puts a plus or an X alongside his name.

"I don't give out pluses too easily," says Lucchesi, who has kept his club in contention in the face of handicaps and injuries you wouldn't believe. "I'm tough. Don Money, for example, leads everybody with three pluses or three X's, whatever you want to call 'em. Deron Johnson is right up there with two and Tony Taylor also has two.

"What do I give a plus for? Well, it doesn't have to be a home run. Maybe it's for an exceptionally good slide that helped get us a run. I remember giving Byron Browne a plus the first week of the season. He was playing right field and on a high pop-up near the mound, with all the infielders converging, he came in and covered second. That was worth a plus in my book."

At the bottom of his chart, Lucchesi has pasted a word he clipped out of a newspaper. The word is "patience." Everytime Lucchesi sees his team do something on the field that would make any other manager blow his cork, he doesn't. Lucchesi does something else instead. He puts an X after the word patience.

"I've got 10 X's there already," the Phils' manager laughs. "Like I keep telling people, I've managed 19 years (in the minors) before this and I never had to show so much patience. Sometimes this year we played four rookies in one game. We've averaged three a game. And we've had a total of managers would've panicked. I didn't. I cooled it."

Whatever Lucchesi did he did pretty well because his Phillies have been the hottest club in the majors since the All-Star break. Going into Tuesday night's contest with the Dodgers, they were 10-2 and closing in fast on the third-place Cubs in the National League East.

"I feel especially good about four things," Lucchesi says. "I feel good that we've come back after a seven-game losing streak early and another one of 10 games later on. When we broke camp in the spring I said we'd go north with 25 ballplayers who want to play and they all do. Then there is Money. The critics said he couldn't be moved from shortstop to third base. They said he couldn't make the plays and wouldn't swing the bat enough. Well, he's making the plays and hitting .330."

Mates Now Rivals

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —New York Mets Tom Seaver and the Dodgers Ray Lamb were one time pitching teammates on the University of Southern California baseball team.

Raider Hopefuls Bump-And-Run

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Newcomers to the training camp of the Oakland Raiders must learn to run their pass patterns eccurately while being belted time after time by aggressive cornerbacks.

The "bump-and-run" style of pass coverage, probably used by the Raiders more effectively than any other team, is a new experience for most players in the team's rookie camp here.

Uriel Johnson, a free agent wide receiver, said the Raider style of defense makes the receivers work harder.

Novice Swim Meet Friday

Twelfth annual Marin County San Rafael Jaycees Novice Swim Meet will be held Friday, beginning at 1 p.m., at San Rafael High School's pool.

The meet, sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department and the San Rafael Junior Chamber of Commerce, is for children between the ages of 8 and 17 who have not competed in any sanctioned Amateur Athletic Union meet.

There will be a total of 42 age group events, with ribbons going to the first three place winners in each event.

Bill Hits At Practice Very Costly To Public

Sen. Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., has a bill in Congress which would strike at the heart of a practice dear to many unions, that of featherbedding.

Fannin's S. 1547 would make it illegal for any union to require an employer to pay "for services not desired or required, including those of a standby nature."

The National Labor Relations Act forbids unions from requiring employers to pay for services not performed. However, this has been interpreted as not applying to a standby crew — such as an orchestra paid to "stand by" while recorded music is played in a theater.

Also, it has been held not to apply to supernumeraries not needed on a job but required as holdovers from bygone days when the job was done in a different way.

FEATHERBEDDING is best known to the public from the frequent railroad union disputes. Retention of the fireman on diesel trains, where there is no firebox to serve, is a familiar instance. This and other featherbedding practices imposed by the railroad brotherhoods have contributed to the financial plight of American railroads, both directly by inflating the cost of operating trains and indirectly by driving the railroad companies into other, more profitable lines at the expense of their rail operations.

Featherbedding is by no means limited to the railroad unions, although its extent in other fields is little known to the public.

A dramatic demonstration of its extent in newspaper printing plants was provided recently at the New York Times.

THE INTERNATIONAL Typographical Union's Local 6, out to win a big increase in pay, began daily "chapel meetings" in the Times' composing room.

A "chapel meeting" is a form of sitdown strike. The workers stay in the plant, but don't do any work, instead gathering to discuss union business.

The chapel meeting at the New York Times got longer and longer. Finally, the printers were holding them for 17 hours out of every 24.

Yet, even when the meetings reached this length, the Times was able to put out a newspaper reduced in size by only about a fourth — though this proved so costly in loss of advertising that the management gave the union almost everything it asked.

Obviously, if a newspaper 75 per cent of its normal size can be produced in 25 per cent of the normal time, there is a lot of featherbedding somewhere.

THE NATIONAL Federation of Independent Business has taken a poll of its members on Fannin's antifeatherbedding bill. Nationwide, it found that 91 per cent of businessmen polled favor the bill.

In California, the percentage in favor was 92. In Washington, D.C., it was 100.

The businessmen are better aware than the general public of the costs — inevitably passed on to the consumer — inherent in featherbedding.

Of course, a poll of union members would show a different result. But we very much doubt that 91 per cent of them would oppose a ban on featherbedding — though 91 per cent of their "pie card" union politicians might do so.

Whom Do You Believe?

"The union would join in the prosecution of anyone caught" (committing acts of vandalism against I-J advertisers). — Donald H. Abrams, spokesman for San Francisco Typographical Union 21, before the San Rafael Lions Club April 15.

"These are our members. We feel they are entitled to every legal defense." - Leon Olson, president of San Francisco Typographical Union 21, commenting on union members out on bail arranged by the union and defended by union-hired attorneys after being charged with vandalism against I-J advertisers, in interview published July 26 in San Francisco Examiner.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Label It 'Ecology,' But Hide Rapid Transit Study Underneath

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There used to be a legislator around these halls whose bills, especially toward the end of the session, received special scrutiny from his fellows.

The theory was that no matter what the title, if you turned one of them over, you would probably find a logging truck underneath.

Today there are a number of measures by a number of legislators bearing titles relating to smog, ecology, the environment and other sacred catchwords.

If you turn them over you will probably find rapid transit underneath.

IT'S SORT OF LIKE the old bait-and-switch proposition perfected by non-legislative con men.

Polls conducted by legislators indicate that the public is willing to let revenues produced by automobile owners be used to combat the smog the autos produce.

The same polls indicate, however, that the same public is not willing to have the same revenues diverted from highway construction to experiments with restoring the kind of transit systems the automobiles ran off the rails years ago.

So if you are a legislator the transit lobby has convinced of the need for a return to the rails, and if you have a resourceful legislative assistant, you design a constitutional amendment of the bait-and-switch variety by coupling smog research with rapid transit.

WITH SMOG RESEARCH as the bait, the authors of these measures are confident they can get popular approval of gas tax diversion for rapid transit schemes they fear the same voters would reject if presented as separate items.

The group of proposed constitutional amendments, at a conservative estimate would make a total of $850 million available for these two purposes, which is more money than exists in the highway fund.

The amount of money that individual measures would make available for smog research and rapid transit ranges from a low of $25 million to a high of about $300 million.

Any of these amounts, of course, would be on top of the $4.7 million the state is already spending on smog research — $3 million of it from motorist revenues not constitutionally mandated for highway construction.

RESEARCH TAKES time as well as money, and there are only so many qualified researchers and research organizations in this state. Qualified research people say that $3 million to $4 million a year is about all their activity can absorb.

If in spite of this, hundreds of millions are going to be shoveled into duplicating and redundant research, there is at least one newsman who is going into the redundant research business.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Big Labor Now; Big Brother Next?

Letters to "What Our Readers Say" are welcomed. Only letters with signatures and addresses will be considered. Please keep them under 200 words. We reserve the right to cut letters.

In an age when Big Labor has bludgeoned Big Business to its knees, perhaps paving the way for Big Brotherhood, it seems doubtful that the small Independent-Journal can get a fair hearing from the public, most of which is unionized. Yet reason, though cowed and enfeebled, may still be alive here and there. Is it worth while to appeal to it?. . .

The union position is somewhat like that of the holdup man who maintained he wasn't responsible for his victim's death: the man, he said, had committed suicide by refusing to hand over his wallet. Or like the radical students at S.F. State who maintained it wasn't they who had initiated the violence by breaking down a door: the school administrators, they claimed, started the violence by locking the door against them.

It's high time we recognized that competition, the heart of Darwin's evolutionary theory, is also the heart and soul of any free enterprise system. When competition dies, the system dies. The capitalist free enterprise system which made America great was composed of two parts, (1) capital which competed with capital for markets, and (2) labor which competed with labor for wages and employment. When either side withdraws from the conditions of competition, as capital might do by forming giant cartels or monopolies, or as labor might do by forming giant unions which bargain collectively for workers, the entire system has to perish. The days of our moribund free enterprise system are numbered. And when it finally dies, as seems more than likely, liberty and democracy may die with it.

It is generally acknowledged that employer abuses of labor fostered unionism in America and contributed to the chaotic economic conditions which precipitated passage of the National Labor Relations Act (Wagner Act) in 1935. But the collective bargaining provisions of the act and the right to strike may have been an over-correction of abuses. These two features of the act, when coupled with labor's exemption from the monopoly provisions of the Sherman Act and the Clayton Act, have enabled labor to withdraw from the free enterprise system.

Capital, on the other hand, is sternly obliged to comply with all the provisions of both antitrust acts. Consequently, it is severely handicapped when it comes to building competitive excellence into its products and services; for while capital must still compete with capital for markets, workers are no longer obliged to compete with each other for wages and employment.

The logical result has followed: prices have gone up and quality down. U.S. labor costs have priced us out of world markets, resulting in the gold drain, and have a pernicious inflationary effect on the entire American economy. Inflation, as we know it today, steady, eroding, predictable inflation, began with the National Labor Relations Act. . .

The demand-and-threat technique, now legally recognized as an integral part of any union's bargaining powers, was perfected by American hoodlums seeking power for themselves by obtaining gains for American workers. Today, however, the technique is being copied and perverted by organized dissidents everywhere. All we seem to hear from all sides is demand-and-threat, demand-and-threat, demand-and-threat.

The vast majority of American workers are decent, law-abiding citizens. For the most part, they are well-fed, well-clothed, well-housed, and well-wheeled. As they sit complacently before their TV sets being entertained and watching history unfold before their eyes, they are innocently unaware of the impending economic and political catastrophe which they helped to manufacture. It is true that they may awaken to their peril before this decade is over. But will it be in time to save America from Big Brotherhood?

I'm not a rich reactionary, by the way, and I don't know much about economic theories or writing. I'm a high school drop-out and drive a taxi for a living. But after watching TV coverage of the event in San Rafael last Saturday, I decided to set down my thoughts on the subject. . .Your fight to save the Journal should be the fight of every thinking American.

Concern For U.S. Prisoners Of War

I would like to express deep concern for our American and allied prisoners of war and missing in action in Southeast Asia. The North Vietnamese, Pathet Lao, and Viet Cong have refused to release a list of the prisoners of war or any reassurance that the men have human treatment.

The Geneva Convention of 1954 calls for release of lists of prisoners, of the sick and wounded, and inspection of POW camps and treatment of prisoners. Also a free flow of mail. North Vietnam has not abided by the Geneva Convention which it signed.

The parents, wives and children of such POWs have no way of knowing whether their loved ones are dead, alive, prisoners, missing, or wounded. As a concerned American I fear for the POW-MIAs' health, survival and safety. I fear also for the mental anguish of their families.

The North Vietnamese should be made to realize how the free world feels about their questionable methods of fighting a war.

A new movie, being previewed at a suburban theater outside Los Angeles was so bad that the audience began exiting in droves before it reached the halfway mark. The producer, head bowed, was disconsolate until a compassionate friend cheered him by whispering, "They really love it, George. The ones who are leaving have no choice. THE DRUMMONDS

Events, Not Arguments, Will Determine Outcome Of Election

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Two events will determine if the Republicans win the Senate this fall. All the rest is shadowboxing.

What events? Just two:

1 — Employment will have to be going up and the cost of living down.

2 — Withdrawal from Vietnam will have to be steady and impressive. It will have to be evident beyond doubt that ending the U. S. combat role in the war is an early certainty.

THESE ARE PRESIDENT Nixon's own priorities. These are the matters above all others on which he has said: Judge my administration.

They will be. If the voters conclude that the President is making solid headway on both of these priorities, the odds will be strong that the GOP will finally recapture the Senate and hold the usual midterm losses in the House to a minimum.

If Richard Nixon is succeeding, then the Republican candidates can to advantage turn their campaigns into a verdict on the administration.

But if either of Mr. Nixon's two priorities is faltering, then the Democrats, however negative their own record and however responsible they have been for both the war and the inflation, need do no more than pick up the marbles. They will almost certainly retain control of both houses of Congress with larger majorities.

THE PACE of withdrawal from Vietnam is pretty much in Mr. Nixon's own hands. He can resolve the uncertainties as his own judgment dictates and speed removal. Our guess is that he will be doing exactly that.

The pace of the economic recovery and getting inflation on the down-trend is not so easily in Richard Nixon's own hands. There are too many uncertainties in the economy. Author Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told Congress last week that he expected the nation's economy to return to full employment sometime in 1971. But there is little assurance that the up-trend will be sufficiently visible by late October to be a political asset.

This is why Hubert Humphrey is focusing his Senate campaign in Minnesota almost wholly on the state of the economy and away from Vietnam and he is strongly advising his Democratic colleagues elsewhere in the country to do the same.

Humphrey sees the Nixon administration more vulnerable on the economic issue — unemployment and inflation — that on anything else. This is an issue which is both local — where unemployment may be pinching — and national in that it becomes a verdict on the Nixon administration's record.

If the state of the economy does not favor the administration, the voters are not likely to favor the Republicans in November.

BOTH REPUBLICANS and Democrats are beginning to feel out the issues and the answers for the congressional campaigning.

President Nixon is beginning to take part. He is trying to pin the label of "big spender" on the Democratic Congress.

And the Democrats don't seem worried in the least. They have been the big spenders from 'way back and the voters, far from punishing them, have rewarded them. They have won both House and Senate in 17 of the past 19 congressional elections and have controlled Congress during 34 of the past 38 years.

That record shows how little the "big spender" epithet thrown at the Democrats repels voters.

BOTH SIDES know they are shadowboxing. The Democrats know that they have a substantially empty, negative legislative record in this Congress and that they risk losing the Senate if things go reasonably well for the Nixon administration during the next four months. The Republicans know they can't take the Senate — winning the House is not within their reach — unless things go well in the country.

This means that events, not arguments, will determine the outcome.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Liberal Leaders Vote Against Right Of Reply

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Senate liberals apparently feel it is eminently right and proper to have a double standard in the administration of civil rights.

To a man, they vigorously opposed a proposal to require the Civil Rights Commission to include in its published reports statements by individuals accused or critized by the agency. Under existing law, the commission doesn't have to do that.

Led by Senators Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Joseph Tydings, D-Md., all members of the Judiciary Committee and foremost champions of civil rights the liberals voted as a bloc against the fair-play provision.

IT WAS OFFERED by Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Permanent Investigating Committee, as an amendment to the bill authorizing a $3,400,000 budget for the Civil Rights Commission — a $750,000 increase over its last appropriation of $2,650,000.

Despite the liberals' disapproval, the Senate approved McClellan's amendment 44 to 40 — with 16 absentees.

Significantly, every Senate dove who was present voted against the proposal.

They included Senators Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Edward Brooke, R-Mass.; Clifford Case, R-N.J.; Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo.; Charles Goodell, R-N.Y.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Mark Hatfield, R-Ore.; Eugene McCarhty, D-Minn.; George McGovern, D-S.D.; Edmund Muskie, D-Me.; Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.; William Proxmire, D-Wis.; Stuart Symington, D-Mo.; Stephen Young, D-O.

IN URGING his amendment, Senator McClellan pointed out that all it did was "to simply give a man who is defamed the opportunity to make his own summation in the court of public opinion. This is an opportunity for the Senate to say that there is not going to be a double standard in making accusations against people"

McClellan cited an instance where two Texas highway patrolmen were denounced for brutality in a commission report, although grand juries refused to indict either of them. Neither officer had adequate opportunity to answer the charges made against them before the commission and published in its report.

"Where is the justice and fairness in that?" demanded McClellan.

CURIOUSLY, the liberals' determined fight against McClellan's fair-play proposal went wholly unreported.

Senator Tydings, contended the amendment would "open a veritable Pandora's box." He maintained an undesirable precedent would be set "if a person is criticized in the final report and he would be able to respond in the report, and the thrust of the report would be forfeited."

McCLELLAN caustically brushed aside all the declamatory rhetoric, caying:

"The plain fact remains that under present law, individuals defamed, degraded or incriminated in a report of the commission have no right to have their side of the story included in the report of the commission. I assert that is a double standard."

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

CTA Fights Legislation Encouraging Competition

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

The California Teachers Association, following the lead of its parent National Education Association, has come out swinging against legislation that would encourage competition to the public schools.

Calvin J. Rossi, the CTA's top lobbyist who is serving as its acting executive secretary, teed off on what he called "uninformed and concerted efforts to cripple public education" in a statement distributed to the press as a news story.

Rossi asked for letters from the public opposing SB 2, SB 1204, AB 2471, and ACA 47. (Actually, the handout said "AB 1204" instead of SB 1204, a misprint which may have resulted in some rather confusing letters to legislators since AB 1204 has nothing to do with education.)

SB 2, INTRODUCED by State Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin (since elected to Congress), would grant state income tax deduction for tuition paid to private schools.

SB 1204, by State Sen. George R. Moscone, D-San Francisco, would provide state vouchers to parents of children enrolled in private schools, approximating the cost of their education in the public schools.

AB 2471, by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, would authorize privately run "demonstration schools" to compare their results with those of the public schools.

ACA 47, by Assemblyman W. Craig Biddle, R-Riverside, would amend the state constitution to authorize public grants to non-profit colleges for non-sectarian purposes.

REFERRING TO SB 1204, Rossi asked rhetorically: "Who would prevent a proliferation of non-public schools whose interest may be more in the area of political activity than basic education?"

Declared the CTA lobbyist-executive secretary: "To divert (public) funds from the public schools while they are in need of money is to seriously threaten the system of education that has made this nation the greatest in the world."

QUITE THE OPPOSITE view has been taken by those who introduced the legislation to which CTA objects. Senator Moscone's SB 1204, for example, states:

"The public interest is best served through competition and diversity in educational opportunity offered by public and non-public schools . . . Therefore, the legislature declares that it serves the general welfare of the people of the state to make an investment in the education of children enrolled in non-public . . . schools."

ACA 47 would authorize the state to do what the federal government already is doing: grant public moneys to private colleges.

SUCH FEDERAL grants are under attack, and the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to hear next fall a challenge brought in the U.S. District Court in Connecticut by the American Civil Liberties Union and American Jewish Congress on behalf of 15 Connecticut taxpayers. This involves construction grants under the Higher Education Facilities Act to four Catholic colleges.

A three-judge panel of the district court dismissed the challenge, finding that the grants were not for religious purposes and their use "neither advances nor inhibits religion." Judge William H. Timbers, who wrote the decision, declared in it:

"Here we find no conflict between preservation of religious freedom and provision of higher education. Without both, we may end up with neither."

ASIDE FROM the church-state separation issue, there is an interesting question involved in all the legislation to which CTA objects:

Would granting public funds to private schools increase or decrease the cost of the public schools?

If, as CTA contends, the public schools are short of money, might diverting more students into private schools alleviate the public schools' financial plight?

Boost Peninsula Fares, SP Asks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Southern Pacific Co. argued for a 5 per cent fare increase for its San Francisco Peninsula customers Tuesday, contending it was losing money on the system between San Jose and San Francisco.

The firm also proposed abolishing round trip fares while saying its commuter deficit was $1,750,000 last year.

A 5 per cent boost, the company said, would reduce that by $240,000.

Under the SP proposal, a monthly commute book between San Mateo and San Francisco would cost $22.65, instead of $21.55. The rate to Palo Alto would be $33.10 instead of $31.50 and the rate to San Jose would be $37 instead of $35.20.

A round trip to Burlingame from San Francisco would cost $2 instead of $1.75.

The case was adjourned until Aug. 11 when the public will be heard.

Board Of Design Reelects Two

The Corte Madera Board of Design Review has reelected William B. Gilbert as chairman and Morgan Griffiths vice chairman for 1970-71.

In a discussion with Jules D. Firenze of Standard Oil Company, the board Monday night outlined its wishes for remodeling of two service stations, both within the Corte Madera Center.

The design should blend with town plans for future development along Tamalpais Drive, with wood-like exteriors and earth tones in the color scheme, reported secretary Elizabeth Long.

29 Cases Of Strep Reported Last Week

Strep infection outnumbered other communicable diseases in Marin in the week ending Saturday with 29 cases reported, according to Marin County Health Officer Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht.

Other cases recorded were: 25 of gonorrhea, two of mumps, one of tuberculosis, 11 of infectious hepatitis, one of aseptic meningitis and one of serum hepatitis.

Marin Seen Steady In Bay Area Ranking

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Marin County will hold its own or even gain slightly in the statistics status race among the nine Bay Area counties by 1980, a researchers' report has predicted.

"Bay Area Projections for 1975 and 1980," distributed by the Bay Area Council, predicts that Santa Clara County will continue its climb to dominance among the counties, surpassing Alameda and San Francisco. Marin, now sixth in population, is expected to have the same ranking for the next 10 years; its per capita income is expected to keep the same pace, as well as its number of employed and retail sales.

The predictions are based on a recent survey by the Stanford Research Institute for a San Jose client, plus an older survey on Alameda County's prospects.

Marin's ranking among the counties may remain much the same, but the growth predictions show a husky curve:

Population for Marin, 300,000 by 1980, or 5 per cent of the Bay Area's total. In 1968, Marin was home for 4.5 per cent of Bay Area residents.

Total personal income for Marin, $879 million in 1968, is expected to hit $2.26 billion in 10 years.

Marin retail sales, $365 million in 1968, are expected to hit $877 million by 1970.

The 50,900 job researchers found available in Marin two years ago are predicted to grow to 80,000 by 1970, with government service being the biggest gainer — from 12,300 in 1968 to 23,000 by 1970. Service jobs are expected to go from 13,300 in 1968 to 23,000 in 1970; construction trades jobs from 3,100 to 5,000 and other fields may show proportionately smaller gains.

The Bay Area Council research director, Kenneth F. Evansco, said that the ranking among the various Bay Area counties was studied to predict if there will be any significant shifts in relationships such as Marin and San Francisco, in light of Marin's high ratio of commuting wage earners. Evansco said no obvious trends could be seen, but this "may be simply the result of projecting past trends rather than attempting to assess the potential effect of major population movements on such trends."

Motel Defrauder Hears Penalty

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal court has placed a Seattle man, who had admitted defraduing Corte Madera motels, on probation for one year, gave him 30 days in jail and told him to make restitution to the motels.

He gave Wilbur L. Myhre, 32, credited Monday for the time he has spent in jail since his arrest July 19.

Myhre had been identified as the man who switched names and hairpieces for each visit to two Corte Madera motels, where he skipped out on bills totaling about $300.

Fine Nude Sunbathers

KEELE, England (UPI) — Eleven Keele University students who sunbathed in the nude on campus were each fined 10 pounds ($25) by campus officials and banned from using university residences until next June. They were given the right to appeal.

SF State Forced To Cut Personnel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco State College must cut 44 persons from its faculty and 27 from its staff because of legislative cuts in its budget, a school spokesman says.

Harvey Yorke, public relations director, said Tuesday no layoff was expected since cuts could be made by eliminating currently vacant posts.

The college was allocated $22.5 million for the 1970-71 year, $200,000 less than last year and $800,000 less than Governor Reagan proposed.

Ban On Long Hair

SINGAPORE (UPI) — The University of Singapore has banned long hair and sandals from the campus, a spokesman announced.

Jetliner Hijacker Surrenders

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) —A Bolivian gunman who hijacked an Argentine jetliner with 55 persons aboard surrendered early today, more than 12 hours after he ordered the plane to Cuba at gunpoint.

The hijacker, identified as Lorenzo Fermin Jurado Albornot, gave himself up at 3:40 a.m. EDT to Argentine police in the presence of Bolivian consul, Felix Sattori, official sources said.

Earlier reports said there were six hijackers armed with 45-caliber pistols and a machinegun. This proved erroneous when Jurado Albornoz stepped off the plane and released the remaining 32 persons aboard.

Jurado Albornoz' flight to the Caribbean was thwarted by an Andes mountains blizzard and stubborn officials at Cordoba's Pajas Blanca airfield who refused to let him take off for Montevideo, Uruguay.

Juardo Albornoz commandeered the Boeing 737 by threatening to murder two small children while it was en route from Salta to Buenos Aires with 49 passengers and a crew of six.

The plane made a refueling stop at Cordoba, where Jurado Albornoz allowed 23 of the passengers to debark and took aboard Numberto Gardassi, a qualified Boeing 707 pilot with international experience.

The plane departed Cordoba late Tuesday for Santiago, Chile, but was prevented from crossing the Andes by a heavy snow storm. Instead it landed at the western Argentine city of Mendoza, where another passenger got off, then returned to Cordoba, en route to Montevideo where, according to officials, Jurado Albornoz planned to seek political asylum.

An electric system defect and the absence of a key keeper stalled the plane's scond takeoff from Cordoba. When the pilot asked to be refueled, he was told by the tower that "the fuel tanks are locked up for the night and it will be necessary for someone to open them."

Authorization for takeoff was then refused.

Jurado Albornoz now faces possible death. On June 3 the Argentine military regime decreed the death penalty for hijackers.

MINI-CAR NAMED PICCOLO

The new AWS-Piccolo model succeeds West Germany's "Goggomobil" and all that remains of the "Goggo" are the chassis and the motor. This model comes with a rust-proof plastic-coated steel body and screw-on, exchangeable body sections. The sections, which can be used like building blocks to make different body styles, can form a factory-hall transporter like this one and an effective exhaust filter makes indoor use possible.

1969 New Tire Sales Totaled $4.5 Billion

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Americans spent more than $4.5 billion last year for new tires — about one $25 tire for every American over age 18, according to Goodyear.

About $3.25 billion was spent for replacing worn out tires on cars, another $1.14 billion for 16 million truck tires, and about $138 million on tires for farm equipment.

Apartment Group Raps Nixon Bill On Rent Subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The national apartment association has attacked the administration housing proposals as attempting "to embrace the great middle class" by seeking to extend rent subsidies to "half the nation's families."

The 18,000-member group suggested before a senate housing subcommittee that the proposals be toned down so that "families of relatively low income, but with ample assets" would not be eligible for government rent help.

The group also urged prompt federal action to bar mortgage-money lenders from demanding "a piece of the action" as the price for lending apartment-building funds to big investors.

Though the NAA expressed general support for an omnibus housing bill designed to consolidate, simplify and extend the bewildering array of existing housing programs, it was sharply critical of provisions to liberalize eligibility criteria for rent subsidies.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Organization Offers Investment Club Aid

By Roger E. Spear

Q. A group of us at the plant interested in starting an investment club would like a rough idea on other clubs. Can we get information on the mechanics of setting up our club? J.K.

A. The men at your plant will be joining a movement which has seen the number of clubs rise from 37,000 to 60,000 in the last 5 years. Of this number 14,000 are members of the National Association of Investment Clubs, a nonprofit organization devoted to aiding new and established clubs. The average club is composed of 15 to 20 members with businessmen and professionals predominating. NAIC reports that the average club invests $275 monthly. Write to NAIC, Washington Boulevard Building., Detroit, Mich. 48226 for guidance in organizing your group.

Q. We purchased Libbey-Owens-Ford in 1965 at 55 a share. They have cut their dividend. Since we are retired should we take the loss or hold? B.L.

A. The dividend on your Libbey-Owens-Ford shares at current trading levels yields an abnormally high 8 per cent as compared with 5.4 per cent at the time of your purchase. At this level it would appear that the market is registering some doubt as to the safety of the new dividend rate. Heavy dependence on the cyclical automotive and construction industries was reflected in first quarter sales, down 14 per cent, and earnings, off 46 per cent. Large expenditures for capital expansion, a significant factor in the cash squeeze that resulted in the dividend cut, are of major importance in the long-range outlook for Libbey. Expenditures of $100 million for conversion to the more efficient float process for manufacturing flat glass will be completed this summer. Acquisitions and the emphasis on specialty glass products are also expected to enhance earnings growth in the coming decade. Although preservation of the current dividend rate depends heavily on the duration of the business slump and near-term earnings prospects are clouded, long-term potential justifies retention.

Stocks Close Higher As Trading Rises

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices on the New York Stock Exchange closed higher today although they were down from earlier gains. Trading was moderately active.

The UPI Indicator of all stocks traded climbed 0.59 per cent on 1,558 issues across the tape. Advances outpaced declines, 815 to 459.

Volume amounted to about 12,500,000 shares compared with 9,040,000 shares Tuesday.

One analyst said early trading apparently was spurred by a report the Viet Cong had offered to hold direct peace talks with Ambassador David Bruce, the U.S. representative at the Paris talks. But the analyst said volume began slowing with the Labor Department announcement of a sharp increase in wholesale prices for July. The Labor Department, in a preliminary report, said wholesale prices for July were well above the May and June figures. It marked the biggest monthly rise since January.

Another Wall Street analyst said he believed the Dow Jones Industrial Average would try to penetrate the 740 area.

Among the most active issues were Computer Sciences Corp., which traded one block of 499,000 shares at 7 1-4, off 7-8; American Smelting, which reported higher second quarter earnings; Mead Corp.; and Budd Co. The latter traded a block of 185,800 shares at 7 1-2, off 3-4.

National Starch attracted some support. National Starch and Merck & Co. announced a preliminary agreement to merger. Merck eased.

Caterpillar President For Nixon On Quotas

PEORIA (UPI) — W. H. Franklin, president of Caterpillar Tractor Co., has urged Congress to support President Nixon and vote down any imposition of quotas on imports.

He said import quotas certainly would result in wide foreign retaliation that would be disastrous to U.S. exports.

Will Sell Branches

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hayden Stone Co., the Wall Street house negotiating a merger with Walston & Co., reports it also is negotiating to sell its foreign branches to other parties. However, Hayden Stone said it has no present plans to close the foreign branches as reported recently on Wall Street.

ASARCO Plans To Close Lead Plant Near S.F.

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Smelting & Refining Co. will shut down permanently its Selby lead plant near San Francisco within the next several months, it has announced.

The plant, built in 1885 and purchased for ASARCO by the late Bernard Baruch in 1905, has a 340-man work force and can produce 72,000 tons of refined lead a year. It is the only remaining producer of refined gold (a byproduct) in California.

Originally a refiner of ores mined in California and Nevada, Selby in recent years has been using predominantly foreign ores and concentrates. The company said competitive bidding by Japanese and European smelters for raw materials has stiffened, making it more difficult to run Selby at a profit.

The smelter and refinery have been running at or near the break-even point for several years, and now higher taxes and labor costs and an increase in the firm's tidelands lease with the state of California make it impossible to run Selby except at a loss, ASARCO said.

Earlier this month, ASARCO slashed its price for lead by one cent to 15 ½ cents a pound, breaking a string of five straight increases.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Alcolac Chemical Corp. has increased its interest in Water Pollution Research & Applications, Inc., of Washington to 76 per cent by purchasing an additional 11 per cent of the shares.

Barnum & Bailey Profits Doubled

WASHINGTON, D.C. (BW) — Net income of Rngling Bros. - Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, Inc., for the six months ended June 30 rose by an unprecedented 99 per cent over earnings in the first half of 1969, Irvin Feld, president, has announced.

"We earned more in this year's first half than in all of 1969, which was the best year in Ringling Bros.-Barnum & Bailey hsitory.

"In fact, Ringling Bros. - Barnum & Bailey has set new comparative records in revenues and earnings in every accounting period since the present management took over control in November 1967," Feld stated.

NANCY

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 29, the 210th day of 1970 with 155 to follows.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

On this date in history:

In 1914 the first transcontinental telephone linkup was completed with a conversation between San Francisco and New York City.

In 1967 fire swept the aircraft carrier Forrestal off the coast of Vietnam, killing 129 men.

In 1968 Pope Paul upheld the prohibition of all artifical means of birth control for Roman Catholics.

In 1969 the first photos taken by men on the moon were shown, including graphic shots of footprints on the lunar surface.

A thought for the day: George Bernard Shaw said, "Silence is the most perfect expression of scorn."

2-State Post Office

TEXARKANA, Tex. (UPI) — Texas and Arkansas boast the only post office in the United States that straddles a state line. It serves both Texarkana, Tex., and Texarkana, Ark. The site was picked in 1841 when Texas was still a republic.

Car Checkup Rough

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI)— State Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman reports early 23 per cent of the 1.5 million motor vehicles registered in Kentucky were rejected for mechanical defects in the state's 1969 mandatory safety check. This was down 3 per cent from the number rejected in 1968, he said.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Remember Opponent Can't Lead Both Suits At The Same Time

If your high school physics course is many years behind you, perhaps you have forgotten the discovery of Professor Noitcua Egdirb: Your opponents cannot lead two suits at once. The importance of this principle is shown in a hand I discovered in the professor's papers during my recent trip to Sweden.

OBVIOUS SINGLETON

West leads the eight of clubs, an obvious singleton, and declarer must win in the dummy and should drop the nine or ten of clubs from his hand. South next draws three rounds of trumps, ending in the dummy.

With trumps out of the way, declarer can resume the clubs, leading the seven of clubs from dummy. East nonchalantly plays low, and South drops the six under dummy's seven, winning the finesse and keeping the lead in dummy in order to continue with another club.

East wins the next club with the king and must attack both red suits at once. Here is where we see Professor Egdirb's principle at work.

DOES NOT COVER

When East leads the ten of hearts, South must not cover with the king. West plays the deuce on this trick because a heart continuation would leave him without a safe return.

SHIFTS SUIT

East obediently shifts, this time to the ten of diamonds. South does not cover, and dummy wins with the queen. Declarer is safe because the defenders could not lead hearts and diamonds together.

As a result, declarer can lead hearts from the dummy, forcing West to win with the ace. If West returns a heart, dummy ruffs, while South gets rid of a diamond; and if West returns a diamond, declarer gets a free finesse. Either way South makes his contract and thanks the memory of the old Professor.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠—A Q 10 9
♥—K 4
♦—J 5 2
♣—Q 10 9 6.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

The hand is barely worth an opening bid, and the fact that you can comfortably rebid one spade if partner responds in a red suit entitles you to bid rather than pass.

For Leprosy Work Researcher Honored

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dr. Charles C. Shepard, public health officer of the National Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, was honored for his breakthrough work in growing leprosy bacilli in the footpads of mice.

Unlike other bacteria causing human disease, the leprosy bacillus hasn't been grown in test tubes. Shepard's procedure makes it possible for the first time to test efficiency of drugs against the human leprosy bacillus.
